Several Burglars Banqueted in Mr. Smith's Ealoon.

THEY EVIDENTLY KNEW THE PLACE.

T. M. Smith's saloon, at 718 Sixteenth avenue, was visited by burglars Thursday night. Entrance was effected through a back window in the cellar, and the fact that the burglars were able to work their way through the piles of boxes and rubbish in the ceilar goes to prove that they must have been well acquainted with the place. After reaching the room above they made the counter into a banquet table, and put several quarts of liquors out of sight. They then divided Smith's stock in trade among them and left the same way they had come. The loss in all amounted to about $15.

Suspicion points to a number of young fel-lows living in the neighborhood as being responsible for the deed. The same gang has been guilty of a number of other similar depredations lately, but it has been impossibie so far to secure evidence that would convict them. That part of the city is left without any sort of rolice protection at night, and considerable complaint is made by the citizens of the lawless actions of the gang. The police have been complained to, and it is probable that a police officer will be detailed to nois after that part of the city.

Once a Rival of Ed Neal Now Merely Held for Threatening.

Henry Martin was arrested soon after the murder at the Pinney farm a couple of years age on suspicion of being the star actor in the affair. It was afterwards found, however, that he was not the man, and he withdrew, leaving the field in the hands of the late Mr. Ed. Neal. Since that time he has achieved but little notoriety, and passed from pefore the public gaze altogether until yesterday, when an in-formation was flied in Justice Swearingen's court that brought in old times.

The information was filed by A. J. Bishop, who lives at the corner of Ffteenth street and Sixteenth avenue, and in it he alleges that he has reason to fear for his own life and for that of his daughter, Miss Nettie Bishop, unless the strong arm of the law interposes. He says that Martin came to his house a week ago last Saturday, and again on Tuesday, and, shaking his fists in dangerous proximity to their noses, threatened to kill them both. On the latter occasion he offered, for a slight consideration, to cut the gir, in pieces at inch long and throw her out n the alley, which proposition was rejected

Bishop asks that Martin be put under bonds to preserve the peace. Martin was arraigned before Justice Swearingen vesterday and his bond was fixed at $100. He was unable to give this and was sent to the county jail nding a nearing of the case, which will b given next Tuesday.

PLAYED POLITICS. Fate of a Man Who Earnestly Sought

a Democratic Nomination. A number of papers were filed at the court house yesterday that go to show that following politics for a hving is not what it is cracked up to be. During the forencon the store of John P. Stuhr of Min-den was closed under a chattel mort gage held by Groneweg & Schoentgen of this city, for $4,000. This mortgage had been standing for some time. In the after-noon several others were filed, the first being in favor of Gilmora & Kuhl of Omsha for in favor of Gilmore & Kuhl of Omaha, for $545, covering all the stock and fixtures, besides the lot on which the store is located. The second was to S. P. Bryant & Co. of Davenport, for $1,000, and the third for M. Smith & Co. of Omaha, for $769.

In the district court a number of attachment writs were issued, one being in favor of August Steffen for $183 for goods sold Stuhr, a second for the same party for goods sold by the Jens Lorenson Crockery company to the amount of $245, and a third, also in favor of Steffen, for $233 worth of goods sold by the Centennial Milling company. Darrow & Logan sued out a writ of attachment against the store for $205, and W. A. Maurer of this city one for $11.30. Maurer of this city one for $11.30. Mr. Stuhr, the bankrupt merchant, was in the race for the nomination of sheriff by the democrats last fall, and he was in it from the start to the finish. The race between him and the successful candidate was so close that he was induced to spend a good deal of his hard earned cash; and this fact is assigned by his friends here as the reason for the failure. He has also had considerable misfortune in the past few years, which, no, doubt, helped to hasten the downfall.

GOT QUICK ACTION.

Thrilling Experience of a Boy with a Trio of Motor Trains. Elmer, the son of Officer Wyatt of the police force, had a glimpse of the pearly gates Thursday afternoon from beneath the wheels of an electric motor. He is still on earth, however, and bears no marks of his exporionce excepting a number of severe bruises and a memory that will cling to him for a long time. He attempted to cross Broadway between wo trains that were p of speed on the side of the street next two On the other side, and going in the opposite direction, was another train that he had not noticed. As he struck the track the third motor struck him and landed him in a heap on the other track directly in front of the other that was then but a few yards away. The motorman put on the brakes and succeeded in slacking his speed so that the train stopped a short dis-tance from where the boy lay, but in the meantime he had crawled off the track and thus escaped with his life, which would not have been worth a six pence if he had been a rifle slower.

"STINKING OLD RAG OF TREASON." General Palmer Talks Hotly About

the Confederate Flag. NEW YORK, Nov. 27 .- The following appears today in a morning paper: "But in doing honor to the people of the south they should not confront us with that d-d stinking old rag of treason." These were the words of General John Pal mer, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, which numbers 400,000 members, in the course of his remarks at an early hour yesterday morning at the banquet give in his honor and also in honor of General Charles H. Freeman, the state department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, in the Clarendon hotel, Brooklyn. There was an outburst of applause from many of the Grand Army leaders who were present, while others smiled and whispered that the general was "excited." General Horace C. King, secretary of the society of the Army of the Potomac, who was chosen as toast master at the Clarendon dinner when Postmaster George I. Collins retired from the chair, was believed to be instrumental in provoking the flery remarks of General Palmer. After telling a humorous story, General King referred to the address made by Commander-in-Chief Palmer at the reception held in the early part of the night at the Fourteenth regiment armory. He construed what General Palmer had said at ne armory as the expression of a desire for the severance of fraternal relations with the outhern veterans, if the Confederate flag was to be used upon occasions in which union war veterans fraternized with them.

In his reply to General King, General Pal-mer said: "There is no class of men on God's earth that are half so appreciated for their gallantry and valor, or that so reflected credit on American valor, and the control of the control credit on American valor, and whom we are so willing to forgive, as the soldiers of the south. But we cannot forger the loss of hundreds of millions of money and of the lives of hundreds of thousands of men who are now lying in their graves because of the rebellion. In doing honor to the people of the south they should not confront us with that stinking old rag of treason. that men who were in the struggle at the front want no more fighting, but when we listen to the young scions who say that the Confederacy is to them an inspiration, and that they will avenge the cause of their soldlers, it is too much to bear in silence. Loyalty to the stars and stripes will ever nerve usin the cause of the union." A Preve tive for Croup. We want every mother to know that croup can be prevented. True croup never appears without a warning. The first symptom is hoarseness: then the child appears to have taken a cold or a cold may have accompanied the hearseness from the start. After that a peculiar rough cough is developed, which is followed by the croup. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse; a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will prevent the attack. many years' experience, that there are several very great advantages in pursuing a special business in which few persons are willing to engage, because it may be some little way out of their regular line of work. The most profit is made from special industries and products. The reason is that those persons who have the enterprise, energy and skill to engage in any unusual industry meet with less competition than those who employ themselves in any ordinary occupation. It is true that they have more difficulties to encounter and overcome, but this is the very reason that they get a belter price for their products and better pay for their labor. The winter dairy is one of the most profitable of these special There are several reasons for this. One is that few dairymen or farmers are making butter in the winter, and consequently the supply of the fresh article is limited. Another is age a winter dairy are experiened and skillful, and consequently produce a bet-ter quality of butter than others. Other reasons are that the management of a dairy in the winter is really easier and more certain than that of a summer dairy, because it is not so difficult to maintain the requisite temperature by the use of heat as by the use of ice; there is no trouble from premature souring of the milk; the cows are in better condition when they are properly cared for; the food can be more perfectly regulated, and the whole of

OF INTEREST TO THE FARMER.

The Nebraska State Board of Agriculure will hold its annual winter corn exhibst in Grant Memorial hall, Lincoln, commencing on the third Tuesday in January, 1892. It is the aim of the board to make this the grandest corn exhibit ever held in the United States, or anywhere else, for that matter. The year 1891 has been an exceptionally favored corn season. For this, if for no other reason, the best specimens known ought and can be presented; but for a greater reason the board desires this xhibit to be collected and retained for the World's Columbian fair at Chicago, This announcement is issued early that ample time may be given for careful and thorough selections of the very best, To transport safely, and prevent shell-ing off, each ear should be wrapped separate in wrapping paper and packed tightly in boxes or barrels, the latter preferable. Attention is called to the schedule of premiums and conditions. The specific quantities required are minimums, but do not prohibit as much more as exhibitors wish. In fact, the more the better. Entries should be made early, that ample space may be provided. Entry blanks will be furnished on application. That exhibitors may have full benefit of advertising, exhibits should be in place by Monday evening before the opening day, Tuesday, the 19th. While this is purely a corn show in so far as premiums are concerned, all products in season are invited, and space will be provided. Exhibits must be grown in Nebraska, the growth of 1891, and have been grown by the exhibitor. Statements as to soil, manner of savng, preparing seed, and time of planting, mode of culture and period of maturity, to accompany each entry. Wheat In Growing Corn. In the proper season of the year it was our intention to say something more about the growing of winter wheat in the corn than has been said, says the Iowa Homestead. The introduction of the corn cutting machines and the husking machine is going to revolutionize the methods of harvesting the corn crop of the west, and make it all the more suitable for growing a crop of wheat. In cutting corn it should be cut three hills by forty instead of twelve or ten by tweive hills square, which would make 120 hills in a shock. By this way of cutting the corn, the shocks will stand in the row close enough to touch each other, and the rows will be forty hills apart the other way or about ten rods, which will make fewer rows of corn to be in the way of the wheat, and provide better means of putting it in. The corn stubs can be harrowed down by giving it two good harrowings to tear out the stubs, then the wheat can be drilled without further preparation of the ground. We noticed in Missouri that a great deal of the wheat was put in that way. It seemed to be the preference where the corn crop was grown at all, and in some instances the corn had been hauled off the field for the purpose of putting in the wheat. If the corn is cut in this manner and the field put to wheat, the shocks can be left till a good opportunity for hauling off. In the spring oats can be put in the shock row, where there will be no wheat, to keep the weeds down and can be cradled or cut
