C-MINDREADER AND BUSINESS MEDIUM Sacknowledged by press and public to be the best forecaster in the world, has a saite of parlors at the Pullman house. This medium has a transmitter of thought, with it your life is like an open book. It enables the forecaster to see the end at the beginning. Also has the wonderful magic mirror, in it you can see your future husband, wife, enemies or friends. (It's frue.) All mysteries made clear: caller granted a private interview; you will meet no strangers. Allow no old prejudice to keep you way. Letters containing $1.00 will receive prompt attention. Has the Egyptian amuleit to unite the separated, restore lost affection and bring back the absent or estranged one. I have before and can again change an unhappy couple to a happy one by removing the skeleton of the family closet, and showing you the mischief maker in the magic mirror. N. R.—White I do not claim to accomplish miracles nor astonish and challenge the world, still I possess the gift and have the instruments I claim and a call will suffice. P. S.—Remember the place. ## A Few Hasty Words

Before breakfast spoils the entire day. It may be you are severely constipated, troubled with indigestion.

No appetite for breakfast. Feel hot and flushed. You feel either low spir-ited, or you display a nasty temper. Destroys the good feeling of your home. Nature gives you fair notice that she requires assistance by the use of Carlsbad Sprudel Water."

This remedy is sovereign. It has been used in its original shape by emperors kings, statesmen, poets, etc., for 500 years. Or, if you cannot conveniently use the Waters, buy the genuine Carlsbad Sprudel Salts, which are the solid evaporations of the Sprudel Spring. The genuine has the signature of "Eisner & Mendelson Co., Sole Agents, New York," on the bottle.

BIDS will be received by the State Board of State on or before 2 o'clock p. m. March 2, 1892, for printing and binding in cloth one thousand (1.600) copies of volume IV of the Transactions and Reports of the Nebraska State Historical Society, to be delivered complete at the office of the society in the State University building, Lincoln. To contain 300 pages, more or less. The size of page, weight and quality of paper, style and quality of binding, style of lettering on cover and in all respects the work to be the same as the sample to be seen in the office of the secretary of state.

HINTS FOR THE FARMER IN MARCH.

By D. D. T. Moore. M arch onward in March. A dvance to the contest.

R esolved to make progress.

C ommence spring work early.

H andle your forces wisely.

March ushers in balmy and welcome spring, on the advent of which begin active operations in soll culture over a wide region. The period for planning is past, and that for performance has arrived. Prudent farmers and horticulturists have so perfected their arrangements that they will be enabled to open the spring campaign at the earliest day practicable, and to push it vigorously when once commenced. With favorable conditions of soil and temperature, much can be done this month. But should the weather prove inclement for some weeks, as is liable to be the case in our capricious climate, the husbandman can profitably occupy his time by finishing ip odd jobs of winter work and maturing plans and providing for any change of program which may become neces sary in consequence.

The chief business of American soil titlers during the ensuing seven months from March to November) should be to plant, cultivate and narvest such crops as will bring the best returns without impoverishing the soil, and to secure this laudable result every rural citizen ought to make strenuous efforts. Whatparty may win in the exciting political battle soon to be opened, farmers should bear in mind that the real salvation of the people and the country depends upon the production of cort and other crops in abundance, and govern themselves accordingly. Let them nominate General Prosperity for president, with Colonel Good Culture as vice, and work ardently and persistently for their election, and ours will continue to be a great, progressive and prosper-ous rural republic -- the feeder of other nations and an asylum for the oppressed everywhere.

Seasonable Reminders.

While awaiting the real vernal season (which does not open until about March 21), and before much field work can be done to advantage, it is not only in order for ruralists to finish their winter work as already intimated, but to make final arrangements for plowing, planting and other laborious operations that must soon be performed. Among the essential things to receive attention, if not already done, are the gathering and storing of a supply of both fuel and ice; the hauling of timber for building. fencing, etc.; the making of mable sugar; the procuring of good field and garden seeds, fertilizers and implements: the engaging of reliable farm help; the getting of working teams in heart for hard service, and keeping other animals in a thriving condition the securing or arranging for plants shrubs, trees and grafts for early ing or setting, and also the providing for making such temporary or permanent improvements as may be needed upon the premises.

All of the forementioned and several other timely matters call for early and energetic action and will not neglected by progressive cultivators. Indeed, albeit the usual time of entering upon field work may be deferred in conqence of unpropitious weather, brainy and industrious ruralists will do much in March to make present progress and facilitate future labors. In rain or shine no would-be prosperous farmer should sleepily "wait for something to turn up," but bestir himself and turn up something. If one thing is not feasible, turn to another that can be accomplished. Do not remain idle because it storms, or the ground is still frozen, so long as there are plans to be matured or indoor work to be done—as, for example. tools to be repaired and painted, or har-ness that needs mending and oilingwhich will furnish both useful and ## fiprotable occupation.

After deciding in regard to the staple crops to be grown, and the area to be ssigned to each, the wise husbandman will make every necessary preparation for seeding at the right season, or as near it as possible. Putting the ground in good condition is all-important, but there are other essentials to success which demand early attention-notably choice seeds, fertilizers, and imple-ments, with an efficient force of men and teams to do the work promptly and satisfactorily. Farmers who have not already provided or arranged for these important requisites should do speedily, to prevent damaging delays after the time for action has arrived.

Should it prove inexpedient to pre pare for planting certain crops intended to have been grown, provision ought at once to be made for the production of others. This will require study and calculation; and here is where brains will tell—for the successful substitution f one (and the right) crop for another just before seeding time is not always an easy matter. However, judicious headwork, with prompt and energetic action, will enable the wide-awake culti vator to make such a change without osing much time or materially reducing his profits on the season's labors and investments. The farmer who thinks and acts quickly will usually so manage his affairs in spring as to assure profita-ole results in autumn. Early Spring Work In most parts of the northern states the plowing of gardens and fields for early crops should be done as soon as practicable. But though the outlook may now be favorable for doing considrable plowing, planting and seeding in March, much will of course depend upon the weather conditions later in the month. If the soil and temperature are suitable, peas, spring wheat, oats and barley may be safely sown this month in many parts of the north. (Seeding to clover is in order, and clover usuall; takes well with spring wheat, rye and barley, but badly with oats and peas. Many garden plants may be started in hot beds, or in kitchen or window boxes -either of the two latter being, as we have before advised, a good substitute for the former where only a few plants are wanted. How the boxes are made and managed has been described so often that it is not necessary to repeat any directions in this connection. In localities where there is snow enough it should be improved by hauling wood, timber, rails,manure, muck, plaster, and whatever else may be needed on the farm. Wherever there is work to be done in the sugar camp attention to it will pay, especially if the suggestions which we made last month on the maple sugar crop are properly heeded.

Live Stock Notes. Good care of live stock is now an imperative duty, as March is usually a se-vere, trying month for all farm animals. They require extra care and liberal feeding until the pastures produce sufficient herbage. Don't stint stock at the critical season between hay and grass, but keep them in a thrifty, healthy condition. Guard your flocks and herds well against the storms, mud and mire so prevalent in March. Farmers who allow their animals to suffer at this season will ere long be financial sufferers in consequence. Warm stables, well drained stock yards with dry sheds and feeding rooms, pay large dividends.

Horses will soon be required to do heavy work, and should be generously fed and cared for to put them in proper condition. Do not fall to blanket horses when necessary, nor fail to feed, water and groom them regularly. brood mares roomy stalls and extra care. Milch cows are always the most profitable when they receive the best attention, but they need extra care through March. They should be kept clean and comfortable, with no lack of wholesome food. Incoming cows need good quarters and kind treatment. Milk fever may be best prevented by keeping the bowels of the cow in proper condition, which may be done by occasion illy fe d ing them carrots and other roots, or a quart of oat-cake meal. Sheep require special care this stermy month. Be sure that ewes have comfortable quarters during the lambing season. Nurse the weak infant lambs, and keep them from becoming chilled. As the weather gets warmer look out for ticks, and when they appear dip the infested sheep in one of the decoctions sold for the purpose.

Swine will pay for looking after sharply, now that France and Germany are taking American pork m re freely. Pigs that come in a cold snap should be warmed and nursed. Arrange now for June pigs. For lice on pigs, calves and fowls, use grease and keroser Poultry ought to pay well in March, when fresh eggs and broilers usually bring good prices—so watch and coax the biddies. To make the hens "shell out" liberally keep their quarters clean, give them a variety of food, and note that dusting boxes, graver, and lime in some form, are essential.

Clover-Meadows and Pastures

Seeding to clover is now advisable in most sections. The old method of sowing clover on snow is still practiced by good farmers, though it may be sown this month upon the bare ground. generally succeeds well when sown with spring wheat, rye or barley. When clover is sown alone, for seed, about ten pounds per acre are used; if for hay or pasture, sixteen pounds. If sown alone it will generally produce a cutting late in the season and when sown with wheat will give valuable pasture after the grain is harvested. The large kind of clover is best for sowing with timothy for a permanent meadow, as both ma-ture at the same time; use four pounds of clover seed and from four to six quarts of timothy.

Meadows and pastures should be protected against injury from animals feeding and trampling upon them at this season, and until the ground becomes settled. Farmers who turn out their cattle very early are wont to "miss it," as they are greater losers than gainers. It is beneficial to roll the surface of meadows as soon as dry enough to counteract the bad effects of the heaving of the roots by frost. Stonesthat the roller does not push down into the soil should be removed or buried, the latter being the easiest method. In all grass growing sections the care of meadows and pastures is an important item in farm economy, and one which no farmer should neglect.

Orehard and Fruit Garden.

As the season for tree, shrub and vine planting draws nigh farmers and suburban residents-indeed, all have grounds, however small, to improve-should prepare for action in than lirection. Every rural or village homestead, whether of extended or limited area, and valuable in proportion to its supply of fruit and ornamental trees, shrubs and flowers; and it is surprising that so many people who are shrewd in most matters, continuously neglect to provide what would add materially to their comfort and pleasure. Those who have deferred this matter from year to year are advised that now, this very spring, is the time to act, rather than wait for "a more convenient season, In this latitude March is the time to prune fruit trees, especially the peach; to trim and thin out raspberries; prepare ground for strawberry beds and set ut new plants: find space for and plan few more trees and vines for use and ornament; remodel grape trellises; underdrain and set fence to protect fruit; apply fertilizers for the rains to carry down to the roots; wash or spray trees or vines before the buds burst. The interest of fruit growers will be promoted by attending to these and other duties in their line (some of which were alluded to in our February article) iu due season. As we have before said, there is pleasure, profit and health in fruit culture, but the business requires care, skill and good management. Let all who have the right soil and climate, and also taste and capacity for it, try fruit growing in this good

A Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism. Messrs, Gage and Sherman of Alexander, Tex., write us regarding a remarkable cure of rheumatism there, as follows: "The wife of Mr. William Pruitt, the postmaster here, has been bed-ridden with rheumatism for several years. She could get nothing to do her any good. We sold her a bottle of Chamberlan's Pain Balm and she was completely beriam's Pain Balm and she was completely cured by its use. We refer any one to her to verify this statement. Fifty cent bottles for Ten years ago the hunter ambitious to secure a buffalo could still go to a region where he could kill hundreds of them, says Forest and Stream. Then there was a "town" into which the buf-falo often came down at night, and it was not unusual for the residents when they arose in the morning toses a bunch within rifle range of the houses. Among the dwellers in this town was one who, although he had lived on the frontier since the early '60s, had never killed a buffalo. One morning when Hiram looked out of his door, he saw, not far away, a great buffalo bull rub-bing his ragged sides against the bole of an old cottonwood tree. Here was a chance such as had never before pre-sented itself. "Such an opportunity might not occur again," and he was filled with a great longing to kill this bull. Seizing a gan, he crept out, and stealing through the sage brush and among the trees, was soon quite near the bull. Its immense size—for he had never before been close to a buffalo-somewhat startled the hunter, but he had gone too far to retreat now. Feeling a little nervous, he leveled his gun and fired. At the report the built jumped a little and then glared slowly about with an air of the utmost ferocity as if eager to pulverize whoever had fired the shot. This slow, searching gaze and the brute's flerce aspect were too much for Hi's nerves. They gave way, and, dropping his gun, he ran film-bly to the nearest tree and climbed into it with the activity of a boy. The bull, meantime, was thundering off in the opposite direction, while some of his companions, who had been looking on, were shouting with laughter.
