in Reptenishing the Reservotr of the Stove,

A distressing and what will certainly prove a fatal accident occured at 3 of clock yestertay afternoon at the reaidence of Gus. Heis-er, 407 North First street. It was the weekly wash day, and Mabel, the eldest daughter, aged 17, was assisting in the work. The gasoline slove that was being used, needed replenishing, and the young lady attempted to fill the reservoir. All the burners had not been estinguished, and when she attempted to pour the fluid from a large open vessel the gas instantly caught from the flame and an explosion followed. The blazing oil was thrown all over her, setting her clothes on fire at every point. None of the other members of the family were in that portion of the house, and the young lady had to depend corching and roasting was the portiou of the ful young lady, very popular in social cir-cles, and her tragic fate is doubly regretted.

The Boston Store Always Leads in Fresh New Goods and Low Prices. People who see the immense lot of boxes that are being unloaded every day at the Boston Store naturally wonder where the contents all go to. The goods all go on the shelves, but they don't stay there long. We believe in making prices that will move them. This week we got in an immense lot of new fall dress goods, hosiery, underwear, domestics, kid gloves, mitts and the like. This will be another banner week at the Boston

German Catholic Bazaar.

The German Catholic bazaar opened well Monday evening with a delightful entertainment. The dancing of the children was especially captivating. Arrangements are made by which each evening this week will be presented new attractions, with varied changes of programme. Tonight the drama by the Inisfail club promises much. The young people are all well known in the clty, and have fine dramatic ability, as has been evidenced by former plays presented by them. The drama to be presented tonight is a thuiling one and will be given in the curry a thrilling one, and will be given in the opera-house. Reserved seats can be secured at the opera house drug store, and the same tickets will give admittance to the Masonic temple hall, where the festivities will be continued after the close of the entertainment at the opera house.

Question of Bank Patronage. The election of a new treasurer of the school district is expected to work some changes in the handling of the money belonging to the district. There is no salary to speak of connected with the office and the bank which handles the money is the only one that has anything to gain or lose by having any particular treasurer elected. As the lucky bank has the use of all the school funds without interest it is something of a feather in the cap of the one whose repre-sentative is elected. As long as J. W. Pereroy was treasurer the school funds were kept in the First National bank. Mr. Wies, the new treasurer, is connected in an indirect way with the Citizons' bank, consequently that bank will have a good share at least of the funds for the coming year. Two of the members of the School board are connected with the Council Bluffs Sav-ings bank, and it is understood that Wies received their votes on the understanding that their bank was also to have a share of the patronage. It is stated that the change in treasures is the result of a feeling that the First National bank has had its share of public patronage, in view of its refusal to pay about $20,000 worth of city taxes which were levied upon it some years ago.

The case of the Omaha National bank against Kimball & Champ, with Mrs. Louise () Kimball and Mrs. Alla A. Champ as intervenors, was called up for trial in the district court vesterday afternoon. The attornevs for the plaintiff's argued a motion for a jury trial, which was overruled. Askwith, who appeared is court with the look of a man who had just been called from his death bed, asked that he be allowed time in which to prepare a motion for a more specific state-This was also overruled, Judge Macy stating that he had already given the plan-tiffs all the time he expected to to prepare for trial. The trial then proceeded. Mrs. Kimball was put upon the stand, but he examination and cross-examination failed to bring out any sensational testimony. She went through the entire list of property which had been attached, and said it all belonged to her alone, some of it having been given her by her husband, some by her friends at her welding and some of it having been bought by her with her own money. The whole afternoon was taken up with her testimeny and at the close a continuance was granted until this morning, when Judge Baldwin is expected to be here and will take charge of the case.
