in San Francisco for a time they started for Australia, but stopped at Honolulu, in the Sandwich Islands. After staying there a few days they returned to San Francisco, and from there they went to Portland, Ore., to Helena, Mont., to Minneapolis, and finally to St. Louis. At the latter place they were located by Chief Cary, who at once started off in oursuit. When he arrived there he found by Child Cary, who at ones started on in pursuit. When he arrived there he found they had gone to La Porte, Ind., where the mother of Mrs. Champ lived. They left there for Chicago before Cary arrived, but were arrested just as they alighted from the Lake Shore railway train. When informed of the charge that had been made against them, they at once said they would come to Council Blaffs without putting the authori-ties to the necessity of getting out requisition papers. When they arrived here they were taken to the Grand hotel and stayed all day in room 402, overlooking Bayliss park, in charge of an officer. They were vis-ited by a number of friends, all of whom sympathized with them in their latest trouble. After remaining in the hotel all day they secured bail in the sum of $3,000 and were released pending a hearing, which will be given them next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The prosecution will be managed by County Attorney Organ, Hon. Smith Mc-Pherson and J. N. Baldwin, while Kunball and Champ will be defended by Burke & Cassady and Judge E. E. Aylesworth.

It is claimed by the attorneys for the pros ecution that it will be proven that Kimball & Champ realized at least $159,000 out of their assignment, in addition to the $6,000 men-tioned in the present case. Those who are connected with the defence, however, insist that the trial will show up everything favor ably to the two defendants, and will also prove that the present prosecution is merely Postmaster Treynor made each of his employes a present yesterday in commemora-tion of Unristmas day. The employes in the office of J. W. Squire presented that worthy gentleman last evening, a new Webster with a convenient stand. J. D. Crockwell recognized the services of his score of clerks by treating them to an oyster supper at Louie's, at the close of the evening rush. The following parties were granted mar ringe licenses yesterday; Andy Bowling and Winnie Shropshire, Franklin O. Smith and Pluma S. Dodson, all of this city. The State Teachers association will hold

Its annual meeting in Des Molnes, beginning next Tuesday and lasting three days. About a dozen will attend from this city.

An entertainment was given last evening in the Fifth Avenue Methodist clurch. A program in which members of the Sunday school took part was the main feature of the evening's enjoyment.

There will be a meeting of Council Bluffs Council No. 1, Commercial Pilgrims of Amer-ics, at Assembly hall tomorrow evening for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. A good attendance is desired.

Anna Fairman died yesterday morning at 8 o'clock at her residence, 106 South First street, aged 43 years. Sho was a sister of Mrs. J. Perry and Mrs. W. S. Paulson. Aunouncement of the funeral will be made later. Ethel S. Searles filed a petition in the dis-trict court for a divorce from her husband, Milford E. Searles, alleging drunkenness and inhuman treatment. She also asks the custody of their two children, Hattle and

A cantata entitled "On Christmas Eve, or the New Year's Mistake," was performed at the Congregational church last evening before a large audience, which consisted of the scholars of the Sunday school and their parents and friends.

A new supply of postal cards has just been received at the postoffice. They come in three sizes and styles, one being considerably larger and one somewhat smaller than the ones now in use. The first invoice to the Bluffs office consists of 100,000.

The Christmas number of the War Cry is being circulated about the streets by Captain Smith of the Salvation Army. It is a very creditable publication and contains, among other creditable things, an autograph letter from Commodore Ballington Booth.

T. Cary, William Powers and J. Regan col-lected from the employes of the Union Pacific in this city the sum of $17.70 for Mrs. Cath-erine Carroll, whose husband died a short time ago, leaving her in destitute circum-stances. The gift was greatly appreciated by its recipient.

An answer was filed in the district court resterday by the defendants in the case of L. W. Tulleys and others against the Anglo-American Loan and Trust company. The allegations made in it are substantially the same as those made by James Gordon Clark in the interview published in the last SUS-DAY BEE. The motion to dissolve the injunc-tion will be argued tomorrow.

The Presbyterian Sunday school had Christmas entertainment last evening. It was in the shape of a social, a novel feature being that, instead of giving the children presents, the children were invited to bring whatever offerings they could in the way of provisions, clothing, etc. They responded liberally, and a large amount of contributions were made. The proceeds will be divided, by the deacons of the church, among the poor people of the city.

W. S. Wright, manager and president of the Gas company, last evening was the re-cipient of a pleasing reminder of the good will of his nincteen employee. It was a larg leathern easy chair, in which he could rest comfortably while reading the testimonials that accompanied it. The employes gave special expression to their appreciation of Mr. Wright's thoughtfulness and generosity in the treatment of those who, by accident or illness, had been obliged to lose time. In other respects too, the relationship of employer and employe seems to have been made pleasant.

How They Will Celebrate.

Christmas will be celebrated in the usual manner in Council Bluffs. For the past two weeks everything has been bustle and commotion in the stores, especially those where toys and fancy articles have been on sale. Business has been brisk, and the merchants will be glad of a chance to rest and take a long breath for a change. The banks, courts, county and city offices will be closed all day, as well as a large number of business houses. Although some of the stores will remain open in the morning for a few hours, nearly all will be closed at noon, and the day will be given over to enjoyment. All depart ments of the postoffice will be open during the usual hours in the forenoon. Carriers will make the usual deliveries and collections in the forenoon, and in the business districts will make one collection in the afternoon, leaving the postoffice at 2:30 o'clock. A number of entertainments are on the program for this evening. One of the most interesting will undoubtedly be that at the Deaf and Dumb institute, under the auspices of Superintendent Henry W. Rothert. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend the Christmas festival at 7 o'clock in the chapel of the institute. The Typographical union will give a dance at the Masonic temple. There has been a large sale of tickets, and the indications are that the attendance will be very large. A special train will be run to Omaha at the close of the dancing so as to accommodate those who wish to stay later than midnight. No one will be allowed to dance during the first part of the evening excepting those in

INFORMATION IS SECURED.

Senators and Congressmen Compelled to Do Much Routine Work -What the Bureau of Claims Has Accomplished.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 24, -[Special Telegram to THE BER. |-The adjournment of congress without allowing the introduction of a bill in the house has postponed until after the holidays the consideration of a subject that is likely to attract considerable attention during the session. At a recent gathering of forty or fifty representatives W. C. Breckenridge of Kentucky discoursed eloquently upon the sufferings of members of congress under the constant sticam of appeals from constituents for information, advice and assistance of every conceivable variety. It was the attempt to do justice to just this sort of demand that killed Senator Plumb and his fate has induced a suiden change of policy an the part of many of his associates in both houses.

They are looking about now for some way of relieving themselves of work. Mr. Breck-enridge suggested that the government should establish a national bureau of infor-mation, supported at public expense, to which congressmen could refer the majority which congressmen could refer the majority of the queries that now weigh them down under such a load of care. He also advances the idea that this bureau should see to the collection of claims against the government. The last idea was promptly discountenaced. Another member re-marked that it would look curious to see the povernment prose-cuting and defending the same cases. He added that it was unnecessary to take any trouble about claims, since they were aiready amply provided for by THE BEE and Examiner Bureau of Claims.

This view was generally accepted by many of the congressmen having already intrusted the Bureau of Claims with all the work of the kind heaped upon them by their constitu-ents, but the ider of the bureau of information found favor, and one member soon after prepared a bill which he submitted to THE BEE and Examiner Bureau of Claims for advice. Should this measure pass, it night relieve the associated western newspapers of con-siderable gratuitous work, although they would cheerfully continue to do this work for anybody that asked for it. Mr. Breckinridge's bureau of informa-It. Mr. Breckinridge's bureau of informa-tion is already in existence, not supported by the government, however, but by Tus Brs and Examiner Bureau of Claims, which answers every letter addressed to it, and that without charge. It gives all applicants the benefit, free of charge, of the best legal advice. When a man writes to ask whether he has a legal claim against the government it considers the case \rightarrow arefully government, it considers the case : arefully and then forwards its opinion. If the man's case has no merit it tells him so and the matter ends there with no expense to the applicant and if the claim appears to be one that can be sustained it says so. Then if the claimant chooses to put his case into the hands of the Burgan it carries it through, paying all the fucidential expenses and con-ducting any correspondence that may appear to be necessary from time to time, receiving finally a nominal fee, fixed by the court, if successful, and nothing at all if unsuccessful.

It will probably be unable to dispense en-tirely with the general information branch of its business, but if the government should decide to have it, as Mr. Heckenridge proposes, it would appreciate the assistance.
