Terrible Deed of a Kansas Farmer Whose Reason Was Dethroned By Family Troubles and Other Complications.

WILSONVILLE, Neb., Sept. 13.-|Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-Lyle, Kan., a small hamlet fifteen miles south of this place, was the scene of a horrible murder and suicide Thursday evening. John Sorrick and famfly, consisting of his wife and one child, have lived in that vicinity for some time, enjoying the reputation of being quiet farmer folks of inoffensive character until recently, when dark rumors were affoat that there was a break in the peace of the Sorrick household. Mrs. Sorrick possesses a temper that is very irritable and frequent quarrels of late had resulted. Reports also state that she had wandered from the paths of rectitude and that her husband had just cause for jealousy. They at last decided to separate, the wife suing for divorce which was granted ner. together with the custody of the child, a bright little girl of 7. Sorrick, who was a man of very weak mental qualities, brooded over the estrangement of his wife's affections and the loss of his child and on Thursday went to the house of John Hoag, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Sor-Pick where she and the little girl were stopping. He demanded that the child should be restored to him, which was refused and angry words ensued. Sorrick became much enraged and finally, drawing his revolver, shot the little girl dead, saying, "I would rather see her dead than in the possession of her mother." He then turned the weapon to his head and ended his own life.

The verdict of the coroner's jury is in ac cordance with the facts as stated. The funeral services were held today. The sym pathy of the community is with the dead man, who it is believe had become partially demented.

MR. ANDREEN EXPLAINS.

His Iron Booth and His Bid Warmly Defended.

Mr. Gustav e Andreen feels that he has been done an injustice by the publication in THE BEE of an interview with a local contractor who found fault with Mr. Andreen's plans for iron polling booths.

"The disgruntad contractor," said Mr. Andreen, "complained that my bid for the booth did not include floor, windows or doors.
That was wrong. My bid was for the booth complete, except floors, and the committee had decided that floors were not needed. He also stated that much of the work would have to be done in the east, which is also wrong. I would buy my iron the same as any other contractor would buy his lumber. All of the work would be done in Omaha by Omaha men and my seventeen years' res dence and business career in Omaha ought to be guaranty enough that I am not in this business for boodle. The figure at which I bid will leave no margin for boodling. As to the durability of iron and wooden booths I will leave it to the public to judge whether iron will crack, warp and crimp and get out f repair as quickly as wood will or not With any kind of decent care an iron booth will last twenty-five years, while no amount of care will keep a frame booth in condition onger than three or four years."

as the machinery was not built with a particular view to the character of the ore to be crushed it was never operated successfully and, as already stated, the concentrator now being turned out by Frasor & Chalmers is the first concentrator in this country to be used exclusively for the reduction of tin.

"It is of the utmost importance," said Manager H. C. Wicker, of the Harney Peak Fin Mining company, at the Wellington, first determine to what class of concentration an ore belongs. Then the selection of the machinery is not experimental. The Harney ompany has too much money invested to d thy guess work in this matter, as has some times been the case heretofore, and before deciding upon our concentration plant we have employed experts from the l testing and metallurgical works in the country to examine our ore and determine just the kind of machinery to be used. We have been so conservative in this respect that we entertain no doubt as to the result. The knowledge of the concentration of ores has now me so extended that new works, reasonable circumstances, should be a success from the start." How Tin Ore is Treated.

The successful methods of concentrating res may be divided into two general systems 1. Coarse concentration, in which the ore crushed coarsely, divided into several asses or sizes and treated in various differ ent concentrating machines. 2. Fine concentration, in which the ore is rushed finely and treated without classifica ion in one style of concentrating machine. A combination system is occasionally em-ployed on some ores in which the material is crushed finery but clussified into two or more sizes, being treated on two styles of concentrating machines, or treated separately on machines of one style differently The choice of one or the other of these sys tems depends—entirely on—the nature of the ore to be treated.—The ores adapted to coarse concentration are those containing the min eral to be saved in large crystals, masses o seams, so that when broken in comparatively large pieces, a good separation is effected be ween waste rock and valuable mineral. Many ores of lead, zinc, copper and iron are of this character. The ores adapted to fine concentration of the contrary, contain the valuable min-eral in fine particles or crys-tals disseminated through the mass of the rock in such a manner that a coarse crushing would leave the pieces of waste rock still impregnated with mineral and render a finer crushing essential. Ores of silver, gold and tin are usually of this character, the silver ores frequently comprising lead, copper zine of secondary importance. What is a Concentrator?

A concentrator consists of a series of floors arranged one below the other like the steps of a stairway. On the top floor the rock is delivered. Below this floor are placed in suc cession, rock breakers, coarse rolls and finishing rolls. The ore, after passing through the breaker, drops at once to coarse rolls and from them into the coarsest revolving sere a set of five. All ore to coarse to pass through the perfora-tions of this screen falls from it, by a spout to the finishing rolls, after which it is raised by an elevator and again passes into the first screen. In this way all ore has to pass the perforations of this screen pefore i proceeds to the concentration machinery.

All the ore particles which pass the perforations of screen No. 1 are delivered by a trough and inclined spout surrounding its lower part into screen No. 2 of finer perfora-The particles which pass through the holes of No. 2 are delivered into still fine screen No. 3, and so on. The particles which remain on these screens are all of about the same size, that is, smaller than the holes of the preceding screen and larger than the holes of the screen they remain on. These screens discharge their contents continuously to a corresponding number of pigs placed below.

The pigs separate the heavy mineral particles from the light waste particles of rock.

The screening is usually done wet, with jets of water washing the screens to keep then The material too small to be caught on the last and finest revolving sereen either flows into large pointed settling tanks to be rid of the excess of water (the thickened pulp being drawn off below to the slime dressing ma hine), or it is run over hydraulic classifiers in which an upward stream of water produce a more perfect sizing than mere settling in, one to crush directly from the other. thus preparing the rock in large quantitie for the rollers and relieving the latter.

Additional Machinery Described.

Some mills have, in addition to the machinery described, a battery of stamps recrushing tailings from jigs, which must be pulverized finer to liberate the mineral par-ticles. For tin ore this is found necessary, small particles of mineral being carried b pieces of rock several times the volume the mineral in size, but so small and light that they have been carried past the provious saving divices.

The slime dressing referred to is used on ores like tin which require fine crushing. The machine most commonly employed for this purpose are the Frue vanning machinand the Embrey concentrator.

The Frue vanner is an endless rupber belt sppuorted by rollers so as to form a plane inclined rubber surface four feet wide, twelve feet long and pounded on the sides by rubber llanges. The belt travels up the incline and round a lower drom which dips into a water tank where the mineral is collected. In addition to the steady travel of the belt, the latter receives a steady shaking or settling motion from crank shaft along one side. The shake is right angles to the inclination and travel of the belt. The ore is fed on in a stream o water about three feet from the head of the belt and flows slowly down the incline sub jected so the steady shaking motion deposits the mineral on the best. beit. At the head of the belt is a row of water jets The slow upward travel of the belt brings up the deposited mineral and the water jets wash back the lighter sand, letting only the beavy mineral pass and deposit in the water tank below The capacity of the machine is from five to twelve tons daily, according to the character of the ore treated.

The Embrey machine is virtually the Vac aer with the shake endways instead of side ways. Patents on it were acquired in a law suit against the original owners for infringe ment of the Frue vanner patents. The van ner will probably be employed in the Harney As already stated in Tue Bee, the marney company will at present put in one concentrator which will crush 250 tons of ore per day, and later dunificate this machinery, thus giving the mines a capacity of 500 tons. The English syndicate which some month ago secured an option on the Chicago Cole Storage company's plant at a price of $4,000, 000 may not get the property after all. The plant is considered to be worth much more than the above figure, and according to one of the gentlemen who engineered the deal, it looks just now as though American and not English capital will control the pig cold stor age warehouses.

IRISH NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Lincoln Branch Selects Its Chicago Convention Delegates.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sopt. 12 .- Special to THE BEE. |- The Lincoln branch of the Irish Naional league held a meeting in Fitzgerald's hall and chose the following delegates to the national convention at Chicago October 1 and James Farrell, P O. Cassiday, John Mc-Glain, James O'Suee, Charles McGlave, James J. Condon, Thomas Maher, David Fitz gerald, William McLaughlin and Dennis Merriam. Resolutions were passed regretting the serious illness of Mr. John Fitzgerald and expressing hopes of his speedy re covery.

In speaking of the hubbub that the papers are making over the so-called municipal council of New York, Mr. John Sutton, secretary of the national league, said: "The municipal council is all a myth

There are probably half a dozen Irishmen

who assume that there exists such a council now, but none of those fellows would be countenanced in the Chicago convention. They would be picked out if they showed their faces." HOME FOR AGED PEOPLE. A number of Omaha ladies have associated themselves together for the purpose of starting and sustaining a place of refuge to be known as the Nebraska Home for Ageu People. The ladies at the head of this char-itable enterprise are Mrs. Carrie Shinn, Mrs.

F. A. Beveridge, Mrs. C. A. L. K. White, Mrs. Dr. Freeman, Mrs. M. M. Dyer, Mrs. Nancy Wheeler, Mrs. H. C. Ballou and Mrs. J. Swartzlander. Today the ladies filed ar-ticles of incorporation of the Home. The headquarters will be at Omaha. NOTARIAL APPOINTMENTS. Governor Thayer has made the following

notarial appointments:

C. Patterson, Rushville; Thomas U. Clark,

A. V. Kanba, Milligan; L. M. Moores, Curtis; Isaac S. Shirey, Wilsonville; A. P.

Officers Yeomans, Splain, Kinney, Mason and Ratcliff dropped down on a party of poker players about 11:30 last 'night, and ten minutes later the police cocket was enriched by the names of five devotees of the great American game. They were found in rooms 21 and 22 of the Capitol hotel, which were rented by William Gleason, a gambler of high degree, who was among those corralled It is also officially stated that another of the gang is a lawyer from Saline county, whose name has been celebrated in song and story as having gone to the bottom of the "say." The others are unknown to the police. STATE FAIR NOTES,

The Omaha Manufacturing company's ex hibit at the state fair attracted considerabl attention. The company had 400 feet of their iron and steel ribbon wire fences, exhibiting their farm, lawn and cemetery fences, their lawn fonce, trimmed with nickel plate ornaments, being very attractive. the people who saw it being eathusiastic in their admiration and praise of such a beautiinl fence. The cemetery fence enclosed : rustic monument, and nothing could be con-ceived that would be in better taste or more appropriate. The display was one that re flected credit upon the manufacturers and a credit to the city of Omaha, where their plant is located at 108 to 112 North Eleventh street. The gentlemen composing this com-pany came to Omaha from the east five nonths ago to settle permanently and engage n the fence manufacturing business. invested largely, feeling confident of the patronage and support of the citizens of Omaha to sustain and encourage an enterprise that is so essential in beautifying the lawns of residences they surround and ad-ding to the value of the property. The price of these fences is within the reach of anyone desirous of an ornamental fence. The cost of this iron fence does not exceed that of a wooden fence, and it will outwear a dozen wooden fences. They not only beautify a lawn, but are cheap and durable, lasting a lifetime. The Omaha Manufacturing com-pany is an institution deserving of the patconage and confidence of citizens and one which should be sustained.

STOLE A GOLD WATCH. Al Wilson was arrested at 5:40 this morning, and the charge of grand larceny stands opposite his name on the police register. Al vas one of the late comers at the Capito hotel last night, and was put to sleep on a cot in the hallway of the Capitol hotel, along with three men by the name of Dean, Hart and Harrison. None of the party disrebed, but slept the sleep of the just until nearly 6 o'clock this morning, when Wilson got up and stole the gold watch and bulging pocket pook of C. F. Harrison. He was seen by the others, and promptly nabbed, and handed over to the police.

CAN'T GET THE INSURANCE. Fred Wohlenberg invested some of his spare cash in a $5,000 accident policy in the Pacific Mutual Insurance company, deeming it wise as he was acting as agent for a patent nousehold blind. In March and April of this ear Wohlenberg met with two accidents, a fall and a runaway, and was laid up according to his policy, $325 worth, but the company won't pay He, therefore, brings suit in the county court.

BOTH CLAIM THE PARM. About eighteen months ago Dan Skinner rented his farm in South Pass precinct to H. Kroese for a year. Kroese liked it so well that he entered into negotiations to buy it, claims to have a verbal contract to that ef ect and to have paid to one Marshall of Otoe county a stipulated payment therefor for the use of plaintiff, and now asserts title to the land. Dan doesn't like this, and asks the court to decree that his title be cleared.

WANTS THE RENT ONLY. Emma Simon and John Roggencamp, an infant, by his guardian, brought suit in dis-trict court today against William Roggen-kamp, formerly of Bennet, who has furnished court reporters many interesting cases in the past. Mrs. Simon avers that she is the reliet of John Roggenkamp, sr., who died eight years ago, leaving herself and one son. She has since remarried. At the time of her husband's death he was the owner of a con tract with the Burlington Railroad company for forty acres of land in Panama precinct. After his death his father, the defendant by some means procured possession of the con tract, paid the balance due, and for the past seven years has claimed the land. She asks the court to decree that he held the land only in trust for plaintiffs, and wants about $1,400 for rents he has received.

ODDS AND ENDS. Henry Wortman lives in the vicinity of the B street sewer and in the storms of last summer was nearly drowned, together with his family. His premises are damaged, so he says, $500 worth, which he asks the city to

The docket for the September term of court, which begins September 21, contains 1,030 cases, the largest in its history. Of these 468 are law cases and 552 equity. Two urles will be kept grinding. Henry Fuchrer of Saltitlo precinct has seen bound over to district court in the sum $300 for threatening to perforate brod Gussman and to unlawfully kill and murder him. Henry will explain to the court why he won't keep the peace.

From September 4, the day the fair commenced, until lastnight, the police arrested 169 men and women.

DEMOCRATIC

Western Farmers Will Be Importuned to Join Jeffersonian Ranks.

SYSTEMATIC SCHEME DEVELOPED.

Determined Expedition of Political Wheel Horses Prepared to Explain

> Any and All Problems from a Partisan View.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE BEE, ) DIS FOURTEENTH STREET, WASHINGTON D. C., Sept. 12. Tomorrow a last determined expedition will be started by the national democratic committee to encourage the farmers of the northwest and Pacific slope in the maintenance of the political wing of the alliance. A party of well known democratic speakers will go upon a tour of that country for the purpose of giving the Peffer and Simpson argument a boost. Among them will be Senator Faulkner of West Virginia, Congressman Bynam of Indiana, and ex-Congressman McAdoo of New Jersey. Those centlemen will speak at Minneapolis. Helena, throughout California, Omaha and various portions of Iowa, and will try to make the farmers, who were never so prosperous as now, believe that they are debt ridden and impoverished by the republican tariff law which has put every wheel in motion in this country, closed thousands of factories in Europe and is inducing manufacturers to locate here from foreign ands daily.

It is a part of the programme is to feel the pulse on the situation respecting the issues or 1892, but the primary object is to boost the political wing of the farmers' alliance and by demagogical misrepresentations at-tempt to induce republicans on the farm to cast their political lots with their ancient and resent enemies. It is the biggest and boldest democratic raid for many years on what should be neutral grounds.

Merrifield was charged with having more than 320 acres of land at the time he made this pre-emption enter. Tho secretary directs a rule to be issued causing Merrifield to show cause why suit should not be commenced to set uside his patent to this land, the writ to be returnable o the local land officers.
