FATHER OF THE NEW FRANCE.

Monument to Leon Gambetta, Who Declared the Republic.

HIS HEART BURIED AT ITS BASE.

Quiet But Emotionally Impressive Ceremony at the Villa d'Auvray -Gift of the People of Alsace-Lorraine.

[Copyright 1891 by James Gordo n Bennett.] PARIS, Nov. 8 .- [New York Herald Cable-Special to THE BEE. |-Today there was inaugurated at the villa d'Auvray a monument erected by 15,000 natives of Alsace-Lorraine to the memory of Gambetta. The monument represents the Great French orator, bearing in his arms the French colors, at the feet of Alsace and Lorraine. Never has Bartholdi, the designer of the statue of of Liberty in the harbor of New York, dong better work.

M. Bartholdi tells me that many subscrip tions came from New York, Chicago and San Francisco, and I am happy to tell the subscribers that their money has been well used.

The monument is situated in the garden of the house where the great orator died-the house formerly occupied by Baizac, the great novelist, doubly precious, therefore, to Frenchmen.

Gambetta's Heart Entombed.

Before the inauguration of the statue a terribly moving ceremony took place. In the little vault at the foot of the monument the heart of Gampetta was deposited.

After Gambetta's death Dr. Maaand made an autopsy in the fittle bedroom that today is filled with flowers. M. Paul Bert received Gambetta's heart, and when he went to Tonkin it was thought that the heart was lost. This, however, was a mistake. M. Bert had placed the heart in an iron box and left it at the house of his son-in-law, whence it was brought today.

Every one was much moved when the outer coverings of the glass jar were removed. It contained a red mass, floating in alcohol, fifteen contimetres, nearly six inches deep, darker near the top than at the bottom. It was the heart of Gambetta, which once had the honor of being the heart of France. It excites sorrowful reflections, when one remembers that this grand and generous heart no longer beats. The ceremony also was very sorrowful. The sky was overcast. It was cold, and there was the for which has been so well painted by the great artist Carot, another inhabitant of the villa d'Auvray. The house was empty except for old piotographs on the walls and dried up wreaths of flowers.

(aused Profound Emotion.

Around the monument were friends and admirers, men who do not forget the past while thinking of the future. It need astonish no one to be told that a profound emotion was felt among the throug of spectators. The ceremony itself was very simple; no no official pomp. The soldiers, wreaths bearing the titles "Alsace" and "Lorraine" were greeted with great enthusi- the hopelessness of their position and seek asm. There were two addresses made, both

They know that it will have caused a great deal of unnecessary anxiety among their familles, friends and the people generally of the United States. Work Being Pushed on the Atlantic and Minntonomah.

NEW YORK, Nov. S .- The Brooklyn navy yard presented an appearance of activity wit nessed for the first time since the exciting times of the rebellion, today. The hum and din of busy workmen on the war vessels Miantonomiah and Atlantic disturbed, the Sabbath stillness as a body of 400 blue jackets marched across the yard to divine service. Workmen have been busily engaged day and night for the past week in preparing the two vessels for speedy service at sea. Yesterday the work of preparation was continued, it being the first Sunday since the late war that such a thing has occurred. There were eighty mon at work on the two vessels, and all expedition will be used until they are ready for service at sea. The navy yard authorities denied the rumored sinking of the United States war vessel Baltimore at Valparaiso. It was said that the officers and crew of the Balti-more overhead the same visitiones as in war more exercise the same vigilance as in war times, and the torpedo nets about the vessel would save her from sudden attack. The unusual bustle and activity at the navy yard is said not to be due to the re-ported sinking of the Baltimore, but it is con-ceded that the strained relations between this country and Chill has given the governcannot survive, many fearing they were in such a condition that they could not be re moved from the mine. The accident was caused by the explosion of a safety lamp, the flames of which ignited the gas. The existence of this element of danger was not known, and the safety lamos, which are used successfully in the presence of gas, were being used by the men during the operations.

The mine was one of the best operated by the Susquehanna Coal company and it is not seriously damaged.

The scene about the mouth of the shaft was heartrending. As soon as the news of the explosion was noised about town the wives and children of the men who were im-prisoned gathered about the opening. The wives wept frantically and the children played about unconscious of the fearful doom their fathers had met.

Beard & Otis Visited Saturday Night-Reported Theft of 'a Lot of Sugar.

Safe blowing is getting to be quite a pastime among a certain class of people who are at present stopping somewhere inside the city limits.

Although the police have been vigilant, and especially so since the Ames avenue street car barn performance and the Missouri Pacific hold-up, the gang of robbers is too cunning for the officers and the nightly attacks on the strong boxes in the business houses continue.

When the proprietors of the Nebrasks Clothing company, 1323 Douglas street entered their office yesterday forenoon to look over their mail they were more than surprised to find that their safe had been tampered with during the night.

As usual the store was open until 10 p. m. and the proceeds of the cash sales after the closing of the bank had been placed in the safe, which stands in the rear of the office on the second floor.

Several holes had been drilled into the outside door probably with the intention of driving in a bolt and breaking the tumblers of the lock. The door did not yield and for some reason the attempt was given up.

Sorgeant Whalen investigated the case and at once looked for the mode of entrance to the building. It was found that the thieves had in some way climbed onto the roof of the building and descended into the store by means of the skylight. Judging from the fact that the attempt was given up it is supposed that the crooks were frightened away.

Nothing else in the store was disturbed. Other Attempts at Robbery.

Probably thinking Douglas street a good place to work and not wanting to leave that vicinity empty handed, the safeblowers next visited the wall paper store of Beard & Otis, 1317 and 1319 Douglas street.

Entrance was offected by cutting a panel from the rear door. The safe was opened without a great deal of trouble, and the steel cash box broken out. The contents, amounting to $1.60, was appropriated, and the thieves departed.

There is a police officer on Douglas street whose beat is from Twelfth to Fifteenth street, but not a sound was heard by either the police or block watchman.

Considering that Douglas street between Thirteenth and Fourtsenth streets is the basicst street in the city at night, the robbors were particularly daring. Cabmen and messenger boys are about all night and are passing every few minutes from dark until dawn, but this fact evidently did not bother the burglars, who are supposed to be a thoroughbred gang of experts. It was also reported to the police yesterday very peaceable in tone, that of the minister of instruction, M. Bourgeois, especially being very moderate.

And now Gambetta has a monument at the spot where he died. His memory will no die out in France. While leaving heard it said in the crowd that the two men who had in the last twenty years enloyed the greatest popularity m France died from pistol shots-Gambetta and Boulanger-but that was the only resemblance between the two men each of whom had held his country in his hands-one for good and the other for evil.

It is announced that the emperor of Austria Hungary will deliver a very peaceful discourse to the Hungarian delegates, and it is also stated that the address that the marquis di Rudini will deliver at Mitan, where he will show Italy's hand politically, will also be filled with peaceful sentiment.

gation, as they were too vague. Although caped fel several persons had been denounced, he could find no reason to prosecute those singled out for the attack. He criticised severely the papers responsible for the charges. The meeting of the young men on the plaza at Santiago passed resolutions, as cabled, and then appointed a committee to wait upon President-elect Jorge Montt and ask him, in view of the reported attempt to kill Canto, the fact that public opinion held the refugees in the United States legation culpable and also the common belief that dictatorial sympathies had not been stamped out in certain parts of the country, to see that justice was meted out to the Balmacedists who were protected by the American minister.

Admiral Montt's Position.

Admiral Montt's reply was admirable. He said that he fully appreciated the generous and patriotic sentiments of the young mer of Santiago and of the people at large, but at the same time he was impelled to state that the junts had had no further information relating to the plot than that published in certain papers. In its conduct of affairs, he said, the junta had to be governed by the laws of the country. It was its duty to see that these laws were faithfully administered. In regard to the charge that the United States legation sheltered refugees who were still engaged in plotting mischief, he knew positively that Minister Egan had inderdicted the sending out of letters by refugees unless the letters were subjected to inspection. If any such message had left the legation, Admiral Montt added, he was sure that it was without the knowledge of Minister Egan, and that if the matter had been brought before Mr. Egan, he would have caused the prompt expulsion of the offender from the asylum. Montt's remarks are the strongest sort of vidence that ne desires to protect the legation and this belief is strengthened by the presence of a squadron of cavalry in the vicinity of the legation during the time that the meeting on the plaza was going on.
