Bishop Newman's Proposition Concerning the Cherokee Strip Has a Good Precedent.

WAS FOLLOWED BY JOSHUA IN CANAAN

Various Omaha Ministers Endorse the Idea of Being Correct and Proper Concerning the Methodist Conference—Work of the Immanuel Hospital.

The suggestion made by Bishop Newman and published in a recent issue of THE BEE, relating to the distribution of drawing lots of the lands...

Ministers of various denominations in Omaha, in response to a request of THE BEE, have expressed their opinions of the plan proposed by Bishop Newman.

Don't Want Another Oklahoma.

Dr. Duryea, pastor of the First Congregational church, said: "The history of the opening of the Indian territory reveals a state of things that is a disgrace to civilization. The Oklahoma affair was barbarous. The only proper way to open these lands would be to permit none but those furnished absolute proof that they had a legal right to avail themselves of the privileges thus afforded to have a share in the distribution and then distribute the lands by lot."

"There is no element of gambling in this at all. The gambler risks money in order to get gain. If he gains nothing he loses what he risked. In this instance no one could lose anything. Those who might take part in the drawing would have nothing at stake. They would have everything to gain and nothing to lose. The ideal process would be to place every man where he could make the best use of land for his own benefit and, therefore, indirectly for the benefit of the society, but a commission could not do this without vast labor consuming an immense amount of time and no commission would be trusted to do it through fear of fraud."

"If the plan of opening these lands by applications made through the mails were adopted then the question of settling the order of priority would trouble the commission. Enough applications might be received in a single week to exhaust the entire tract of land and then should the officials having the matter in hand decide which should come first and which last? The element of chance is in it in spite of all that can be done. The lands might be sold, but this would probably prevent some poor men from getting homes. The land is intended for people who are not able to buy, but if the plan adopted for the opening of Oklahoma was not followed in this instance, for it would result in another disgraced and dishonored and a brutal force. Some more rational and businesslike plan should be adopted, and I think that suggested by Bishop Newman is a good one."

No Harm in It. Bishop Scannell of the Catholic church had but little to say upon the question, because he said he had not given the matter any thought. "I see nothing morally wrong in the suggestion," the bishop remarked, "but I have nothing to offer with reference to the matter, because it is something that I know scarcely anything about, having given it no thought until this moment."

Thoroughly Biblical. Rev. T. J. Mackay, rector of All Saints' Episcopal church, said:

"I had not read Bishop Newman's interview in THE BEE because I am usually so busy on Sunday that I have no time to look over the newspapers. But now that I have read of his scheme for the opening of the Cherokee strip by lot I am free to say that I think it thoroughly biblical and absolutely free from the element of gambling. "If Bishop Newman's plan of gambling then the distribution of the land of Canaan among the children of Israel was gambling. Let me refer you to the chapter of Joshua, which is the record of the opening of the land. Joshua said unto the children of Israel: 'How long are ye slack to go to possess the land which the Lord God of your fathers hath given you? Give out from among you three men from each tribe, and will send them and they shall rise and go through the land and describe it according to the inheritance of them, and they shall come again to me.' "And in the sixth verse it says: 'And the men went and passed through the land and described it by cities into seven parts in a book and came again to Joshua in the seventh day. And Joshua cast lots for them in Shiloh before the Lord; and there Joshua divided the land unto the children of Israel according to their divisions. And thus it goes on to describe the inheritance that fell to each tribe by the casting of lots. "It seems to me that there could be nothing more thoroughly scriptural or equitable than Bishop Newman's plan so long as the lands are to be disposed of in any manner that includes a chance. The Bible is full of such examples. The cities of refuge were chosen by the casting of lots, and there are many such instances. The subject is a very interesting one. The disinterested outlaw that prevailed at the time Oklahoma was opened should not be permitted again, and I see no reason why the opening of the Cherokee strip by lot should not be followed by Bishop Newman or something similar should not be adopted."

Dr. Roseman Likes the Idea.

Dr. Roseman said: "I think Bishop Newman has suggested a magnificent plan to be followed in the distribution of these Cherokee lands. I remember the Oklahoma affair very distinctly. I saw comments upon it in foreign newspapers which indicated that the people across the water thought we were about half civilized in this country when the government would permit of such a barbarous proceeding. The only thing that has ever been done to open and I think it would be well for the government to make a change in the manner of allotting these lands in keeping with the intelligence and dignity of a civilized people. There is no element of gambling in the plan suggested by Bishop Newman, for those who would draw would make no investment."

THE METHODIST CONFERENCE.

Suggestions For the Proper Entertaining of Visiting Lay Delegates.

The quadrennial general conference of the Methodist church will convene in Omaha on the first day of May and continue one month.

There will be 500 delegates from all quarters of the earth, and thousands of visitors and spectators are expected. The conference will be held in Boyd's new theater. Sessions will be held every day excepting Sunday, from 9 o'clock a. m. until 10 p. m., and the committees will meet daily from 9 o'clock a. m. Committee meetings will be held at the First Methodist church and at the hotels. Delegates and leading laymen who expect to attend as spectators have already begun to write and telegraph for rooms at the hotels. "It looks as though they all wanted to stay at hotels," said Bishop Newman yesterday in a report for THE BEE. "There has been a lively demand for boxes for the entire session. All the boxes in the theater have been engaged at a great round price for the entire month and a great many have applied for chairs on the platform."

All thought of using the Coliseum has been abandoned.

"The new Boyd is a superb house," said the bishop, "and it will, I am sure, give great satisfaction as a place for holding the conference. When there is any debate on hand of any special importance we shall have the speakers go upon the platform, then everybody in the house can see them."

"Mr. Boyd has promised to build two temporary stages of stairs from the pit to the floor of the stage by the side of the orchestra so that it will be as trouble for the delegates to pass to and fro from the main body of the house to the stage when they desire to speak upon any important matter. The magnificent bishop will have seats upon the platform."

About half of the annual conferences have included their delegates in both sessions. Today and the others will attend their respective sessions on Monday and the first of May. The following resolutions were presented by the lay delegates at the conference. They were: 1. That the conference should be held at the First Methodist church, Omaha, Mo., on the first of May.

It has been suggested that the professional and business men of Omaha might arrange to make it pleasant for those delegates of their own particular vocation during the conference by a series of social entertainments agreeable to all concerned.

"There is one thing we shall need very much," said Bishop Newman yesterday. "It is a large and convenient restaurant where the delegates not entertained at hotels may get their noonday meal. Arrangements will be made to issue tickets to the delegates who had entertainment in private families giving them their noonday meals downtown, thus relieving those who entertain delegates from the necessity of providing the noonday meal for their guests, and it will be more convenient for the delegates who have to do committee work in the afternoon. I think if some energetic man would lease a commodious hall, like the Exposition hall for instance, and make arrangements to furnish luncheon there for all the delegates not boarding at hotels he could make it a paying enterprise. With the right kind of an arrangement the man who could open a large and convenient restaurant for this midday meal would be sure of from 350 to 500 daily and could certainly make it pay."

There will probably be several great occasions during the conference month when the Coliseum will be utilized. Several local church and charitable enterprises have already begun making preparations for lectures by some of the prominent men who are to be present and every effort will be made to get as much good out of the conference month as possible.

IMMANUEL HOSPITAL.

Flattering Showing of the Success of the Institution's First Year.

OMAHA, Jan. 21.—To the Editor of THE BEE: At the annual meeting of the board of trustees of Immanuel hospital last Wednesday, I was requested by the board to publish in the Omaha papers some facts about the work of this institution during its first year. Please let me therefore respectfully submit the following:

The Immanuel hospital has very successfully passed through the first year of its good work for poor suffering humanity. As the hospital had just been completed in 1891, the year 1891 dawned upon us with only two patients in the ward, but we were spared the more. The total number of patients in 1891 was 146. Of these, 114 have paid the regular price, 17 have been partly paying and 15 have been entirely free. But these free patients have mostly been in the hospital a long time. Of the 4,689 nursing days, more than one-fourth, or 1,235 have been free. Of all the 146 patients 89 were males and 55 females; 95 single, 44 married and 9 widowed. With reference to their nativity, 41 were American, 49 Swedish, 30 Danish, 5 German, 4 Norwegian, 3 English, 1 Scotch, 1 Irish and 1 Bohemian. As to their church preference, 54 were Lutheran, 21 Methodist, 8 Catholic, 7 Presbyterian, 4 Baptist, 4 Congregational, 1 Episcopal, 1 Episcopalian, 3 Christian and 11 without any preference. As to residence, 79 came from Omaha, 11 from South Omaha, 39 from other localities, 18 from Iowa, 1 from Connecticut and 1 from South Dakota. The oldest patient was 74 years, the youngest 9 months; average 29 years. As to the character of all the different cases, 57 were medical, 55 surgical and 4 ophthalmic. As to the result of treatment we have got the following excellent showing: 70 cured, 38 improved, 10 unimproved, 9 died, and 13 remaining in hospital at New Year's. Forty-two surgical operations have been performed.

Many of these operations were very difficult and important, and yet in most cases we got the very best result. The percentage of our deaths is 12. Comparing the results obtained in ten eastern hospitals, some of them the best in the country, the average percentage of death in these institutions is 18. Our percentage of death is therefore more than one-third less than any other hospital we know of. But had we adhered closely to the rule of admitting only curable cases, our percentage would have been still less. Three of those who died were in a hopeless condition when received, but were homeless or too low to return home. Of seventeen cases of typhoid fever every one was cured.

This extraordinary success in the treatment and care of the sick can only be accounted for by the skill of our surgeons and physicians and the faithfulness of our sisters, combined with the excellent location and ventilation of our hospital. As to the financial part of our work I simply state that $4,811.12 were received in donations in 1891. From paying patients we received $5,302.15. The running expenses for the year were $3,708.66; the balance was paid for furnishing the institution and on the old debt. One gentleman of this city, who does not want his name mentioned, had $20 for the endowment of one free bed for last year. Many many other good people see fit to follow that example for this year. With this condition that we have made a beginning in the best way for the relief of poor suffering humanity, and with good prospect for the Immanuel hospital to accomplish a great deal in the future, Yours Respectfully, E. A. FOGELSTROM, Manager.

The different unions of the Omaha Woman's Christian association met last Thursday at the Young Men's Christian association rooms and enjoyed a very interesting session. Miss Hattie Moore of South Omaha read an excellent paper upon temperance teaching in the schools.

The Nebraska Home for the aged, located at 129 North Twenty-seventh street, has been incorporated. The incorporators are Mrs. Carrie Quinn, Mrs. F. A. Beveridge, Mrs. C. A. L. K. White, Mrs. Dr. Freeman, Mrs. M. M. Dyer, Mrs. Nancy Wheeler, Mrs. H. C. Ballou and Mr. J. Swartzlander. Huntington, D.D. will lecture at the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church Monday evening January 25, on the "Curiosities of Skepticism."

FOR MUTUAL ADVANTAGES.

Hay and Feed Dealers of Omaha Organize for Business Purposes.

Thirty-six of the hay and feed dealers of the city have organized an exchange, the purpose of which is to regulate the hay and feed business, and they will ask the appointment of an official inspector. One of the objects of the exchange is to discourage the sale of these products to consumers by wholesalers in less than car lots and such wholesalers and retailers have united in the matter in the hope of mutual advantage. It is claimed that fraud has been practiced in buying poor hay in bulk with a good looking exterior, and it is desired to have an inspector who will grade it as a grain inspector does grain. The officers of the new exchange are as follows: President, P. T. Sibley; vice president, J. Jousan; secretary, treasurer, N. W. Mack; executive committee, Messrs. A. G. Gies and A. A. W. W. The next meeting will be held Tuesday evening, at 1014 Howard street.

NATIONAL PRIDE AROUSED

Scotch Night at the Y. M. C. A. a Pronounced Success.

MERITS OF SCOTLAND'S BARDS DISCUSSED

Prize for the Heroes of the Country—Growth of Religious Liberty—Some Clever Work by Several Well Known Omaha Artists.

One of the most popular bits ever made by the Young Men's Christian Association was the Scotch entertainment given last night. The concert hall was completely filled and one could almost hear the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" ringing down the "Banks and Braes O' Bonnie Doon," as the spirit of the audience began to make itself manifest in the applause to the different productions on the program.

Mr. J. L. Kennedy presided, and the first thing he said when he came upon the platform was "We want you all to Scotch tonight. Many of us were born in Scotland and those of us who were not wish we had been." He said that those national nights at the Young Men's Christian Association were inaugurated for the purpose of showing that the institution was broad enough to take in every nationality and every class of men. Subjects cleverly handled.

The first number of the program was a solo "Far Awa Frae Bonnie Scotland," by Mrs. Leese. The lady was recalled and sang "Come! Through the Rye," very cleverly. "Mr. Thomas Kilpatrick then read an address upon the "Sons of Scotland." The address was of a very interesting nature and held the audience from first to last. He spoke of the early history of Scotland, which consisted chiefly of war and bloodshed. Then he touched upon the Roman period and the advent of the early Christian missionaries, who really carried the first light into Scotland. Then came William Wallace and King Robert Bruce, the first great patriotic heroes of Scotland. Mr. Kilpatrick referred to the fearful wars and desperate crimes that attended the formative period of Scottish national life. Further he spoke of the union of England and Scotland in 1707, and the Elizabethan age in English literature.

Age of Great Men.

During this famous age, which produced a Bacon, a Shakespeare and a Milton, Scotland seemed to be struggling with church oppression. But a little later Scotland produced some of the greatest literary lights of the world. The speaker then referred to Sir Walter Scott and Robert Burns and the audience applauded tumultuously. He also mentioned Adam Smith, David Hume, Galton, Black, John Hunter and others. He spoke earnestly of the great ability of Dr. Norman MacLeod, the great Edinburgh divine.

Dr. MacLeod was the Henry Ward Beecher of Scotland, Mr. Kilpatrick said, and after paying him a glowing tribute he read one of his humorous epigrams on the Scotch "Frazier's Nose," which seemed to touch the risibilities of the audience very effectively. And then came the performance that aroused the Scotch enthusiasm an hilarious all over the house. Mr. D. MacKenzie marched majestically upon the platform rigged out in a handsome Highland costume, playing a fine silver-mounted bagpipe, which he carried as usual in his hand, over his shoulder and under his arm.

He wore a rich and handsome kilt made of black plaid with a dash of red in the square, it very attractive. His nose wore the genuine Scottish Highlander style, coming just above the calves of the legs and leaving the nose bare, and his feet were wrapped in the Highlander shoes with handsome silver buckles. The strains of music from the bagpipes sent a thrill of national pride through every Scotch heart present, and the solo was greeted with prolonged applause.

Then came the "Highland fling," danced by Thomas Melrham and Frank MacKintosh. The gentlemen were handsomely dressed in new Highland costumes, their kilts being ornamented with an official equipment consisting of the sporran, or pocket, which hangs down in front and looks something like an old-fashioned gun pouch, a huge dirk swinging to the belt and the catagairn, or shoulder ornament, glittering under the flaunting tassel of their jaunty caps.

The dancers were very agile and they executed the somewhat difficult gymnastics to the entire satisfaction of the audience. The performance was applauded to the echo and the performers graciously repeated the dance. Mr. MacKenzie of course sang some stirring tune on the bagpipes while the dancers exhibited their dexterity and athletic skill in the management and rapid movements of their lower limbs and feet. Mr. Dillin sang a couple of catchy Scotch songs that were well received and the large audience went home well pleased with "Scotch night."

SCHOOL BOY MURDERERS.

They Assault a Teacher and Beat Her Brother to Death. LIMA, O., Jan. 23.—John Stephenson, Bert Smith, William and Charles Sparlock, school boys of various ages, are in Keokuk jail charged with murder. Their teacher, Miss McLaughlin, corrected them for some misdemeanor in school yesterday, whereupon they became ungovernable and began to beat her. Frank, the teacher's 12-year-old brother, interfered, whereupon the boys hit him and beat him into insensibility and inflicted injuries from which he died in a few hours. Miss McLaughlin is also badly injured and her recovery doubtful. The young murderers are being guarded, as there are threats of lynching.

Imprisoned in Mexico.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 23.—A dispatch from the City of Mexico stating that Daniel Burns, police commissioner of San Francisco and well known state politician, had been arrested and placed in Belon prison occasioned much surprise. Burns was arrested under the mining laws of Mexico. The Evening Bulletin quotes Colonel Frazer of this city as saying that Burns was liable both civilly and criminally. The proceedings may be the beginning of an attempt to regain the Candelaria mines, which were located in 1880 and 1885 by Mr. Burns, and in which both Burns and Colonel Green are interested.
