A'democratic rally will be held in this city next Wednesday evening, probably in the Masonic temple. Governor Horace Boics is to be here and make an address, the same one which he delivered Friday night at Perry. It would be held in the opera house but for the fact that the opera house will be in use that evening. Local democrats are much worked up over the affair.

Common Sense in Religion.

Dr. Stephen Phelps preached to a large audience at the Presbyterian church yesterday, his subject being "Common Sense in Religion." He exhorted his hearers to manifest the same common sense in religious matters as in their daily pursuits, and depiored the fact that so many church members show so little tact in their dealings with the world and allow themselves to be led off by strange doctrines which merely hold them up as objects of ridicule before their fellow men.

"We are told," said be, "to be constant in season and out of season, but I don't believe that means we are to bore our fellows by talking religion to them at the wrong time, I have known Christians to bustle into a man's office and commence talking religion to him when they saw, or might have seen, that he was confronting a huge page of figures and was grudging every minute that was taken from business. How much good was done by this ill-advised piece of Christian work! Nay, I believe that ac-tual narm is often done by this very lack of "It Is sometimes said that a Christian cannot follow certain pursuits and maintain his religious character; the pursuit of law, for instance. I believe that there is no business which the Christian cannot follow without making a blot on his profession. Too many Christians are of the opinion that politics is Christians are of the opinion that politics is a thing which they are not to meddle with for fear of contamination. This opinion is one of the main causes of the present impur-ity of our politics. If the Lord ever put any-thing in the hands of his children to be used by them for the betterment of the human race it is the ballot, and to refuse to use it is to throw aside a precious privilege. It is the duty of every man to vote, and for him to fail to do so is crankified and unsanctified lack of common sense."

Judge Macy has rendered a decision in the case of J. H. Vernon against J. M. Shea, which was the occasion of some trouble in Justice Cones' court not long ago. Vernon commenced an attachment suit against Shea for rent, and Shea, by his attorneys, asked for a change of venue, making the required affidavit that the court was prejudiced against him. Justice Cones, before whom the case was begun, refused to grant the change on the ground that Saca refused to pay him 50 cents for the transcript to the other court. The justice went on and rendered judgment on default for the full amount of the craim, which amounted to about $50. Shea's attorneys at once took the case to the districcourt on a writ of error, and demanded a re court on a writ of error, and demanded a re-hearing of the case on the ground that the justice had no right to demand fees, but was in duty bound to grant the change of venue on the filing of the affidavit. Judge Macey reverses the decision, remands the case to the justice, orders him to grant the change of venue to the next nearest justice, and gives Shea a judgement for the costs in the original case after the application for the change of venue was made, together with change of venue was made together will the costs in the trial of the case in the dis trict court, amounting in all to about $13. Beautiful Morningside.

No Fake, But a Fact. We have determined to close out our business in Council Bluffs. Our time is limited, and we have marked down prices so low that goods will sell themselves in a hurry and thus clear out our immense establishment. We will sell furniture, carpets, cooking and heating stoves. crockery, glassware, tinware, curtains, all sorts of housekeeping goods, for nearly one-half the usual prices. Nothing reserved. Everything must go cost or no cost. The stock is complete. First come, first served. Those in-debted to us must call and settle promptly, and save costs, as we can show no partiality. OFFICE: - NO. 12 PEARL STREET. Ed Stegall, a Young Switchman, Meets Death Beneath the Wheele.

HIS BODY IS HORRIBLY MANGLED.

Hurled to the Track From the Top of a Moving Car in the Yards of the Northwestern.

Ed Stegall, a young switchman in the employ of the Northwestern Railway company met his death vesterday afternoon at about 5 o'clock while riding on a freight car a short distance south of the round house. Switch engine 204 was making a flying switch with a couple of freight cars loaded with oil tanks, and Stegali was riding on the front end of the car farthest away from the engine. He signalled "Go on" to the engineer, and as the engine and cars parted company he somehow made a missten and was buried to the ground. He lay across the track and both cars passed over him, mangling him in a terrible manner. The trainmen immediately picked him up and laid him on the ground near by, but life was extinct before they reached him.

Coroner Waterman and Undertaker Estep were notified and they started for the scene of the accident. The mangled remains were picked up and brought to Estep's undertaking establishment, where an inquest will be held this morning at 9 o'clock.

So far as can be learned, the killing scems to have been purely accidental, and the trainmen were in no way responsible for it. Stegail was a young man of about nineteen years of age. His father lives at 1919 Avenue G, and is a checkman in the employ of the company. When he was informed of the accident he seemed like one in a dream, and all the rest of the afternoon he paced around the yards, apparently noticing

An examination of the body at the undertaker's showed that death must have been instantaneous. The wheels had passed over the chest, literally crushing the vitals into elly. The left thigh was crushed, the left leg and arm broken and the right leg completely severed from the body. There was also a bad scalp wound. The funeral of the unfortunate man will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 c'clock from the residence of the father, Frank Stegall, 1919 Avenue J, less than fifteen rods from the scene of the accident.

St. Peter's Church Bazaar.

On September 21 the grand bazaar for St. Peter's church opens in Masonic tem-ple and is continued through the week. Such a worthy cause deserves the patronage of the community. The dona-tions have been numerous and costly, promising a fine display. Attractions have been prepared to entertain and compensate the patrons. Among the articles to be voted is a secretary for the popular railroad cashier. A lady's watch for the popular lady in the city. A level and plumb line for the stone masons. A rain protector for the pa-trolman who stands the longest in one place while on duty, and a modern tile or the gayest butcher in the Bluffs.

The programme is as follows:

Monday evening—The Merrymakers' Festival. Der kaiser von Deutschland will be there. All come. Tickets 25c.
Tuesday evening—Concert. Tickets 25c.
Wednesday evening—At Broadway theater, a drama by the Juisfals club entitled. 'After Ten Years, or the Maniac's Wife." Persons buying tickets in advance can Yesterday thirteen residents of South Main street forgot all about it being Sunday and shot craps on the sidewalk instead of going to church. They were enjoying the sport hugely when Officer O'Connell happened along. They recognized him about the same time he recognized them and the crowd speedily decamped. He singled out one fellow that he thought he could catch and put after him, but his intended victim turned out to be no slouch of a sprinter him-self, and by the time he run a few blocks O'Connell was very much out of breath. At this critical juncture the front man in the near by, nailed him. At the police station he was booked with gambiing on Sunday. He gave his name as J. Sweeney.

They crossed the river to Omaha, rode out to Blair, took in Missouri Valley and returned home, making a trip of sixty-seven inlies, the longest that the club has yet taken. The roads were bad all the way around and some of their adventures were anything but pleasant, judging from the standpoint of one of the uninitiated, but they declared that they enjoyed it hugely. It was the first ride of over ten miles that Waite had ever taken, but he came in on the homestretch along with the rest of them.

SIOUX FALLS MOURNS. Death of Jo Bailey, One of South Dakota's Prominent Citizens. Stoux Falls, S. D., Sept. 13. - [Special to THE REE. |-Hon. J. M. Bailey, jr., died at his father's home in Freeport, Ill., last Saturday morning at 2 o'clock. It is rarely that a man at the age of 26, as was the deceased, can call forth such universal mourning. He came to Sloux Falls in June, 1885, and in a short time had gained for himself the well leserved reputation of the "first financier of the state," He was the territory's last treasurer, and was the bend of the largest banking institution in the two Dakotas for five years prior to his death, It is interesting to follow Mr. Bailey's career since his arrival in the territory in June, 1885, for the first time. In 1883, after graduating from Rochester, N. Y., university to the degree of A. B., he located at Eagle Grove, Ia., where he was swamp land commissioner and the following year delegate to the republican state convention. After admission to the bar at Washington in 1885 he came to Sioux Falls in June, having secured the contract for the prison labor at the Dakota penitentiary in this city. In October of that year ho established the German-American Loan and Trust company, which is still in existence. In 1886 he was elected vice president of the Citizens' National pank and later consolidated it with the Minnehaha National bank. He was made president of the institution, which position he occupied until his death. In 1887 it was made a United States repository. Since this time Mr. Bailey has been made president of the First National bank of Huron, First National bank of Parker and Minnehaha County bank of Valley Springs. In March, 1889, he was appointed by Governor Mellette, treasurer of Dakota Territory. He managed all the affairs of the office with such credit that he received a special vote of thanks from the state's first legislature for the excellent shape in which they were transferred to the new state. He was one of Dakota's delegates to the Chicago convention. He had made the acquaintance and friendship of Harrison as senator and as president that gentler an did a graceful act in appointing Mr. Balley as one of the three national examiners of the United States mint at Philadelphia. Mr. Balley had traveled extensively abroad having made five differ-ent trips across the ocean. He negotiated big financial deals at these times and was in-strumental in directing a great deal of forstrumental in directing a great deal of for eign capital to this country. He took a great interest in local affairs at Sioux Falls. He last year bought the ground and planned the erection of a handsome library building to accommodate the free library which he had opened. He was at the head and front of every public enterprise and no one did more in furthering the country's interests. His death is one that Sloux Falls and South Dakota will feel deeply. It will be a sad blow to the material hildren. Tickets 25c. Saturday—Close of the fair. Admission interests of Sioux Fails, only exceeded by the personal regret that every citizen feels. Mr. Bailey was a prominent society man, having passed every branch of Masonry, Knights of Pythianism and Odd Fellowship. He was first deputy inspector general of the Scottish Rite for Dakota. On April 21, 1886, he was married to Miss

Carolyn Farner of Yankton, who is left alone to mourn him. This ends probably one of the most meteoric careers that this country has ever furnished an example of. Meteoric only that it ended in death when its usefulness seemed at its height.

A young man of promise and usefulness, of whom the young state of South Dakota was proud, has gone, but there is at least this consolation and recompense, that in the twenty-six short years of his life he accomplished more than very few men accomplish in three score and ten.

Story of an Opera.

[Copyright 1891 by James Gordon Bennett.] Paris, Sept. 12 .- New York Herald Cable Special to THE BEE. |- Wagner's music s having as hard a time of it in Paris as he himself did when he lived here and had to make bread out of the arrangements of popular airs for the cornet piston. "Lohengrin, long promised and faithfully rehearsed, has been postponed. As it is now, the opera will be performed September 14. The postponement is ostensibly, and perhaps really, due to indisposition on the part of Van Dyck Beigian, the tenor who was to sing the title role. Van Dyck wrote a typical French sensational letter to the management of the opera in which he offered to produce a pnysician's certificate, just like the college freshman who was late at prayers on account of a "nasal hemorrhage," and the excuse was accepted, Meyerbeer's "Robert Le Diable" being substituted for the promised bitl. A big crowd of Boulevardiers was about the opera house late on that afternoon and evening awaiting the beginning of the performance, prepared to make hostile demonstrations against the German master's work. When it was announced that Van Dyck was ill they cried, "Vive Rochefort' as if there had been a prearranged illness for the tenor of which the editor of "L'Intransigeant" was the engineer. The performance would have got off quietly in any event, but the crowd of non-opera goers hung about the building until late in the evening and a detachment of the nationale garde was sent up to preserve order. There was no outbreak, however, and members of the garde had their trouble for nothing. It is now thought certain that "Lohengrin" will be performed Septem

Dr. S. R. Towne has begun proceedings to compel the Board of Education to remove the Central school from the High school building. He alleges that the High school grounds were deeded to the city of Omaha by the state for the use of a high school only, and in as much as the high school now needs all the room in the building the mar-damus papers call upon the board to remove all the lower grade pupils from the building.

GENERAL GOOD FEELING

Seems to prevail among SUIT BUYERS so far this fall. whether it's the elegant designs we're showing in our new stock or the extreme low prices for which we "sell 'em," or be the cause what it may, we are reveling in the full enjoyment of a splendid business, and WE THINK the people's confidence is mposed in us from past dealings has much to do with it. We're making every effort this fall to strengthen that confidence. We've got the bargains to do it with.
