

BLACK FRIDAY.

A MORE DESPERATE AND DISGRACEFUL SCENE has never been witnessed than that which occurred in the so-called "Gold Room" of New York City twenty-two years ago, on that day which has ever since been known in commemoration as "BLACK FRIDAY." You who were adults at that time remember full well the horrors of that day. The aspect of Wall street at such times is not flattering to civilization. Outside the "Gold-Room" the adjacent streets were packed with a frenzied, panic-stricken, howling mass of brokers and speculators, glaring with strained, blood-shot eyes up at the dial which marked the fluctuations of the precious metal. Men at a prize fight could not so utterly forget themselves. The scenes around a gambling table where the lowest desperadoes congregate, pale before this scene, where cultivated men became noisy, violent and repulsive through their greed for gold. Inside the "Gold Room" the horrible sights of the streets were being re-enacted with an added intensity. Here were thousands of men screaming and gesticulating, with palpitating breast, great swollen cords standing out on brow and neck, and foaming saliva gathered at the corners of their mouths. A pack of wolves famished and furious, suddenly come upon blood, could not exceed in horror the actions of these men. This diabolical struggle which resulted in the ruin of thousands, was brought about, it is said, by Jay Gould, Jim Fisk, jr., and a number of other daring speculators, assisted by the Treasurer of the United States, in an unsuccessful effort to "bull" the price of gold. Millions were swept away; values toppled and fell; banks suspended. Property worth thousands in the morning could be bought for hundreds at noon. Articles worth a dollar at noon could be bought for a dime at night. It was a sad, sad day for the business men of this country. The entire population felt a shuddering sense of uneasiness and insecurity.

The People of the United States may Thank Heaven

That this year will witness no repetition of the awful scenes and fearful alarms of that memorable "Black Friday." But in other respects there will be similarities

Prices of Furniture will Topple and Fall.

The scenes of excitement in the "Gold Room" are today being re-enacted in our salesrooms. We are fearfully and frightfully overstocked with Furniture, Carpets, Stoves, etc. of all kinds. To intensify matters We Are Sorely in Need of Gold. To raise it and raise it quickly, we have mowed down the price of every article in our store so low, that it is virtually giving them away. For years to come this barbarous butchery of prices and values, this marvelous and merciless massacre of House Furnishing goods, shall be known in the history of Omaha, as

The People's Black Friday Sale.

THIS GREAT SALE IS NOW GOING ON.

It began Monday, November 2, and has been a howling success. Thousands during last week availed themselves of the opportunity of buying goods for a fraction of what it costs to manufacture them, and it was generally conceded by all that they never heard of such bargains before. This is an opportunity to get two, three, even four dollars' worth of Furniture, Carpets, Stoves, etc., for one dollar. During the past week eight car loads of the choicest goods, such as Parlor Suits, Chairs, Lounges, Folding Beds, Rockers, Wardrobes, Chamber Suits, Stoves, Carpets, Etc., were unloaded, and will be on sale beginning tomorrow. These are the goods that have been lying at the different depots for weeks, and were not unloaded until last Friday on account of want of room.
