Dr. H. A. Woodbury will entertain his friends tomorrow evening at a hop at the League club rooms.

The social union of the First Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow evening at the residence of Miss Cora Woodbury, corner of Bluff and Story streets.

Nels Peterson and Samuel Sorenson were arrested shortly after midnight yesterday morning on a charge of disturbing the peace by fighting on lower Main street.

A meeting of those interested in Chautauqua work will be held this evening in the Board of Trade rooms in the Merriam block for the purpose of organizing reading circles for the coming winter. A full attendance is desired.

The heating apparatus has been put in the Hill and Bloomer school buildings and is ready for use this morning. The work of changing has been made in just fifteen days, and has not interfered in the slightest degree with the recitations that were going on in the building at the same time.

The ladies of the St. Paul Episcopal church are planning a surprise for their new rector and his wife, who are expected to arrive in the city next Wednesday. The house is to be stocked with provisions on the day before their arrival, and the rectory will be left open to receive any contributions that may be made.

L. B. Cousins was presented last Saturday with an elegant gold-headed cane by his employes, the drivers for the Council Bluffs & Omaha Transfer company. The head is beautifully engraved with the names of the donors, Ed Henry, F. Cadwallader, S. Gilmore, W. Connahan, H. Colburn, White Templeton, William Provost, J. Nesley, William Patterson.

The members of the Union Veteran Legion and the ladies' auxiliary attended services at the Presbyterian church in a body. The pulpit was occupied by Rev. F. L. Hayden of Marne. Mr. Hayden is well known in this city, where he was formerly engaged in newspaper work, but drifted out of the ranks to fit himself for the ministry. He has been pastor of the Presbyterian church at Marne for over a year past and has met great success in his new work.

Three young fellows giving their names as George Oliver, Craig Mardis and John Smith were arrested about midnight Saturday night, in front of a saloon on middle Broadway, for fighting. They had been creating a disturbance earlier in the evening, but had eluded the police. Officers Wells and Murphy traced them up and finally caught them as they were renewing hostilities and ran them in. They gave bond and were released until this morning.

Jefferson Gaines, a colored man, fell into the clutches of Officer Wells last evening as he was going up a back alley near the corner of Main street and Broadway. His appearance did not satisfy the officer, and he was taken to the police station, where he was booked with being a suspicious character. He said he had just been driven out of Omaha for the same offense, and was told at the transfer to steer clear of anybody that had blue clothes and brass buttons until he could get out of town on his way to Pacific Junction, where he claimed to live.

Death of Mabel Heisler.

Mabel Heisler, who has been lying at the point of death for the past week as a result of the horrible burning she received by the explosion of a can of gasoline, passed away yesterday morning at 6 o'clock. Her physician has not given the parents and friends of the dead girl any encouragement to hope for her recovery, in spite of the fact that she has not suffered the slightest pain since the afternoon when she received her injuries.

Reports have been circulated several times, however, that she was improving, so that when her death was announced it was a severe shock to those who had been only too willing to hope against hope. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, 407 North First street, and the remains will be interred in Fairview cemetery.

NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Sessions of the Federal and District Courts this Week.

SEVERAL CASES TO BE CONSIDERED.

Title of Fairmount Park May Not Be Settled This Term—Important Developments in the City's Favor.

Judge J. S. Woolson is expected to arrive in the city this evening, and will open the United States district court tomorrow morning. Judge Shiras will arrive tomorrow morning and will open a session of the circuit court, and the two will be carried on in connection during the remainder of the week. There are no cases of very great importance set for trial at the present term, and it is probable that the entire work of the term will be completed by Saturday night.

It was expected that the case of Jason Walker against the city of Council Bluffs would come up for trial this term, but later developments have resulted in its being again postponed. This is better known as the Fairmount park case, and the public is greatly interested in it, as upon its outcome depends the ownership of the park which has proved so popular a resort during the present summer. It was supposed until recently that all the evidence in the case would be in and that both parties would be ready for trial this term. A report was circulated a couple of months ago that late developments indicated that the chances for success were mostly on the side of Walker, and that nothing but a stroke of providence could prevent the city from losing its pet. The theory of those interested in the case was that the city was sort of a leverage on Walker's attorneys to induce them to give up the suit. Later developments however, show that this method of procedure is not necessary.

It is announced by a man who has been connected with the case for some time, that a piece of evidence is now in the possession of the attorneys for the city that will prove a stem-winder when it is produced in court, and if the statements of the same man are to be believed, certain transactions are illuminated to such an extent that the chances of the city maintaining its property now seem better than ever before. The contents of the paper which is to throw such a light on affairs are not known excepting to the attorneys, but it will probably be filed in court. It is known, however, that a change has come over the attorneys for the plaintiff in the last few weeks, and that they are very willing to have the case continued now, while they were formerly pushing the city to trial in a way that fairly took the breath of all parties concerned.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is the best of all remedies for children teething. 25 cents a bottle.

Do you ever look back ten years to a time when Council Bluffs was much smaller than it is now and when corn and potatoes were being grown on what is now some of the best property in town? Do you ever wish you had bought some property then, even if it was hard work to pay for it? Do you know that Council Bluffs could not stop growing if it wanted to, and that in addition to its own growth we are sure of catching a good share of the increase in population which will come to Omaha with better times? We venture to predict that there is not a dollar's worth of real estate in town that will not be worth several times what it is today in another ten years. When that time comes you will have to pay a good round price if you want a lot in Morningside, because they will all be owned by people who won't care to sell at any price.

Baptists Effect a Compromise.

A meeting of the members of the First Baptist church, which was to have been held this evening in compliance with a call signed by about fifty members of the congregation for the purpose of considering "the pastoral relation," will not be held, and the stormy time that was expected will not occur. A majority of the members have been actively engaged during the week in patching up the difficulty, and the announcement that a compromise with the pastor and his flock had been effected was made immediately after the conclusion of the services yesterday morning. Dr. Hall preached an unusually brilliant sermon, and after the succeeding portions of the service were finished he arose and announced that the clerk would read an agreement which had been reached which it was understood that a majority of the members would abide by.

Clerk Shillington then read the paper. It was short and to the point and said that the signers believed that the best interests of the church demanded no change in the pastoral relations; that any officers in the church who could not abide by the agreement could have the privilege of promptly resigning, and that any dissatisfied member might also have the privilege of withdrawing from the organization without prejudice. The document was signed by about a dozen members, comprising both supporters and opponents of the pastor. A brief time was given for objections, but there was neither objection nor approval manifested, and the congregation was dismissed. It is understood that for the present at least this will be the end of the trouble in the church.

Autumn Millinery Display.

The finest millinery display for the autumn of 1891 the ladies of Council Bluffs will find will be that of Misses Sprink and Fearon, which occurs Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, both afternoon and evening. They will find the latest Parisian, London and New York styles of autumn and winter patterns. The rooms will be handsomely decorated and the ladies will be assured a pleasant time while noting the beautiful and radical changes that have been made in the new season's millinery.

Morningside was platted last year. Ten modern artistic houses have already been built. A large number of lots have been sold to others, who intend to build.

State Central Committee.

HEADQUARTERS REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE, MILLARD HOTEL, OMAHA, Sept. 26, 1891.—A meeting of the republican state central committee is called to meet at the Millard hotel, 7:30 p. m., Saturday, October 3, A. D. 1891.

A full attendance is requested.

Extensive improvements always add to the value of property. Morningside is being improved as no other addition in the city has ever been improved. If you will save a little money every month and invest it in a lot you will get the benefit of these improvements and you will find it a most satisfactory investment.

You will have a chance to see the finest furs as well as the finest millinery at Louis' annual millinery display Thursday and Friday this week at Masonic block.

Farewell Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Randlett were tendered a farewell party last Saturday evening, at the residence of Mrs. Randlett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Langmade. The evening was pleasantly spent in various amusements. The following were among the guests: Mr. and Mrs. Powell of Stanberry, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lynchard, Mr. and Mrs. Rhea, Mrs. Atkins, Mrs. Kelly of Omaha, the Misses Vincent and Cummings of Omaha, Cassady, Wesner, Davidson, Luster, Van Brunt, Lewis, West and Evans; Messrs. McKnitt, O'Hanley, Williams, Templeton, Truax, Atkins and Oakley of Marion, Ia. Mr. and Mrs. Randlett leave for their new home in Concord, N. H., today.

Constipation poisons the blood; DeWitt's Little Early Risers cure constipation. The cause removed, the disease is gone.

The Reason Why

We have marked our goods at plain manufacturers' prices is that we are going out of business. Our time here is limited and we are willing to dispose of our goods without a cent of profit as rapidly as we can employ help to wait on customers. Everybody who visits our store can see what goods cost and all must be sold at cost. Furniture, carpets, cooking and heating stoves, bedding at actual cost; many goods less than cost. Call early before the stock is broken.

MANDEL & KLEIN.

There has never been an investment offered in Council Bluffs that was as safe as Morningside and at the same time gave such promise of a large profit to the investor. It does not depend on a boom nor even on the growth of the city. The extensive improvements that have been planned and are now being made, added to what nature has already done for it are as certain to make it more valuable as day is to follow night. It will not be long till Morningside will be so much more beautiful and desirable as a residence place than anything else in the city, that people who want nice places for permanent homes will be glad to get lots there at prices that would seem extravagant now.

Martin Kundson, one of the Cedar county men who drank bedbug poison given by Dennis O'Flaherty, has recovered from the effects of the dose and has sued O'Flaherty for $6,000.

William Biltge, a German blacksmith, shot and killed himself at Friend. He was denied the privilege of buying whisky and that and some little trouble, probably causing temporary insanity, is the only reason known for the deed.

While attempting to open a boiling kettle at the Edgar Canning factory, J. B. Mundell and Wilson Rhodes were severely scalded. As soon as they had loosened the fastenings of the cover it was blown off and the steam and not water was thrown on them. Mr. Mundell was badly scalded on the right arm and side and young Rhodes was scalded on the right arm, chest and back. He was burned over a much larger surface than Mr. Mundell, but will recover.

A terrible sight met the gaze of D. P. Smith, a Jefferson county farmer, when he went to his barn. His little 9-year-old girl was found dead in a large washtub. Coroner Dodge was called and it was decided that the girl came to her death by accident. Evidently the girl fell from the ladder while climbing up to put the windmill in motion. Her head struck the pump nozzle and she fell into the tub. It was at first thought the girl was drowned while trying to wash her face, but some time after she had been found blood began to ooze from her mouth, and on examination showed a concussion of the brain.

Rev. A. C. Barnes died at Dorsey September 16. His death was caused by paralysis. Father Barnes was an Iowa pioneer, published the first newspaper at Albia in 1854. At an early date he was foreman of Hon. C. F. Clarkson's Brookville American office, and taught James S. and R. P. Clarkson to set type. Mr. Barnes' Albia paper was called "The Independent Press." The paper to print it on was hauled from a paper mill at Farmington, Ia. The log house in which Mr. Barnes had his office was so cold in winter that the paper could not be issued regularly. The deceased was the father of A. R. Barnes, the present editor of the Union, and postmaster at Albia, Ia.

MESSAGES OF THE HARVEST.

What the Glad Fruit Time of the Year Should Mean to Men.

All Men Should be Thankful Not Only Now, but at All Times—Dean Gardner's Harvest Home Sermon.

The annual Harvest Home services were observed yesterday at Trinity cathedral. The altar and chancel were appropriately and handsomely decorated with fruits, vegetables and cereals right from the orchard, garden and field. The audience was large and a spirit of genuine appreciation of the occasion pervaded the assembly.

Dean Gardner delivered a very appropriate address, of which the following is a synopsis:

"Those of us who have been drawn hither today, responsive to the call of the Harvest Home, are doing the most natural thing possible. Harvest Home is one of God's voices, one of His manifestations of love. God has opened His hand and has filled all things living with plenteousness. What nearer approach than this can the Good Providence make to His children? What greater proof of friendship than when He makes us sit down at His table and He feeds us with His bounty? So I say it is a natural impulse in the breast of humanity that makes us assemble here with joyful music and with praises on our lips and offerings in our hands. We cannot, unless we are very hardened and unappreciative, keep from giving thanks to Him who has done so much for us. Harvest Home has special claims on us because it is a special and conspicuous manifestation of divine providence. It is a picturesque scene upon which we cast our eyes today—the annual harvest.

Seed Time and Harvest.

"The laborers went forth in spring time, as it were, weeping and bearing forth good seed. Today the glad processions are coming back and the husbandmen are bringing their sheaves with them. And it seems an endless procession and a continuous thanksgiving in all lands and throughout all the ages. This formal acknowledgement of divine goodness at harvest time lies at the basis of what we call natural religion. So the scene grows magnificent, as with the sweep of an intelligent imagination we take a survey of other lands, and everywhere behold the elaborate ceremonials of the ingathering festival.

"It came about that the inspired writer could find no language better suited to his description of the perfect joy of the redeemed than when he wrote, 'They joy before Thee according to the joy in harvest and men rejoice when they divide the spoil.' There is song and merry dance and almost universal happiness. Even the beasts of burden are partakers of the glad contagion. With garlands on their horses and bright colored ribbons floating in the breezes they draw home the loaded carts of ripened grain. 'The singers go before, the minstrels follow after; in the midst are the damsels playing on the timbrels.'"

"Alas, that there should ever be a falling off in the custom which we honor today! Alas, that men should so prevent and destroy the common instincts of gratitude as to accept the bounty of God and never once look up to him in thankfulness!

Gratitude is its Outgrowth.

"But Harvest Home is not only an occasion which by its universal observance and its picturesque environments challenges our attention, but it is a direct incentive to the cultivation of a thankful spirit. We meet for a specific object. The object is forced upon our attention. The fact that we are all dependent upon the bounty of God in being fed by the products of the soul should awaken in the dullest heart emotions of thankfulness. The broad acres of this great commonwealth standing so thick with corn that they laugh and sing in the continual sunshine, all the fatherly smile which gleams through nature, bearing witness that an eye looks down upon us and that a "heart follows us." It might have been a Harvest Home sermon that St. Paul was preaching at Lystra when he speaks of the living God who 'made heaven and earth and the sea and all things that are therein; who hath not left himself without witness in that He did good and gave us rain from heaven and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with gladness.' This harvest time is therefore witness to the love of God for His creation. It arrests our attention and gives us the noble impulse of gratitude.

"But here comes in the thought, are we thankful only on occasion? Have we the temper of heart and frame of mind which actuated the Psalmist when he sang 'I will always give thanks to the Lord. His praise shall ever be in my mouth.'

Manifestations of the Almighty.

How common for people to look unto the hills for help—to recognize God's presence and His power in the conspicuous manifestation of nature and grace; to hear His voice in the tempest and the storm or in the noise of waterfall or rumbling of thunder. How common for us to hear God's message only under circumstances that appeal overwhelmingly to heart and soul. Must the sky be all aflame with glory if we would read the truth? Can we only realize God in the majesty of gorgeous ceremonial and by the entrancements of most exultant music? Must it be a great catastrophe or moral crime to make men pause and shudder and turn pale and be thankful that they have escaped the wrath of God?

"And so of Harvest Home, I will not believe this glad festival or any other day of thanksgiving is an occasion for men to do their thanksgiving for the season, or for the year. We miss the real object of this day unless its impules operate in the establishment of a more thankful spirit and a more cheerful disposition.

Rejoice in the Lord.

"Let this Harvest home call us to our duty of thanksgiving. Rejoice in the Lord always and again. I say rejoice. Rejoice oh, young man, in thy youth, and ye gray haired saints in thine honorable crowns. The Lord wills His people to be happy. Aspire after habitual thankfulness. Let your souls run over with holy gladness. Cast to the winds and forever away the pitiful example of the man who receiving only one talent went and hid it in the earth, wrapped in a napkin, as if he had been to the funeral of his life and energy and occupation. What horrible pessimism in apologizing for neglected duty. The others received their talents gladly. Their life work was earnest, it was real, it may have been hard but it was a success. Better for us to rejoice with a rejoicing universe, rejoice with the morning stars and let your adoring spirit march to the music of hymning spheres.

Practical Rejoicing.

"Today you are asked to give a practical turn to your sense of gratitude. You are asked to give expression to your thankfulness in a thank offering to the Clarkson Memorial hospital, otherwise known as the Child's hospital. In its latter capacity this hospital is entirely a charity. It seeks to find out little children who are suffering from some physical malformation or other bodily ailment, and to bring them under the best of surgical treatments, and the most tender ministrations of loving hands and affectionate hearts. In its capacity as a general hospital its charitable ministry is limited only by financial ability. Multitudes are cared for who can only return thanks, and no discrimination is made in the kind of care bestowed.

"You who dwell in happy, comfortable dwelling places, who cherish your children as the apple of your eye, whose sick folk have tender nursing at home, think on those who have no place to lay their heads, and think of those little children, often motherless or worse than that, who lift their wasted hands to you and plead so pitifully for your bounty. 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto Me.' Let Jesus see of the travail of His soul in your works of righteousness and He will be satisfied. 'Whosoever is wise will ponder these things and they shall understand the loving kindness of the Lord.'"

A large collection was taken up for the benefit of the Clarkson Memorial hospital.

In the evening a very fine musical programme was rendered by the choir.

New Fire Apparatus.

The new aerial turn table truck recently bought in Chicago by the fire commissioners arrived yesterday and was at once taken to No. 3 house. The truck carries a fifty foot extension ladder, besides six single ladders ranging in length from twelve to thirty-five feet. All of the ladders are made of Portland pine and all the metal work on the apparatus is nickle plated.

This new truck will be known as No. 2 and placed in engine house No. 1 on Twenty-fourth street. Truck 3 will go to the new house at Twentieth and Spring streets. The apparatus complete cost $2,500.

SOUTH OMAHA.

Captured a Walking Store.

Early yesterday morning Officer Mose Redmond arrested a suspicious looking character, who was prowling around during the small hours. When called upon to stand, the man started to run, but when covered by the officer's shooting iron, surrendered. He was taken to the station and searched.

He gave his name as Ed Moores. Secreted upon him was found hardware sufficient to start a store. The list of bric-a-brac disgorged is as follows: One dozen ivory-handled penknives, six razors, twelve skeleton keys, two revolvers and several boxes of cartridges.

He was unable to account for the goods and from what the police could sift from his garbled stories, he must have robbed some store in Papillion last night. The Sarpy officials have been notified, and Moore will be given a hearing by Judge King this morning.

Republican Meeting.

The republicans of South Omaha are wide awake. They propose to enter the campaign with the colors flying and the ranks filled with good, loyal men. The following call for a mass meeting has been sent to THE BEE for publication:

Whereas, The necessity now exists for the organization of an active and aggressive republican party in South Omaha, as the working element of the party has been entirely overlooked and ignored by the present assumed leaders in failing to call them together to select delegates to the state convention; therefore we, the undersigned, unite in calling a public meeting on Wednesday September 30, at 7:30 p. m. at Blum's hall, for the purpose of permanently organizing a republican club for the coming campaign.

Notes About the City.

Eighteen cars of feeders left the yards for the east last night.

M. B. McBeath, who has been visiting with Mrs. E. G. Smith, has returned to Lincoln.

The ladies connected with the Baptist church will serve a dinner Wednesday from 11:30 to 2 at 2624 N street.

Officer Redman will hand in his resignation today and will accept a position with the Omaha Packing company as day watchman.

An extraordinarily heavy run is predicted at the yards for the coming week. Already there are forty cars unloaded and every hour brings in new trains.

The Baptist Sunday school gave a very enjoyable Harvest Home at the church, Twenty-seventh and M streets, last evening. Many from Omaha attended.

A CALL.

For the Douglas County Republican Convention.

The republican electors of Douglas county, Nebraska, are hereby called to meet in convention at Washington hall, in the city of Omaha on Monday, October 12, 1891, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for the following offices, to-wit:

Clerk of the district court.
County judge.
County clerk.
County treasurer.
County sheriff.
County coroner.
County surveyor.
One county commissioner, First district.
One superintendent of public instruction.
Six justices of peace at large for the city of Omaha.
Six constables at large for city of Omaha.
And assessors for the various wards and precincts.
And such other business as may properly come before said convention.

The representation in said convention shall be for each ward in Omaha nine delegates; for the city of South Omaha, nine delegates; for each precinct outside of Omaha and South Omaha, five delegates. The primaries for the election of delegates to said convention shall be held in the different wards of the cities of Omaha and South Omaha on Saturday, October 10, 1891, between the hours of 12 o'clock noon and 7 o'clock p. m., and in the precincts outside of said cities, on the same day between the hours of 7 and 9 o'clock p. m.

Primaries shall in all respects conform to the laws of Nebraska in such case made and provided.

Dated this 26th day of September, 1891.

MOSES P. O'BRIEN, Chairman.
M. H. REDFIELD, Secretary.

PASTORS AND PEOPLE

Searching for a Successor to Rev. Willard Scott.

At a recent meeting of the St. Mary's Avenue Congregational Church society of this city, Rev. Willard Scott tendered his resignation, which was accepted. A committee has since been appointed, looking toward the securing of a pastor. A number of men have been under consideration, among whom Rev. Herron of Clear Water, Minn. Mr. Herron is a young man and is highly recommended. He has some reputation in literary circles from his contributions to the religious papers and the authorship of a book published by one of the leading book houses of Chicago.

It is understood that Rev. Scott, who still takes a deep interest in the affairs of the St. Mary's avenue church and is doing what he can to secure an acceptable pastor for his former congregation, is favorably inclined toward Mr. Herron.

The people of Omaha will doubtless soon have an opportunity to hear Mr. Herron preach. A general interest is felt as to who the successor of Rev. Scott may be, as the St. Mary's avenue church has a leading position among the Congregationalists of Nebraska.

A gentleman writing from Honolulu says: "Ben Hogan is here holding meetings in the Young Men's Christian association hall every night, Sunday night in the Central Union church, speaking to full houses and doing a grand work. The natives, as well as the whites, are taking great interest in the meetings. He will no doubt do grand work in Japan and India. Everybody appreciates his plain, practical talk."

Rev. A. W. Lamar, pastor of the First Baptist church, has tendered his resignation, to take effect in December. He is undecided as yet as to where he will go.

YOU CANNOT GO

to Carlsbad, but you can have Carlsbad brought to you. Procure a bottle of genuine imported Carlsbad Sprudel Salt and dissolve a teaspoonful of it in a tumblerful of water. It is the best natural aperient and alterative extant. Nothing is "just as good" when you can get the genuine imported article.
