Results of the Grand Jury's Investigation Into the Conduct of Municipal Affairs During the Past Two Years-Court Notes.

When the grand jurors reported in Judge Davis' court last Saturday they returned nine indictments. Any number of persons were anxious to know who were the parties wanted, but Sheriff Bennett kept the public guessing untillyesterday morning, when at an early hour he throw out his lines and commonced to angle for his game. In this angling he met with remarkable success, for he landed four of his victims before the hour for opening court rolled around.

Four Distinguished Prisoners.

There was nothing unusual about the appearance of things in the large court room when the bailiff announced that the court was ready for the transaction of business Frank Moores read the docket of Saturday's proceedings, the loungers dropped in and took seats white four men. Councilman Thomas F. Tuttle, ex-Councilman Morearty, ex-Councilman B. F. Madsen and ex-Stree Commissioner Flannery occupied seats within the rail. They looked at the carpet, the gas fixtures, the court and then at each

Mr. Tuttle First to Plead.

Councilman Tuttle was invited to a posi-tion directly in front of the court, when the indictment of the grand jury was read. It charged that Mr. Tuttle was a member of the city council and also a stockholder, an agent and general manager of the Silicon Wall Plaster company; that when a member of the council and also a member of the plaster company he had interested himself in a contract with the city of Omaha, contrary to law and contrary to the provisions of the ordinances of the city. He had furnished material which was used in a hall.

"To this, what do you plead !" asked the court. "Not guilty," responded Councilman Tut tle. "The bail, then," continued the court, "Is fixed at $1,500." Mr. Tuttle stated that he had a bondsman

John H. Butler stepped to the front and signed a paper, in which he guaranteed that Mr. Tuttle would be present when his case was called.

That Bogus Check of O. H. Ballou's.

Ex-Councilman B. F. Madsen was next called, and to him an indictment, to which he pleaded "not guilty," was read. This in dictment charged that Madsen had mixed himself up in the Ballou electric light deal; that on April 1, 1891, while he was a member of the council, he had met O. H. Ballou and to him had proposed that if there was mone in it ho (Madsen) would vote to grant Ballo a franchise. To the indictment Madsen pleaded not guilty. His ball was fixed at $1.500 and the bond was signed by S. Jaonsen.

The history of this case was given at a council investigation and at that time the testimony showed that an ordinance was in of which Ballou was the president, certain rights and privileges. The ordinance was re-ferred to the committee on gas and electric lights, of which Madsen was chairman. There of waiting, and one dark night visited Mad sen's house, near Seventh and Pierce streets. The two men talked about the ordinance and the franchise until nearly midnight. Madsen was not enthusiastic over the passage of the the ordinance, but finally Ballou wrote out a check, which in the investigation was known as an "April fool check." This check was for the sum of $500, and was accepted by Madsen, after which he made a report favoring the granting of the franchise. While Madson was examining the check Ballou picked up the ordinance and the re-port and left the house. When the ordinance reached the council it was defeated.

> SOUTH OMAHA. The Work of the Council,

The city council succeeded in getting a quorum together last night, and transacted a considerable amount of business. Councilman Wood of the special committee on a city hospital reported that the Haskell hotel prop erty, situated between the city and the Burlington tracks, was available for that purcose. The committee recommended that the justion of voting $15,000 in bonds for the naintenance of a city hospital be submitted to the people at the spring election. The re-port was received and placed on file. Petitions from property owners for the ollowing improvements were read and refollowing improvements were read and re-ferred: Grading Thirteenth street to Ar-mour avenue; sidewalk on west side of Twenty-second street from I to J; fire hy-draat at Twenty-third and J streets; grading Twenty-third street from J to L streets; crosswalk at the intersection of Twenty-first and N streets; grading I street from Twen-ter from the Twenty first from Tweny-fourth to Twenty-fifth streets, including the aliey. John Condon was granted an extension of time of sixty days on his grading contract. The reports of Police Judge King for the proceeding four months were referred.

D. L. Waterman, a sewing machine agent, said that Officer Mike Hansen had bought a sewing machine from him for which be was unable to collect the payments. His com-plaint was referred to the chief of police.

Councilman Adams offered a resolution providing that at the regular meeting, March 14, the council receive proofs of circulation from the Omaha newspapers and decide which paper had the largest circulation. Which paper had the largest circulation. Thus, he stated, was for the benefit of the applicants for liquor licenses, that they might know which paper to publish their applications in. After some discussion the resolution was passed. The report of the finance committee was read, and then the question that has no read, and then the question that has pre-vented a quorum of the council being pres ent at the last three meetings crepped out. Councilman Walters moved that the report be adopted, with the exception of the item of $20 as salary for Jailer J. P. Maloney, who was recently appointed by the mayor. The motion was carried. In explanation of his motion Councilman Walters said that he did not think any special police necessary. "Then I suppose you are willing to dis-cense with the services of the other special police," remarked the mayor, and the crowd that had been waiting to see a muss when the question came up went away disap-The favorable report of the committee on here in Omaha, have a larger field t work in. Here we control the world with the Castle cure, while at Blair we simply had this state.

"Then again I consider the Castle Cure equal if not superior to any treatment for either the liquor or morphia or tobacco habitues. "There are no unpleasant sequels fol-owing the Castle Cure such as headache, vertigo, loss of memory, inability to concentrate one's thoughts, which make it very unpleasant for the patient. "With the Castle Cure treatment we obviate, and in fact can and do relieve hese symptoms, even after the patients have passed through other institute treatments. "In fact, when a patient is through with his treatment at the Castle Cu e institute he is physically and mentally in his normal condition, and it places him back to where he was before he over became addicted to either the iquor, opium, chloral, cocaine or tobacco habit.

"I am more than pleased with the outlook here in Omaha, as I think we have an excellent field for work. "A great many of my friends have called on me here today, having learned of my coming through THE BEE of Sunday. I expect to have many of my past patients call on me also, and would e pleased if you will so announce it in

THE BEE. "In fact any graduate is invited to call, as is also every person interested in investigating any cures. Mr. C. A. Jarvis, the manager of the Castle Cure institute, then took THE BEE man through the institute and showed the different elegantly appointed apartments. The institute is located in what is known as the Paxton hotel an nex, entrance to the same being either

Two Charges Against Morearty.

Ex-Councilman Ed F. Morearty was caught on two indictments, to both of which he pleaded "not guilty." Bail was fixed at $1,500 in each case and the bonds executed by Andrew Murphy. The first indictment charges that More-arty went into a street sweeping deal to some extent.

From the fall of 1890 until a few weeks ago C. E. Squires, the street sweeping contractor, had a bill of several thousand dollars be-fore the conneil. It had been disallowed by the Board of Public Works and also by the council, the grounds being that Squires had not performed the work in accordance with the terms of his contract with the city.

The indictment sets forth the fact that on October 15, 1891, while Morearty was a mem-ber of the council, he went to Squires and offered to do some log-rolling for the bill, If he was paid $2,200 he would see was put into the November, 1891, appropriation sheet and allowed.

Indistment No. 2 against Morearty impli-cates him in the Ballou deal and charges that he approached O. H. Ballou for the purmanding $1,500 for influence which would be used in engineering through the council the ordinance granting the Ballou company an electric light franchise in this city.

Charged with Shooting and Malfeasance.

James Flannory was also caught on two indictments, to both of which he pleaded 'not guilty

In the first the bail was fixed at $1,500 and in the latter at $500. The first indictment charges that Flannery ou the night of June 2, 1891, with intent to kill, assaulted Charles Bauers a policeman. The facts as published at that time were about as follows: Flannery was running a saloon at Sixteenth and Vinton streets. He drank of his own liquor until he became drunk, after which he raised a row. A call for the patrol waron was turned in and Flannery was carted to fail where he was released (by his carted to jail, where he was released. On his way home he met Bauers, the officer who made the arrest, and at once opened fire on him. The builets flew thick and fast, but as Flannery's aim was bad, none of them took He was re'arrested and taken to jail offect. where he remained until the next day, when the matter was smoothed over and the prosecution was dropped. At the time Flannery admitted the shooting, but claimed that his revolver was discharged merely by accident. The other indictment charges that Flan nery while acting for the city in the capacity of street commissioner became interested in work being performed for the city. He was the owner of a number of teams which were put to work user the streats the collection put to work upon the streets, he collecting the wages. District Court Doings.
