Six Prisoners Escape From Pottawattamie County's Bastile.

DUG A HOLE THROUGH A BRICK WALL.

Other Inmates of the Jail Indulged in Noisy Merrymaking to Conceal the Efforts of the Liberty Seekers-One Captured.

When Sheriff Hazen went to feed the prisoners in the county tail vesterday morning he was surprised to find that about half his guests had disappeared. A little investigation showed a hole in the grating of one of the west windows, through which the miss ing ones had made their escape.

Six prisoners, who were confined for moror less serious offenses, were gone, and they had left no word for him to indicate where they might be found. Only those were left who were serving short sentences, and they would in all probability have gone also had not their love for a good warm place to stay and plenty to eat exceeded their craving for Those who were missing were Edward S Fegiey, who was sentenced a couple of months ago to a term of nine months for committing a murderous assault upon his wife; William Stewart, a colored man charged with assault with intent to commit nurder; Jack O'Donnell and William J. Douglas, charged with holding up a travel-ing man from Omaha named Blotzky at Neola; Henry Moore, who stole $15 from a Neola; Henry Moore, who stole $15 from a boy on lower Broadway and skipped for Omaha, being brought back on a requisition; and Edward Ward, who is charged with anatching a purse from the hand of Mrs. O'Connell on upper Broadway not long ago. The five last named had all been bound over grand jury, and their cases would have been tried at the coming term of court had they been indicted by that

The alarm was first given by one of the other prisoners, who rapped loudly on the door of the jail while the family of the sherif were at breakfast. The man who gave the alarm said that the delivery took place at 7:30 o'clock the evening before, so that his anxiety that the fugitives should be recap-tured had not apparently interfered with his night's rest. During the evening the prisoners made a great deal of noise by their singing and shouting, as it was afterwards remembered, and it is supposed that the noise was made to serve as a cover for the operations that were going on.

The padiock on the door leading into the corridor had been sawed through and the foor opened, allowing the prisoners to pass into the west corridor, at the end of which was a grated window, one of the bars of which had been sawed through at both ends and removed, making an aperture about a foot long and a little narrower, through which they clambered out. None of them had any clothing on besides what they had been wearing in the jail every day, and the must have found the night air decidedly cold before they got through breathing it.

The shoriff has been in the habit of allow ing his prisoners to work the cylinder them-selves at night, each man going inside whenever he sees fit, and when they are al in the jailer came in and locked the cylinder door. It is supposed that the men who con emplated making the break stayed outside and the door was locked without the jailer noting their absence. This is the first time any of the prisoners have gotten out of the county jail in this way since three years ago last August, when nine of them escaped at one time. Fegley's wife brought her baby to the jail yesterday morning bright and early to see its father. She showed plainly that she had been born for the stage by the look of genuine astonishment her face put on when informed that Mr. Fegley had broken out o jail and had in all probability spent the night with her. She stoutly denied having known that he had escaped, but the sheriff was not worked by the bluff. A couple of deputies went down to the Fegley house in the western part of the city and made a thorough. search. They were just about to give it up when they chanced to notice a little recess back of the chinney upstairs that had scaped them. Upon investigating they found regley brought back to the jail to serve out the rest

An Elegant Suite of Rooms.

Perhaps the handsomest suite of business rooms in the city are those that are now occupied by A. A. Clark & Co., second floor over the American Express company on the corner of Main and Broadway. Mr. Clark has done a very fine loan brokerage business during the past year, and the increase has been so great that at the present time the large front room formerly occupied was too small to afford proper accommodations for it, not to take into consideration the future prospects, which indicate a still heavier increase. To obtain sufficient room nearly the entire second floor has been remodeled and a large well lighted room added to the front apartment. The new apartment, together with the former office, has been decorated in accordance with Mr. Clark's own ideas, and the work is a permanent compliment to his artistic ability. The wall decorations are modest and handsome, and are the newest ideas in that line. YOUNG LADIES ENTERTAIN.

Leap Year Dancing Party at the Grand s Brilliant Success. The leap year party given by the young ladies and the young matrons of Council Bluffs tast Wednesday evening at the Grand hotel was, without doubt, the most brilliant affair of the kind ever witnessed in this city The committees which were appointed to look after the general arrangements several weeks ago put in days and nights of anxious thought and worry for fear everything would not pass off just right, but all these fears proved to be groundless, as there was not a hitch from the start to the finish, in spite of their lack of experience.

The gentlemen were called for by their lady scorts and taken to the hotel in carriages The guests commenced to arrive about o'clock, and from that time until 9 they kept coming. The dining room, on the top floor, was thrown open for dancing, the orchestra occupying the northwest corner. The dance program consisted of nineteen numbers, and was not completed until 2 o'clock in the Elaborate refreshments served about midnight. THERE'S MONEY IN GRAPES.

The Extent and Profit of the Council Bluffs Vineyards.

SOME ADVANTAGES OF ITS LOCATION.

Wine Producing Rather Limited by Prohibition, but a Change Expected-The Experience of Growers-What May · Be Eastly Seen.

One of the facts stranger than fiction is that although grape culture is so important an interest in Iowa the census returns for the state contain no allusion to it. Within a radius of five miles of Council Bluffs it it estimated that there are 300 acres in grapes, producing an average of 933 tons and of a value of $36,000. Fifty car loads are shipped from here yearly.

A. S. Bonham put out the first regular vineyard in this country. That was in 1864. He had to meet the quite freely expressed opinions of many that he was, in plain English, a fool. The courage of his convictions, however, that he was the plain that the plant of the plant kept him at his vines until he ero long had the satisfaction of seeing public opinion change, and the jingle in his pockets was practical proof that the public, and not he, was the fool. Starting the first year with 500 vines, the next year he put in 3,0.0 more, and so his vineyard grow until it covered fourteen acres. A. C. Graham was among the first to put out a few vines as was also John Keiler, but on no such extensive scale and their success was therefore not so no-ticeable. In the early years Colonel Babbitt had attempted small fruit raising, but climatic and other misfortunes proved serious obstacles to success, and this had confirmed the public opinion, as expressed in the lead ing paper of the town at the time, that it was useless to attempt the raising of fruit here

The editorials in the old files would read strangely in the market place of today. Does it pay to raise grapes! If you ask grocer he will naturally say, "No, there isn't the money in it that there used to be. Last season the prices were too low. The com-mission men got all the profits. It isn't such a bonanza as folks think." Man is always a discontented animal, but as soon as the venis opened long enough to allow the natura grumbling to escape, and one gets down to facts and figures, it appears that there is rich, round profit for the grape grower. The following figures are obtained from a practi cal experienced grape grower in this vicinity
 Cost of land per acre
 $ 100 0

 First year, plants and labor
 23 0

 Second year, labor
 13 0

 Third year, trellis and labor
 50 0

Receipts, third year, 2,175 pounds at 3c 8 65 25 is to be deducted for cultivation $10 to $15 an acre and about 25 per cent for basketing marketing, etc., making the net returns a least $120 a year. In other words, the Council Bluffs grape grower, with average goo fortune, one year with another, can get in cash each year his original investment o vest $115 and thereafter get a dividend o $120 each year?

Another equally reliable authority places the value of raw land in this vicinity, suitable for grape culture, at $200 an acre. He estimates that the timber can be cleared off and made to pay one-half of the price, thus reducing the actual cost to $100 an acre. The limit rear's expense for breaking the ground. irst year's expense for breaking the ground and for plants, he puts at $29; the second year at $10 for labor, the year one raises enough grapes to pay for the labor, and also for the expenses of the first two years, so for the expenses of the first two years, so that there remains only an investment of $100 an acre for the land. The fourth year one gets an average yield of three tons, which would bring in $180. The fifth year is generally the largest crop, probably four tons, or $240, at 3 cents a pound. The cost of the labor would be about $25 an acre.

So it seems by any system of figuring the facts as gathered from the growers them selves, with the usual shrinkage caused by the discontent common to all men, whatever their vocation, grape culture in and about lull's is one of the most profitab kinds of business. Even at 2 cents a pound with an average yield of three tons to the acre, the grower realizes $110, and if he pays as high as $40 for labor the net earnings o an acre are $80, which is a dividend of 40 pe cent, even if the land is worth $200 an core. In the early years grapes have sold here as high as from 15 to 20 cents a pound, but they have gradually dropped until now the consumer gets them for only a few cents a pound. As a result the the increase of the consumption is great and the producer profits thereby.

The ordinary baskets, containing ten pounds of grapes, cost 314 cents each. They weigh ten pounds when filled, and the packer really puts but nine pounds of grape; in so that he gets back nearly the cost of

The most remarkable vield of grapes cited being produced in this vicinity was by Bonham, who secured seven and onehalf tons to an acre, three acres bringing in twenty-two and one-half tons, and solling for $3,200 cash—nearly $1,100 an acre. Council Bluffs is peculiarly adapted for this industry. The hill-sides are just what is needed for vineyards, and the soil seems to have been mixed by nature for this very purpose. The official analysis of the soil in these bluffs, as given in the state geological reports, shows that the soil is precisely the same as that which along the Rhine, and where the famous vineyards of the old world are played.

f the old world are planted. Another great advantage is the presence of a large and growing home market. Omaha and Council Bluffs united form a metropolis the population of which is close to 200,000 in number. Then there are the many railways contering here, reaching out in all directions opening a market the extent of which car hardly be calculated. Certain it is that present yield of 900 tons of grapes are a taste for the great market of which this is the center. The great region north and west looks to these vineyards for the earliest and the best, and in this market Council Bluffs has no successful competitor.

Another advantage is that the climatic conditions are such as to cause grapes to mature at least two weeks earlier than they do even on the west side of the river, and still more early than other sections where one might naturally expect early fruit. In prohibition Iowa the possibility of mak this a wine producing center seems little distant, unless the present law is re-pealed, but there is no doubt but that i would prove more profitable to the produces than selling the grapes, it is estimated that it takes from twelve to fourteen pounds of grapes to produce a gallon of pure wine, which would sell from 60 to 70 cents. In Missouri the growers claim to realize 5 cents a pound for grapes by making them into wine. After the letterst outlay cellars, etc., the labor of making wine costs no smore than that of basketing and marketing, so that at 50 cents a gallon the grape grower would make even larger profits than he floes now.

The grape growers, are also interesting themselves with the fruit growers in the stabilishing of cold strange by which are establishing of cold storage, by which sys-tem the profits of the business would be largely increased. By having a cold storage warehouse the growers could organize and arrange shipments, so as to maintain a steady market and thus avoid many of the present disadvantages of being compelled to sell whether the prices salled or not.

Mr. Greenbut could not understand the object of the people in Atlanta who had written the letters and were referring the rebate certificates to the district attorney. These certificates had never been presented for payment, so payment had never been re-fused, and he considered that they were act ing in the interest of some one else, who de sired to get the company in a law suit with the government. For his own part he did not relish the idea of defending this case in the United States courts; still, it must be fought, for the rebate system is one of the vital business interests of the company and the issue must be carried to a decisive point.

BOX MAKERS' TROUBLES.

Every Preparation to Strike Unless Granted

Certain Concessions.
CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 9.—A morning paper says there is a prospect that the strike of box makers and sawyers at the Tegtmier Lumber & Box company may be made general before the matter is settled. In this event seventeen large box factories of the city and about 700 men would be involved in the trouble. Such a strike would also have disastrous effect on the packing industry of the city and on the business of many commercial houses which depend on the box factories for their boxes for shipping goods. The trouble originated in the discharge of twelve men some days are, the Tegtmier company saying they would not re-employ the discharged men except at reduced wages, alleging that they were incompetent. There-upon all the employes were ordered out and did strike to the number of eighty. Then it was found that the company was baving its contracts filled by other factories, and at a meeting of the union just held notice was served on all other manufacturers that union men would not be allowed to work in factories filling Tegtmier contracts. A meeting will be held today, when it is expected either a settlement will be effected with the Tegtmier company or a general strike of all the box makers and sawyers rdered.

TRUTH WINS.

And It is Just as Well To Be Entirely Frank About Telling It.

Genuine Skill, Superior Qualifications Low and Uniform Fees, and Faithful, Honest, Conscientions Work-These Form the Foundation for the Remarkable Success of Dr. Copeland and His Associates.

Until the innovation made by Dr. Copeland and his associates in placing medical skill and thorough and scientific treatment for all diseases within the reach of ali, by a system of ow and uniform prices, it was almost impos sible for people in moderate circumstances to obtain the aid of skillful and convelentious specialists. The fact that in spite of their wer established and fairly earned reputation for honest work, skillful treatment and suc-cessful results, they still muintain their low and uniform charges shows that they aim not alone at financial success as practitioners, but as well at the accomplishment of the greatest amount of possible good in the com-

We have heard in the past, and still hear, fo that matter, many complaints over the exor-bitant fees charged by persons claiming to be specialists in throat and lung troubles. It is not only true that Dr. Copelan land his asso-clates charge the low and uniform fee of $5.00 a Month for Medicines and Treatment, but that a cure under their system of treatment is more certain and more rapidly obtained than under any other known method, and what is better still, their results are permanent as shown by reference to cases printed years ago and reaffirmed by the patients speaking today.

Skill and success in the practice of medicine and success can be no loneer estimated by and surrery can be no lon er estimated by the size of the fees, when specialists having the largest practice and the highest and bes reputation for honest, skill ful and successful work, place their fees so low as to be within the reach of all classes and conditions of per the superior education, training and experience which has given them their acknowledged mastery over the diseases in their speciaities, and makes it possible for them to carry on their practice permanently and successfully at such rates.

must come first, and then your advertising will have the merit of genuineness and truthfulness, and will succeed. This is the secret or the whole matter. This is the secret of the failure of so many. They are advertisers first, specialists afterward. The order must be reversed; specialists first, qualified by a regular medical education, and by special study, training and experience, then advertisers. There is No Other Way to secure permanence, public confidence and success, and those who try any other way wil fall. Poorly or partially trained men may, by specious, untrothful advertising or represent ations, and by charging large fees for a shortime, deceive the public, but it is only a question of time when the offense is discovered and universal contempt is their reward. THIS IS A TEST. Results in Caterrhal Complications Demonstrates the Superior Skill of

Drs. Copeland, thep rd and Mansfield—The Statement of Miss Galvin.
Catarrh itself, in the hands of the skilliful and thorough specialist who is provided with the necessary mechanical and chemical appliances for treating the disease, will in a comparatively reasonable time yield to proper treatment, but when catarrh is complicated with severe asthmatic troubles it is a difficult matter to effect a permanent cure, and a successful result in a case of this kind is the best possible test and demonstration of the superior skill and faithful care of the physicians. An instance of this kind is afforded in the case of Miss Jennie Galvin, of South 14th street, between Spring and Valley streets. She says: "I caucht a bad cold about four years are, which was followed by a succession of colds until it developed into chronic catarrh. I had severe pains in my head, over my eyes and in the back part of my head; my field-The Statement of Miss Galvin.

I believe my trouble had developed into consumption, that the trouble had alwestoped into consumption, that the trouble had alwestoped into consumption. I had tried different physicians and numerous catarrh remedies, but could obtain no relief. "I had read of Drs. Copeland. Shepard and Mansfield's success in such cases when one of my neighbors had been cured by these doctors, I concluded I would try them. In about aix weeks I felt perfectly well.

La Grippe la An Reir com-How to Avoid It, and How to Cure It When You Are Sazed.

You Are Syized.

This discuss is sometimes called Russian influenza, because it is supposed to have had its origin in Sileria. It usually occurs as an epidemic and travels rapidly over the globe. It has received many names, the most common beint influenza and is grippe. The Italians, in the seventeenth century, called it influenza, supposing it owed its origin to some occult influence of the stars. La grippe is said by some to come from the Polish cry kn, meaning "noarset" otners recognized in in the French word "gripper," which means "to seizet" the Germans call it "biltz katarph." It has been known in Europe since the fifth century, and invariably sweeps over the country from east to west. In the recent universal epidemic it traveled from St. Petersburg to New York in about six weeks. The disease is beyond question infectious, and spreads by atmospheric influences. Many examples are to be found in the current medic liliter ture which could be cited to prove the assumption; aso the experience of most physicians during the recent epidemics among their patients was in this direction. Some investigators claim, however, that it is contagious, and regard it as a disease capable of boing conveyed from place to place and from person to person.

It attacks persons of all ages and conditions, seems to hake little difference. It is seen in the valiety of large rivers and high up in the mountain ranges; under the snows of Scandinavia, under the suns of the Equator, as well as on the islands of Polynesia: in the house and in the palace; in the busy mart and in my lady's boudoir.

The practice of Drs. Copeland. Shepard and Mansfield has given them abundant opportunity to study this diseases in all its phases, as it comes under the had of one of their specialities. From its first appearance in this country they have been thoroughly familiar with it from their practice, and have mastered its details and needs. They are capable not only of preventing it, but of curing it when it has once fastened its clutches. Nearly every ease of its grippe leaves a systematic catarrhal condition, which, unless it is thoroughly and completely cured, renders the pastient very liable to chronic bronchitis, which invariably leaves to consumption. The free quency with which dread pneumonia follows an attack of a grippe, and either terminates fatally or permanently we kens the constitution of the victim, has created general alarm, and la grippe is now looked upon as a very serious matter. Among other complications which may follow tais disease may be mentioned inflammation of the middle ear, causin catarrhal deafness, bronchial pneumonia and weakened condition of the eyes.

It is a matter of gratification to Drs. Copeland, Shepard and Mansfield that their pastients have largely resisted the attacks of this disease. This is due, no doubt, to the superior condition of the system brought about by foil lowing a systematic and rathgrail condition, should place themselves at once in charge of a thorough specialist.

the strangest bizzing and ringing noises in my ears, while I was constantly troubled with dizziness and nervous feeling.

"This state of affairs kept growing worse when, to cap the climax, last spring, I caught the grippe, and this increased my suffering and disease two fold, and left me in the most delicate health. The disease had seriously affected my stomach, and my appetite and digestion were very poor. My stomach was so weak, in fact, that I could only eat the lightest food, and not even that without suffering a feeling of uncasiness and sense of deprossion afterwar s. I also suffered much from pains in my stomach and through the back and lost much flesh and strength.

WHAT WAS FINALLY BONE
"I was in this deplorable condition when my attention was attracted to Drs. Copeland, Shepard and Mansfield, as physicians and surgeons who were skilled in their profession and having wide success in their practice. I sou hit them for relief and can truthfully say I found it. The distressing pains over my eyes and in the back of my head went almost immediately upon taking the first treatment, and have cone to stay, I think. My eyes have cleared up and gained strength; my dizziness and nervousness have disappeared, and the ringing and buzzing noises in my ears ce, sed. My stomach and appetite have greatly laproved, and I eat well and sieep well also, now. In short, I am in every way on the road to health, and although I have had many field are the only ones that have given me any real relief."
