

OHIO'S SENATORIAL PRIZE.

Sherman and Foraker have a Preliminary Trial of Strength.

RESULT OF THE SPEAKERSHIP CONTEST.

Sherman Men See in an Angry Victory for the Old Warfare—Incidents of the Day at Columbus—Interviews.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 3.—The senatorial contest is still undecided. The speakership contest is over. Laylin, the Sherman candidate, is nominated, but the result has failed to bring that cheerful acquiescence in the inevitable that the Sherman people so confidently expected from Foraker and his followers.

There is one other prominent Ohio republican besides Senator Sherman who does not share this view of the loyal friends of the ex-governor. He is Hon. Charles Foster, a member of President Harrison's cabinet, and secretary of the national treasury.

Hon. John Sherman: Accept my sincere congratulations. This is the message which Secretary Foster sent to Senator Sherman this afternoon as soon as he had read the Associated press bulletin at Washington announcing that the Foraker candidate for the speakership had been beaten by the Sherman man by a vote of 58 to 34.

"Foster has been all the time the agent of the administration in the effort to elect Sherman, and this message which Secretary Foster sent to Senator Sherman this afternoon as soon as he had read the Associated press bulletin at Washington announcing that the Foraker candidate for the speakership had been beaten by the Sherman man by a vote of 58 to 34.

"I am not discouraged," said Ex-Governor Foraker, calmly, but decisively, "and I still expect to win. The speakership contest is not the senatorial contest, and it is not settled, the other is yet to be fought. Five men voted for Laylin who will vote for me for United States senator. I know they will vote, and I know they will vote for me. In the senatorial caucus of next week will the senatorial battle be fought and won."

Thus by easy graduation the spirits in the Foraker thermometer have mounted, until tonight the Foraker phalanx have apparently forgotten that they were swept over their camp but a few hours since.

Around the headquarters of Senator Sherman the mood is one of quiet assurance. It is claimed by the senator's friends, and apparently conceded by the opposition, that Sherman would have a decided majority in the caucus, and the speakership having been fought on senatorial lines and Laylin, the Sherman candidate selected by a majority of four, is the man who will be elected.

"The Associated Press would like to know, senator, how you regard the situation now," he was asked. "Very favorably," replied the senator in a tone of quiet assurance. "I expect to be nominated, and I do not know that the figures are at all material."

"When do you expect the senatorial caucus to be held?" "I do not know. That is a matter with which I have not got anything to do. It is settled by the members of the two houses themselves."

HOW TO SECURE A PATENT.

Directions to Inventors Issued by The Bee Bureau of Claims.

The Course Followed by the Author of an Invention to Protect His Rights—Costs of Obtaining a Patent.

To the Inventor the all important question presents itself, "How can I secure a patent?" and this The Bee Bureau offers the following explanation:

Inventors as a class are not familiar with the law which governs the protection of their inventions, and it is often necessary for them to employ an attorney to secure a patent for them.

Under the laws of the United States letters patent are granted to any person who has invented or discovered any new and useful art, machine, manufacture or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereon.
