Beware of Cheap Sewing Machines. There are in many towns unscrupulous persons who try to palm off on the public an inferior article in sewing machines, claiming it to be as good as the "Domestic," like the "Domestic," Improved "Domestic," etc. Beware of all such. There is only one "Domestic" (and every sewing machine dealer knows its wonderful record for durability, light running and perfect work) and that is why they try to sell on the "Domestic's" reputation. Cheap made machines soon wear out, and no company has been successful that made cheap and trashy sew-ing machines. The last on the market was the "Demorest," and it. like all other of its kind, died a natural death, and the receiver is now trying to save something from the wreck for creditors and stockholders. People who buy machines of that kind, when parts give out, are obliged to throw them away or sell them to scrap iron dealers. When the company has failed and no parts made the purchaser can get no repairs, consequently the cheap machine is not a successful one.

The best is the cheapest. Buy the light running "Domestic" and you will have a machine that will last a life time. For sale by S. M. Williamson, 106 Main Surprising Sight Which Met Mrs. Anderson's Startled Gaze on Awakening.

SHE FOUND A BURGLAR IN HER ROOM.

Her Screams for Help Terrified the Prowler Into Flight-He Was Coolly Robbing the House,

The residence of O. P. Anderson, 108 North Eighth street, was entered by a burglar yesterday morning at about 1 o'clock. Mr. Anderson, who works for the Union Pacific, was away from home, and Mrs. Anderson was left alone with a small child. She was suddenly awakened by a noise and found herself face to face with a man, who was standing at the dresser, only a few feet away, going through the contents. She was nearly paralyzed from fright, but managed to scream for help, which startled the burglar and sent him flying from the room. As soon as he had left the house Mrs. Anderson aroused the neighbors, but the unwelcome caller had disappeared without taking anything with him, so far as is now

The fellow entered the house through a back window, previously cutting out a slat from the shutter. The door of the room in which Mrs. Anderson was sleeping was locked, but he used a pair of nippers and turned the key. As near as Mrs. Anderson could tell from the slight chance she had to observe him, he was rather under medium height and wore a dark suit of clothes, his sack cost being buttoned closely about him. He wore a dark derby hat, a blond moustache and was light complexioned.

ELEGANTLY FITTING GLOVES.

The Boston Store Will Afford Council Bluffs Ladies to Be Fitted by an Expert.

Nothing is so desirable as a comfortable and well fitting glove, and nothing s much more difficult to secure unless one is an expert or a connoiseur. Messrs. Fotheringham, Whitelaw & Co. have dways had their glove counters presided over by salesladies especially fitted for the business, and the consc uence has been that they have had the ion's snare of the glove trade of Council Bluffs, but they have made arrangements that will give them more prestige than ever during the next two weeks. They have arranged with Fos-ter, Paul & Co. of New York City, the greatest ladies' glove manufacturers in he world, to have an expert from the home house come to Council Bluffs and take charge of their glove counter for wo weeks. The lady sent by the house is Miss Coleman, and she arrived Wednes-day and began her work. The ladies will find that she will be able to give them a great deal of useful information concerning the glove question. She will devote her time exclusively to the patrons of The Boston Store, and an invitation is extended to all who desire a perfectly fitting glove to come to the store at any time and be assisted in making their selection.

Dealing Out Justice. Yesterday was sentence day in the district court, and the greater part of the afternoon session was occupied by Judge Macy in de ciding how long the criminals who have been convicted during the present term should reside at Fort Madison. Jack Kane and James Osborn, convicted of highway robbery, were the first to be brought before his honor. Colonel D. B. Dailey made a speech to the court in their behalf in which he asked that a light punishment might be inflicted upon them, on the theory that it would be more effective in reforming them than a beavier one. Judge Macy stated that the county at torney had the two men indicted for the smallest offence that the nature of the case would allow, and that he thought that was about as much favor as they could expect to receive. He then sentenced them to spend seven years each in the penitentiary.

Ed Fegiey, whose offence was committing an assault upon his wife with intent to do an assault upon his wife with intent to do great bodily injury, made a speech to the court in which he roasted the attorny who had been appointed by the court to defend him. He persisted in making remarks all the way during the court's words of advice, and finally had to be shut up by the court in a very decided manner. He was sentenced to spend nine months in the county jail.

Ed Morrel convicted of criminal assault. Ed Morgel, convicted of criminal assault, was given a sentence of fifteen months in the penitentiary. Harry McGrew and Alfred Anderson, two boys aged 18 and 19 respectively, were given two years each for burglary. Sam Glover, colored, James Murray and H. A. Griswold received like sentences for the same offense. Frank Rutan, for grand larceny, was given a sentence of two years and a half.

Charles Nichooson and Mike Kildare returned last evening from Missouri Valley, where they went to see some foot races that were advertised to come off between some of the best known sprinters of southwestern lowa. For some reason or other only one race came off, and in that there were but two contestants, Lozier of this city and Campbell of Neola, the latter a son of County Clerk Campbell. The distance was seventy-five yards, and the race was hotly contested. At the end Lozier's friends claimed he came in abeau by only a few inches, while Campbell's friends insisted inches, while Campbell's friends insisted that the two men came in exactly together. It was finally declared a draw, and both sides were considerably worked up over what they considered the injustice done their man. the time the question and been decided it was so late that it was decided to postpone all the other races until this afternoon

Neighborly Amenities. A lively encounter took place yesterday soon between Mrs. John Canady and Mrs. Luzzie Tinneli, who live on South Eighth street. According to Mrs. Tinnell's story she made a raise of a pan of potatoes from a wagon that chanced to be passing and that she met Mrs. Canady as she was taking them home. The latter lady could not bear them home. The latter lady could not lear to see her enjoying such prosperity, and accused her neighbor of having stolen the potatoes. After a few minutes wrangling the two separated, but Mrs. Canady soon returned, bringing with her a tremendous horsewhip, with which she beat a vigorous tattoo on various parts of Mrs. Tinnell's anatomy. Mrs. Tinnell at last got away and went to the city building, where she filed an information charging Mrs. Canady with disturbing the peace.

Found His Boy.

FIRST WARD RALLY.

Republicans Hold a Lively Meeting at Sixth and Pierce. A rousing republican rally was held last night down in the First ward at Sixth and Pierce streets. The large hall was filled to overflowing and a large number of the candidates on the republican ticket were present. C. S. Elgutter was chairman. The first speaker was E. Cornish, who spoke of the issues at stake in the present campaign. He first took up the question of justice of the supreme court. He characterized the office as the highest in the profession and the goal of merit. When any party puts up a man who is not fitted for that position the bar must feel hurt that the position is belittled. The position was one to which only the best men in the profession should be advanced and for that reason he thought Judge Post was a man whom all could suport. [Applause.] Speaking of the ticket in general he re ferred to the rule of contractors and poodlers under which the city had suffered, and said there was a demand for good clean men. He said he had nothing to say against Osthoff, but it was known that he was the candidate of the contractors' ring. There is not a man noted as a boodier who is not supporting Osthoff.

George P. Bemis had been one of the men who had done much to put Omaba in the position it now occupies. He had not been ng around from saloon to saloon buying votes with drinks. He was a gentleman, and there would be no trouble in getting an audience with him by any man who had anything to say which it would be proper for a mayor of this city to hear, but it would be essible for any boodier to approach him

The speaker then said that another engage-ment called him elsewhere and called the at-ention of his audience to the fact that Judge R. Scott was present and would address hem. He referred to the well known record of Judge Scott and spoke also of his efforts to secure the national republican convention for Omaha. Chairman Elgutter introduced Hon, W. J.

Connell, who was greeted with prolonged ap-Mr. Connell spoke first of Mr. Bemis, whom he said he had known for fifteen years.

and knew he would make a good mayor in every respect—one who would be above the influence of contractors and boodlers. He demanded to know what show the contractors in the First ward would have at the hands of Henry Osthoff, who was in the grasp of a few contractors and could not escape them. This was greeted with applause and cries of Hear, hear

Mr. Conneil reiterated his well known views on labor questions and said that he knew George P. Bemis held the same views. He referred to Judge Post and cited an instance in which the speaker had assisted Judge Doane in a suit against the Union Pa-cific railroad before Judge Post in which the latter rendered a accision in favor of the plaintiffs, a lot of farmers.

Mr. Conneil referred briefly to the candi-dates for sheriff, clerk of the district cour and county judge, speaking words of com-mendation of the republican candidates. He also referred to several candidates on the Chairman Elgutter introduced Colonel C

R. Scott as a gentleman who had Missouri river water in his veins and Omaha in his Colonel Scott said he did not propose to make a political speech, as it would be in bad taste for a candidate for the judgeship to draw the party lines. He said that while he was not nominated by a non-partisan conven-tion, yet he would defy any man to say, if he was elected, that he was ever swerved by any political bias in judicial matters. He spoke at some length on the necessity of voting for good men for the positions of judges of the district court, and also spoke of the neces-sity for a pure ballot.

During his remarks Colonel Scott was fremently interrupted by applause as he outhed a popular chord. Brief remarks were then made by George

Bennett, C. W. Eller, Henry Bolin, Mike O. Maul, John Groves, Judge Stenberg and Fred Sackett. At this point Frank E. Moores entered the room and there were loud calls for him. As he walked up the aisle there were calls for a song, but Frank pleaded a cold and was let off with a story. He spoke briefly of the political situation and was loudly cheered. Several of the other candidates on the city ticket also addressed the meeting Mr. Minahan's Denial.

OMARA, Oct. 30 .- To the Editor of THE BEE: In your issue of this date is a communication from Craig, Neb., in which it is asserted that last Saturday evening I used abusive language of Judge Hopewell and characterized the children of democrats and republicans as fools, etc., etc. I simply wish to say the communication is a he out of the whole cloth. I can afford to be defeated in this canvass, but I do not wish the independ-ent party insulted by a malicious lie that reflects as much on the party that nominated me as it does upon me individually. Judge Hopewell himself would be the first to repudiate the dastard who sent you the com-munication. Thomas B. Minahan, Smart Boys Frighten a Train Load of People.

A gang of boys on Leavenworth street had a lot of fun last evening by placing a cummy on the motor car tracks between Seventeentl and Eighteenth streets.

The dummy was nicely stuffed and very much resembled the body of a man. There s no light on Leavenworth street near Seventeenth, and as a motor car came rush ing down the grade it ran over the form be-fore the train could be stopped Train crew and passengers hastily climbed down and rubbed their noses in the dirt in a wild attempt to discover blood.

Some one picked up a leg and as it was held up a half bale of straw fell out. A shout from shadows went up and the train load of copie knew that they had been played for ockers by a few boys out for a lark. It was inderstood that an attempt would be made to arrest those supposed to be leaders in the joke, but up to midnight no arrests had been

RESULT OF A CONSERVATIVE ESTIMATE.

Places the Republican Candidates in the Lead With Comfortable Majorities-Heaviest Vote in the State's History.

Des Mornes, Ia., Oct. 30 .- The political campaign drawing to a close has been botly contested by both parties. During n previous state campaign has an equal amount of interest been taken in an election. Seldon has more interest been aroused in even national contests. Issues are not regarded as merely local by either republicans or democrats. Prohibition has been discussed by nearly all the speakers, but it is generally conceded by the leaders that it will not be the deciding question. The question of registricting the state con-gressionally has become a prominent one, pushed, as it is, by the republicans. The democrats claim they will hold most of the anti-prohibition republican votes which two years ago were cast for Boles, the democratic candidate. The republicans believe a major ity of these voters will return to the party or account of redistricting and other issues. An address to the anti-prohibition republicans by leading members of the faction in the larger cities has created quite a feeling for republican success. Democrats claim that while many leaders of the anti-prohibition republicans will return to the party, the masses of them will not. Chairman Mack of the republican state com-mittee stated tonight that estimates based on reports from seventy-four counties gave Wheeler (rep.) a probable plurality of 12,000. All the campaign speakers will be kept on the stump till the eve of election. Chairman Fuller of the democratic com-mittee placed the probable democratic plu-rality at from 11,000 to 13,000, based on re-ports considered conservative. Boles, the candidate for governor, it is esti-mated will run from 1,000 to 6,000 ahead of his ticket. Both committees are hoseful and are considering plans for

The people's, or farmers alliance party, it is estimated, will not receive more than 15,000 votes all told, and largely drawn from the greenback and union labor elements. The prenibitionists have a ticket in the field, but apparently will not poli a large vote, most of which, it is predicted, going with the republicans. This vote amounted to 20,000 two years ago, but it is said will not
