513 FOURTEENTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 6. 'On last Monday Senator Manderson addressed a letter to Secretary husk inquiring whether it was proposed by the Agricultural department to establish any experiment stations throughout the northwest for the purpose of testing the soil and climate as to the conditions of tobacco-raising and presented the claims of Lincoln county in the vicinity of North Platte as the proper place for such

"It is not the purpose of the department to establish any such stations. It has not the funds to do so and would not be warranted in establishing the stations except by the direct authority of congress. Each state, as you know, has an appropriation of $15,000 a year from congress, for the purpose of sustaining an experiment station department in connection with the Agricultural college or the universities with agricultural departments in their respective states. These ex periment stations might, if they saw fit, use a portion of said $15,000 for experiments in raising tobacco. Of these funds the depart-

I received recently a petition from North "I received recently a petition from North Platte expressing the wish that if we were to establish stations, their vicinity might be selected for one. The petition was answered in substance as I have answered you. We have had some correspondence with Prof. Ingersoll, the dean of the agricultural department of the University of Nobrasks, on the tobacce question. He informed us that great interest had recently grown up in the state over tobacce raising and wanted sent him some tobacce seed of different varieties. We sent him at once eighty-five packages. Investigating the Subject.

"He has an expert who has charge of that exhibit, paid for out of the exposition fund allotted to this department. He was at once listed for special study of Nebraska. He had already visited the southern tobacco growing states and many of the northern snea. Mr. Willits took occasion to send him to Lincoln, Neb., at the tirae of the meeting of the State Board of Agriculture, January 19, with instructions to consult with Prof. Incresoll and with the various parties in attendance upon the meeting. He conferred with the parties, and at their request visited several localities in the state.

Woman Suffrage Defended.

Mrs. Clara B. Colby of Beatrice has in this evening's Star a communication on the sub-ject, "Is Marriage a Failure in Wyoming?" in answer to a statement of the Star last night that in Wyoming, where there is woman suffrage, there is one divorce to every six marriages, a greater proportion than found in any other state. After denying the truth of the statement on general grounds, backing up her position with figures from the last census returns, Mrs. Colby says this, which will be of inter-est to The Bee readers in Wyoming, especially.

The average duration of marriage before divorce in Wyoming, when persons have been married at 21 years or over, is considerably longer than in the average of the western group and in the average of the western group and in the average of the whole United States, showing the married condition of even the unhapplity mated is more bearable in Wyoming than elsewhere. The per cent of divorces granted to wives in the United States is very much larger than to husbands, while in Wyoming the difference is much smaller than the average. As it must certainly be for the safety of domestic relations that the bonds should be as bearable to one sex as to woman suffrage. The average duration of marriage before

We also find that of the few persons seek-We also find that of the few persons seeking divorce in Wyoming a much smaller percent than is found in other western states are of persons who have married under these conditions of legal and political equality. Statistics show that the chances are on the whole nearly 50 per cent better for your staying married if you marry in Wyoming. There is very much in the legislation and in the constitution of Wyoming which shows a distinct gain from the influence of women voting.

Senator Kyle Responsible.

In replying to the above the Star says: The Star stated that this was thus on the authority of Senator Kyle of South Dakota; having implicit confidence in that statesman as a friend of the cause of woman and an expert in divorce statistics. In his speech on "Marriage and Divorce," delivered in the senate Wednesday. February 3, Senator Kyle says: "One out of every twenty marriages in the United States results in a divorce. In Idaho, one in ten; in Maine, Rhode Island and Vermont, one in eight; in Nevada and Wyoming, one in six." ming, one in six."

If Senator Kyle has been circulating a mean, statistical fib about the women of Woyming he certainly descrives to be overwhelmed in a flood of indignant feminine eloquence.

POLITICAL PROGNOSTICATORS ARE BUSY Latest Scheme Which Comprises a Three-

Act Combination of Farce and Melodrama_Tom Majors Accused of Harboring a Deep Design. The political reporters have been busy the past twenty-four hours running down rumors in regard to the gubernatorial squabble. Every man you meet has a fresh and plausible story to unfold, and he imparts his exclusive information with an air indicating that he has just omerged from the inner circles and knows a deuced sight more than he cares to tell. But in nine cases out of ten it transpires that he really didn't know anything.

Here are a few samples of what is drifting through the hotel rotundas, over the curbstones and into the various political campseach of which latter is located in close proxmity to an irrigating ditch.

What They Think They Know. The impression appears to be gaining ground in Omaha among politicians that General Thayer intends to vacate the office of governor within a few days, and that Lieutenant Governor Majors will assume the re-sponsibilities of the office. "The railroad people are urging this mat-ter on," said a leading republican to a BEE man yesterday. "The scheme is brilliantly man yesterday. "The scheme is brilliantly planned and the only question now is will Majors push it through. It will be a play of three acts—a farce in the guise of a melodrama. Thayer, Majors and Webster will appear in the first act as leading characters. Thayer will fill the role of a great abdication of the state Thayer will into the control of the heir presumptive stepping in ahead of the heir apparent. Webster fills the place of the royal counselor.

Where the Courts Come In.,

"The second act will open with a court scene. There may be a couple of court scenes before the play has proceeded very far. One will be the issuing of a mandate by the supreme court of the United States to the supreme court of Nebraska overruling the decision of the latter in the Boyd-Thayer case. Following hard upon this scene will be one located at the state house in Lincoln. It will consist largely of a pro-cipitate adjournment of the state supreme court until the latter part of July. "In the third act the curtain will rise on Lieutenant Governor Majors seated in the governor's chair in the executive office at An expression of 'we are the pe ple will appear in prismatic brilliancy all over his classic features. He will be dictating to his private secretary a startling proclamation—a call for a special session of the state legislature—and in that call the matter of regulating railroad rates by a maximum rate bill will be very conspicuous by the fact of its entire absence.

When the End Will Come "Later in the same act the legislature is to meet, find that there is nothing under the call of any importance to be done, and adjourn disgusted. When the time eventually arrives for Lieutenant Governor Majors to vacate the office for the rightful governor, the fall campaign will have begun, the people will not stand the expense of another special session, because the next legislature will meet in January, 1813, only a few months, as the story runs, from the date of Boyd's reinstatement as governor. It is a railroad play, you inderstand, and the authors expect to make money out of it." authors expect to make money out of it." Will Tom Do This?

The man who wishes to deal in political rumors can have his taste suited by selecting from the stock that is kept on hand.
"I understand the situation," said a young and promising politician to a Beg man.
"Lieutenant Governor Majors is going to play a great card when he gets control of the governor's chair. As soon as Thayer is out of the state he will telegraph Governor Boyd to come and take possession."

MAINTAINING COAL RATES. Anthracite Companies Have a New Plan to New York, Feb. 6.—The position of the anthracite coal trade has been an interesting factor in Wall street gossip and speculation for a long time. It was particularly exciting yesterday because of activity, and advances in the coal stocks at the Stock exchange and the multitude of rumors which were in circulation. The most startling of rumors came after the close of business, and, strange to say, it was of a kind which had been moving about while the stock market was open. The report alleged that the Lehigh Valley road had secured control of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, with a guarantee of 7 per cent on the stocks of the last named road.

The story was denied by President Maxwell of the Central of New Jersey and by George F. Baker, president of the First National bank, who is a director in the Jersey Central. The preceding reports said a new combina-tion had been formed among the anthracite coal producing companies and that new plans had been agreed upon by which there could be a better maintenance of rates. The lively circulation of rumors kept stock brokers and lewspaper men hustling in the way of inves tigation and the only outcome was a sharp rise in the stock market of the principal authracite coa! shares. Jersey Central rose about 3 per cent and Reading and Lacks wanna 1 per cent each. President J. Rodgers Maxwell of New Jersey Central, said: "There is no truth in the report that this company is controlled by the Lebigh Valley. It has no foundation whatever. I do not know of any new agreewhatever. I do not know of any new agree-ment among the coal companies or of any change in the situation. The question of percentages will of course be settled, and it will be done amicably, but it has not been settled yet. I have not seen Mr. Wilber of the Lehigh Valley or Mr. McLeod of Read-ing in many weeks. The coal question will be decided and it may be done without them. I know of no call for a meeting of the presi-I know of no call for a meeting of the presi-dents. There has been a better demand for coal in the last few days, and the salesmen are satisfied that prices are maintained; therefore they had nothing to do in partic-ular at the meeting today. The coal securities are low level investment." Mr. Maxwell emphatically expressed the opinion that no prominent stockholders of Jersey Central had been selling out to any-one in the interest of Lehigh Valley. Complains of Hoodlums. OMAHA, Feb. 6 .- To the Editor of THE BEE: It would seem about time the police or city authorities were taking some steps toward removing what has come to be a nuisance. A crowd of men and boys congregate nearly every evening, and on Sundays in front of the Salvation Army headquarters on Davenport, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets, where they block the sidewalk and people have to edge their way through the crowd or go out into the street to get by, and if a lady should pass in the evening, unoccompanied by a gentleman, she is sure to be insuited. Something should be done to disperse this crowd of roughs and done to disperse this crowd of roughs, and either compet them to attend services inside the church or keep entrely away from there.

HE FOUND A PERMANENT CURE

Dr. Bedal's Gold Cure Discovery Proves t Be an Immense Success.

HIS INSTITUTE FILLED WITH PATIENTS

An Army of Men Sing Their Praises of the Bedal Gold Cure-Progress of This Popular Treatment at Blair and Elsewhere.

Early in October last a representative of THE BEE was assigned to go to Blair or the purpose of looking through the Bedal Gold Cure institute and learning something of the merits of the treatment idministered at that place for the habits of liquor, morphine, opium and tobacco. At that time the number of patients was limited to less than fifteen, but the good work was going on in a metropolitan way. Dr. Bedal, the gentleman who made the discovery, was at that time perfectly confident that he had found a cientific method for the cure of the above diseases, and his patients and the fow graduates were enthusiastic in their endorsements of the medicine. What Doctor Bedal told THE BEE man in October has proven true.

Today he is treating tifty patients, His success from the very beginning has been phenomenal, and the good news has not only spread through the differ-ent towns and counties in Nebraska, but throughout the entire United States, reaching from coast to coast. Not only s the Bedal medicine being used in Ne braska, but incorporated companies have purchased a franchise and are treating patients with it in branch institutes in a number of other states. The result of treatment at other Bedal institutes has been the same elsewhere as in Blair, although the number of patrons is naturally at present fewer than at the parent institute.

The growth and prosparity of the Bedal institute at Blair has been far ahead of anything ever dreamed of by the gentlemen who are interested in it. And yet when one stops to consider what a wonderful discovery Dr. Bedal has made, it is but just and natural that his treatment should at once become popular. He has a cure for the habits of liquor, morphine, opium and tobacco that is attracting attention in the most cientific quarters of the world. It is so far superior to all other treatments that it at once takes the lead and all other persons who have speculated in a similar enterprise must hereafter follow.

The medicine is compounded by Dr. Bedal. He prepares every ounce of Bedal medicine that is used, and at this, the parent institute, he administers all of the medicine. The doctor is an exceptionally good judge of character. He studies his patients daily. He is a physician whose superior ability is not only acknowledged by the State Medical society, but by a national society of the same sort. His treatment is perfectly free from danger. He knows what drug he is administering and knows what the result should be, and is there to be an eye witness to the effect. Each patient is constantly under his care. With all of these and many more advantages it is no wonder that he has witnessed the happy result of a cure in every instance where the patient has taken his full treat ment and adhered in detail to the institute regulations. The restrictions at the institute are not radical The regulations are simply moral, nothing more. Not a single rule is enforced but that the result is for the benefit of the patient and not the company. terms are reasonable. The surround ings at the institute are cheerful, and the officers and attendants in charge are kind and accommodating to their pa

The good people of Blair and vicinity have watched with a great deal of pleasure the growth of this now immense in stitute from its infancy. From the day last dose of medicine up to the present time, business at the Bedal institute headquarters has gradually grown and so increased that three large rooms nearly 100 feet deep are now occupied by the company. None of the patients are boarded at the institute building and only a few cots are used for those who are temporarily sick. The Bedal Gold club, which is a society or ganized and conducted by the patients meets regularly each Saturday evening, and special meetings are held during the week whenever a brother graduates and says his farewell words. This club has very comfortable apartments. There is music, speech making, story telling, and other attractions to occupy the minds and attention of the gentlemen doing their brief stay. All the rooms are arranged for the benefit and comfort of the patients. The apartments have been enlarged recently making it convenient for the compan to comfortably care for many more patients. Aithough there is a small army of men now being treated, there is still room for a few more. For terms and full particulars address the Bedal Gold Cure company at Blair and you will re-ceive a prompt reply. Read the testi-monials of your neighbors and you will at once be convinced that the Bedal institute is the place to send your friends who need the treatment.

The company directors are D. M. Bedal, president; John W. Boggs, post-master, vice president; F. H Claridge, cashier of Castetter's bank, secretary W. C. Walton, county attorney, treasurer; A. French, real estate, and John McQuame, lumber and coal dealer. ENDORSED BY LEADING CITIZENS BLAIR, Nebraska.

To Whom it May Concern:
This is to certify that we are personally acquainted with every member composing the Bedal Gold Cure company and know that it is composed of reliable business men, and further know that the "Bedal Gold Cure" will do all that is claimed for it, as we are personally acquainted with a number of patients who have taken the treatment and are entirely cured of the drink habit.

The Germans are preparing for an exhibit at the World's fair of the German industries which promises to be of exceptional interest. It is proposed to build upon an ample space that has already been secured a German town with all its picturesque adjuncts. Although this exhibit is to be credited to the general exhibit to be made by the German empire, it will be managed by a private enterprise.

A space has been set apart of about 175,000 square feet, being 700 feet long by 250 feet It is proposed in one portion of this space to build from thirty to forty houses to represent a German mediaval town, planned after such architectural gems as may be found in towns like Nuremburg. In the houses are to be fitted shops and stores, which will be let to prominent German manufacturing firms, especially those engaged in industrial arts. The exhibitors will demonstrate in public the manner of manufacturing their goods, and besides exhibiting thom, they will be allowed to sell. One building will be patterned after the town hall at Heilbron, and in it will be placed a German museum. Entrances to the town will be marked by galaxies and in town will be marked by gateways made in exact imitation of old-style constructions. Connected with the town by another gateway will be a little stretch in miniature of rural Germany, in which will be built farm-houses typical of those used by the various German tribes. Adjoining the town and the country strip will be a large German castle which is to be made not only picturesque but useful, in that it will probably be placed in the hands of a caterer who will undertake to furnish its cellars with choice old German wines. Gateways are to lead also to a concert garden capable of seating at the tables 10,000 persons, and in which only German drinks will be sold.
