Fox's Ghastly Joke.

By some strange fale just after the short funeral procession had formed on Twenty-fifth street it was met at Twenty-sixth, a block below, by the vehicle containing Fox, the murderer, who was being taken by Chief Brennan to the county jail for safe keeping. The fact that his wife had died from the effects of the bullet wound and that he was a murderer had been kept carefully from him. He did not know that in that hearse was the body of the wife he had murdered.

"Rather a short funeral procession," he remarked almost facetiously to the chief, who had drawn rein on his horses to let the cortege pass. The chief looked curiously at his prisoner, and seeing no indications that he knew of whose funeral he was speaking, so jestingly, answered: "Yes, it is, and it makes my heart ache to

Fox said nothing more. He was of the opinion all the time that he was to be taken to the hospital to nurse his slightly gashed thoat and his almost devilish eyes were lit up with a gleam of satisfaction. When the conveyance stopped in front of the county jail he was greatly disgruntled.

On the was greatly disgranical. On the way to the jail he blamed his wife for the trouble that culminated in the mur-der. He told the officers that his wife had given him just reasons for jealousy on ac-count of her actions with a fellow named Peterson. At one time matters grew so scandalous, he claimed, that he threatened to cut Peterson's throat and came very near doing All this information was volunteered by pearance of funds is unwarranted. Yet so positive were some of the veterans that the condition of affairs demanded an investigation that a committee was appointed for that purpose to check up all stubs, papers and vouchers in the bands of the county cierk and tance about seventeen miles. The motive for this change is said to be the desire of the bands of the county clerk and county treasurer relating to the fund in any Ogden next season. This was delayed and the instructions have never been carried

At Elkhorn headquarters the wild rumor At Elkhorn headquarters the wild rumor from the northwest is greeted with an in-credulous smile. The grade of the road makes a drop of about 500 feet from Hay Springs to Chadron, but it is gradual, being distributed over seventizen miles. The line at present runs through a natural depression in the con-tent of the lend. It is still that if the reout, as the chairman of the investigating committee moved away and no one was appointed in his place, and the inquiry was not ushed There is no disguising the fact that a very anpleasant frame of mind still pervades local Grand Army circles, and that the relie/ fund tour of the land. It is stated that if the ruuestion receives its full share of attention. At a meeting of Custer post has night of attention. At a meeting of Custer post has night there was a spirited contest as to who should receive the endorsement of the post for the position of relief commissioner. Comrades Thomas and Henderson led the opmored change were made the track would have to cross the pine ridge, and, as Crawford lles about as high as Chadron, the grade for some distance would be too heavy to make it a desirable route. The wish of the Hay posing factions, and Mr. Henderson finally secured the coveted endorsement. Meanwhile the other posts are not idle, and a great deal of work will be done before the matter finally goes before the county commissioners. As to the statement that the fund for this year has all been expended while vouchers are to be found for barely one fourth of the amount, inquiry at the county treasurer's office throws a different light on the matter. The money is turned over to the relief commissioners each month in amounts depend-ing on the amount of taxes collected.

Inasmuch as taxes were not due until Octo-ber very little of this year's taxes have yet been paid, and the commission has thus far received only $1,465.35 of the $7,000 that is their share for this year.

Indications are that the statements of the commission to the effect that they had no funds on hand led to the starting of the story that the year's fund had been exhausted when this was not actually the case. The story lost nothing in its travels, and was seized on as opportune campaign material by the disgruntied ones who were desirous of a

"I believe that the general results of the late beet sugar convention at the capital of of this state will be beneficial." said Mr. particular Henry T. Oxnard, the pioneer of the beet sugar industry in this country, to a BEE reporter at the Millard hotel.

this great industry. "The main question to be solved, and I think that is practically solved in this state, is the cultivation of the beets. When our farmers come to a full understanding of the work and go about scientifically the question of sugar production in this state will be solved. We have the soil and the climate. What we need is scientific cultivation of the beets. Nature has done her work well. If the farmers of Nebraska will do their part as well we can produce an astounding quantity of excellent sugar. I have recently addressed about forty letters to our most successful best sugar farmers to get them to send me a full and careful explanation and description of the methods they pursued in the work of culti-vating their beet crop. At the meeting of the city council last evening the first thing considered was the legality of the sale of the intersection paving bonds. The attorney held that the sale of the bonds was legal. This caused a sigh of relief on the part of the council, some of whom feared that they were in the soup on account of the affair,

Councilman Wood introduced a resolution to draft an ordinance compelling owners of lots abutting on curbed and paved streets to lower or raise sidewalks to the established grade.

The request of Thomas Fleming to be allowed to remove his saloon from Twenty-fourth street to 2620 N street was referred. The city clerk was instructed to notify the Water Works company to put the sidewalk on I street in proper condition.

A petition asking that a sidewalk be or-dered on E street, from Twenty-fourth to Twenty-sixth streets, was referred.

The final estimate of East Q street paving was accepted.

The monthly report of the city treasurer was referred. The offer of Norton Bros. to take par flat Arrangements have been made to rent the second story of the brick building which stands on the northwest corner of Fifteenth and Harney streets and joins walls with the club house. An arch will be cut from the present billiard oom into the new rooms.

This enlargement was deemed necessary by the large increase in attendance of club members. Work on the improvements will be commenced at once and the new quarters will be commenced at once and the new quarters will be opened shortly after January This addition will admit of several more illiard tables, a larger card room, fencing quarters and a boxing room. The present card room will be turned into a cloak room, an improvement which was badly needed. The new rooms will be elegantly furaished and fitted with every convenience for the comfort of the club members.

Bright's Disease Cure company of 1300 Broadway, New York City, has a specific that cures Bright's disease and the lesser irritations and inflammations of the kidneys: n this there seems to be no doubt. Mr. J. W. Corbin, the general manager of the company, with others, took hold of it from a business standpoint and the demand for the treatment has grown in a really wonderful manner. The fact of his connection with the remedy and the formation of the company is due to the saving of the life of his brotner, Mr. William M. Corbin of Hartford, Conn.

The reporter of "The Mercantile & Finan-cial Times," in the course of his investigation, was given the names of persons who have been cured and who are more than wil ling to testify to those who are afflicted with Bright's disease. A noticeable feature of this company's methods attracted my attention, which the writer predicts will meet the approval of the public; they do not claim that this medicine cures all known diseases, but that it will oure Bright's disease and other forms of kidney trouble.

There are thousands among the readers of this paper who ought to investigate this remedy. Endorsements and tetails are cheerfully sent by the company and examination carefully made, within expense to the the patient, by the company's physician. It is evident that this concern is building on the pasis of thorough investigation and no misepresentation.

There is also talk of ex-Senator Ingalls being appointed. Looking at Senator lights being appointed. Looking at it from a purely political standpoint, I should say it would be proper politics on the part of a republican governor to appoint ex-Senator logalis. He would have only one year to serve before the legislature would elect a successor, but ex-Sen-ator Ingalls would cut a wide swath just now as as a senator from Kansas. He would be the head and froat of the Kansas delega-tion beyond the possible question of a doubt
