fohn and Attorney William E. Healey are home from their eventful trip to Madison, Wis., and the remaining traces of the mauling to which they were subjected while there by Dr. George E. Keenan, while not increasing their good lucks, still are not sufficient to prevent their identification at the hands of their intimate friends or the police. Mr. Meikeljonn was found at the Millard yesterday and talked very freely of the assault and the causes that led to it. When solicited to tell his side of the story he made the following statement:

Mr. Meikeljohn's Story. "In 1885, Elijah Tusier, a wealthy ranchman near Sidney, Neb., died leaving an estate valued at about $200,000 to Catharine M. Tusler, our client, of Omaha, Neb. She retained her husband's former foreman, C. C. Nelson, in her employ. In 1887, her brother, Dr. Keenan, of Madison, Wis., wrote her, asking a loan of money to start in his practice of medicine, and suggesting that ne could make advantageous investments of any of her moneys. She sent him funds and in a brotherly way gradually assumed control of her ranch in connection with Nelson. The ranch was stocked with horses and cattle. Her business was conducted in this manner until some time last spring, when Senator W. A. Paxton and other friends of her destock as her property was gradually fading away. The first move she made in this direction was to request Nelson and Dr. Keenan to make accountings which thus far she has been unable to obtain from either. She then sent William E. Healey, her attorney, to Madison to secure a state-ment of her business from Dr. Keenan. He went last May and had two interviews with Senator Vilas, his attorney, but failed to get any satisfaction, the senator saying Mrs. Tusler must come home and settle the matters. She then received a request from her father to go to Madison and finally they sent her aged mother to Omaha to persuade her to go. She said she could not consent to go to Madison to be made a beggar and that all she wanted was justice. She then discharged Nelson and sent a new foreman to the ranch, but Nelson refused to deliver her property. Her attorney, William E. Healey, then com-menced suit in the circuit court and some 500 head of horses were taken by Brad. D. Slaughter, the United States marshal. These are now in her possession, the friends of her husband furnishing the required bond of $60,000. Dr. Fox of Madison, then wrote her offering his assistance in the settlement her offering his assistance in the settlement of her business with her brother, Dr. Keenan. She retained me, and at her solicitation Mr. Healey and I went to Madison with an open letter to Dr. Fox. We met Dr. Fox and the attorneys of Keenan, but failed to get any statement of the thousands of dollars he had handled for her. Before leaving, it became our professional duty to call on Dr. came our professional duty to call on Dr. Keenan in person and make a formal demand for the funds, notes, mortgages and other property as preliminary to court procedures. We went to his place of business and Mr. We went to his place of business and Mr. Healey introduced me, whereupen Keenan struck Healey with a heavy walking stick, before any conversation was had, saying as he did so: 'Healey, I will kill you.' I stepped between them and after striking Healey several times he struk me. We retained H. M. Lewis, ex-United States district attorney, and H. E. Briggs. We filed complaints on the following receiping and had. Dr. Keenan

"The only property now in sight of this woman's estate are the horses, valued at $30,000, and some equities in real estate in St. Paul, Minn., purchased by Dr. Keenan which will not sell for more than the incumbrances. We are endeavoring to find the balance. The instructions made against Mr. H. P. Stoddart of your city as to insti-gating the investigation for the recovery of this property are fabrications. Mrs. Tusler retained Mr. Healey and myself for that purpose. Mr. Stoddart has a reputation and character in Madison, Wis., which will take care of itself. When telegrams came an-nouncing the death of Mrs. Tusier's father she was unable to be present on account of the illness of her only daughter and so wrote her family at the time. This is simply a matter of obtaining for this widow her prop-erty. Where one has no rights, he cannot hold the property of others in this country by force or through sentiment of relation-the following morning and had Dr. Keenan arrested. On motion of his attorneys the cause was continued to October 6 and he was

Mr. Healey's Part in the Play.

Mr. Healey was also called upon, and he stated that he would gladly have the facts in tne case published, as a gross injustice had been done by the misrepresentations sent out from the Wisconsin end of the line. Said he: "The reports were sent out by a man named Stone, editor of the Madison Democrat. He handles the associated press reports there, and also is special correspondent for some of the Chicago papers.

"He came to our hotel to see us after the assault and we gave him a very full bistory of the case, but he never printed a word of it. He took the other side exclusively. Senator Vilas is an attorney for the other side. and it is a matter for conjecture whether or not politics had anything to do with the report as sent out.

"One thing is certain, when we got to Chi-cago the Tribune gave our side two columns, but the Times could give Senator Vilas op-ponents only a few lines. However, that does not affect the merits of the case, but may show how it happened that we got the worst of the deal. "I have some letters here which you may read, and then you can say whether or not it was 'at the urgent request' of Mrs. Tusler that Keenan assumed control of her financial affairs, as alleged by his attorneys. First, however, I want to say that Mrs. Tusler paid her brother's way through the Rush Medical college, at Chicago and afterward sent him abroad. Here is a letter he wrote just after his return

The letter was dated November 9, 1885, at St. Paul, and was written on Dr. Darling's letter head. It related that the writer, Dr. Keenan, had given up all thoughts of locat-ing at London, a small town, and was then with Dr. Darling, but was soon going to Madison.

He had an offer to go into partnership with a friend who was making $500 a month in a town in Illinois, but he would have to have money to buy a horse and carriage and "one thing or another," and wanted his sister to loan him the money, or as he expressed it, "to set him up in business."

Another letter dated the very next day, November 10, informed his sister that St. Paul was an excellent place for her to invest her money, and asks her to send it on and he would place it for her. He spoke of a brick block that could be bought for $18,000 and asked her to send on the money and buy

Other letters show that the money was sent and investments were made. Lots 3 and 4, block 11, Morrison's addition to St. Paul a, block 11, Morrison's addition to St. Paul on the west side were purchased for $13,500, with $3,700 still hanging over the property. Letters from the most prominent real estate firms and lawyers in St. Paul received within the past few months in answer to inquiries say that lots in the vicinity never sold higher than $3,000 during the boom, and that the two lots in question will not sell now together for more than $4,000 or $4,500, as they will never be worth anything expent for they will never be worth anything except for trackage purposes.

"There are several other instances like that one," said Mr. Healey.

"A man who would engineer a deal of that kind in behalf of an outside investor ought to be in the insane asylum or penitentiary. Now it is claimed by the other side that Keenan had a five years' contract and Nelson was was working for him. Read that," and another letter was produced. It was from Nelson to Mrs. Tusler, and was written when Mrs. Tusler tried to depose him last May and put in another foreman. The writer declared that he was working for Mrs. Tusler and insisted that there was due him and his men the sum of of $1,893.30. He feelined to give up the place or turn over the "Now again," said Mr. Healey, "there were 500 horses on the ranch six years ago when Mr. Tusler job has carried them off, but from the employes of the ranch we can prove that there has not more than twenty-five or thirty horses have died during this time. Mr. Paxton was a warm friend of Mr. Tusler and he it was who called the attention of the widow to the way things were going. We demanded an accounting of Keenan, but he insisted that he must be paid a salary for his work during the time that he had charge.

"We would not consent to this until we could find out what had been done. As it is there is only $30,000 of the original $200,000 in sight, and there should be $350,000. Through stock deals Keenan had secured equities to fully twenty farms in Custer and half a stock deals Keenan had secured equities to fully twenty farms in Custer and half a dozen in Buffalo county, but these are rank steals and we would not try to realize on hem.

"All we want is a settlement and this

"All we want is a settlement and this Keenan and Nelson are trying to stave off, for they have squandered money and cannot make a square showing. The other side, with all the adroitness of malignity, is endeavoring to cover up the true point at issue by insinuating that the daughter, Mrs. H. P. Stoddsrt, and her husband are trying to get possession of the property. Nothing could be more absolutely without foundation. They say that Mrs. Tusler has been prevented from going home and that been prevented from going home and that telegrams sent her have never reached her. This is all false. Mrs. Tusler knew of her father's last illness and wrote home that she regretted she could not come, but her daugh-ter was seriously ill, and the mother remained with her until she was through her "This situation was known to the family at Madison and to Mrs. Tusler's father before nis death. A call was made at the pleasant home of Mrs. Tusier and her married daughter at 621 Mrs. Tusier and her married daughter at 621 Park avenue. The lady herself stated that the false statements sent out had both surprised and grieved her. She said that her mail was not intercepted, but that on the contrary she was and had been in communication with her family. She knew of her father's illness, but her daughter's sickness kept her from going to Madison. She denied that her brother became her manager at her request, but their business relations were rather tho but their business relations were rather tho outgrowth of her financial transactions with him personally after he borrowed money from her. She said she was demanding a settlement herself, and that neither daughter or son-in-law were behind her.

It was searned that the "Detective Hamil-on," who was sent to Madison to shadow Keenan, was James Campbell atias "Reddy, Heenan, was James Campbell alias Reddy, formerly of the Republican force in this city.

Hon. J. L. Webster, who is acting as Keenan's attorney at this end of the line, declared that Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard were endeavoring to get the property into their possession, and that the telegrams had been intercepted to prevent any meeting between Keenan and his sister. He insisted that outside parties were making all the trouble, and was positive that the reason Mrs. Tusler did not go to Madison to see her father was be-cause she did not know he was sick. He was sure that the alleged sickness of Mrs. Stoddard was all a myth as he knew she was up and able to be about at that time.

There is nothing we could say that would so thoroughly convince the reader of the great value of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrnoa Remedy as a personal trial, and what we do say is only with the hope that you will give it a fair trial and satisfy yourself that our statements are true. We oase our claims on seventeen years ex perience in the sale and use of the remedy, during which time more than two million bottles have been sold. What we claim is that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diar-rhoea Remedy is the most prompt and most reliable medicine yet discovered for bowel That it is pleasant and safe to take.

That it never fails when the plain printed directions are followed. That it will cure pain in the stomach, colic, cramp colic, painters' colic, printers' colic, billous colic or cholèra morbus in their worst forms in less time than any other known

That it will cure malignant dysentry or epidemic, that it has been used in several epidemics of that disease with perfect success, and that it was the only remedy or treatment used in either of these seven epidemics that would cure the worst cases. We have many would cure the worst cases. We have many testimonials in proof of the above state-That it will cure chronic diarrhoea, and is the only remedy that has ever been known to effectually cure that dreadful disease.

The large sale on this remedy has, to a great extent, been produced by people who have been cured by it urging their friends and acquaintances to try it. In almost every neighborhood there is some one whose life has been saved by it, or who has been cured of a severe attack of bowel complaint by it, and they are its most enthusiastic advocates, honestly and sincerely so, because they know of its merits from personal experience.

DEATH AND THE DOG CATCHER

Their Combined Efforts Cost Isaac L. McCoy His Life.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT BENSON PLACE.

Mad Chase for a Canine That Cost a Human Life-The Dog Catchers in Jail at Present.

Issac L. McCoy, the aged father of Dr. H. F. McCoy, died at his home in Benson Place Monday night from the effects of injuries received in an accident, caused by Pulaski's dog-catchers.

The old gentleman had been accustomed to meet his son, the physician, at the end of the Walnut street motor line each evening with a carriage. He was waiting in the carriage Monday night about 6 o'clock when Pulaski's men came along. Dr. McCoy has a large dog which generally follows his carriage and was on hand last evening.

When the dog catchers saw the dog they at once attempted to capture it in spite of Mr. McCoy's protests. The dog was a large one, and when one of the men caught him he could not hold him. The dog made a rush for his owner's carriage, dragging the dog catcher with him, and finally ran under the horse.

Mr. McCoy was yelling to the dog catcher to stop or he would frighten the horse, but the man paid; no attention, and the horse be-came frightened and started to run, collidng with the motor track and throwing the ing with the motor track and throwing the old gentleman out.

Mr. McCoy was a rather heavy man, 70 years of age, and was unable to protect himself and received internal injuries which resulted in his death at 10 o'clock last night resulted in his death at 10 o'clock last night.

There were only a few witnesses to the accident, but they were fearfully excited and exasperated at the dog catcher who would have been severely handled had they not taken advantage of a chance to escape before the spectators fully realized the extent of Mr. Mctators fully realized the extent of Mr. Mc-Coy's injuries.

Coroner Harrigan was notified yesterday of the death of Mr. McCoy and the circumstances connected with it, and decided that an inquest was not necessary.

It is understood that friends of the deceased will make an effort to have the dog catchers prosecuted. Fred and Ernest Baker, the two dog catchers were arrested about 7 o'clock last evening and locked up at police headquarters and charged with being suspicious characters. This action was taken in order to hold the men until today when a complaint will be filed against them.

DREADFUL PSORIASIS

Covering Entire Body with White Scales. Suffering Fearful. Cured by Cuticura.

My disease (psoriasis) first broke out on my left cheek, spreading across my nose, and almost cover ng my face. It ran into my eyes, and the physician was afraid I would lose my eyesight altogether. It spread all over my head, and my hair all fell out, until I was en tirely bald-headed; It then broke out on my arms and shoulders until my arms were just one sore It covered my entire body, my face, head and shoulders being the worst. The white scabs fell constantly from my head, should ers and arms; the skin would thicken and be red and very itchy

and would crack and bleed if scratched. After spending many hundreds of dollars, I was pronounced incurable. I beard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and after using two bottles CUTICURA RESOLVENT. I could see a change; and after I had taken four bottles I was almost cured; and when I had used six bottles CUTICURA RESOLVENT, one box of CUTICURA and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, I was cured of the dreadful disease from which I had suffered for five years. I cannot express with a pen what I suffered before using the REMEDIES. They saved my life, and I feel it my duty to recommend them. My hair is restored as good as ever, and so is my eyesight.
