

VICTIMS OF WIND AND WAVE.

Fierco Gales and Fierco Seas Lay Waste the English Coast.

GALLANT WORK OF LIFE-SAVING CREWS.

Stories of Wrecks and Loss of Life from All Parts of England—Noble Sacrifices to Duty—Flotsam and Jetsam.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Another furious south-westerly gale is sweeping over the British coast and is causing an immense amount of damage. From a number of points news has been telegraphed that ships are ashore and that their crews are in danger of drowning or already drowned. To give an entire list of the wrecks reported would be a difficult and lengthy task.

A dispatch this morning from Hythe, Kent, says that the French schooner Edirimi H foundered off that place and that the vessel's captain, his wife and son were drowned in spite of the efforts of the life-savers, who were enabled to take off the rest of the crew. The captain of the Edirimi, however, refused to leave the vessel, and his wife and son refused to be parted from him, preferring death with the gallant sailor to being saved without him.

At the Mercy of the Waves.

A telegram received from Glasgow, not far from Hythe, says that the British ship Benvenue of Glasgow has been driven ashore there after a terrible struggle with the storm. The crew of the vessel, exhausted by their long exposure to the warring elements, became so weakened that they found it impossible to cling to the rigging and so were forced to let go. They dropped into the foamy waters and sank from sight. The others, some of whom are undoubtedly fished, are being rescued by the long crowd numbering thousands of people is gathered along the shore, and sympathetically watching every attempt that is made to save the lives of the shipwrecked sailors, whose only hope of rescue lies in the efforts of the gallant lifeboat men.

The storm has caused considerable damage throughout the coast of England and Ireland. Rain has fallen in large quantities.

Further details of the great storm which is sweeping over England are coming to hand and there is no doubt that the loss of life arising from marine and other disasters will be very great. The damage done during the last great gale that visited the British Isles.

The dispatches now being received give the following list of casualties at the various points along the coast: The Norwegian brig Solertia has been wrecked at Studland, in Dorset.

The fishing boat, Star of the East, while entering Lowestoft, dashed against the pier and was wrecked. Six of the crew were drowned. One man was rescued, but he died from exhaustion shortly afterward.

The schooner Marguerite Marie, bound for London, was wrecked near the village of Dungeness and was blown ashore and wrecked.

It is believed that when the storm has spent its force and a final estimate of the damage is made it will be found that the loss is much greater than that incurred by any storm which has ever occurred.

The reports from the gale-swept districts are very sorrowful in coming in owing to the fact that the wind is blowing from the west, and the reports thus far received show that the damage must be widespread and very heavy. The damage to property at Folkestone and Dover is very great. The damage to fishing boats and other small craft employed in the local coastwise trade is large. The fishermen are discouraged at the misfortune that is pursuing them. The rivers in the Midlands are running high, and it is feared that this will be a general repetition of the floods of a few weeks ago.

Glorious, Gallant Heroes.

At Dover the local life boat, manned and provisioned, in the presence of a large number of on-lookers, was sent out to sea to assist vessels that are in distress. A tug, with steam up, is lying beside her to take her in tow. At present the tug is being used judiciously and it is unsafe for the tug or lifeboat to venture out of the harbor.

Part of the wrecked crew at Hythe, while engaged in rescuing a shipwrecked crew, were swept from their boat and drowned.

Dungeness comes a story of the loss of some of the brave and hardy lifeboat men. A foreign bark went ashore at that place and the lifeboat men, though they were only a few, were able to rescue the crew. A tremendous sea was running and the lifeboat men were in the trough of the waves. One of the crew were swept away before they could grasp the life lines on the lifeboat and were lost. The other men succeeded in righting their boat and scrambled into her.

At Deal a fishing boat was capsized and two of her crew were drowned. Several vessels are ashore between Dungeness and Dover, and it is feared that they will go to pieces and their crews will perish before assistance can get to them.

A number of life boats in the district have been driven past Sandgate. There were all flying signals calling for help, but it was impossible to do anything to relieve them on account of the tremendous sea.

According to the latest reports the gale is general throughout England.

WORK OF BIASED CORRESPONDENTS.

Willful Perversion of Facts and Malicious Coloring of Reports—Unpleasant Predicament of a Bold Britisher.

[Copyright, 1891, by James Gordon Bennett.] VALPARAISO, Chile, (via Galveston, Tex.), Nov. 11.—[By Mexican Cable to the New York Herald—Special to The Bee.]—There is considerable coolness at present between the Chilean authorities and the British minister, Mr. Kennedy. It dates from Sunday, November 1, All Saints' day, which was made the occasion of a grand demonstration in honor of those who lost their lives while in the service of the junta previous to the downfall of Balmaceda. A great throng visited the cemetery at Santiago to heap floral tributes on the graves of the dead heroes.

Among the visitors was Minister Kennedy who also was invited to a decorative service. His coach being blocked at the entrance to the cemetery, preventing the passage of many other carriages behind him. In consequence there was a great deal of confusion. The coachman, swelled up with pride from the fact that he was driving the British diplomat, refused to move when called upon to do so by the police, which was much annoyed at the blockade. In consequence of the coachman's stubbornness a row ensued, during which he found it advisable to leave his seat and seek safety in flight. Minister Kennedy's coach was somewhat damaged by colliding with other vehicles, and some of the passengers were injured. The incident of the day's celebration put Mr. Kennedy into an indignant frame of mind, and ever since he has evidenced a spirit of unfriendliness towards the authorities.

Every one in Santiago is laughing over the idea that such a trifling incident should have caused a row. The incident was occasioned by a British diplomat, who was called upon to do so by the police, which was much annoyed at the blockade. In consequence of the coachman's stubbornness a row ensued, during which he found it advisable to leave his seat and seek safety in flight. Minister Kennedy's coach was somewhat damaged by colliding with other vehicles, and some of the passengers were injured. Some Able Bodied Liars. The correspondents of certain European newspapers seem bent upon doing all in their power to create misunderstandings between Chile and the United States, and even boast that such a motive inspires their articles. They make no secret of their desire to incite Minister Egan in every innuendo that is started against the United States, and say that they will publish everything which in their opinion will give the world the impression that the American representatives unjustly supported Balmaceda.

Copies of the Herald containing the story of Mr. William R. Grace's connection with the shipment of arms to Balmaceda have just been received here, and have created quite a ripple of excitement in Chile. As Mr. Egan, the representative of Grace & Co.'s firm here, is a staunch Britisher and has figured throughout the late war as a firm friend of the junta, he has also made himself very prominent on account of his disparaging remarks against the American position.

Mr. Olaf Paz, the brother of Charles Paz, a lawyer at San Francisco, and who gave up his practice to join the congressionals as surgeon general in the army, has been requested by President-elect Jorge Montt to visit Europe for a year's medical research, in appreciation of his services to the junta.

Schley Willing to Acquiesce. Captain Schley has wired the Navy department of the United States relative to the concession of Judge of Crimes Foster to certain of Schley's demands. Judge Foster, in a letter to Captain Schley a day or two ago, gave his consent to the appearance of an officer of the Baltimore and an interpreter at the secret inquiry, while the American sailors were testifying to the assault upon them. Judge Foster explained fully in the letter the reasons for his to the Chilean legal procedure in such cases.

These data show that the Chilean secret inquiry bears a resemblance to our grand jury system. Captain Schley, in his communication to the Navy department, recommends that it agree to the proposals of Judge Foster.

One of the Valparaiso papers this evening publishes a letter from Senator Trumbull to Mr. Egan in regard to the charges in the Herald against Grace & Co.'s firm. Senator Trumbull states that in his opinion the charge that the firm acted in the interests of Balmaceda are unfounded.

Message to the Congress. President-elect Jorge Montt, Waldo Silva and Ramon Barros Luce, the junta triumvirate, issued a message today to the new congress, which will begin its session on November 18. After reviewing the causes which led to the recent war and relating the incidents bearing upon the same subject, the address concludes with the announcement that the junta has now accomplished its mission, but as a last act of justice desires to bring to the attention of congress the gallant services rendered by the congressional army and navy to their country. It hopes that congress, in its wisdom, will duly recognize these services and reward both forces.

Congress met yesterday and elected Waldo Silva president of the senate. Ramon Barros Luce at the same time was elected president of the house of deputies. The junta was requested by congress to continue in office until Admiral Montt has been installed in office as president.

BRASILIAN MATTERS MIXED. Da Fonseca's Side of the Story as Told from Rio. [Copyright, 1891, by James Gordon Bennett.] RIO DE JANEIRO, (via Galveston, Tex.), Nov. 11.—[By Mexican Cable to the New York Herald—Special to The Bee.]—Up to the present writing there has been nothing so far as can be learned here, so seriously threaten the stability of Daodoro da Fonseca's dictatorship. If there is any revolt in Pernambuco, Bahia or Para, reliable information of it has not reached this city. There are no doubt, so I am given to understand, disaffected republicans and a number of imperialists, who would like to see a monarchy re-established, but they have so far as known here, only pronounced against the government.

The only signs of discontent that the people of Rio are aware of are in Rio Grande do Sul, the most southerly of the states in the republic. Such disturbances as have broken out there appear, from such intelligence as we have, to have been altogether of a local character. There does not seem to have been any organized effort to resist Fonseca's assumption of a dictatorship or to declare the independence

ALEXANDER AND WILLIAM ARE OUT.

Imperial Russian Snub Repaid in Kind by Royal Germany—Latest Aspect of the International Game of Bluff.

[Copyright, 1891, by James Gordon Bennett.] PARIS, Nov. 11.—[New York Herald Cable—Special to The Bee.]—The Herald was the first to receive the news of the important bearing upon the political situation that the czar's visit to Berlin had when, the other day, he passed through the kaiserstadt and declined to converse with or even to meet the German emperor. A sequel to this snub has now occurred, and is of such a nature as to cause no little uneasiness.

The day before yesterday mass was celebrated at the Russian embassy in Berlin in honor of the czar's silver wedding. Every foreign sovereign and state was represented with the sole exception of Emperor William, who sent no one, not even an ambassador, to be present at the fête. This is a direct rebuff to the czar's recent refusal to talk with him.

Heaps of Trouble Here. It was at first considered to be so serious a personal affront that it was at once discredited by the press, and was to be absolutely, and all hopes of a personal reconciliation between the two sovereigns are now abandoned. It would, however, be an error to rush to the other extreme and suppose from this that the "entente" between Russia and France is complete. There has, in fact, been a slight hitch in the relations between the two countries. Russian diplomacy, accustomed to implicit, passive obedience, fails to understand why the French government does not elect the fall on the course of the value of Russian securities in Paris. The government has certainly done all in its power to do this, but it has, up to the present, been unable to succeed with selling orders coming from London.

Following upon the announcement of the garrison at Yaguaron going over to the insurgents, comes word that two other carriages have also joined the rebel forces in Rio Grande do Sul. While all this is taking place the residents of Rio Janeiro seem to be in a perfect state of calm. They believe that everything is peaceful in the republic and that the discontent against Fonseca is not worth noticing. Their ignorance is owing to the fact that the government is suppressing all telegrams that describe the true situation of affairs in the state of Rio Grande do Sul.

Forming a New Party. The chiefs of the revolution are said to be Visconde Pelotas, Baron Jijuk and General Astropillo and Travares. Their object seems to be to form a national party in opposition to the present general peace. This was at first denied and is now confirmed by the emperor of Austria himself, who in his speech to the delegations said that his hopes of announcing to his people a permanent peace and informing them that anxiety for the future was ended have now vanished. The emperor referred to the negotiations for founding a league of peace. I am also in a position to state that Austria is making ready to slip away from the triple alliance. Russia is, however, taking steps to draw Austria more closely than ever before to herself. Before long the pivot of European politics in France are also agitated and a ministerial crisis is feared.

STARTING IN RUSSIA. Relations Apprehended from the Instability of the Suffering People. ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 11.—The spirit of insubordination among the people in the distressed districts is becoming so intense that it is feared serious trouble will result, culminating in an open revolt of the peasantry.

Robbed the Station Agent. Independence, Mo., Visited by Bold Robbers. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 11.—The Chicago & Alton station at Independence, Mo., was robbed by two men this evening about 8 o'clock. The contents of the cash drawer, $35.70, $12 belonging to J. C. Marshall, the Chicago & Alton agent, and a watch, the property of John A. Campbell, a farmer, was stolen. The robbers, who were dressed according to a pre-arranged program, entered the baggage room, then covering the lower part of their faces with handkerchiefs they drew their revolvers and ordered Campbell, who was in the station, to get up his hands and a little money he had, they crawled through the door and returned to the street. Marshall returned they compelled him to deliver the keys of the cash drawer, the contents of which they secured, also the contents of Marshall's pockets, including a watch, a pair of boots for a package they asserted should be in the office and which was supposed to contain a large sum of money. It was not there. Then they were disappointed. He agreed to see he can identify them.

Family Murders. A Mother and Three Children Killed and Burned to a Crisp. ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 11.—A special to the Gazette says: This morning a man named Helli, who was shucking corn in a field near the house of Mrs. Jaskins, about a quarter of a mile from Calverey, discovered the house to be on fire. He at once started across the field to notify a neighbor and secure assistance. In the meantime other neighbors saw the fire and ran to the house. They found the mother, Mrs. Jaskins and two of her children almost burned to a crisp and the body of her other child lying some distance off with a bruise on its head and spots of blood about its face. Enough of the mother's body was recovered to identify her. The body of the child was found before the house had been set on fire to hide the terrible deed. The coroner's jury held a verdict that the mother, who was a widow, and her three children had been murdered. There is no clue to the murderer.

From an English Point of View. What the Chilean Correspondent of the London Times Has to Say. LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Santiago correspondent of the Times telegraphs a long diatribe against false Chilean news sent by correspondents or invented in Amara. Taking his text from the report of the blowing up of the United States cruiser Baltimore, he says:

Since the arrival of American newspapers here we have had in addition to the scandal created by rowdy diplo-macy, an unseasonable squabble among American correspondents respecting the authenticity of false telegrams published in America. These quarrels tend to place Americans in an unenviable light. "It is necessary again to call attention

MADE THEM RESPECT THE FLAG.

Angry Anarchists Compelled to Honor the Stars and Stripes.

CHICAGO POLICEMEN IN A TIGHT PLACE.

America's Banner Placed in a Conspicuous Place at Their Request by the Anarchists—Exciting Scenes in Turner Hall.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 11.—The stars and stripes waved aloft tonight after a scene of excitement unequalled since the Haymarket riot. Over 2,000 anarchists, or anarchist sympathizers, had crowded into the West Twelfth street turner hall to commemorate the day November 11, 1887, on which their fellow-anarchists were hung. It was the most decisive demonstration of the kind in this city since the eventful evening of May 4, when several police were slain in blood. The speeches were extreme, and red emblems covered everything.

The climax came during the incendiary utterances of Henry Weissman, editor of the New York Baker, a German trades paper. Inspector of Police Hubbard, accompanied by Lieutenant Gibbons and a squad of officers in civilian clothes, were seen to quietly approach the stage. They ordered an American flag placed among the flaming banners. Instantly there was a profound sensation in the motley audience and the police were hissed from all parts of the hall. Mrs. Lucy Parsons, who occupied a chair in the rear part of the hall, shouted out: "Hang the murderers of my husband!"

In a second pandemonium reigned, hundreds of excited men pushing forward cursing the officers, and seemingly only wanting a nod from the leader to precipitate a fearful spectacle of carnage. Nevertheless Inspector Hubbard unflinchingly ordered a squad of police to march into the hall and the anarchists were obeyed.

Through the din the half hundred police could be seen placing their hands on their clubs and revolvers preparatory for a fight, which seemed inevitable. It was fully ten minutes before order was restored. The flag meanwhile had been placed in a conspicuous place over the stage, a proceeding only accomplished when the officers were found to be ready for action and cooler heads among the excited audience and spectators had time to exercise some influence.

The meeting had been taken completely by surprise or else a more serious result might have followed. The leaders of the meeting was only to show regard and reverence for the men who perished while laboring for the benefit of humanity.

The stage was fairly buried in red bunting, banners and trimmings. In the front of the structure, on either side, stood out in bold contrast to the surroundings, bronze busts of Spies and Parsons. These were cheered wildly by the spectators. To the left of the stage was nailed a banner with the inscription: "There will come a time when our silence will be more powerful than our voices." Spies words were also seen. Against the wall were pictures of the five dead anarchists while directly above them was the motto: "Murdered, but not dead."

Two banners bore the German inscriptions, "Equal Rights for All" and "Liberty and Freedom." Editor Weissman then appeared. He is a middle sized man with light hair and mustache and partly bald. His appearance was greeted with enthusiastic shouts. He commenced with the troubles of organized labor and to the opposition which it met. After a flaming introduction he launched forth into the Haymarket riot. As the speaker was describing the circumstances as perpetrated, he said it was the poverty stricken condition of the masses that actuated Spies and Parsons to their acts of desperation when the police made their entrance, and the consequent uproar ensued. When the police orders had been finally obeyed another meeting was announced for tomorrow night at the old-time anarchist rendezvous, Griff hall, on Lake street.

OPIMUM SMUGGLERS. Discovery of an Ingenious Plot to Avoid Paying the Duty. NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The sudden discovery of a wholesale system of opium smuggling across the Canadian border has considerably startled the customs officials. In the custom house there is now lying the largest quantity of opium ever seized and there is still more to follow. The whole story will be made public tomorrow.

It is believed that the opium traffic has been started by some of the opium growers of India. The initial movement was first seen in the city of Canada, and it has then been smuggled across the border into the United States. In addition to having agents in Canada, about three or four months ago, two or three hundred natives from Bombay arrived in this country by way of Europe. They ostensibly came on some other business, but the real object of their business is believed to have been the completion of an elaborate arrangement for the smuggling of opium into this country. As the first attempt at smuggling proved to be so successful, it was determined to operate on a larger scale. The ramifications of the scheme are intricate and numerous, but with the information already in the hands of the treasury officials, an effectual stop will be put to opium smuggling.

CANADIAN POLITICS. Reconstruction of the Cabinet—Its New Members. MONTREAL, P. Q., Nov. 11.—It is learned that the reconstructed cabinet will be as follows: Premier and president of the council, J. C. Abbott; minister of finance, J. E. Foster; minister of public works, L. H. Angus; minister of justice, Sir John Thompson; minister of customs, J. J. Curran; minister of inland revenue, J. Costigan; postmaster general, Major Hagart (temporarily); minister of militia and defense, Sir John A. Macdonald; minister of the interior, J. A. Chaplin; minister of agriculture, MacKenzie Bowell; solicitor general, W. Meredith; minister of agriculture, W. Carin; secretary of state, J. A. Ouinton.

It is again rumored that a dissolution of parliament is contemplated. The reconstruction of the cabinet, but this is hardly likely. When parliament adjourned Mr. Abbott had a majority of at least twenty-four, and as there are several new members in the cabinet, the outcome of these before even thinking of dissolving the house.

Countesses Arrested. GUTHRIE, Okl., Nov. 11.—James D. Holloman was arrested at Purocell yesterday with $1,335, counterfeit money, in his possession, and disquisitions for making the same. The territory for some time has been flooded with counterfeit money, and it is believed that Holloman is a member of a large gang of counterfeiters.
