

WHITECAPPED THE MINISTER.

Young Men Arrested for Trying to Tar and Feather Their Pastor.

THE PREACHER TOO SMART FOR THEM.

He Puts a Detective in His Pulpit Who Could Preach and Practice His Profession at the Same Time.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Oct. 23.—Rev. Arthur C. Hill, D. D., Stirling recently issued a complaint with the grand jury of Morris county, charging Herbert Gray Torrey, an employee of the United States assay office of New York; Gray Torrey, his son, Dick Thomas, Frederick Taft and others with conspiracy and assault. After a week's deliberation the grand jury has indicted those mentioned against, and has found an additional count against Herbert Gray Torrey and against Clarkson B. Moffett, one of the justices of the peace of Stirling for conspiracy.

The trouble between Dr. Hill and his neighbors is the outgrowth of a row in the Presbyterian church at Stirling. It was said that Dr. Hill manifested an over-zealous interest in certain women of his flock, and the report so circulated among the young men of the parish that they began a systematic campaign against the clergyman.

The scandal resulted in a hearing before Dr. White at that place for the district. Dr. Hill was asked to resign his charge. The young clergyman remained in Stirling after he had vacated his pulpit and defied his tormentors. The residents of Stirling who favored Dr. Hill procured a hall for him in which to hold services. He preached there for some time while the Presbyterian church pulpit was unoccupied.

In the mean time several young men, sons of members of Dr. Hill's former church, are said to have taken to the streets on Sunday night, and after painting the animal red, white and blue, led it away to a lonely spot where they set it on fire. Dr. Hill understood these attacks as pacts as he could and did not attempt to have his tormenters arrested.

Dr. Hill's brother, James B. Hill, is a New York lawyer. The staid residents of Stirling wondered why the lawyer did not come to his brother's rescue. Dr. Hill, however, quietly collecting evidence against the unsuspecting young countrymen. He had scouts out in all directions and affidavits were obtained from persons who knew of a plot to tar and feather Dr. Hill on the night of July 4.

Just about a month ago a handsome young clergyman came to visit Stirling. To one of the elders who entertained him the handsome stranger said he was a Presbyterian clergyman from Ohio. His speech was soft and his clothes were black. Would he preach in the Stirling church? With pleasure, nothing could exceed the young man's affability. He conducted the services with signal success. His sermon was a model for all preachers to follow. That evening the young man's question of compensation was broached to the handsome young pulpiteer. What? Pay him? Well, he would accept a trifling amount, say, you know, say, and the deacons felt that here was richness.

The young man preached for two successive Sundays and gave a great effect. He preached great truths while a dainty pair of steel bracelets lay hidden in his inside pocket. And after he had gone in and out among the people and visited them at their homes, and talked with them about everything they knew, he had found out just what he wanted to know—who the white caps and feathers had had to do with the tar and feathers to the Rev. Dr. Arthur C. Hill.

That night the young dominie dropped out of the clerical profession. He still wore a pair of steel bracelets, but he softly swung a pair of steel bracelets as he walked to the farm house where he was to spend the night. He was employed. Klemmertz was delighted when the new dominie invited him out for a walk. Klemmertz gasped when he saw the white caps when the parson swiftly slipped the handcuffs on his wrists and told him that the jail doors were open for all the fellows who had whitewashed dominie Hill. He was a very thankful fellow for mercy if he confessed. He told all he knew and submitted.

Another detective called on the sister of one of the accused young men, and before long was in possession of a receipt, the young lady held for a pair of steel bracelets which she had purchased. As soon as the Dill party had secured all the evidence necessary, four of those concerned were arrested. The witnesses further went out to the knowledge of the others. When the case was presented to the grand jury a great deal of contradictory evidence was given by the young men, who did not know of the existence of the affidavits. One of these affidavits alleged that on the afternoon of July 4, 1891, the witness, John H. Stirling, was approached by Gray Torrey, with whom he is also personally acquainted; that Gray Torrey said to him that he had a pair of steel bracelets to get some boys together that night and go over and catch Dr. Hill and the men in a sack and carry them over the mountains into the woods and tar and feather him and to leave him there. He declined being a part to the tar and feather business, but said he would be accused if he did not do as Gray Torrey had said to him that the boys would meet at the barn of Clarkson B. Moffett at 11 o'clock. Torrey said he intended to drive Dr. Hill out of the place.

Torrey further said to him that he had arranged with some of the parties identified to be present at that time and asked him to see Johnnie Ferris and request him to be present. This conversation occurred in the afternoon at about 2 o'clock. The witness further says he went to the barn of Clarkson B. Moffett in company with James Travis. A conversation occurred there in which it was ascertained that Fred Moffett was also there. Soon after Dick Thomas came with Gray Torrey's black horse. It was then proposed to tar and feather Dr. Hill, and there was some discussion with regard to what was to be done with him. Gray Torrey said he had repeated that he would not be a party to the tar and feather business, but would go and see how the affair turned out. Clarkson B. Moffett also said he thought it would be wise to tar and feather Dr. Hill because it might be discovered and would lead to serious consequences.

"After some discussion," the witness continued, "Gray Torrey left, telling us that he should meet at my house that evening about 11 o'clock. Torrey added that Dr. Hill could be caught between 11 and 12 o'clock that night. At that time I asked him if he would go with me to see Dr. Hill, and when Moffett knocked at the door Miss Catherine Boyle, with whom he boarded, answered. She said Dr. Hill was not at home and might not be that night. She asked who wished to see him and Moffett said August Walker.

"Then all hands hid under the shade of a cherry tree where Moffett said Dr. Hill would arrive about midnight. It was about midnight when Dr. Hill arrived and as soon as he approached the house one of the boys brandished a pistol in his face and cried, 'Halt, or I'll fire.' Dr. Hill retreated toward the house and the command was given again. 'Halt, or I'll fire.' Dr. Hill, on hearing the command a third time, turned back and ran into the house. Pistols were fired in the air and there was a great commotion. After the shooting was over, Dr. Hill was taken to the house of Mr. Herbert Gray Torrey and his wife, where what was going to occur, as both were present before we left Stirling."

Among others who testified before the grand jury were Rev. Dr. White of Summit and Rev. Dr. Erdman of Morrissett. A reporter called upon Herbert Gray Torrey at his office on Wall street. Mr. Torrey said he had been partly instrumental in bringing Dr. Hill to Stirling and had felt bound to be respectful to him. He said he was certain that at his house, where he was always welcome until it became known that he was guilty of indicting and was lowering himself by associating too freely with the silk mill girls. He did not speak to Dr. Hill any more after that and had forbidden him his house. He also worshipped elsewhere while Dr. Hill preached at Stirling. Herbert Gray Torrey will be tried on two indictments. The date for the trial has not been fixed.

BROUGHT IN A VERDICT.

Coroner's Jury Decides That Smith Was Feloniously Frightened.

The coroner's jury in the lynching case completed its work yesterday forenoon. Captain Cormack, Sergeant Ormsby and Officer Bloom were called as witnesses. The officers stated that they saw men pulling on the rope which suspended the colored man in mid-air, but they could not state who the parties were. Sergeant Ormsby said he knew the name of one man who had his hands on the rope but he did not know his name.

Following is the verdict of the jury. The jurors upon their oath do say that said George Smith, after he had been forcibly taken from the county jail by very persons to this jury unknown, came to his death from a blow which was struck by said persons, or about the hour of midnight, on October 4, 1891, at or near the northeast corner of Twentieth and Harvey streets, in the city of Omaha.

Wherefore we find that the said divers persons in taking the said George Smith into their custody for the purpose of lynching him, did feloniously and unlawfully kill and murder the said George Smith, to the evil example of all other persons, and in violation of the peace and dignity of the state of Nebraska.

Witnesses for the State: CHARLES H. SABINS, THOMAS SWIFT, W. W. HARRIS, ISAAC HOFFMAN, J. L. MOORE.

Trial of the Lynchers. The hearing of the case against the lynchers was begun in police court yesterday morning. The witnesses examined were some of the same ones who testified at the coroner's inquest and their evidence was substantially the same as elicited there.

All Hill of Beatrice was called and testified that he saw Jack Hiatt, one of the defendants, in Beatrice on the Sunday following the lynching, and the latter told him that he had been in several places while away, and was in Omaha Friday. He told the witness that he did not see the real executor but that he witnessed the hanging of the colored man.

Charles Wiseman, also of Beatrice, testified that he saw the same facts, and also overheard the conversation between Hiatt and Hill.

Mr. Bierbower then read a decree of the court modifying the order of sale in such a way as to permit the lynchers to file stipulations agreeing to accept securities of the road in payment of their claims and providing that the amount of cash required should be decreased by the amount of these claims.

The claims against the road amount to about $25,000. The receiver then called for bids and Mr. Wichersham bid $2,000,000. There was no other bidder. The order of sale was then made for the road to the Missouri Pacific, and the sale will probably be confirmed and the road turned over to the purchasers about November 1.

The Sioux City people present expressed a great satisfaction at the result of the sale. It was understood by them that the purchasers were backed by the Manhattan Trust company, and some of them expressed the opinion that J. M. Hill, the Great Northern man, had a hand in the matter. The fact that the traffic manager of the Sioux City & Northern road, who is present, added color to this theory, and the road will be under the control of the Great Northern if it is not owned outright by that company.

Bonds to the amount of $2,583,000 had been issued at about 65 cents, and Messrs. Garretson and Wichersham bought them in for 50 cents or less, making a nice little speculation.

PASSED INTO HILL'S HANDS.

The "Great Northern" Magazette Secures the Pacific Short Line.

ONE BID OF TWO MILLION DOLLARS.

Sioux City Capitalists, Backed by Hill and the Manhattan Trust Co., Buy Donald McLean's Nebraska Railroad.

The Pacific Short Line was sold at 11 o'clock yesterday morning to George W. Wichersham and A. S. Garretson, as trustees, for $2,000,000. These gentlemen represent the holders of the $2,583,000 in bonds of the road and are understood to be backed by the Manhattan Trust company of New York.

At 10 o'clock, the hour announced for the sale, the Sioux City Magazette, headed by A. S. Garretson, a banker and capitalist, gathered in the corridors of the federal building. Among those present were L. Wright, A. F. Hall, William Gordon of Sioux City, N. M. Hubbard, Jr., of Cedar Rapids, Hon. John M. Moran and Frank Hunt of South Sioux City.

E. P. Reynolds, jr., was there, representing E. P. Reynolds & Co., the contractors who graded the road, and who have a claim of $50,000 for labor. A few of the other claimants were also represented, but their number was not so great as on the former occasion when the sale was advertised.

J. V. Mahoney, traffic manager of the Sioux City & Northern road, was an interested spectator and also present. There was there to make close traffic arrangements with the purchaser of the Short Line.

It was nearly ten o'clock when Bierbower descended the stairs, accompanied by Mr. Wichersham, one of the attorneys representing the Manhattan Trust company, and George W. Stever of Oklahoma, the attorney of the Short Line.

Mr. Bierbower took a position at the north door of the federal building and read the order of sale, while a large crowd of people collected about the steps. The order of the court ordered the receiver to sell all the main line, side tracks, depots, rolling stock, franchises, etc., in Nebraska, and provided that not less than $300,000 of the purchase price should be in cash.

Mr. Bierbower then read a decree of the court modifying the order of sale in such a way as to permit the lynchers to file stipulations agreeing to accept securities of the road in payment of their claims and providing that the amount of cash required should be decreased by the amount of these claims.

of New York City, have been known for years as manufacturers of the Finest Clothing for Men made in the whole United States. Goods made by this concern were as well known to the clothing men of this country as Sapollo to the Belles of the Kitchen, or Pears' Soap to the belles of the parlor. For reasons not necessary to state at this time, this firm very recently resolved to dissolve partnership, close out their entire stock and go out of business. For a number of years we have been among the best customers that this house has had. Before this stock was offered to the general public, a few of the largest cash buyers in the land, among them our Mr. Strasburger, the member of our firm who lives in New York, and who is considered one of the best clothing buyers in this country, were invited to go through this magnificent stock, just manufactured for Fall trade, and make their selections. Mr. Strasburger made the largest purchase made by any one concern. He selected

THE CREAM OF THE STOCK.

He paid spot cash for the goods. He bought goods for less money than we were ever able to buy fine goods before. After these few buyers had culled over the entire stock and selected the good things, the balance of the stock was thrown on the market at auction. The reputation of this house was so great that these goods were eagerly snapped up, the bidding being so brisk that everything brought good prices, most of them full regular prices, and in many cases more than F. G. & Co. had ever asked for them. This immense purchase, which comprises the largest assortment of ever shown in this western world, is now on its way to Omaha, and will arrive in a day or two. In the meantime, in order to

FINE SUITS AND OVERCOATS
