History of a Man Arrested for Illegal Practice of Medicine.

KNOWN TO FAME IN THREE STATES.

His Peculiar Methods of Compounding Hinted At by a Druggist With Whom He Has Had Extensive Business Dealings.

"Dr. Lieber, first real name unknown," is the way it appears on the complaint,

The information states directly that the so-called doctor is guilty of illegally practicing or attempting to practice, and incidentally that he has been picked out by the State Board of Health as their meat.

In connection with these charges there is a little interesting information regarding the doctor. Some ten years ago, Dr. Lieber hung out his shingle near the corner of Thirteenth and Capitol avenue, where he dispensed decoctions of "yarbs" or im-mersed his patients in baths of unknown mixtures as the fancy suited him. For a time ne flourished, and then the place that had known him knew him no more. had packed up his "yarbs," bottled up his bath juice and sought newer and greener fields. While his memory was still fresh he reappeared like a comet, and for a short time all sufferers who called on him were treated to a hearty swig from an immense jug that was a conspicuous article in one corner of his little office. The treatment was something on the old time plan, and the theory was that medicine that was good for chillbiains would be equally helpful in a case of typhoid fever, But Dr. Lieber was not here to stay. He

But Dr. Lieber was not here to stay. He disappeared again and turned up in Council Bluffs, where he remained for a time and was next heard of in Mitchell, S. D. A few months ago he again located in Omaha at Twenty-fourth and Pinkney streets, where he has been superintending the workings of his baths and dispensing specifics to great and small.

When arrested the doctor found a bondsman in Peter Goos, who signed the $200 appearance bond, and the prisoner was $200 appearance bond, and the prisoner was released. Yesterday, however, Mr. Goos refused to continue longer on the bond, and the defendant was surrendered into the custooy of the officers, Another hustle for bail was unproductive of good results, and the doctor was locked up. From a well known druggist something of Lieber's modus operandi was learned.

"Lieber won't stay in jail," he declared.
"I couldn't go on his bond, because if I did I would have all the other doctors down on me but it will be fixed up in another way so that he will get bail this afternoon. I have known him for years and I know that he makes money. He buys a good deal of stuff of me and pays cash, and his business is just as good as anybody's. He registered with County Clera O'Malley the last time he was here, but he didn't this time.

"I know he hasn't a diploma, and he is uneducated, but he has more practical know-ledge than some of the doctors who have diplomas. He has plenty of assurance and can make folks believe black is white. What If he is a quack! Folks want to be hum no is a quack? Folks want to be num-burged, and he can do it as well as anyone else. He don't hurt any-body, as his medicines are narmless. I know what he bnys. He gives patent med-icines mostly, and folks don't know it. What if he does buy Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and give it out in little bottles labelled 'Dr. Lic-ber's Cough Cure!' The medicine will do just as much good, won't it! They can't convict him, for he is really a patent med-"I have just gotten in a lot of labels for him. Some of them came this morning. Here they are," and the druggist hauled out several packages of labels among which were a couple reading as follows:

"Dr. Lieber's Kidney Specific, the Greatest Panacea for all Kidney and Urinary Diseases in the World. Tablespoonful 4 times a day, after meals and at bedtime." "Dr. Lieber's Rheumatic Liniment will Speedity Relieve the Worst Pains locumbent on all cases of Inflammatory or Articular Rheumatism, Gout, etc. Apply three times a

Now, then," said the druggist, "won't Warner's Safe cure do just as much good it called Lieber's Kidney specifie? There may be no difference at all, or he may add a little water or anything he chooses. I tell you there are lots of folks in Omaha who swear by Lieber," and the prescription compounder carefully replaced the labels in a drawer under the counter before going to wait on a

"Lieber don't have to stay in jail," he do clared, as he returned to further discuss the subject. "He has money in the bank and could put it up for his release, but his lawyer advised him not to do it, because if the court found out that he had it he might be fined mough to take it all and not leave anything

BIG SAVING IN SALARIES

Adoption of the Pending Ordinance Will Lessen the Drain on Taxpayers.

When the ordinance introduced in the city council by Mr. Edwards has become a law, as it probably will, there will be such a shaking up of dry bones as was never heard in this city before. There will be a sundering of old ties and many a heartache will follow, but the city will save exactly $2,398.33% each month by the operation of that ordinance, or a total saving of $28,780 per year in salaries alone, and all at one clip. In the city engineer's office the most noticeable change will be effected. At present there are sixteen men employed in that office at an aggregate salary of $1,446.66. Under the new ordinance it is proposed to employ fourteen men at an aggregate sal-ary of $1,211.66. Included in this number is a man who will perform the duties of sewer inspector for $75 per month, for which the present incumbent receives $125, and another present incumbent receives $125, and another man who will inspect sidewalks at $90 per month instead of receiving $100 for the same services. The latter will not have a $75 assistant, but will have jurisdiction over his men, who will receive $3 per day for time actually engaged. The "sewer foreman," as he will be called, will have the picasure of bossing five sewer cleaners, who will receive $3 per day each for time engaged, instead of lording it over an assistant at $75 and three men at $60 The superintendent of buildings will have authority over a superintendent of plumbing, who will receive $125 instead of $160.66 which Major Dennis pockets every month. justead of having four assistant inspectors at $3 per day each and a clerk at $60 per month, the plumbing inspector will have two inspectors at $3 per day for time actually engaged sewer cleaners, who will receive $3 per day

Under the proposed ordinance the license inspector will receive $50 per month, instead of $100, and will also perform the duties of inspector of weights and measures, for which the present incumbent receives fees amounting to about $600 per annum.

The offices of the two meat inspectors are doomed and instead of drawing $100 per month each there will be a saving of $2,400 per annum to the city by abolishing the of-fices. The Board of Health will be authorized to employ a man to act in that capacity at a reasonable salary whenever it is deemed necessary to do so.

The clerk of the Board of Pubne Works will also contribute to the retrenchment fund to the extent of $25 per month, while the atenographer of the city attorney will re-ceive an increase of $10 per month over the amount paid during the last two years. There has been a great rush after the posi-

The other case was that of Blust & Co. against Mrs. Julia E. Adams et al., and Mr Van Closter also occupied a very prominent position in the case. The Nebraska Mortgage and Loan company was made party defendant in this case.

The court stated that it appeared from the evidence that the loan company had a large number of notes made by Mrs. Adams to the loan company and secured by mortgage. These notes Van Closter had pledged to Blust & Co. to secure an individual deet, and Blust & Co. had brought suit to foreclose the mortrage. The loan company defended the case and asked for the return of the notes. The court held in favor of the defendant loan

Judge Irvine made a ruling on a demurrer in the case of J. B. Evans against the Exposition Building association. This is a suit against the association and the stockholders, holding them if suice for the payment of a judgment of $0,000 against the association. The defendents answered that the indebt edness was originally created by the associattion to Fred W. Grav, who was a director of the association, and was afterwards assigned o the plaintiff. The plaintiff demurred to the answer and asked that it be stricken out. The demurrer was overrused on the ground that the statute colding the stockholders liable for the indebtedness of the corporation, where notice of indebtedness was not published, did not render them liable for indebtedness to a director whose duty it was to see that the proper notice was published.

Dr. Keogh Holds On and a Commissioner Signs His Prescriptions.

County Druggist Schroter is in a peck of trouble because he don't know whether to fill county prescriptions or not. County Commissioner Paddock called on him and told him that there was something wrong somewhere, and he must not fill everything that came along.

When asked what to do and where to draw the line the major told him he must use his own judgment to see that emergency cases should not suffer.

Mr. Schroter was still wandering how he was to know about the cases when Commis-sioner Van Camp happened in to O. K. some of Dr. Keogh's prescriptions, for which pay had not been received. "That will fix those all right," remarked Van Camp, as he attached his hysterical autograph to three of the back numbers.

"Yes, but what am I to do with new ones that are brought in? Keogh maintains that he is still county physician and that his that he is still county physician and that his term won't expire until February 7, because he was appointed for a year February 7, 1891. The board has appointed Dr. King for this year, and what will I do if they both keep sending in prescriptions! I don't want to till 'em for nothing."

"Send 'em to the court house," suggested Dr. Van Camp, while a smile of hope ran riot over his countenance. "Who will get 'em—Mahoney or Dr. King' Will they have to be O. K'd before they are filled, or what?'

WAR WITH CHILL.

Local Army Officials Interested in the Prospective Clash of Arms. The prospects of a war with Chili gave the army officers about army beadquarters abundant material for war talk and speculation yesterday. The width, depth and general character of the strait of Magelian appeared to be a leading topic on account of the expected engagement should war be declared bethere the Chilian fleet and the American war ships now at Montevideo Major Bacon's excellent maps of the Chil-ian and Tier a del Fuego country were brought into requisition and a general canbrought into requisition and a general can-vass of the situation took place in Colonel Stanton's office. The conclusion of the whole matter was that Admiral Walker with about three or four of the best ships in the American navy could meet the Chinan fleet of four vessels be heading toward the strait and wipe it out. The strait of Magelian is over 300 miles long and of very irregular width, as it is bounded by islands and promontories. It is difficult of navigation. The tides run very high there, reaching an altitude in some places of fifty feet. The water is very deep and the coast is ragged and irregular.

He had completed his labors for the day and at 6:25 o'clock last night had started for home. While in the net of boarding the north bound motor train No. 6, in charge of Conductor Charles Snyder and Motorman Andy Johnson, at Sixteenth and Webster streets, he was thrown beneath the wheels of the trailer and instantly killed.

The body was taken into W. J. Hughes drug store, where medical aid was summoned, but the soul had taken flight and the physician's services were not required.

The body was turned over to Coroner Maul, who will hold an inquest at 11 o'clock

How the Accident Happened.

There were a number of eye-witnesses to the accident, among them being John Dop-son, W. G. Armstrong and H. J. Kadish. They all tell substantially the same story, which is as follows: The train was heavily loaded, passengers filling both cars and standing on the platforms. As the train neared Webster street, Moore, who was standing about lifty feet south of the south line of the street and on the west side of the tracks, caught hold of the guard rail on the front end of the trailer. He stopped upon the footboard, but a second later slipped and fell. In doing so he released his hold upon the guard rail and was thrown headlong neross the track between the cars. The signal to stop was immediately given, but be-fore the train had been brought to a standstill both wheels of the car had passed over the man's body.

Told by the Conductor.

Conductor Snyder said that he had just ollected the fares in the front car and was ust coming out onto the platform. He saw Moore slip and fall. Immediately he gave the motorman "three bells" and the motor was reversed. The train was under control but before it could be stopped the car had passed over Moore's body and had reached the middle of Webster street.

The conductor was one of the first persons to reach the body. He found it about thirty feet south of the south line of Webster street. It was horribly mutilated, the wheels apparently having caught Moore about the head. They then passed over his left side and over both legs, nearly severing them from the trunk. Although the victim gasped once or twice after being picked up, it is probable that he was dead before he was taken off the

The conductor and motorman made their round trip, and upon reaching Farnam street on their way north were relieved by other employes of the line. They at once pro-ceeded to the police station, where they nur rendered themselves to an officer, but were released to await the findings of the coroner's jury.

I have had one or two talks with the Nortons and find that the older one is disposed to be fair about the matter and return the bonds. The younger insists on keeping them in the face of the fact that they were secure only through a clerical error on the part of city official. Every groceryman handles Union

"Mr. Rosewater and General Test are both entitled to much credit for the part which they have taken in bringing the warehouse measure to the front," remarked Mr R. A. Hodge of Genoa yesterday, he having taken the plank to Lincoln. He further commented:

"The law is defective in several respects but these have been pointed out by Governor Boyd, T. H. Benton and others, and are well known to all who have given the matter any attention. Its success has been largely im-peded through the interference of nominterested persons, who take a hand in every-thing, and a misconception on the part of the appointive powers and the men appointed to office. Add to this the unfavorable criticisms of the independent press of the state and the wrangling among grain men who never handle grain, and it may be judged what is the provailing opinion throughout Nebraska in regard to the benefits promised. The real handlers of grain mean all right.

"The first trouble arose when Governor Thayer appointed a farmer to the position of chief inspector of grain. Incompetency, as usual, was the cry. In speaking of incompetency, let me remark parenthetically, the measure with all its faults passed through the hands of so competent an attorney as John C. Watson, whom it would be criminal I suppose, to style a farmer. The urbanity of General McBride has not saved him from making a failure of the Lincoln inspection department. Every town in Nebraska should not expect a chief inspector; better one than two. The more chiefs the more

The dealers, brokers and those engaged in the other branches of of the rice industry are much slarmed at the outlook, as they believe that the formation of a trust such as is contemplated would result in lower prices for rough rice and the climination of the dealer in selling the clean product. It is also believed that the inter-ests of the planters would be very unfavorably affected. The deal involves about $1,000,000.

Charged With Embezzlement. Fred Glick of J. E. Ryder & Co., filed complaint against John H. Murphy, charging him with embezzling $100 from the firm. The defendant was in the employ of the commission house, and was given the money about a month ago to go to Shelby. Ia., and purchase a carload of potatoes. Instead of so ing, it is alleged that Murphy converted the money to his own use.

Murphy was absent from the city for a while but has now returned and will be prosecuted. Be sure to try the Quail rolled oats and take no other. MARRIED.
