What Society is Doing Upon the Eve of the Holidays.

QUIETNESS IN THE REALMS OF FASHION.

Brilliant Reception by Mrs. Augustus Pratt-The High Five Party-Chat About Well Known People.

The week just ended has almost been devoid of social interest. The reaction after the brilliant receptions, the Thanksgiving reunions, the high teas, etc., of the week prior, has given little to chronicle outside of a Kensington, one or two card parties, a pretty reception, and a few minor affairs of interest only to those directly concerned. But from this on society will indulge its bent and the struggle will go on with additional fervor. While the approach of the Christmas holidays may detract somewhat from the list of events it is quite safe in predicting that the post-Christmas season will be enlivened by a number of swell affairs, which are even now known to have been de cided upon by well known hostesses who run to society doings as men run to base ball and horse races. I was talking to a bright young married woman the other day upon the craze for orchestras at dinners and teas which is now so rampant among the swell circles of society. The young lady thought that an orchestra for a reception was just the proper aper, but lamented that hostesses ins upon an orchestra of three or five pieces at a

"Now, when I entertain," said she, "I make it an invariable rule not to invite more than twenty guests. I try to have them con-genial, interested in each other and find that that number can make more delightful music than a fiddle and a clarionet wheezing turough a waltz or some theme from one of the operas. With this number the rooms can all be thrown open later and the infor-mality prevailing makes the chief charm of the dinner or tea. Unless I had in mind a nig crush, music would be no feature of an entertainment of mise.

Professional beauties are rapidly going out of fashion. Men prefer the quiet primrose new to the sunflower. One of the most charming attributes that a young girl can possess is a modest, shrinking nature, To blazen forth her charms is an injury rather

Since the opening, the Athletic club has been crowded, afternoons and evenings, by atuletic young men, old men and middle aged men, bent upon adding a little more size to their muscle, reducing their adipose tissue or strengthening some particular set of tendons but little used. Bowls attract a great number of fashionable young men, who would no more think of vaulting over a "horse" than they would of flying, and the three alleys are always filled per consequence. With 600 members it ought not to be much difficulty to make the club the biggest gind of a go and it looks now as if President Ames had the make up of a mascot in his composi-tion. It took a good deal of courage to guar-antee the rent of a building for five years, with nothing in sight, but George Ames is popular and he went about the thing in the right way, and he has the pleasant satisfac tion of seeing the club on a plane quite conalderably above older organizations of a similar nature in Kansas City, St. Louis, Denver and St. Paul.

Just as a mere suggestion; Wouldn't it be a graceful thing to set apart one afternoon in the week for the young lady friends of the members to participate in lowling or other sthictle exercise, as their fancy might indicate! Girls love ten pins as well as the boys, and they should be given an opportunity to show their ability in this direction.

In spite of continued raiting and abuse the fashion of "afternoon teas" holds its own and steadily gains in favor. There is no other form of entertainment in which one can pay off so many obligations at one time with so little expense. So much for the hostess. As for the guest, it means simply giving up a little time in an afternoon. One has but to say "good afternoon" to one's hostess, adiens are considered unnecessary and it is possible to "do" eight or ten teas in one afternoon. to "do" eight or ten teas in one afternoon. Afternoon tea itself has come to stay, and many a pretty little romance has started over the dainty tea table with its pretty ap-

Evening calls are quite out of fashion now, and it is much pleasanter to drop in of an afternoon and have a cup of tea with one's hostess on the way home than it used to be when an evening had to be given up to call-

"What are they doing at the Omaha club?" said a club man in reply to a question, "dying of dry rot. Really there is little doing and little talked about that would interest a dozen people outside the club walls. They play pool and billiards, drink a little sometimes, have some charming midnight sup-pers, but outside of these very mild dissipations Omana club men are a very exemplary set. Of course when such good fellows as John Tebbitts comes back to town, things brace up a little, but they soon drift back to a state of inanition. There has been some talk of the annual club ball, but as it does not occur till late in the season, or just before Lent, the chances are that for some time to come definite action will not be taken."

Are we to have a charity ball! Surely there is need of the money that is derived from such an event and there are as many poor now in Omaha as in past years, proba-bly more. The winter bids fair to be a long and a severe one. Why then should not the leaders of "light and life" get together and give a real old-fashioned ball for "Sweet Charity Sake," Who will start the ball rolling? Let us for once brethren, dwell together in harmony and revive a custom which, of late years, has been more honored in the breach than in the observance.

Musicale Rose. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Buchanan gave last Saturday evening, a charmingly informal musicale at their pretty new residence on south Thirty-ninth avenue, in honor of Judge and Mrs. Bartow of Chadron, Neb., and Miss Barber of Watertown, Wis. The house was exquisitely decorated with chrysanthemums, roses and smilax, a pretty feature of the evening being the substitution of waxen tapers, shaded effectively in pink, for the gas lights, although the chandeliers were also decorated with pink shades.

The event was in the nature of a house warming, it being the first large party to meet congenially under the roof of the hos-pitable host and hostess. The house is thoroughly modern in architecture, the design being to de away with felding doors and in their stead substitute arches and portieres, thus giving, when needed, the appearance of one large salon, the sight line being prettily broken by archways. The nall is roomy, while the rooms off are delightfully cosy and confortable, just such a nome as you would expect the general passenger agent of the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley rail-road and his estimable wife to occupy. There has been no attempt at lavish display either in decoration or furnishings; but, what is far pleasanter, it bears the impress of gentle refluement in every feature.

The drawing room was, for the occasion, converted into the music room, where the pianos were placed for those assisting in the program.

Mme. Muentefering began the charming evening by playing a Schumann Fantaisie, which mee with discriminating appliause from the devotees of music present, many of nem being amateurs of no small ability. Mrs. Fred Nye, who is the possessor of a very sweet soprano voice, sang with pleasant effect a dainty Florian song which had for its theme "love in a cettage." A quartette for two manos, "Hungarian Dances," by Brahms, followed and the opening, the of the distinct successes of the evening, the Magnifering, Miss players being Mme, Muentefering, Miss Clara Hawley, Mr. Roy Smith of Fremont and Mrs. Buchanan.

Miss Hilliard, who has created a furore by her clever reading since her evening at the Lininger art gallery, recited "Tue Studio," which won an encore to which she responded with a dialect bit very effectively done, "Pat's Letter." Saint Saens' "Danse Macabee." a duet for first and Mrs. Muentefering at the second, aroused the enthusiasm of the musicians, for it was faultlessly played, the tempo. being particularly well taken.

Mr. Roy Smith played three of his own ompositions, "Waltz Caprice," "Polka" and a "Humoresque," which also aroused the en-thusiasm of the audience, for it is not every day Omaha people are permitted to near composer interpret his own compositions. Mrs. J. W. Cotton, whose voice grows more tuneful and more flexible with the years, sang exquisitely an Arabian song that fit-tingly closed a very delightful evening.

The refreshments were elaborate, the guests being seated at small tables throughout the rooms. Among the guests were: Captain and Mrs. Trnett, Dr. Summers, Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Morse, Mrs. Lander, Miss ijams, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Alexander, Judge and Mrs. Wakeley, Coionel Champion Chase, Mr. and Mrs. W. Wallace, Miss Shattuck, Mrs. Churchill Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mrs. Churchill Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Ray-mond, Mr. and Mrs. George Gilbert, Mr. Drake, Mr. and Mrs. JohnBarker, Miss Fannie Butterfield, Miss Melona Butterfield, Mr. and Mrs. Cornish, Mr. Joseph Millard, Judge Woolworth, Miss Ogden, General and Mrs. Hawley, Misses Mary and Clara Hawley, Mr. and Mrs. Burt, Judge and Mrs. Bartow, Mrs. Barber of Watertown, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Allee, Miss Millard, Mr. Roy Smitn, Fremont; Mrs. Nye, Mrs. Cotton, Mr. and Mrs. Muenteforing, Mr. and Mrs. Kilpatrick, Miss Hilliard, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Babcock.

A Brilliant Reception. Thursday was a typical December day. It was cold and dreary, while the wind played hide and seek aroung the corners, making a warm, cozy fire the most charming thing in the world. But notwithstanding the day's roughness the reception which Mrs. Augustus Pratt gave on Thursday afternoon from 3 until 6 brought out the fair sex in large numbers, and their heroism in braving the storm was more than rewarded by the charm which pervaded the beautiful home of the hostess at 1203 Park avenue. The fioral decorations were quite elaborate, chrysanthemums, roses and smilax playing no inconsequential part in the arrangement of the rooms. The dining room was particularly beautiful in its decorations of yellow and white. The table was covered by a yellow silk cloth edged in wide white lace; over the silk cloth was an exquisitely drawn center piece with mirror, while upon it rested a handsome crystal candelabra, while yellow tapers, prettily shaded, seemed just emerging from the interior of water lilies, making a very effective picture. An orchestra stationed in an adjoining room played an excellent program of cham-ber music throughout the hours of the reception, leading additional pleasure to the affair.

Mrs. Pratt was assisted by her daughter, Miss Pratt, Miss Bessie Tatum, Mrs. Bart-lett, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Bliss, Mrs. Cady, Mrs. Goodrich, Mrs. W. E. Clarke and Mrs. Miss Detweller and Miss Alexander served the punch from a bowl beautifully ornamented with grapes and decorated with smilax, while a quartette of pretty girls, Miss Himebaugh, Miss Tatum, Miss Moore and Miss Lou Johnson served refreshments in the dining room.

Mrs. Pratt wore a handsome gown of black lace trimmed heavily in jet, diamonds Miss Pratt looked very sweet in a simple costume of white mulle trimmed with Valenonnes lace, pink roses. Miss Elizabeth Tatum, soon to become bride, wore a pretty costume of gray crepe with bodice of striped brocade, white roses. Mrs. E. Bartlett looked handsome and stately in a toilette of heavy black grenadine with passementerie trimming, dia Miss Detweller was very dainty in a pink crepe trimmed prettily with ribbons.

Miss Alexander wore a govern of white challie, which blended beautifully with the pink that her associate wore at the punch bowl.

Mrs. Cady was bandsomely gowned in an old rose silk trimmed with jeweled passementerie, diamonds.

Mrs. W. E. Clarke were a pretty fawn colored slik trimmed in black lace.

Mrs. Goodrich wore an effective combination of black lace while Mrs. Bliss appeared in black silk with red roses. Mrs. Tatum also wore a clack silk costume, her ornaments being diamonds.

The young ladies in the dining room were gowned to correspond with the decorations which was a very pretty and very effective Miss Moore wore yellow silk, decollete, made in a very simple manner but very becoming to her. Miss Tatum graced a gown of yellow slik trimmed with lace decol-lette. Miss Himebaugh, a thoroughly fin de steele maiden, wore white crepe, trimmed beautifully in gold while Miss Johnson wore a handsome white china silk.

Progressive High Five. Wednesday evening Mme. Norris, 314 North Fifteenth street, gave a progressive high five party in honor of her daughter Myrtle who has recently returned from the St. Francis academy which she has been attending for some four years past.

There were present Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Crane, Misses Josie Perrigo, Louisa Horn, Miss Reed, Ida Kane, Anna M. Firth, Claude Ratcliff, Alice Parrott, Lizzie Galatina Messrs. Dr. H. L. Burrell, H. S. Keffer, Harry Kelly, Lew Roberts, Harry Lingle. Harry Kirby, Frank Collett, Frank Rickey, Frank Kane and C. E. White. The prizes were captured by Miss Perrigo, a souvenir spoon of Omaha; Alice Parrott, the booby prize, a tin rattiebox: Lew Roberts took the first prize for the gentlemen, a handsome deck of cards in a silver case, en-graved, and by hard work Mr. Frank Rickey secured the gentlemen's booby prize, a tin horn with a ribbon on it. Only eight games were played and the balance of the evening was devoted to music and a social time gen "Prince Puss in Boots."

The Ladies' Society of the First Congregational church will give, under the direction of Mrs. J. H. Wheeler and Mrs. Philip Igoe, a children's operetta called "Prince Puss in Boots," Friday evening, December 18, and Saturday matinee, a number of the Sunday school children taking part. The libretto is the work of Nina Grey Clarke, while the score has been written by Louis C. Eison. The cast is as follows:

Wednesday evening the Goodrich club, a social organization which has met with great success since its formation, gave the fourth lancing party of the season at Goodrich hall under exceptionally pleasant circumstances, notwithstanding that the weather was decidedly unpleasant. The party was a masquerade, the first of the season, and was greatly enjoyed by those present. The grand march was led by Mr. Frank Potter and Miss Pearl Reece. A neat program containing ten dances was distributed during the evening.

Among those in attendance were: Messrs.
Patrick, O'Brien, Stoney, Simpson, Stevens,

n an open letter to the public: in an open letter to the public:

The old friends of the undersigned, who remember him as, for a time, the director of the Omaha Philharmonie society, will cheerfully bear witness that he has never introduced to the Omaha public a musical attraction which did not lay claim to uncommon merit. Among these attractions have been the Thomas orchestra, Gilmore's name, the Marine band, the Strauss orchestra of Vienna, etc.

In following these great organizations with the Austrian Juvenile band, which he has recently imported from Vienna, Mr. Riakely desires to make plain what the youth of its members might not imply, that it is in every respect worthy to be ranked artistically with any organization anywhere existing. Though members might not imply, that it is in every respect worthy to be ranked artistically with any organization anywhere existing. Though young in years, these boys are veterans in art. They are a Gilmore's band in fire and dash, a Thomas in precision and finish, a Strauss in the verve, abandon and rhythmic swing of their dance music, and in their inimitable encores they stand alone, capable as no other organization in existence is capable, of interesting and delighting a musical or promiscuous audience. Press and propose in every city they have thus far visited have been dumbfounded by the marvelous excellence of their performances.

The band is the musical sensation of the season. It will be enjoyed beyond anticipation by every citizen who hears it play, and when I say to my old Omaha friends and the additional tens of thousands who have since multiplied its population and made it a greaticity, that they cannot miss hearing this wonderful organization without sincerely regretting their mistake, they will understand the assurance as coming from one who never has, and never will, introduce to the public a musical organization not of the highest rank and the first order of merit. Very sincerely.

Seats will be placed on sale for the engagement tomorrow morning at Meyer Bros'.

ment tomorrow morning at Meyer Bros', music store. A pleasant feature of the en-gagement will be the very reasonable price of seats made for the children of Omaha at the Saturday matines, 25 cents being the amount fixed upon.
