EOSTON MAY REACH AN UNDERSTANDING.

Hope That the Rival Clubs in Boston May Solve the Question of Settling at-General Sporting News.

New York, Nov. 13.—The National league ball magnates who have been doing little and saying a great deal at their annual meeting, in session at the Fifth Avenue hotel for several days, were late in getting down town this morning.

The league elected Frank P. Robinson of Cleveland, A. K. Scandrett of Pittsburgh, Charles H. Byrne of Brooklyn and John H. Day of New York as the board of directors for next year.

Messrs. Day of New York, Board of Cincinnati and Hart of Cincinnati were appointed on the schedule committee. The contract for printing was awarded to John Sage of Buffalo. It was decided to hold the spring meeting in New York as also the next annual meeting.

The league adjourned, subject to the call of the chairman, without announcing whether it had taken any steps toward making peace with the American association.

Most of the delegates left for home early in the evening.

VOYAGE OVERCAME HIM.

Kismet, the Great Arabian, Dies from Pneumonia.

New York, Nov. 13.—The Arabian stallion Kismet, who arrived here Wednesday morning on the steamship Canada, died of pneumonia yesterday. He was so sick when landed that he had to be taken from the ship in a van.

Kismet was imported by Mr. Randolph Huntington, who intended to place him in the Anglo-Arab and Clay stock farm stud to breed to the daughters, granddaughters and great granddaughters of General Grant's two Arabians, Lexington and Kismet.

Kismet was foaled in the Euphrates valley in 1871 and was owned by Abdul Wahab of Bombay in October, 1883, from whom he was purchased by Mr. Broadwood of the Twelfth hussars.

Kismet was a chestnut, with two white spots forward and one behind, with a stripe in the face, broad collar and marked like St. Blaise. In height he was scant five feet, his hands, Mr. Huntington had him insured for $10,000.

Can Roaring Be Cured?

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The race horse, Ormonde, in which an English syndicate invested $42,000 in rebuying him from an Argentine stud breeder, was recently offered to the British government. Mr. Chaplin, president of the Board of Agriculture, declined to accept the horse on the ground that he was a "roarer," the affection known as "roaring" being hereditary. This response has received public discussion, because of the breeding circles, and especially in view of the fact that the horse Golden Plover won a race at Liverpool, not only nobly, but under the operation of a tracheotomy for the cure of "roaring." Golden Plover has a silver pipe in his throat through which the trachea is visible. The pipe is secured in the center of a turned eye, the horse breathing through the tube with the utmost freedom.
