ADDING TO THEIR VICTORIES.

Nonpariels Keeping Right Along on a Conquering March.

MAGIC CITYS THE LATEST VICTIMS.

St. Louis, Louisville, Columbus and Milwaukee Drive the Last Spike-Some Speed Ring and General Sporting News.

RETTY hot people on a ball ground, those Nonparell boys. They added one more to their long string of victories yesterday when they pounded Pitcher Tickner of the South Omahas into the ground in the fifth inning.

The Magic City's had nearly everything their own way in hrranging for the game, which was for a purse of $100. The game was played at Association park and opened like a sure thing for the boys from Packingtown. They scored once in the second as a result of Flynn's error. In the third they added three more as a result of Clark's single, Ticknor's two-bagger, and a pop-up that both Shanshan and Corrigan went after but which neither got. Lacy's only passed ball helped them along in the same inning. After that Jelin held them down so well they failed to score again.

With the score 4 to 0 [against them in the fourth the Nonpariels commenced to play ball. In that inning they crossed the plate twice. In the fifth they went after that $100 and pulled it down. Shanahan opened the fun by going to first on four bad ones. He died in an unsuccessful attempt to get to second with his long legs faster than Gross could get the ball down to Clark. Jeilen followed with a single. Here's where the ex-Fremont twirier grew very, very weary. Bradford picked out one for three bases. Lacey's single scored Bradford, McAuliffe pushed the bail out for two bases, Carrigan duplicated the hit and Frank Mahoney went out at first. Flynn was in good batting form and hit to right for two bags. Jerry Mahoney hit a weak one and retired the side. That was batting for you. Two singles, three doubles and a triple in one inning, net-ting five big earned runs. It was enough to Mahoney distinguished himself again by making a phenomenal catch in left field which resulted in a double play. Tickner was the only Magic City man who could do anything with Jelen's pitching. The Boheman gave no bases on baits and has eleven strike-outs to his credit, Flynn's errors were redeemed by his timely hitting. The Nonparells have met with but three de-feats in Omaha and have played a game every week since the base ball season commenced. Yesterday's score. NONPAREILS. MAGIC CITY.

AMERICAN ASSOCIATION. Championship Season is Ended, and

None too Soon, Either. Sr. Louis, Mo., Oct. 4 .- The Browns and Louisvilles closed the American association season here today by playing two games. In the first Comisky put in Breitenstein, an amateur, to pitch and he pitched the most remarkable game ever played here, or in fact anywhere else, not a hit being secured off b m, and only twenty-seven men coming to bat. The Browns fleided perfeculy which materially aided him. Attendance, 5,000.

Fine Showing of the Whitings. SPRINGFIELD, Neb., Sept. 29 .- To the Sporting Editor of THE BEE: The Springfield Whitings closed the season on the 26th inst, with the Second infantry nine of Fort Omaha.

Although Springfield is a small village of less than seven hundred inhabitants, her ball team has just completed a record that towns much larger than Springfield could well feel proud of.

The club was organized in May and after struggling along for a time with financial ruin staring it in the face, A. L. and C. S. Spearman finally came to its aid, and enclosed and fitted up a park and grand stand for the club's special benefit; from that time until the close of the season, base ball in Springfield has been a decided success financially and otherwise. The game has been liberally patronized by both ladies and gentlemen, the ladies in par-ticular. Out of thirteen games played the Whitings have only lost three, and each one of them by a single score, as the following

The players and management wish to return thanks to THE BEE for the kindness shown in the matter of reporting games, and think The Ban's reports of amateur base ball throughout Nebraska and lows far in advance of any paper in the west. Spring-field's prospect for a good amateur club next year are of the very best. C. F. Calhoun, Manager.

ONLY BETTING EVEN.

Nobody Cares to Give Odds on This

Pacing Race. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 4 .- The all-day's rain was good for the track and clearing weather tonight lasures a fast track for the races beginning Tuesday. The Hal Pointer-Direct race is the only thing talked of now, and several thousand dollars have already been bet even. The talent think the chances so even that many bets will not be laid till the horses have drawn positions. Talks with prominent horsemen here indicate that more money will be laid on this race than any barness contest that has ever taken place. The heat places will be determined by instantaneous photography. All the stables have arrived and tomogrow's trains will bring large crowds Louisville's Fall Meeting. LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4.-The fall racing neeting of the Louisville Jockey ctub will be in here Tuesday. There are about 600 horses here, representing all the leading stables and promising excellent sport. The most noted are Ban Chief, Curt Gunn. Marion C, and Kingman. The principal events will be the cash handleap and the St. Leger. Colonel Clark, president of the club, arrived from Chicago today and will see that all arrange-ments are perfect as possible. The meeting will last eight days.

Sunol Going Fast. STOCKTON, Cal., Oct. 4.-In exercising yes terday on the kite shaped track, Marvin drove Sunol nalf-a-mile in 1:03 and jogged a full mile in 2:12%. He speeded her only on the first half-mile. Palo Alto trotted around the lifst hair-mile. Palo Alto trotted around the kite shaped track in exercising 2:11½. His record is 2:12½ in race. The track is very fast and all horsemen here predict that Sunol will beat 2:06 when she is sent against The meeting next Tuesday promises

Will Be a Great Race. GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 4.-The excitement over the $10,000 race between Nelson and Allerton next Thursday is on the in crease. Nelson and his owner arrived last night and Allerton will be here in the morning. The hotel lobbies are crowded. That it will be an honest race for blood and the trotting event of the season all admit.

AMUSEMENTS.

There is a great deal to praise in "The Old, Old Story," which began a week's engagement yesterday at the Farnam Street theater. The story, while as old as time alnost, is still new, for it deals with nine teenth century people and their manner and method of doing business. It is full of human interest, for the men and women are real and act much as men and women do off the stage.

While the authors do not claim any great originality of plot, nor particularly strong dramatic situations, it has the distinct merit of being a consistently told story, written in an elevated key, the comedy being particu-larly sparkling.

It is wonderfully like "Men and Women" in construction, yet lacks the sustained force of Belasco and DeMiller's play. It is written around Wall street, with its bustle and excitement, the turmoit of the street penetrating even into the drawing rooms of those who care little if the bulls gore the bears or the bears rend the bulls. It appeals to the best instincts of the heart and preaches, in a very quiet way, a moral which found birth on the Mount of Olives.

The men in the "Old, Old Story" are much superior to their prototypes in "Men and Women." They are far nobler, and with two exceptions have little to answer for. In "Men and Women" the majority of the male ex were a very bad lot. The women in the play produced last evening are worthy of the name. They are sym-pathetic to a degree, and they are ready to perform sacrifices when necessary to protect those they love. What more could be denanued of the sex?

If now and then the dialogue becomes a bit stilted, if here and there the action shows the 'prentice hand and the play gives evidence of hasty construction, yet it cannot help but serve as a beneficial lesson to those who go to the theater to think in addition to being amused.

As a whole the company has been admirably selected the performance being in the main excellent. In the role of the gruff old physician Cyrus Bliss, Mr. Wilson Deal has a part which suits him admirably and he plays it with excellent discernment. His humor is infectious, while his pattics is beautifuily rounded.

Mrs. Fanny McIntyre, a bright and quite pretty young woman divides the honors with Mr. Deal as the heroine, Louise Schuzier, while now and then she reads too rapidly, running her words together until they are well nigh unintelligible. As a whole she gives a most satisfactory portraiture of a very lov-

Mr. Percival West as the villian, if he may be so denominated, Sidney Beckman, is a sterling actor and he played the role in a manner which left little to be desired. Miss Isabel Martin as the widow, Mrs. Sherwood was deliciously breezy although a little bit inclined to be stiff in her manner of crossing the stage. Miss Bertine Robison as the ingenue was excellent her comedy scenes with Archie winning a great deal of

Mr. Watrous and Mr. Sabel have interest ng parts which they play acceptably.

PETTY THIEVERY.

Cases of Larceny that Keeps the Police Hustling.

Charles Davis was found on the street about three o'clock Sunday morning carrying a satchel which he court not give a satisfactory account of. Davis was locked up on suspicion, and an effort made to find the owner of the grip. B. C. Wood, a traveling salesman for Paxton & Gallagher, claimed ownership and said that he left the property with the check clerk at the Esmond about three weeks ago when he started out

Davis would not say how he came to have the satchel in his possession.

The police arrested George Washington and E. Hicks, both colored, yesterday on suspicion of being implicated with C. R. Ford in the attempt to hold up John Hyland under the Sixteenth street viaduct early Sunday morning.

Jesse Harris was taken into custoday terday afternoon and charged with stealing a coat and vest from his roommate in a Far-nam street lodging house. The property was N. P. Wind's saloon at the corner of Sixteenth and Webster streets was entered Saturday night by thieves and about $25 worth of cigars stolen. AT THE EXPO.

Sunday's Sunshine Sent Large Crowds to the Coliseum.

The Coliseum building was crowded to overflowing last evening with the people who had taken advantage of their Sunday holiday to visit the exposition. There were young men with their best girls, fathers and mothers and their numerous progeny, young ladies in pairs and in bevies, young men ditto, young and old, rich and poor were mingled in one conglomerate mass and all taking in the almost innumerable articles of man's handiwork displayed in the many exhibits.

All of the exhibitors have taken advantage of the opportunity offered by the wet weather and have greatly improved their displays until the building presents a brilliant scene of dazzing color. Many of the exhibitors make changes in their displays from time to time thus offering new articles for time to time, thus offering new articles for the inspection of the public, so that the in-terest of the visitors is kept alive.

The Musical Union band rendered

ceilent programme of sacred music yester-day, forming an interesting feature of the exposition.

FROM AGES PAST.

Indian Relies of the First settlement of America.
Washington, D. C., Oct. 4.—When Columus laid the foundation of Isabella, Santo Domingo, the first settlement by Europeans if La Navida, a merely temporary stockade, with a small garrison be excepted), in the new world, the first structure to receive serious attention, was the church. It was erected and christened within a few months after the landing at Isabella, in December, 1493. the landing at Isabella, in December, 1483, In 1494, a city was begun in the Royal Plain of La Vega, and called La Vega, or the City of the Plains, whither doubtless, was transported everything portable in Isabella, which was soon abandoned to the solitude of the forest which environed it. A church was likewise built at Lavoga, and it is thought that the same beli that hung in the church of Isabella, occupied a similar position in the f Isabella, occupied a similar position in the beifry tower at Lavoga. In the year 1549, Lovoga was destroyed by a terrible earthquake, and the city abandoned by such of the inhabitants as escaped.

More than 300 years passed away. One day a man espied a bell in the branches of a fig tree—a parasitic tree that envelopes everything in its reach, and which had wrapped its trunk around a portion of the bel-fry tower of the ruined church. This bell had en raised in the arms of the fig tree and was thus preserved from failing to the ground and being buried out of sight. The beil was secured and for a long time was preserved as a venerated relic, almost worshipped by the perstitious natives of Santo Domingo.

finally came into the possession of Padro Bellini, a patriotic priest of Santo Domingo City, who hung it in the chapel of his convent school. All this was recorded in its papers of that time. When Senor Galvor, the plenipotentiary sent out by Santo Domingo to negotiate for the out by Santo Domingo to negotiate for the reciprocity treaty, was at Washington he gave to Mr. W. E. Curtis, chief in charge of the Latin-American department of the exposition, a letter to the heirs of Padre Bellini, requesting them as a favor, as a great favor, to allow the bell to come to the United States. This was presented to Senor Bellini, represented to Senor Bellini, represented to Senor Bellini, respectively.

rephew of the late priest and and an ex-president of the republic, who courteously allowed Mr. Ober, the Columbian commissioner, to bring it away with him, after receiving ample security for its restoration at the close of the exposition. Carefully secured in the specie tank of the Clyde line steamer Saginaw, it made the voyage to New York in safety, when in it was sent to Washington, where it now lies awaiting the proper time for transportation to Chicago.

This bell is of a bronze, very small, but of elegant workmanship, eight inches high, by six and one-half across, and bears on the surface the image of San Miguel, to whom it is dedicated, and the letter F in old gothic. From this Gothic F, it is inferred that it was a girt to Columbus from Ferdinaud of Spain, husband of Queen Isabella. When the historian and antiqurian shall have passed their opinion upon this relic, it may be predicted that few objects pertaining to our early history will surpass it in interest.

Traces of the American Express Robbers Discovered. UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 4.-Three of the express bags, several boxes, packages and envelopes secured in the American Express robbery between here and Little Falls last Wednesday, were found in a field at Harbor, four miles east of this city, today. One of the bags was for Watertown, and contained money, envelopes addressed to banks in Adams and Watertown. One envelope was marked $5,000, and several of the boxes had contained diamonds, watches and silverware, as shown by the way-bills. All of the packages had been rifled.

York Democrats Use Queen Means to Get Votes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.-At a meeting of the Central Labor federation, tonight, the delegates of the Cloakmaker's union reported that efforts had been made on the part of the executive committee of their union to have their leader, Rheingold, pardoned from prison by the governor which had been promised them if their union would endorse the state ticket of the democratic party. This tatement caused a great sensation, sharp discession. A committee was appointed to find out the truth of the matter.

Doane College Notes. CRETE, Neb., Oct. 4 .- | Special to THE BEE.]-Visitors to the college will find much to interest them. The fountain given by the class of 1890 is a new feature in the beautiful college campus. The biological frog pond in the neighboring ravine is very attractive to small boys. Lawn tennis courts come in for a good share of attention.

The scientific department is receiving en-largement in the addition of tables, cases, dissecting and analyzing instruments and choice microscopes from Germany. Every biological student has his own classroom kit of tools. He is further expected to carry a pocket magnifier and to put it and his scien ific spirit of research to constant use. Foraging parties are organized in the iu-terest of science to ransack the fields, ra-terest of science to ransack the fields, ravines and out-of-the-way places and to dredge rivers and ponds. There are rich captures of botonical and animal life. The list of known plants is being extended.

Clams and crawfishes, however unwilling,
are compelled to yield up their secrets.
Timid girls attack spiders and fierce beeties.
The pursuit of the upspringing grasshopper adds diversion. Collections of moths and butterfies remind one of the latest fashion butterflies remind one of the latest fashion plates, in which Parisian styles are thrown

But Oh! The appetite which the young explorers, boys and girls, brought back-ar appetite which shortly recovers the energy after the first substantial meal and often survives the first good nights' rest. Everything goes by clock work. Electric bells in connection with the sideral clock, ring the hour for rising in both college buildings half past 6. Electric bells summen to breakfast 7 o'clock. It is a pleasure to see the youn men and young ladies enter the dining hall, stand at the back of their chairs and at the electric signal taxe their seats at the tables with military promptness. There are eight tables and seven or eight at a table. They are about equally represented at each table. Each table has its recognized head. There are those who serve the food and those who act as waiters. Every month the lot is cas for re-seating and the waiting is by turns There is this admirable opportunity to make acquaintance and to acquire skill in serving. It is a mooted question whether the boys or girls make better waiters. There is order and decorum and the hum of pleasant voices indicates that all are having a good time Said a gentleman day before vesterday who has often taken meals in this college dining hall, "I would rather my son should board here than in any private family in town." Electric bells summon to dinner and to tea They give the signal for the opening of the chapel exercises. They call and dismiss the class through the day. Later in life, if not always now, these electric bells will have a music all their own, reminding of the form-ing of habits of promptness and of delightful associations. There has been such a demand for thes branches that an experienced typewriter and stenographer has just been employed to open up this new department October 1.

The college is prepared to furnish a thor-ough musical education in harmony, pipe and pedal organs, piano, voice, violin and guitar. An elementary choral class meetevery Wednesday for the study and practice of sight reading. Much attention is given to the training of a large church choir. These classes are free to all students. Military drill has its charms. At the request of the volunteer company the faculty has made the drill compulsory when once the student has enrolled. Soon there will be camping out on the river for a taste of gen-nine military service.

not a few, and the telescopic view of the moon or of Jupiter with his accompanying worlds is not soon forgotten. Had we mind telescopes we should be able to see still fairer worlds revolving in the minds of advanced college students. September Weather.

The report of the Weather bureau for the station at Omaha during the month of September shows some interesting facts. For that period the maximum temperature was 90° and the minimum 46°. The mean temperature was higher than during any month since 1871. The total precipitation for the month was 1.76 inches. FOREIGN FINANCIAL REVIEW.

Discount Hardened Materially During the

CLOSING QUOTATIONS ENCOURAGING.

Past Week.

Advances, However, Not Sufficient in Many Instances to Cover Previous Falls-Full Details of the Increases.

LONDON, Oct. 4. - Discount hardened during the week, the closing quotations being 3 per cent for three months and 1% per cent for short. Some houses, being convinced that the Bank of England rate will be raised next Thursday, refused paper under 314 per cent. Every department of the Stock exchange was quiet until Friday, when Wall street's turn for the better sharply enlivened dealings. Throughout the recent depression in Amer ican railway securities there has been a steady undercurrent of investing, the moneyed public apparently having a firm belief that the prosperity of the United States will be fully as great as optimistic reports assert. Only speculative operators had slackened off and they resumed operations on Friday. Business increased yesterday and there was a fresh start upwards, which seemingly promises to be prolonged in an important movement. The closing quotations were the highest of the week, although in a number of instances the advances were not sufficient to cover previous falls. The week's increases include: Lake Shore, 24, per cent; Central Pacific, 11, per cent; Denver & Rio Grande preferred, 1 per cent; New York, Ontari & Western and Norfolk & Western preferred, one-half of 1 per cent each. De-creases: Atchison, 1% per cent; Wanash preferred, 1% per cent; Union Pacific, 1 per cent; Northern Pacific, three-fourths of 1 per cent; Louisville & Nashville and New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio, one-half of 1 per cent each.

Canada securities shared in the fluctuation, being depressed early in the week and then recovering later. Grand Trunk second prefrecovering later. Grand Trunk second preference closed I per cent higher and Grand Trunk first and third preferred one-haif of I per cent higher. Mexican railways were sold heavily, firsts declining three-fourths of I per cent second 2½ per cent and ordinary 1½ per cent. English railways were weak throughout, with relapses averaging I per cent to 1½ per cent. Germans' Day At New York. New York, Oct. 4 .- A grand festival was held by New York Germans today in Carnegie's new music hall, in commemoration of the landing of the first German emigrants on American soil from the sailing vessel Concord from Amsterdam, which reached Philadelphia on October 8, 1663. The festivat was under the auspices of the principal German societies of New York and Brooklyn and the Deutcher club of Hoboken, William Stein-way presided. The various singing societies ened the meeting with Beethoven's "Die

Riihman Des Ewiger Ehreut."

Hon. Carl Schurz delivered an address German. It was his purpose, he said, to show by history the patriotic devotion and general usefulness of Germans in the material development of this country and in civil-leation; what they have done to introduce and develop music and art. They are faithful, devoted, useful citizens and the preservation of the German language is no menace to American institutions. He urged upon his countrymen not to maintain a distinct nationality, but to merge into an American life, imparting their own good qualities and taking from others such as they were lacking in. Mr. Park Godwin also spoke. "German was the dominant theme of his dis-What the Greeks were the Germans are, though centuries have intervened.

Economy in Cigars. Rochester Democrat and Chroniele: A well known business man walked into a cigar store the other morning and took out two coins. One was a dollar and the other a half dollar. He said them both down on the case and pointed to a box of imported cigars, saying: "Give me a dollar's worth of those," The clerk handed them out and the buyer laid the six that he wanted in a row along the case. Then he said to the clerk: "Give me half a dollar's worth of any good five-cent cigar." The clerk did as hewas bid and the five-centers were laid along in a row also. The gentleman then took the row of imported cigars and cut the ends off of them all. Then he mixed the five-centers and the twen-

y-centers up together and put them all into his capacious vest pockets. A friend who was standing near, and who had watched the operation with a good deal of curiosity, said: "Where fore?" "Simply this, my boy." replied the man addressed. "I am in a business where I have to give away a good many cigars. I am a man who likes a good cigars. I cannot afford to give away the kind of cigars that I smoke myself, so I buy a day's supply and cut the ends off. Then I buy some cheap ones. When it is necessary for me to give away a cigar I pull out a handfull and offer one to the person, whoever he may be. He thinks that the ones with the ends cut off I have had in my mouth, and takes one of the cheap ones, whereby I save a good many dollars in the course of a year and also keep myself on good terms with the people to whom it is necessary to give cigars."

What Reeps Women Young. A woman is happy just in proportion she is content, writes Edward W. Bok in the September Ladies' Home Journal. The sun has a way of changing the spots upon which it shines. Especially is this true of our land, where | tors who bind them in the ties of matrione is up today and down tomorrow, and | mony. vice versa. The wisest woman is she who trusts in a tomorrow, but never looks for it. To sit down and wish that this might be, that that would be different, does a woman no good. It does ner harm in that it makes her dissatisfied with herself, unpleasant to her friends, and makes her old before her time. Happiness is not always increased in proportion to enlarged success. may sound like an old saw, and I think it is, but there is a world of wisdom in nany an old proverb just the same. Con

AN ANCIENT RACE.

Remnants of a People Who Flourished Ten Thousand Years Ago.

The Guanches, the inhabitants of the Canary islands, are said to be the remnants of the ancient race who 10,000 venrs ago peopled the drowned continent of Atlantis. They are reported to have been strong and handsome and of extraordinary agility of movement, of remarkable courage and of a loyal disposition; but they showed the credulity of children and the simple arrectness of shepherds. So tall where they that the Spaniards speak of them as giants, and their strength and endurance were so great that they were conquered by strategesm, but not by force. as fast as horses and could leap over a pole held between two men or six feet high; they could climb the highest mountains and jump the deepest ravines. Their endurance as swimmers was so great that they were accustomed to swim across the nine miles strait between the Lancerote and Graciosa; having no boats their method of fishing was to strike the fish with sticks or catch them in their hands while swimming. The skulls, which are preserved in the nuseums of the island, show marked cerebral development, the frontal and parietal bones being well developed and the facial angle good. In the early days of the conquest, before rapine and mur-der had done their vile work, the Guanches are spoken of as being musical and fond of dancing and singing. These arts, together with those of basket weaving and pottery making, were a few relics of a great and remote civilization, and were preserved in the same way as if Europe were submerged the shepherds of the Tyrol, the Alps and the Pyrenees would preserve the naional airs and village dances of their respective countries. The Guanches were, it is supposed, but the mountain shepherds of a submerged world. Though so strong physically, the Guanches were nevertheless a very gentle race; they rarely made war on one another, and when the Europeans ell into their hands they did not kill them, but sent them to tend shoep on the mountains. So tame were the birds in this happy land that when the Spaniards first landed they came and fed out of their hands. To kill an animal degraded a man; the butcher was a reprieved criminal and an outcast, and lived apart, he and his assistants being supported by the state. No woman was illowed to approach the shambles, and in such horror was killing held by these gentle giants that no man could be enobled until he had publicly declared that he had not been guilty of killing iny animal, not even a goat. Their standard of morality was high; robbery was almost unknown among them, and drunkenness not yet invented.

TRICKING THE PARSONS. Gay Deceivers Escape Paying the Marriage Fee.

Every now and then one hears of large fees paid to clergymen by rejoicing bridegrooms, says the New York World. One does not so often hear of the impositions sometimes put upon those who tie the matrimonial knot and who suffer under the social custom which forbids a minister to perform the service of marrying lovers at a fixed rate stipulated for by contract.

But love and marriage do not change the nature of men, and there are meanvery mean--bridegrooms who do not hesitate to trick and cheat the good pas

There is a minister in Brooklyn who told the writer a harrowing tale of de ception of which he was the victim After he had performed the marriage ceremony for a young couple at the par sonage, the bridegroom slipped a fat envelope between the leaves of family bible, nodding pleasantly, as if to say: "You've well carned it." The This clergyman nodded thankfully.

is wealth. Please don't squander this.
Wipe your razor on it.' "
"I think," said the dominic, "that ministers should be empowered to declare some marriages vold.' Dr. Howard, whom everybody in Flat-bush, L. I., wil remember, had a similar experience. He was routed out at mid night to marry a couple and was compelled to arouse his family to act at witesses. He was given a fat package by the bridegroom upon the latter's departure. The good doctor spent half an hour or so unwinding paper after paper from that package, only to find at last a silver quarter which had been used as a sleeve button. One face had been ground

Dominie Johnson, whom old Brooklynites will recollect, was "taken in" ice in much the same way. A would be Benedict wrote to him to engage his services in tying the matrimonial knot and hinted that he was saving a roll of $5 gold pieces with which to fee the

"An evening or two later," said the elergyman, in telling the story, "he honored me with a call. He was accompanied by one of the pretties little women I ever saw. I poformed the ceremony, and he insisted upon my kissing the bride. He made an officious display of a long thin roll well wrapped in tin foll, and as I bowed him out he slid it slyly into my slde pocket. When I returned to my library examined the roll and found-"What?"

"A clothespin surrounded with tenpenny nails! A month or two afterward he wrote to me from St. Louis saying that he had charged me the wedding fee I was to have received for kissing his bride.

"There is a halter awaiting that knave," concluded the clergyman warmly, "and I never read of a hanging that I do not wonder if he isn't the victim traveling to glory under an alias. A clergyman who once held a charge near Wyandotto, Kas., was given a horse and carriage by a couple whom he had just married. They had driven to his parsonage from Wichita and they left by train. Soon afterwards the parson drove his new horse to Wichita. "I didn't get back for a week," said the clergyman, shaking his head dole-fully. "The man not only stole the woman, but the horse and wagon from her husband, and the rig was recognized and I was clapped into jail on a charge of horse stealing. Of course everything was finally straightened out, but somehow or other I could never make up my mind to forgive that man." James Whitcomb Riley Abroad. "My first trip abroad," says James Whiteomb Riley, "taught me that the United States is a very nice country in which to live. England, Ireland and Scotland are very picturesque, but some of the famous old historical spots are marred by the presence of modern improvements, including the intensely modern guide, who invariably uses bid English and lies to you about a thing whose history is well known to the average American, For instance, at Avon you can learn a good dea more about Shakespeare's inner life than is set down in books. You would be surprised to learn that people there know descendants of the great bard who are still living. I offered a substantial bribe to a man who made such a claim to produce one of said relatives. But of course he couldn't do it. He was just lying because he thought I was an American, and therefore a fool. Another striking feature of English
