PROMINENT BUSINESS MAN INVOLVED.

Crowded Thoroughfare the Scene of Attack-Causes Which Provoked the Affair-What the Victim's Friends Say.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 24 .- | Special to THE BEE.]-At 4 p. m., on the crowded thoroughfare of O street, near Fifteenth, Mr. J. R. Lemist, the well known coal dealer, was puoliely horsewhipped by Mrs. Hancock. Mrs. Hancock is a handsome, stylish appearing woman of about 23. Two years ago she was the wife of an estimable gentleman. But she met Lemist and forgot her obligations to ner husband. Mrs. Hancock says that he proposed that she leave her husband, get a divorce and he would marry her.

An excuse of some kind was trumped up against the unsuspecting husband and Mrs. Hancock left him, No pursuasion on Hancock's part could induce the woman to return to his home. The woman brought suit for a divorce and the husband seeing that she was determined on a complete separation, made no answer in the case, and the court granted the decree. The husband, almost heartbroken, abandoned his business and went to another state. Then she claims he refused to marry her. The woman waited for Lemist on O street with a horse whip concealed in the folds of her dress. When he appeared on the scene she cut him right and left over the face. He seized the instrument of torture and wrested it from her hands.

A number of Lemist's friends are endeavoring to keep the facts of the horsewhipping out of the papers. Some of them intimate that she was attempting blackmail. REWARD FOR NEAL'S ARREST.

M. J. Carey, an officer at Kansas City, claims the reward of $200 offered by the state for the arrest of Murderer Ed Neal. Mr. Carey was the gentleman who captured the murderer in Kansas City. Brief of the Attorney General in the Cases

Brought to Test Its Validity.

Secretary Blaine in Washington-Those Chinese Cases-The Minister from San Salvador-Military Posts Abandoned.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.-The brief for the United States in the cases of Boyd, Sutton & Co., Herman Sternbach & Co., and Marshall Field & Co., appellants, against the United States has been prepared by the attorney general. These are the cases in which the constitutionality of the McKinley bill are involved. They are among the cases set for hearing by the supreme court on the second Monday of November. Twenty appellants contend that the net is unconstitutional because of the ommission of the tobacco rebate clause in the bill as it was signed by the president after having been agreed to it conference and because it contains the pounty and reciprocity provisions.

Concerning the first contention, the attorney general traces the course of the law through its enrollment and signature by the presidents of both houses, its approval by the president and its deposit with the secretary of state, in whose office it is carefully pre-served, in obedience to express statutory injunction. This, he continues, is the ultimate and complete record of the proper and constitutional passage of the law as therein contained, and is the most appropriate evidence of which the court may take udicial notice in considering the existence and contents of the law, and is complete and regular, is not impeached by entries upon the legislative journais or other evidence incon-sistent therewith. Even if the eurolled act is but prima facie evidence of its existence and contents, there is no other record by which it may be impeached, except the journals of the two houses, and in the case at bar the journals do not show any discrepancy between the bill as it passed the two houses and the bill as it was approved. The evi-dence tending to show such discrepancy relied on by appellants, is in purole and cannot, therefore, be considered by the court, Conceding, however, the attorney general says, that the tobacco rebate section was omitted from the bill after its passage and before its approval by the president, as is claimed by the appellants, this fact would not render invalid the remainder of the bill. which did pass both houses and was approved by the president, for the reason that the re-bate section and the approved bill were separable and independent of each other.

Concerning the incorporation in the bill of the sugar bounty clause, the attorney gencraisays it was for the purpose of encouraging the production of raw sugar in this country. Counsel, he says, assigned the increase of duty upon woolens, silks and cottons to the necessity for additional revenues to pay the sugar bounty. There is no warrant for saying that the duties herein as-sessed were provided for by congress in this act to pay the sugar bounty than there would be for saying the same thing of the duty levied by the bill on any other merchandisa. The question of the validity of the bounties is as old as that of the protective tariff, and has been answered in the same way by con-stant legislation and an acquiescence of the stant legislation and an acquiescence of the people, as old as the nation itself, has sanctioned both direct and indirect bounties for the encouragement of those industries which are closely alied with national growth and national independence as a public purpose and as within the power of congress The reciprocity clause, the attorney gen eral says, could not have been intended to in tions preclude any such idea. The clause was an afterthought. It was not introduced until late in the session, after the bill had passed the house and had been discussed in the senate. It is wholly independent of every other clause in the bill and its passage or failure had no bearing whatever upon the remainder. The clause is constitutional, he says. It is not a delegation of legislative di-crease the revenue. Its conditional rection by which an alternative provision of existing law may be applicable to the happening of a fact, the existence of which is to be determined by the president. Ocean Mail Service.

Killing Game. DENVER, Colo., Oct. 24.-Information from Meeker, Colo., is to the effect that at Lilly park, near that city, two large bodies of Utes, both the Ouray and Uncompangre are camped in the hills, each of them numbering over 100 bucks, besides the squaws and numerous children. They are wantonly snaughtering the deer, and hundreds of carcasses are left to rot on the graund. Further down the divide and clear on down to Blue mountains, at the lower end of Rig Bianco county, bands of Utes are busily en-gaged in the same pursuits.
