The Meyer Hellman Reception-A High Tea in Kountze Place-Dinner and Card Parties -Movements.

Socially the week has been a very quiet one, two or three receptions, several card parties and one or two luncheons being the extent of fashion dissipation. There are signs, however, which indicate that the season from this on will be more brilliant than the leaders anticipated at the beginning of autumn. A number of elaborate events are taixed about, and several houses will be thrown open this year that remained dark last season.

The ultra fashionable set is coming back to town rapidly, and by December the upholsterer, decorator and utility man will be through their work, and entertaining may be expected to begin. While the weather has been so pleasant everything has tended to delay the season. For instance, a group of young men planning for an event to take place during the winter found it impossible to come to any definite scedule, because most of their fellows could not be brought to their meeting and, moreover, the matrons upon whom they depended largely for aid and advice were so scattered that there was no means of consulting them.

The event of greatest importance this week is the reception which will be given Senator Charles F, Manderson and Mrs. Manderson by Mr. and Mrs. J. N. H. Patrick at Happy Hailow, Wednesday evening. Upwards of 500 invitations have been issued and the reception will be upon an elaborate scale in keeping with the distin-guished guest who is president protem of the United States senate and one of the best known men in official life.

A novelty in table decoration introduced by a New York club man at a recent dinner is to group the wine bottles on the table after the English fashion and have them draped in tulle covered with violets and sprays of ferns. Around the neck of each botile a pink rosebud is tied with a blue ribbon. Blue and violet in combination are the autumn colors

The Metropolitan club will give a series of hops after they get into their pretty club house now building on Harney street. At least that is the talk among the club men as they meet over the card tables in their old rooms on Dodge street.

Some of the more enthusiastic Elks are agitating the question of monthly dinners to be held in the club house. Nothing elaborate is designated, the only object being to get the "old fellows" to come out and meet the "young oucks" over the "walnuts and the wine." It is also suggested that some topic of discussion be arranged for in the line of the Sunset club of Chicago, of which the Sundown club here is a follower. It is an excellent idea and ought to be carried to a successful conclusion.

Meyer Hellman Reception.

The reception and card party given by Mr and Mrs. Meyer Hellman Tnursday afternoon and evening, was the destinctive social event of a rather quiet week. The reception in the afternoon was a brilliant affair and commemorated the twentieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Heilman, at the same time affording excellent opportunity to introduce Miss Blanche Heilman to the social life of Omaha, The Hellman residence at the head of St.

Mary's avenue and Twenty-fourth street is one of the handsome houses of the city. It is large and roomy, built after the style of the old southern houses which were so delightful a feature of the south land before the war changed the condition of the southerners and gave them newer ideas as to their establish-ments. It is an ideal home, surrounded by handsome, well kept grounds, planted with shrubbery, rare exotics, and made addition-ally attractive by the art of the landscape gar-dener. While there are more luxuriant nomes in Omaha, none afford so excellent an op-portunity for large entertaining that this portunity for large entertaining that this residence of one of Omaha's leading business men. Thursday afternoon the house looked particularly inviting, the rooms being pictures in their wealth of colors. Throughout the floral decorations were most elaborate, smilax serving as a background to the cut flowers which stood in rare vases, jardinieres and rose bowls in the drawing room, the parlor, music room and dining room. There parlor, music room and dining room. There was no attempt at lavish display, everything being in the most exquisite harmony. But the cining room and the table came in for universal praise from the ladies who were present. Never has it been the priviwere present. Never has it been the privi-lege of the writer to have seen a more per-fect table decoration than on this occasion. The Morsman Luncheon.

Mrs. E. M. Morsman gave on Thursday at 1:30, one of the pretuest luncheons of the season, the design being to bring together the hostess' young married friends, with a few unmarried people just to give spice to the delightful occasion. Small tables were scattered throughout the parlor and dining om and were artistically decorated with La France roses, maiden hair ferns and bands of pink ribbons. In addition to these there were pretty autumn flowers scattered throughout the rooms, which, with smilax, made a dainty picture. The talk was brilliant, a number of the guests being quite famous in the smart world for their wealth of wit and the snart world for their weath of wit and repartee. Among the guests were: Mesdames Dana Lauder, C. K. Coutant, C. E. Yost, Captain Burke, Aifred Millard, L. P. Funkhouser, George Stebbins, L. M. Bennett, C. For Art Lovers.

Omaha is gradually taking a position in the world of art which is extremely gatifying to the earnest well wishers for the bigher culture of the city. Eastern collectors are commencing to look Omahaward for a market and with the broadening influence which is at work, they are quite likely to meet with he success they deserve.

Mr. Walter H. Drant, one of the best known collectors of aquarelles, has opened a delightful collection of water colors by Amercan artists at the Paxton. In the selection of the subjects he has shown a reflued dis-ortmination, and as he has been engaged in the work of art for years, he may be regarded as a connoisseur in the profession.

Among the leading artists represented in the collection are: Fred S. Cozzens, whose yachts and sea scapes are unrivated by any of our American colorists; Percy Moran, yachts and sea scapes are unriviated by any of our American colorists; Percy Moran, whose work gives evidence of greatness and who suggests Messonnier in his treatment of lights and shades is represented by three pictures "An Afternoon Visit," "A Summer's Day," and the "Love Story," a gem in its way; Leon Moran is also seen at his best in a dainty bit which he felicitously calls "The Love and his Loss;" Carl Webber, whose marines are among the best by our native artists, has one one of the most striking pictures in the boliection, "Old Wreck at Cape May," A. T. Bricker, one of the leading New York colorists, has achieved renown in the local world by his "Showers at Salisbury Beach," an effective study of nature beautifully worked out. W. C. Fitler's "October Day" and Courtland Lake, N. Y," are airy and well conceived. E. M. Bricknell has a gem in "Barbazon," a painting which ought not to be allowed to leave Omaha. George Howell Gay, who starved for several years in Chicago, now one of the leading members of the New York secrety, of artists has in Chicago, now one of the leading members of the New York society of artists, has shown great ability in painting "Rocks at Whitehead, Cushing's Harbor," Jerome Ferris needs no extended mention, for he is at the head of our American school. Pratt and Cline. The marriage of Miss Edith M. Pratt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orlow H. Pratt, 212 South Twenty-fifth street, and Mr. Russell B. Cline of Kansas City, Mo., was solemnized on Wednesday evening at the resifence of the bride. The wedding was private, only relatives and near friends of the family being present. The bride was very dainty in a gown of pearl silk draped with lace. The bridesmaid, Miss N. R. Wood, wore a lovely pink creps, the groom being attended by Mr. John M. Welshans. After congratulations and refreshments, the bride and groom departed for their future home in Kansas City.

A Pleasant Surprise. A number of the little friends of Miss Fay Weible gathered at her home, 113 South Twenty-fourth street, Saturday afternoon and gave her a great surprise. They did not fail to bring a goodly supply of the dainty edibles which are children's chief delight, and all did ample justice to the cakes, fruits, confections and other sweets, with which they came laden. The afternoon was delightfully spent in childish games. The fol-lowing were the guests: Tillie Block, Mar-garet Phillippi, Ruby Benson, Jesse Cutler, Nellie Childs, Blanche Reed, Gertrude Ben-son, Jesse Johnston, Mary Griffin and Bertha Phillippi.

Calkins and Roberts. A very pretty wedding was that solemnized Wednesday evening at 2531 St. Mary's avenue, the contracting parties being Mr. C. F. Calkins and Miss Maud Roberts, Rev. Dr. Mann of Unity church officiating. The ceremony was witnessed only by the relatives of the parties in interest, after which a pleasant luncheon was served. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. De Roberts and is quite a pretty girl. Mr. and Mrs. Cal-kins will go to housekeeping at 2535 St.

The trip to Bellevue last Thursday was both pleasant and profitable to the Presbyterian pasters of Nebraska. Many of them had never visited the college and they went back to their fields of labor filled with re newed zeal for the cause of higher education. The excellent accommodations furnished at Elwina hall for young ladies struck the visitors with great favor. The hall is perfect in plan and arrangement for the comfort and convenience of the pupils. It will accommodate between thirty and forty young ladies. The rooms are of good size and are elegantly furnished. The college board has been furnished. The college board has been fortunate in securing the liberal assistance of a great many friends in the furnishing of of a great many friends in the furnishing of Elwina hall. The rooms have been furnished by the following parties: The library by Mrs. Meredith of Omaha; the parlor by Mrs. Frieda Linton, Brighton, England; the dining room by the First Congregational church of Omaha. Among the Neglected.
Rev. Charles W. Savidge has decided to establish a church for the poor in the old United Presbyterian edifice on Eighteenth street near Webster. He has purchased the building and will begin regular Sunday services there today. Rev. Savidge is deeply interested in the work of rescuing the downtrodden from the thralldom of sin and suffering, and if such a work as that which he has og, and if such a work as that which no has he is certainly the man who can accomplish
