The republican city convention assembled In Washington hall yesterday morning at 10:35. The call had been issued for 10 o'clock, but a large number of the delegates were on hand before that hour. The gathering was called to order by D. H.

Mercer, chairman of the republican city committee. He suggested that the delegates take seats near the stage and that the spectators move to the rear. The suggestion was compiled with.

Chairman Mercer then said:

Chairman Mercer then said:
Gentlemen of the convention: We have before us this day a most impartial duty. It will be necessary for every delegate in this convention to consult the interests of the city of Omaha, in his every action and in his every yote. This should be a truly deliberate body. We should hasten slowly. It will be necessary for us to look at all phases of this campaign, realizing the effect the nominations today will have upon the county tleket, upon the state ticket and upon the judicial ticket, with reference to Bougias county.

If the republican party of the city of Omaha, in convention assembled today, exercises its usual wisdom, its usual discretion, we will not yearet the action of a single delegate on the floor of this convention.

Secretary Thompson then read the call for the convention.
On motion of B. H. Robison of the Fourth ward Charles J. Greene was elected temporary chairman.

Mr. Greene was received with cheers and

Mr. Greene was received with cheers and spoke as follows:

I shall content myself, gentlemen of the convention, with simply thanking you for the honor which you have conferred upon me. It presses upon the conscience of every delegate that he has, at this hour and moment, the opportunity of namins the next mayor of the city of Omaha. [Applause.] But it is also evident, and painfully so, that that result can only be reached as stated by the chairman of the central committee, by the most careful and deliberate consideration of all the forces, of all the circumstances and conditions which press upon this hour.

Men must bury their individual preferences. Factional strife must be put in the background, and each man upon the floor of the convention must act, not only as a patriot, but as a true republican. [Applausel. If you will do that for once I have no hesitancy in predicting a glorious success at the polls, which means republican government in Omaha, and all the moral influences which go out from such a position in the grand and supreme struggle that is approaching at the means regulation in the grand and supreme struggle that is approaching at the means the floor of the preme struggle that is approaching at the manner of the honor, I how await your pleasure.

B. H. Robison nominated Cadet Taylor for sacretary and the nomination was reti-Spoke as follows:

At the auggestion of D. H. Mercer the chairman of each delegation handed the secretary the ward credentials.

The list was read. No contests were disovered and the delegates as announced were accredited to the convention and a recess was taken till 2 p. m.

Strang Men Caucus. Late Friday night the Strang delegates assembled in the cafe of the Paxton hotel. It was the same old place in which the Twentyeighters were born. Broatch, John Clark and their faithful followers were there.

All night long the wigll was kept, trusty All night long the vigil was kept, trusty messengers being sent hither and thither to endeavor to secure votes for Strang. People were called out of their beds and importuned to join the for-iorn nope. In some cases, the attempt forn nope. In some cases, the attempt was attended with success, but in most cases the sleepy delegates who had other favorites than Strang refused to join the noc-turnal watches. In this manner the night passed and morning found the Strang men tired, anxious, excited and despairing. In this mood they entered the After recess had been taken the old com-hine and the Strangites again assembled in the Paxton care for the purpose of naming if possible a successor to Strang, who it was decided should withdraw from the mayoralty race. There was a long jangle and at 1 o'clock in the afternoon the doors were opened and the delegates scattered.

The caucus had agreed to support George P. Bemis before the convention.

Bemis Named for Mayor.

The convention reassembled at 2 p. m On motion of General George Smith, Ralph Breckenridge was elected permanent chair-man, and Cadet Taylor permanent secre-

On motion of John Jenkins, J. B. Piper was elected assistant secretary.

B. H. Robison moved they proceed to the call of wards for the selection of mayor. The motion prevailed. The first ballot was decided to be a formal one. The call then pro

The First ward passed, as did also the When the Third was reached the First announced its readiness to vote and cast seven votes for Bemis. The Second then gave seven votes to Governor Saunders The Third was passed. The Fourth, Fifth Sixth, Eighth and Ninth wards gave seven votes each for Bemis, the Seventh ward passing. By this time the Third was ready o vote and cast one vote for Bemis and si for Swobe. The Seventh then voted giving seven for Bemis.

The result of the vote was declared as follows: Bemis, 50; Saunders 7, and Swobe 6. Mr. Bemis was declared the nominee of the convention.

John T. Clark moved to make the nomina tion of Mr. Bemis unanimous. The motion was seconded, but was greeted with loud and determined cries of "No, no, no," from the Second ward. The motion was put to the house and Morris Morrison of the Second

The Second ward protests, because this nom-ination was made not in this hall, but in the Paxton hotel, from which a large number of the delegates were excluded. The chair ruled Mr. Morrison out of order warders protested against the nomination of Mr. Bemis being made unanimous.

John Groves for Clerk. Charles T. Greene nominated John Groves for city clerk, P. C. Smith, Harry Couns-man and Robert Armstrong were also placed n nomination. Seven ballots were taken After the fourth ballot had been taken John T. Clark said that in recognition of the large element of the republican party to which Mr. Groves belonged, and also in recognition of the fact that he had made a capable and accommodating clerk, the gen-tieman should be renominated for his present

The fifth ballot resulted as follows Groves, 29; Smith, 14; Counsman, 11, and Armstrong, 20. Sixth: Groves, 31; Smith, ; Armstrong, 25. After the last mentioned allot had been taken, Mr. R. D. Duncan of the Fourth said:

In regard to the statement made as to the In regard to the statement made as to the position of the republican party with respect to a certain element which has come in at a late hour, disorganizing our forces and causing Irishmen almost to a man to threaten to desert the party, I say it is right now for this convention to recognize the fact that John Groves is a representative Irishman and nominate him. [Applause.]

J. Redman-Is this an Irish convention or an American convention! [Cries of "Si The Chair-This is an American convention and a republican convention. Charies J. Greene then said:

I suppose this is a convention of Americans. [Cries. yes; that's right!] That does not mean born Americans, but Americans who live in of polities the republican party can afford to have it said of it that it does not include one of the most patriotle and loyal Irishmen in the country. [Hear, hear, and applause.] I have had few words with Mr. Groves, never having spoken to him twenty times in my life. But I recognize the fact that for many years he has faithfully served the people of this But I recognize the fact that for many years he has faithfully served the people of this county, and he has a so performed the duties of his office in an acceptable and able manner, and it is politics now to recognize men Irre-spective of their conditions or their races, but simply recognize that they are here with as and for us. [Appiause,] The seventh ballot was then taken. Groves received 32 votes, the majority of 63 votes, the total number cast, and Armstrong 31. On motion of Mr. Gring the nomination of Mr. Groves as declared by the chair was nade unanimous. Mr. Groves was catled and, speaking in a low tone, his words were lost, owing to the bustle and excitement of the delegates. He thanked the convention for his nomination and promised to perform the duties of his office with the greatest fidelity and devotion.

Treasurer and Comptroller.

Henry Boiln, William Coburn, David Jamieson and Richard Smith were nominated for the position of city treasurer. But one ballot was required, Bolla receiving 32 votes, majority, Coburn 18, Smith 7 and Jamie

Mr. Bolln's nomination was made unanimous. The nomines thanked the convention for the nomination.

For the office of comptroller the following were named: Jerome Coulter, John B. Evans, Theodore Otsen and J. B. Piper Four ballots had to be taken. On the third Oleson was declared nominated, having received 32 votes, Evans 23, and Coulter 8 Mr. Oleson was about returning his thanks when Mr. Free of the Ninth ward said:

I protest against the vote of the Ninth ward. My vote was for Coulter, instead of This brought an explanation from Charles Unitt, the chairman of the delegation in question. He said:

I desire to state in behalf of myself, that I passed along the line and understood them to say to give our vote to Oleson.

Another ballot was ordered with the following result: Oleson, 51; Evans, 10; Coul

After Oleson's nomination had been made unanimous the gentleman spoke as follows: I thank you most heartly for this vote you have given me and I wish to assure you that I I am elected, which I hope to be, I will serve you well and faithfully. I will simply remark that I do not want any vote unless it is straight. I would have to decline if there was any doubt at all about it.

Now, as far as this election is concerned, my impression is that if we keep on the way we have been doing through the county election and in this, and our friends, the democrats, will keep on in the same way we will carry the day gentiemen. [Applaus.]

For Police Judge.

The following gentlemen were placed in nomination for police judge: John L. Carr, Judge Lee Helsley and L. H. Berka. In support of Judge Heisley and with reference to certain opposition which had recently been urged against that gentleman, Charles J.

I believe that a man who has held an office once and done his duty well should be called to fill it another term. I am aware that there is some opposition against Judge Helsley on account of what has been conceived a mistake in judgment with reference to a case before him recently. While I am not here to say whether he has made a mistake or not. I assert that all over this country judges are daily and hourly making very serious mistakes as I have had occasion to know in cases of mine. [Laughter.] Now, we piant ourselves upon the rock of fair piay. I appeal to you not to oust a man simply because in the administration of justice for two long years he has made a mistake. If his heart is in the right place, if his heart is in the right place, if he is trying to do well, why, forgive him the mistake, and perhaps he will do better afterwards. Now, Lee Helsley is a young man who has grown up in our midst. I think a citizen of the state of Ohio originally; a young man who has rown up in our midst. I think a citizen of the state of Ohio originally; a young man who has always been faithful to the party; who has been a 'hewer of wood and a drawer of water;' who has never, in season or out of season, in sunshine or shade, turned his back either upon his cause or his friend; loyal to the court; carnest in all he undertakes; and we cannot afford here and now to outs him, or to pile upon him the humiliation of rejection, when he has done us so much good. I hope, gentlemen, he will be nom-I believe that a man who has held an office inated today in accordance with the tradi-tions of this party. [Applause,] On the first ballot Berka received 34 votes, Helsley 28 and Carr 1. Berka was declared nominated unanimously and being called for said: Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention—I can truly say that I have not solicited a single vote | A voice: "But you got it." of any man on this floor or a member of this convention [A voice: "That's right."] or of any man in the city of Omaha. [A voice: "That's right."] So I can say in the true sense of the word that I have not been a candidate. But, when you gentlemen, representatives of the people, acting in your delegated capacity, have nominated me. I feel that I must accept, ["Hear, hear."] for I believe that when the representatives of the people nominate a person it is the act of the people itself and the voice of God. I thank you gentlemen, for the nomination. I know I will perform the duties of police judge to the best of my ability. While it is true, and has been said, that men are not the most perfect, and there are errors made, indeed I venture to say that I have been there myself. There is no man that is perfect, gentlemen, and you should not, it I am elected, which I expect to be, think that I ought to be infallible. [Applianse.] Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Cor plause.]

For Members of the Board of Education:
JACOB HOUCK, M. EFFINGER,
C. E. BABCOCK, P. A. BEGLEY,
SAMUEL REES. The democratic city convention was called to order at 1:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Germania hall by Charles Connover, chairman of the city central committee, who read the call for the convention. Con V. Gallagher nominated Hon. Warren Switzler for temporary chairman. After slight opposition he was chosen. Messrs. C. S. Whitney and Phil McShan e were elected secretaries. Fun Commenced Early.

The reading of the name of J. E. Boyd as proxy for C. E. Coggeshall of the Fourth ward, was received with applause. It was whispered that the change was made for purpose of having ex-Governer Boyd nominate Ogden for mayor.

A Seventh ward delegate objected to any proxies, but the names as read by the secre retary were ordered accepted.

A motion to make the temporary organization permanent was the first sign of impending battle.
Gallagher put the question and declared it carried, but Birkhauser stormed and pro-tested, and Peter Eisasser declared by all the gods that such a ruling "didn't go.

Birkhauser nominated T. J. Lowry and a call of wards was demanded on the vote. It resulted, Switzler 33, Lowry 29, the latter gentleman declining to vote. The announce-ment was received with loud yells and wild motion to adjourn until 5 o'clock was burried with a tnunderous hoop, and the nomination of city officers was declared in

They Made Much Noise.

Ex-Governor Boyd secured a recognition and in a short speech placed in nomination for mayor Charles H. Ogden, declaring that he people wanted good government no matter by whom administered. The mention of Ogden's name was the signal for tumultuous applause.
P. W. Birkhauser followed with a reference to German day, and presented the name of Henry Osthoff. A howl went up from the supporters of the Fifth ward councilman The name of Hon. Patrick Ford was subitted by the Third ward. On motion of G. W. Tierney the first ballot was declared informal in all cases where there were two or more candidates, and on motion of Mr. Morrissey the votes were to be taken on call of the wards, the response

The nominations for mayor were declared loses and the convention proceeded to ballot The informal ballot resulted as follows: Ford, 14; Osthoff, 81; Ogden, 18, Mr. Ford was given the floor and he withdrew his name in favor of Ogden. The con-vention went wild, as it had been currently reported that he would withdraw in favor of

had not been announced the nominal made by acclamation. It went with a whoop, and Osthoff was boosted upon the stage to express his thanks. He denounced the report circulated last evening that he had tied up with certain contractors, and promised a clean business administration if elected.

These Came Easy. For city clerk there were five nominations Thomas Bermingham, George Sternsdorff, Thomas Tuttle, J. A. Linahan and Jerome Pentzel.
The second formal ballot gave Berming-ham, 24; Linahan, 38; and the latter was declared nominated. C. V. Galiagher nominated J. H. Hungate Rustin, and the other nominations were W. A. Gardner, C. S. Wnitney and Samuel Cotfor treasurer, P. Elsasser named C. ner. The informal ballot gave Hungate 23,

Rustin 11, Whitney 3, Gardner 7, Cotner 19, On the second formal ballot there was a stampede to Cotner, who received 42 votes and was declared the nominee. His nomina-tion was made unanimous. He thanked the For comptroller, F. R. Morrissey nom nated Louis Heimrod, asking that he be nominated by acclamation Joseph Garneau, jr. named Fred J. Borthwick of the Ninth ward. The formal ballot gave Heimrod 50, Borth-wick 13, and Heimrod's nomination was made manimous.

For police judge Peter Eisasser named Thomas Capek. Joseph Garneau, jr., named P. A. Gavin. The names of John P. Davis, Charles E. Lee and E. C. Shaw were also presented. The informal bailet gave Capek 6; Gavin, 22; Davis, 9; Lee, 3; Shaw, 4. Lee withdrew his name and the formal ballot resulted as follows: Capek, 33; Gavin, 19; Davis, 4; Wappich, 7. The Eight ward cast seven votes for Wappich, but it elicited a kick because he was not a candidate be-fore the convention. The nomination was made unanimous.

Rothery's Round.

The next on the list to be nominated were nine councilmen at large. Frank Morrissey wanted them elected one at a time, each ward in its order to name its candidate. This net with the approval of the convention.

A Third warder wanted a ten minute recess, but it wasn't popular.

The First ward through T. J. Lowry named J. J. Kennedy. The rules were suspended and he was nominated by acclamation. The Second ward through P. Elsasser named James Donneily, sr. The same course was followed.

The Third ward presented the name of Ed.

Rothery. A motion to nominate by accla-mation was vehemently opposed, but the mo-tion obtained a majority vote. A Third ward delegate objected to outside interference and claimed the nomination by custom. Con Galiagher said the custom was more bonored in the breach than in the observ-ance, and insisted that a good and satisfactory man should be nominated or he would be defeated as he ought to be. As the rules were suspended a motion was made that Rothery be declared nominated by acclamation. Pat Ford purloined the oor long enough to put in a word in favor of Rothery.

The wards were called on the motion to iominate by acctamation and resuited no 28

ye 35, Henry Richard was then named as Rothery's opponent, and as there were two candidates for a nomination by accismation, call of wards was ordered taken. The Rothery men had the call, and after several changes the result was announced Rothery, 62; Richard, 1; and the former was declared

Frank Morriscy's Portion.

The Fourth ward presented the name of The Fourth ward presented the name of Henry Hornberger. Bill Hoye was also named. The informal ballot gave Horn-berger, 14; Hoye, 49. The formal ballot gave floruberger, 15; Hoye, 49, and the latter was declared the nominee umid wild yells, shricks and whistles.

Morrissey protested that the nominotion was illegal, as the nomines did not live in the Fourth ward, but he was hissed down. A motion to make it unanimous carried in spite of the opposition of the Fourth ward.

The Fifth ward named Ed. J. Brennan. and he was nominated by acclamation The Sixth ward submit ed the names of Morrissey raised a whoop when he nominated Henry Hornberger as the representative of the Sixth ward. The informal ballot gave Wigg, 21; Devries, 11; Patrick, 17; Hornberger, 14, On the formal ballot Wiggs received 19; Devries, 7; Patrick, 55. Before the call was completed Morrissey withdrew the name of Hornberger. Patrick was declared the nominee, the nomination being made unanimous.

Morearty then Disappeared. The Seventh ward named Ed E. Howell Morrissey again named Hornberger, William Butts was also mentioned. Ed Morearty tried to say something, but was called down as he was not a delegate. An appreciative spectator sung out: "Are you there spectator sung out: "Are you there Morearty!" but the Seventh ward councilman did not deign a reply. The informal ballot gave: Howell, 49; Hornberger, 7; Butts, 7. On the formal ballot Howell received 45; Butts, 18; and Howell was declared the nominee.

The Eighth ward named James P. Connolly and Fred C. Weymuller. The informat bal lot gave: Connolly, 37; Weymuller, 26. The formal ballot gave: Connolly, 41; Weymuller, 22; and the former was declared the nominee.

The Ninth ward named S. W. Simpson, Frank D. Cooper and Donnis Pitzpatrick. The informal ballot was evedly divided, but the formal ballot resulted; looper, 41; Fitzpatrick, 1; and Cooper was declared the victim. Winding Up the Work.

The nomination of members of the school board was then in order, and on motion of Mr. Gallagher the convention organized itself into a convention of the school district of Omaba in order to comply with the law, The same officers were elected but it was found necessary to make a change in order that the chairman and secretaries might pre-pare the certificates of the nominees to ge them in the hands of the county clerk by 5 o'clock, the latest hour allowed by law. C. V. Gallagher was elected chairman and J. P. Connolly secretary.
