END OF THE SCHUETZENFEST.

Omaha's German Marksmen Close a Very Successful Annual Tournament.

HOPEFUL SIGNS FOR THE FUTURE.

Marked Improvement in the Work of the Contestants-List of the Prize Winners-Stoecker

The Omaha Schuetzenverein's fourth anflual tournament wound up in a veritable blaze of giory at Ruser's park yesterday afternoon. It was the most enthusiastic and successful meeting the club has ever experienced, and the members were correspond-Ingly jubitant. The crowd in attendance, the bulk of which had been drawn thither out of curiosity, was one of the largest that over pongregated in this vicinity under similar circumstances. The park and range were becomingly decorated with flying banners and flags, and the Musical Union band kept the autumn air vibrating with melody. It will probably be a long day before Ruser's park will see such another joyous and elated growd. The club members were enthusiastic over the very manifest strides they have made in the delicate art of long range rifle shooting, and their prospective ability to compete with the notable shots from all over the country who will be here at the national schuetzenfest, which will be held here two years hence. It is an indubitable fact that this excellent practice is develop-Ing some extraordinary fine shots, and by the time the big trial is held here in '93 there will be a number of local men well able to hold their own with the cracks of New York, Philadeiphia, Boston, St. Louis and San Francisco. It may be depended on that all of the magnificent trephles that will be hung up on that occasion will not be nung up on that occasion will not be carried away by foreign marksmen. It is safe to say that Petty, Fuller, Stoecker, Petersen, Paulsen, Metz, Langden, Karll or one or more of the champions of the home institution will be fully prepared to retain a fitting memorial of their skill and science right

One of the surprises of the present session was the winning of the King medal by W. F. Stoecker, who jumped in and won on the final care, beating King Fred Fuller out by a small margin. Fred's steady eye and nerve described him in the eleventh hour and Herr Stoecker walked off with this great bonor, in addition to a $10 bill that accompanied this shooting at the henor target took place, it was attended by one of the most interesting ceremonies of the day. The sharpshooters gathered around the stand, and William Mack mounting a chair addressed them in congratulatory terms upon the magnificent shuetzenfest which is to be held in this city in 1833 and what it was necessary to do to make that meeting a grand success. He then called for William F. Stoecker, who, for three consecutive years, had won the distinction of schuetzenkoenig.

Mr. Stocker stepped forward and as he did so, little Minna Mack, daughter of the prosiding officer, placed a wreath of flowers and evergreen upon his hat. She then invested him with the beautiful gros-grain silk searf which is worn over the left shoulder and on the right side and embroidered ap-propriately. This decoration over, there was a hearty cheer by the onlookers and an "alarum" by the musicians.

Being called upon for a speech, Mr.

Stoecker expressed his gratitude for the kindly treatment of his associates and hoped that they might long continue as friendly competitors with the rifle.

The schuetzen king was then placed upon the shoulders of those glants Henry Ross and Charley Butt and was held there by Adolph Meyer and Ed Wittig. Thus enthroned, preceded by the band and followed by the other sharpshooters, the king was borne along the labyrinths of the garden amid the cheers of the onlookers. Sunday at the Park. The Seventh Ward Military band entertained the crowds at Hanscom park yesterday afternoon with an unusually fine programme. The selections, ranging from pramme. The selections, ranging from popular to classic, were varied enough to suit all tastes. One of the pleasing numbers was the quintette, "The Shepherd's Sunday Song," by Messrs. Green, Kreyer, Walker Knight and Taggart. The waltz, "The Postillion," and the operatic selections from "Il Trovotore," "Iolanthe" and "Beggar Student". dent' were also deserving of especial men-tion. The Seventh Ward band is showing marked improvement over its work early in the season, and Prof. Steinhauser and his men are to be congratulated.

Hardships Endured by Members of Bowdoin College Expedition. PORT HAWKSHURY, N. B., Sept. 12.—The crowning point of the Bowdoin college expedition was reached September 1, by the return of the party sent out to discover the truth of the legendary accounts of the Granden falls. The four men, all graduates of the college, headed by Mr. Austin Carey, left their schooner on Sunday, July 26,

On August 8 they reached a point five miles in advance of the furthest point reached by Mr. Holme in 1888. At this point, on account of a disabled arm, Mr. Young and a companion were obliged to turn back, reaching Rigolet on August 21. Messrs, Carey and Cole proceeded towards the fails, which had been reported to be distant fifty miles. On August 13, after a three days' tramp, their labors were rewarded by a deafening roar in the distance. Their provisions were now nearly gone, stores having been expansed on the way but they pushed resolutely on the height of the plateau called "The Height of Land." It is this plateau which is the source of the stream and the descent of the river to the sea forms the fails and rapids. The spray of the falls was visible for twenty miles. From the falls the water flows through a canyon formed of archaean rock, the sides of which rise to a height of 500 feet and are heavily wooded at the top. The height of the falls has been grossly exaggerated, and while presenting a grand and beautiful sight, measure only 200 feet in a perpendicular fall, the rapids leading to this fall increasing the total altitude of the falls to 500 feet. Above the falls the average width of the river is 500 yards, narrowing until it reaches the falls, to a width of only fifty yards, when it plunges over the rapids and falls in a narrow gorge below.

Mr. Cole descended to the foot of the falls and succeeded in obtaining some good photographs of them. Having completed the observations of the falls they kept on a few miles above "The Height of Land," where from a peak, christened by them "Mount Hyde-Bowdoin," they had a fine perspective of the surrounding country.

At this point, their provisions being all gone, they set out for a return. On reaching the spot where they had left their boat they found that the camp fire which they had built had consumed the boat, and with it their whole stock of pro-visions and a gun. Their position was now somewhat critical. Three hundred miles on a river heretofore unexplored, with no boat, no help and no provisions until they should reach their first cache, the outlook as one to blanch all but the stoutest hearts They set bravely to work, however, and with a small hatchet for their only implement constructed a small raft, binding the logs to-gether with spruce roots.

On rafts made in this way they traversed the three hundred odd miles to the mouth of the river, enduring the greatest hardships. Their only weapon was a small revolver, with which they shot a few squirrels making a meal on one such animal. On the way down five different rafts were con-structed, the making of which in their wasted condition consumed a great amount of time and energy. They reached the vessel September 5, receiving a royal wel-come from their friends.

The falls which they have discovered are reported to have been seen by two employees of the Hudson Bay company, but no authen-tic account of any such discovery has been

The successful result of the expedition is one wholly to the heroic efforts of Messrs.

Mrs. Juvenal of Kansas City Poisoned by Unknown Parties.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 12.-Another chaper in the Juvenal case was written today when Dr. Boyle recorded at the health office the death of Mrs. J. M. Juvenal from arsenical poisoning. The married life of J. M. Juvenal has been a tragic and stormy one. He first married Miss Margaret Fource of Russell, Kan. After eight years she got a aivorce. Then Juvenal became engaged to be married to Miss Millie Pfaffman of this place. He jilted her and married Mrs. Anna Baker, a divorced woman. Soon afterwards Juvenal's house was blown up with dynamite, he and his wife barely escaping death. Miss Pfaffman was arrested for the crime and the case against her is still pending. Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Juvenal spent the day away from home, returning Monday They drank water from the ice cooler and both immediately taken violently ill. They did not suspect poisoning, however, and medical assistance relieved them. Tues day they ate some cakes made from mixed meal, and again both were taken viciently iil. Investigation showed that nearly everything edible in the house had been mixed with arsenic. From the effects of her last illness Mrs. Juvenal never recovered, dying this morning at 20 clock. Mr. Juvenal, however,

Much mystery surrounds the case. Juvenal says he knows who the guilty persons are, out declines to give their names. Juvenal is resident manager of the Consolidated Tank Line company and is in comfortable circum

Southern Fire Eaters Settle Their Differences According to the Code. ALBANY, Ga., Sept. 12.-A duel was fought here a day or two ago by Jesse Moore of Berrien county, and R. P. Fletcher of Irwin county, from the effects of which Moore has just died. There had been bad blood between the men for some time when blood between the men for some time when they recently met, each accompanied by a friend, they agreed to fight with their fists. After a few rounds their hatred for each other became too intense to be satisfied with such mild methods, and they drew their revolvers. The seconds took to the bushes, while the principals advanced slowly, firing as they went. When five shots had been exchanged Moore fell mortally wounded. Fletcher was also wounded but not seriously, and fled from the state without deliay. He has not been apprehended.

WORKING ON OTHER LINES.

Peculiar Campaigning Methods of Iowa's Various Political Parties.

EACH MUST RAISE ITS OWN AUDIENCE.

Democratic Speakers Have no Opportunity to Disturbe Those who Desire to Hear Pure Republican Doctrine.

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 13 .- [Special to THE BEE, |-The republican campaign in this state is now in full swing. Senator Allison, Congressman Henderson, ex-Governor Gear and other party wheel horses are actively engaged in preaching the true political gospel to the people and reports show that they are doing much good. Both Senator Allison and the others are very sanguine and do not hesitate to predict a republican majority this fall of from 20,000 to 25,000. The state central committee has introduced a feature this year which gives the campaign largely the character of a still hunt. Heretofore it has been customary to publish a full list of the speakers and their meetings in the principal papers of the state. Nothing of that kind is being done this year. Instead, the committee keeps the list a secret and localities are notified that a speaker is coming in time to permit of ample local advertisement of the fact. The rest of the state will remain in ignorance of what is going on until after the meetings take place and reports of them are made through correspondents.

In this way the state committee believes it can keep the democratic committees in the dark as to their plan of campaign and prevent in a great degree democratic speakers from taking advantage of large crowds at-tracted by republican speakers. Jealousies of rival cities will also be largely avoided and the committee saved much annoyance on that score. This is a thorough innovation over former methods, and the results will be watched with interest. The democratic party is pursuing a similar course. The party is pursuing a similar course. The people's party, however, is sticking to the time honored course. They evidently believe in having a good time and inviting everybody to it, even if they do not accomplish much politically. They have baroecues annourced to be held at Mapleton September 25 and 26; Red Oak, September 28 and 29; Creston, September 30 and October, 1; Charison October, 2 and 3; Bloomfield, October, 5 ton, October 2 and 3; Bloomfield, October 5 and 6; Des Moines, October 7 and 8. Among the speakers will be Polk, Livingston, Ter-rill and Tracey from the south, and Powers, Simpson, Weaver and Otis from the north.

OTTUMWA'S COAL PALACE. This great feature of southeastern Iowa will be opened on Tuesday and continue until October 10. The opening day is called Ottumwa day, and will be marked by a great carnival and trade display. An interesting programme will be readered, interspersed with a great deal of instrumental music, fireworks and illumination of the palace at night, and other attractive features. President Palmer of the World's Columbian commission will be the chef orator. The programme for other days agreed upon is an excellent one.

LEGAL RESIDENCE OF COUNTY OFFICIALS. Attorney General Stone has rendered a decision in which he holds that a county officer who obtains employment and lives outside of the county in which he was elected can not hold his office. The decision was rendered in a case from Greene county, the county superintendent of which accepted the principalship of the schools in Missouri Val-ley, Harrison county, and moved to that place to fulfill his duties, and at the same time held to the county superintendcy The attorney general says in part The attorney general says in part:

It is a general principal that where a man has two or more places of residency or business, the question as to which of them is his legal domicil or residence is a question of mixed law and fact and for a jury to decide, and not a purely legal question. The residency of the county superintendent under the above statement of facts probably comes under this rule. I am, however, under the impression that he has consed to be a resident of the county in which the duties of his office are to be exercised and for which he has been ejected within the meaning of sub-division 5, section 781, of the code, and that therefore there is a vacancy in the office of county superintendent.

The decision has been accepted as final and the vacancy filled by appointment,

Still Holds the Fort. CRESTON, Ia., Sept. 13 .- | Special to THE Brr. |-At a special session of the city council Friday night an attempt was made to suspend John Pilgrim, city marshal and chief of police, for alleged neglect of official duties. This charge was brought against the marshal some days ago by a local prohibition league, and on the information he was arrested by the sheriff and fined $10 in the superior court. It was supposed the league had secured the necessary two-thirds majority of the council to oust the marshal, but on a vote the coun cii only ordered an investigation of his offi-cial acts, and Pilgrim still holds the fort.

Public interest runs high in this matter inasmuch as the marshal and the police force have been acting under the instructions of Mayor Derr, who was elected to office by those favoring police control of the saloons in the shape of monthly fines. If the marshal is suspended from office it is said the league will begin impeachment proceedings against the mayor. The league has taken this step after having made several unsuccessful at-tempts to close the joints by bringing suits against their owners. The costs in liquor against their owners. The costs in liquor prosecutions during the past six months have aiready amounted to over $9,000, with a council investigation and thirty-five liquor suits, mostly appeals, in the district court yet to be heard from. A statement made by the league that it would keep right after the liquor dealers even if it cost the county $50,000 brought the board of county supervisors. 000 brought the board of county supervisors to their feet last Monday, and that body passed resolutions denouncing the league's action. Property owners who have heroto fore been ardent prohibitionist are also mak-ing a vigorous protest, but the mills continue to grind and the saloons are still running.

Ambitious Eurglars Captured. A bold attempt was made to blow open the safe in Hamilton & Steele's packing house meat market, Twenty-fourth and N streets, about 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

The police were immediately notified and gave chase. After a long run Captain O'Hare and Officer Hughes succeeded in capturing all three several blocks from the scene of the attempted burglary.

The explosion and commotion incident thereto had by this time aroused the neigh-borhood, and an examination of the store showed that the cracksmen had entered by a rear door by cutting out the lock. They then bered a hole above the combination and put in a charge of powder, thinking to blow out the bolts. Their plan miscarried, however, owing no doubt to the scanty charge inserted. Very little damage was done the safe, and the cracksmen were compelled to decamp empty handed,

About the floor were scattered a brace without a bit, a powder flask, a common carpenter's chisel, a four pound siedge hammer and the other tools that go to make up a burgiar's kit. In the alley at the rear of the store was also found a light colored spring overcoat belonging to one of the safe blowers. When taken to the station the prisoners gave their names as Chris Markason, a Swede laborer, Lewis Burnett and Jim Lawson. In the search nothing was found upon

"Dutch Bill" Laux Returned to Work With a True Story. "Dutch Bill" Laux of truck No. 1 and the sleuth of N. 3 engine house took his regular weekly day og Saturday, and as usual returned with a story about some fireman.

Bill is reported to nave dug up a story of some sort about the fire laddles on his regular day off for the past year or more. When the horses and apparatus had all been cleaned yesterday morning William commenced his yarn. He claimed to have discovered that one of the boys in that very house had sliently stolen away and been secretly married a few days before. For once the boys believed Dutch Bill and the gang went for that young Benedict in great shape. They grabbed him, got him down and held him there until he omised to buy the cigars,

In order to save his clothes from being torn off his back the young man promised to do the square thing, but decied most emphatically that he was married.

So positive and repeated was the denial that the boys finally half believed the story and are holding off on their threat to compel the purchase of a box of Havanas until the sleuth can prove his assertions.

Notwithstanding the denial, the young nan is married, and may as well set 'em up without further ado.
