After Years of Unsuccessful Search for a

the Chinese Doctor-A Voluntary Tisti

This is to certify that I have been a constant sufferer for many years with catarrh, asthma and bronchial affections of the throat, and tried all the patent medicines and remedies I ever heard of, but with no success. I treated with doctors in various parts of the country, but none of them could do me

any good further than giving me short temporary relief. I suffered night and day, and continued to grow worse notwithstanding all the medicine I had taken. I had almost given up my case

as hopeless when I was informed by a friend of Dr. C. Gee Wo, the Chinese doctor, and advised to go and see him in the nope of getting relief at least, if not a permanent cure for my trouble. I was slow in making up my mind to make such a radical change in my treatment, as I knew a trial with the Chinese doc-

or would bring me, but I finally conluded to give him a trid, so I called at his office with that intention. I found the doctor a clever, entertaining gentleman, thoroughly posted on my condition, and it took only a very short time to convince me that he was the party I was so long in search of. He told me

my case was curable, and that he could cure me, and prepared me a special treatment to suit my condition, and in two weeks I was so much better that I had the fullest confidence in the doctor's ability and committed my case to his treatment. I continued to grow better rapidly and am now entirely well. I owe my cure to Dr. C. Gee Wo, and am not ashamed to admit it. I advise all who want relief from their troubles to call on Dr. C. Gee Wo, and they will be cured. For all particulars apply or

ITS EFFECT AT WASHINGTON

Mr. Blaine's Letter Received with Much Wagging of Politically Wise Heads.

HIS ATTITUDE TOWARD MR. HARRISON

Relations Between the President and His Secretary of State Sald to Be One Reason for the Publication of the Withdrawal.

> WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE BEE,) 513 FOURTEENTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 8.

There are two distinct views of the meaning and effectiof Secretary Blaine's letter to Chairman Clarkson into which the comments of members of congress today shape themselves.

One very large class of republicans, in cluding those who have all along been outspoken in their belief that President Harrison's administration has been of such a character as to give him a distinct claim upon his party for a renomination, and upon the country for another term, felt no nesitancy in expressing their opinions. That opinion was, in every case, to the general effect that Socretary Blaine's letter, while it would be regretted by a large element, if not a majority, of the republican voters of the country, made the renomination of President Harrison inevitable. Many republicans of this class were quite willing to admit that General Harrison, while very strong with the mass of the party and while possessing the approval of the sober thought of the country at large for his admirable conduct of public business, had excited more or less antagonism among the professional party leaders and among the men who have more or less control over the local party organizations. This opposition, however, the friends of the administration assert, and not without lack of proof, arises merely from scattered and disorganized factions who are not content with the distribution of federal patronage It is not backed or strengthened by any pro-tense at criticism of the wisdom, uprightness and patriotism of this administration. Therefore these men say this opposition is of no weight and now that Secretary Blaine has withdrawn will speedily disappear.

Such is the general tone of comment among republicans who are distinct adherents of General Harrison. These men also declare that Mr. Blaine's letter will be re garded as final and absolute; that to question its sincerity would betray a lack of respect for Mr. Blaine himself; that for his friends to continue to press his name for the nomination would be not only uncivil to Mr. Blaine, but openly antagonistic to General Harrison, and that such a course would only foment dissent within the party and com-plicate the work of the Minneapolis convention, which Mr. Blame's letter has so greatly

What the Other Fellows Say.

On the other hand, there is manifest among the republicans who are not opposed to President Harrison, but who have so long cherished a personal affection and political allegiance to the great statesman from Maine as to find it almost impossible to surrender their desire of seeing him in the white house an unwillingness to accept his letter to Chairman Clarkson as to the absolute and final end to Secretary Blaine as a presiden-tial possibility. It is this spirit of unwillingness among some of Mr. Blaine's devoted ad mirers to take him at his word that gives color to the sneering comments of mug-wumps and democrats to the effect that Mr. Blaine is not sincere and his letter is only strategic move upon the political chesspoard. designed to mask his real intentions. Friends of Mr. Binine do not say this. Even out and out democrats are frank enough and bonest enough to accept the language of his letter for what it stands.

His Health is Poor.

I learned today from friends of Mr. Blaine. who have known for some time in a general way of his determination to announce in some fitting form that he would not be candidate for the presidency, the reasons which compelled him to this conclusion. Two processes of reasoning led him, despite the persuasion and even entreaties of some of his friends, to his decision. The first and most to say ever since he returned from Bar Harbor to Washington Secretary Blaine has been convinced in his own mind that it would be literal suicide for him to undertake the labors of a campaign, which would require the candidate to devote all his per-sonal energies to the fight in at least the two states of New York and Indiana, not to speak of the laborious duties of the presi-dential office itself if the campaign should be successful. In this conviction Mr. Blaine was sustained by the members of his own tamily.

Favors President Harrison. The second process of reasoning which led Mr. Blaine to withdraw was his own honest and cordial recognition of the fact, which only reflects honor, his friends say, upon his own mind and heart, that the administration of President Harrison has been of the character which fully entitled the president to a renomination and re-election. He has guided the affairs of the country with a firm and conservative hand through a financial crisis at a time when the least faltering of the hand at the helm might have precipitated disaster. He has entered cordially and mas-terfully upon the administration of the recorrectly clause of the McKinley law, in which he was in full accord and sympathy with his secretary of state in all the details of a distinctively "business administration." He has not only been eminently successful, but has won the approval of the country at large. It is to be noted that each of these two upon writing this letter of withdrawal were of a character not at all dependent upon the chances of current or future political events. Nothing could have happened within the past few months and nothing could happen between now and the meeting of the Minneapolis convention next June which would at all affect the force of either of these reasons. To anyone who stops to realize this point, say intimate friends of Secretary Blaine, the error of questioning the succepty of Blaine's tetter will become apparent.

Senator Manderson's Views.

Very little surprise was expressed by any of the Nebraska delegation at Mr. Biaine's letter. Senator Manderson says: "I am not at all surprised at the Biaine letter. While he is undoubtedly a popular man in the republican party today and would, in my judgment, receive the largest vote, I have been confident for several months that the secretary of state was not desirous of the nomination and would decilne to be considered a candidate unless it was made apparent to him that party necessities demanded the sacrifice of personal conveniences. His letter seems final and I see no grounds for the opinion held by some that there is a string in any way attached to it. Mr. Blaine has been fully conscious of his own popularity. He could not help being so when letters were pouring in upon his urging him to only keep stience and his nor ination was assured and when politicians were meeting him personsonally and insisting that his nomination alone could save the next. sione could save the party. I have no doubt that the secretary of state with a full appre-ciation of the affection felt for him by the re-publicans generally has decided that his physical condition would not permit of the repetition of the canvass of 1884 and he has expentedly said to francis the repeatedly said to friends the party owed a renomination to President Harrison, whose conservative and wise administration has entitled him to such recognition at their hands.

President Harrison's Cialms. Senator Paddock said to THE BER correspondent tonight: "I think Mr. Binine's acclination is sincere. Indeed, I do not think he has at any time seriously thought of being a candidate. I have therefore thought his sitence helpful to the president.
"So long as there was hope as to Mr. Blaine's possible candidacy his friends all over the country were active, and, as a rule, in good relation with the friends of the president. This made all other candidacies im-dent. This made all other candidacies impossible. If this could have continued up to the meeting of the convention and Mr. Blaine had then declined, as I am sure he would nave done, no one but Mr. Harrison could possibly have been nominated. It is not unlikely now that not inlikely now that many candidates may come forward from different states, each becoming a new obstacle in the way of final concentration. The president has certainly earned a renomination and a re-election by his splendid administration, but republics have sometimes poor memories and in the presence of these multiplied ambitions forget iness may come as to the claims of an abie and patriotic president,'

As Congressman McKeighan Sees It. Congressman McKeighan said: "I had not beard until now informed that Mr. Blaine had withdrawn his name. I have no inne to read the papers. I can only say that in my judgment it will lose the republican party 20 per cent of the vote throughout the United States. That Mr. Blaine is the most popular man in the party no one who has traveled throughout the east and west can doubt for one moment. His withdrawal clears up the situation for the democrats and complicates it correspondingly for the re

In fact, I have had no doubt that Mr. Blaine would with draw from the race. Any one who has seen im recently knows that it would be impossi ole for him to make the race. In my judgment it makes Harrison's nomination certain.

Representative Flick-I am satisfied that the strongest man in the republican party, and especially in the west, from a personal standpoint, is James G. Senator Allison of Iowa, who has been a prominent candidate for the presidency two or three times, said to THE BEE corres-pondent today: "No, sir, my name will not be used for the presidential nomination this year for the simple reason that I will not permit it. Iowa was for Blaine. It is constitutionally made up for Blaine, but now that he is out of the consideration I thing Iowa will support Harrison at Minneapolis and very cordially. He has made a magnifi cent administration and deserves a second term.

SHOT HIS WIFE.

Cornered by Policemen, a Desperate Uxori-cide Makes a Fierce Fight. CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 8.-Andrew Anderson, ex-foreman of a butterine factory, shot his wife this afternoon, and then, to escape arrest, jumped off the roof of his house, a distance of fifty feet, to the ground, only to be cornered immediately in a cellar by Police Captain Roch. Anderson refused to sur-render, shooting himself in the beast. He fired twice at Captain Roch. Both shots missed, and the captain quickly knocked him down and disarmed him. Anderson, as a prejude to the extraordinary episode, had smashed all the furniture in the house and thrown his wife's dishes and flower pots out of the windows. He is a drinking man, and his wife had taken steps to obtain a divorce. Last night she, through fear of him, remained away from the husband, and him, remained away from the husband, and was returning under the unavailing protection of two constables when the shooting took place. Anderson will recover. The wife's wounds are fatal.

FREE SILVER AT THE CLUB

Current Topic People Give the Question a Partial Shaking Up.

Mr. R. B. Howell Argues That the Double Standard is the Salvation of the Nation-Will Try It Again

Next Week.

The Current Topic club had an attack of silver comage last night that promises to last a week or two. Dr. Duryea was present to preside, and the attendance filled the large committee room of the Young Men's Christian association building to its utmost capacity. The question for discussion was this: "Is it Agvisable for the United States to Adopt the Free and Unlimited Coinage of Silver!

The affirmative of the question was opened by Mr. R. B. Howell in a very carefully pre pared and able address. He held that the auti-silver men had misrepresented the issues in the discussion of this great question now interesting the people from end to end of the country. They had called it a question of cheap money or no cheap money. Mr. Howell's Idea.

He declared that this was not the real question. Bimetalism did not mean cheap money, but monometalism meant dear money, Mr. Howell said. The gold bugs had robbed the debtor class, and vet they were not satisfied. They wanted to wipe out silver as a medium of exchange and standard of value so as to increase the purchasing power of gold. If the gold and bondholders could accomplish this they would virtually rob the United States and the debtor classes of this country of $600,000,000. The demonstization of silver in 1873, the speaker declared to have been a crime. He illustrated the fluctuations in the production of silver and gold and in the purchasing power of each and their relative value by means of a map. The speaker ar gued that the enormous accumulations of wealth by private parties had been made possible by the manipulations of the circu lating medium of the country. He was in favor of free and unlimited coinage of silver, On the Other Hand.

Mr. W. H. Lowe was to have made the leading address on the negative, but he was

Mr. C. H. Clark took up the debate for the negative and made some very effective points. He showed that the purchasing power of money varied with its plentifulness and scarcity. To increase the volume of silver would decrease its purchasing power and would consequently make it cheap, despite the arguments of the free coinage advocates to hold the value of silver at a given point.

Mr. D. Clem Deaver spoke upon the affirmative side of the question. He made a num ber of points that evoked applaase. Colonel Fairman was asked to speak and made a few general remarks germane to the subject and showed that he was thoroughly familiar with the issue in question.

Will Take It Again. The time for closing had then arrived, but as several other gentlemen wished to have the question discussed further it was decided to continue the de-bate next Monday evening, Mr. John M. A. H. LEONARD'S LETTER

What He Says in Accepting the Republican Nomination for Governor of Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. S.-A. H. Leo nard, republican nominee for governor, today made public his letter to the chairman of the state central committee accepting the nomination. In the letter he states he notes the disrupted condition of the democratic party. but shows that there are only two parties in the state, the democratic and republican, and that as soon as the present election is over the democrats will again unite in maintain ting fraudulent possession of the state gov ernment

"In 1877." says the letter, "the democratic party took forcible possession of the state government, and has ever since maintained its absolute power by violent and fraudulent means. The republican party of the state, though not destroyed, has been crushed and, to all practical purposes, there is but one political party in the state.

Mr. Leonard goes on to show that opposing political parties are essential to the existence of free institutions: that when the people are free opposing political parties are invariably found, and that where such par ties exist the people are invariably free, follows, therefore," says the writer, where such parties are not found the people are not free

"For fifteen years," says Mr. Leonard, "the people of Louisiana have not been free, and there can be no freedom in the state until the people are allowed to divide into political parties. The political condition o the state has retarded the development of its magnificent material resources, and has se lowered the intellectual and moral tone o he people as to seriously threaten the under lying principles on which society itself is To remedy this condition it is nece sary that the republican party be allowed to maintain its organization, so that the effects of opposing political parties may result in freedom for the people. The ruling class must abstain from the violent means by which republican party has been repressed, from the fraudulent methods by which the republican voters have been suppressed. All that is necessary is a peaceable election and an honest count. We ask for nothing more; we should submit to nothing less. In the words of the republican platform, the right of every citizen to cast one vote in public elections and to have that vote counted, is the paramount

"If we are to judge of the future by the experience of the past, the ensuing election will be determined by 'returning officers' and not by votes. But many democrats throughout the state have grown weary of the methods by which the democratic party has maintained its usurpation. They know that such methods are survivals of barbarism. They have learned at last that such methods must, eventually make their children perjurers and ruffians. There is some reason to hope that the influence of many of the more intelligent members of the democratic party will be exerted to prevent the bulldozing and the frauds at elections which have so long disgraced the fair name of Louislana. Moreover, the disruption of the democratic party will, to a certain extent, dispel the unreasonable prejudice which has heretofore existed in the minds of many democrats against the republican party, and must make it extremely difficult for return ing officers to count out the large majority which the republicans undoubtedly have in this state. There is some reason to believe that the political action of the people of Louisiana will in the future be determined by reason rather than by passion and prejudice. If so the republicans will have an opportunity to show that the principles of their party are in harmony with the interes of the state. The cause of the republican party in Louisiana is the cause of the people, the cause of freedom, the cause of justice, the cause of civilization.
