An Investigating Committee Pays a Visit to the Kellom School.

ALLEGED DEFECTIVE WORK EXAMINED

Cub-Contractor Hayden Shows Some Pour Work That He Did Himself and Some That Others Did-The Result.

The new Kellom school building at Twentysecond and Paul streets was inspected by the Board of Education committee on buildings and property yesterday for the purpose of ascertaining the truth or falsity of certain state ments made by Mr. D. I. Hayden, one of the subcontractors, with reference to the laying

Mr. Hayden had presented a sworn state ment to the effect that in several of the rooms there was no paper laid between the first and second layers of flooring. The specifi-cations call for tar paper between these floors, and the board instructed the committee on buildings and property to investigate. Only Mr. Euclid Martin and Mr. Coryell from the committee were present, but Superintendent Hamilton, Contractor Mengedoht. Mr. Hay-den, Mr. Nelmeyer and several other workmen and a Rus reporter were eve witnesses to the investigation.

The first charge made by Mr. Hayden was that sappy and rotten boards had been used in the floors. He was asked to point out these defective boards and he proceeded to do so. He pointed to six boards in different rooms on the first and second floors that he rooms on the first and second floors that he called sappy.

Mr. Neimeyer, the foreman, planed the boards off and the shavings were carefully examined. The boards were all found to be dry and Mr. Hayden admitted that three of them were not sappy. Two others he claimed had been sappy because they showed blue and black streaks through them. One board had evidently been a sappy one. It was stained black by the effects of the water which had at some time held lodgment in it. The committee thought that about the only The committee thought that about the only really objectionable board found. Both Mr. Martin and Mr. Coryell pronounced the floors very satisfactory in the main.

The next charge was that no paper had been put down between the floors in some

After a long war of words between Mr Havden and Superintendent Hamilton, Mr. D. C. Hayden, prother to the subcontractor, agreed to show the rooms where no paper had been laid. In the southeast room on the second floor the auger was put through the floor near the center of the room and paper

You won't find any paper here," said Mr. D. C. Hayden, stepping a few feet farther "Fut the auger down here," said Mr. Martin, and sure enough there was no paper found at that point.

"The paper begins at the east side," continued Mr. Hayden, "where we began to lay the floor but it only continues about three feet. Then there is no paper until you get pretty well toward the center of the room." "How did that happen?" asked Mr.

The work was done according to instructions," replied Mr. Hayden.
"Who gave you such instructions?"
chipped in Superintendent Hamilton.
"Mr. Mengedoht," was Hayden's answer.

"Mr. Mengedoht," was Haydon's answer.

It was now about time to hear something from Mr. Mengedoht and it looked for a moment as though the lie direct and possibly blows would be passed, But Mr. Mengedoht appears to be a patient and self-possessed man, so he simply denied that he had ever given instructions that no paper should be laid.

"Hayden told me several times," said Mr. Mengedoht, "that it was all non-sense to put paper between the floors and that it was a great deal of trouble for him to put it down. I told him that the specifications called for the paper and I must have it put there. I would not have had him fall to put paper in there for $1.000 had him fail to put paper in there for $1,000 and told him so. It's a very small item of expense anyway. I bought paper enough and sent it up here to cover all these floors and I fully expected that he would put it down. When he failed to put down the paper he was violating the instructions I gave him."

Then Mr. Hamilton had his inning. He explained that he had found Mr. Hayden's men in that identical room laying floor without paper under it and had ordered them to toar it up and not to lay any more in that manner. That portion of the floor laid after manner. That portion of the floor laid after Mr. Hamilton had discovered the difficulty was examined with the auger and paper was

Mr. Hayden then pointed out certain places in other rooms and in the hall where there was no paper. He also called attention to the defective work on the moulding around the wainscoting. "Who did that work?" Mr. Martin asked.

"My men did it," said Hayden.
"And you brought us up here to exhibit the defects in your own work, did you!" "Well, it seemed to please Superintendent Hamilton all right. He didn't catch onto in He don't know a poor job when he sees it," continued Hayden, as he passed around the room showing where the moulding on the wainscoting failed to fit the window casing. The defects which Hayden pointed ou

The defects which Hayden pointed out in the wainscoting appeared to the committee to be very trivial and Mr. Hayden was asked to point out the rotten boards spoken of in his affidavit. He failed to find any rotten boards but said that he meant boards that had been sappy for a long time and had a sort of dry rot in them. This brought the investigation to an end, and after looking the building through the committee considered several minor changes suggested by the superintendent in reference to the outer doors and the main hall. The committee will report at the next meeting of the board.

BRIDGING CUT-OFF.

Commissioners Very Much Disappointed at the Action of the Council. It was with some degree of disgust that the members of the Board of County Commissioners read the proceedings of Tuesday night's council meeting, or at least that portion referring to the disposition of Raymond Brothers' contract for constructing the bridge over Cut-Off take, on the line of Ames County Commissioners Bertin, Stenberg and Timme today stated that the boundary line could cut no figure, as the city's contract provided for the construction of 400 feet of the bridge eastward from the west shore of lake. That portion of the lake

the lake. That portion of the lake had aiways been in the Fifth ward and no question had ever been raised as to the boundary. If there was any question about the location of the eastern terminus, the county had taken all of the responsibility when it let the contract for the construction of 1,200 feet of the bridge.

The commissioners said they had acted in good faith and would not have let the contract if it had not been understood and agreed that the city would construct 400 feet of the bridge over the west side of the lake. They could not say what would be the result. The county had let its portion of the contract and the contractor had commenced work. If the Courtland Beach company would not build the 400 feet there was nothing to do but construct the 1,200 feet of bridge out into the lake and then let it stand.

Commissioner Timme stated that the contract was let more for the purpose of aiding Omaha in securing a pleasure resort than for any other purpose. The bridge could benefit no person cutside of Omaha and it had been so understood since the day when the scheme was first conceived.

THE EAST OMAHA DECISION.

howing of What the States Claimed and

What They Received. The officers and stockholders of the East Omaha Land company are feeling unusually ubilant over the decision of the United States supreme court which has settled the question of the boundary line between Iowa and Nebraska, or at least that portion per-taining to East Omaha.

As is well known the case went up from the United States circuit court of lowa. Every fact was put in issue and for more than a year a desperate legal battle was

From the start lows contended that the boundary line was midway between the United States surveys of 1851 and 1856. This ine ran from a mile to a mile and a half north of the present channel of the river through Basbo's bend, and threw all of the East Omaha possessions into Iowa. Then it ran due west to a point about one mile east of Sherman avenue and then south about 1,000 feet east of the water works pumping

Nebraska contended that the boundary line followed the channel of 1877 as the river ran just prior to the cut-of. This position the United States supreme court sustained. The decision places the entire river frontage in Nebraska and adds several thousand acres of land. At the same time it places the bot-tle shaped tract in the bend of the river, where it flowed in the spring of 1877 in Iowa. Iowa gets the whole of the Courtland Beach tract and some 200 acres lying directly

The wording of the supreme court decision, as handed down by Justice Brewer, is The boundary line shall be located where the river ran in 1877, previous to the cut-off subject to such changes as may have been prought about by the gradual shifting of the

The next move will be to settle this oundary line. An effort will be made to have it settled by a survey made jointly by the surveyor of Douglas county, Nebraska, and the surveyor of Pottawattamie, Ia. If they cannot agree, the matter will go to a commission to be appointed by the govern-

Regarding the question of annexing East maha to Omaha, the East Omaha Land company do not view the proposition with any great degree of favor. They claim that they have paved and graded streets, water works and sewers, and do not see where they could gain any benefits by such a move. To annex their taxes, they claim, would be in creased without receiving any corresponding advantages.

Some Points That Are Usually Overlooked by Casual Observers.

IMPORTANCE OF THE STOCK TRADE

Its Growth a Matter of Surprise to Any Wh Have Not Watched it Closely-Plans for the Hammond Additions Approved.

It may be doubted whether more than one half of the people in South Omaha realize how rapidly the live stock interests of the place are developing. To a casual observer the increase in the amount of stock handled is not apparent or is so gradual that the difference is scarcely noticed. A giance at the figures showing the carly amount of business transacted by the yards and packing houses is surprising to anyone who remembers what these same figures footed up a year or two

It was only a short time ago when the patrons of the South Omaha yards pointed with pride to the fact that 8,000 hogs had once been received here in one day. This was regarded as a wonderful achievement and as indisputable evidence that the Magic and as indisputable evidence that the Magic City was destined to become the second greatest packing point in the United States. The books of the Union Stock Yards company show that during the month of January the receipts of hogs exceeded 8,000 on fourteen separate days. The total receipts on these fourteen days amounted to 130,108, an average of 9,722 a day. That the local demand for hogs is fully equal to the market is demonstrated by the fact that the four packing establishments slaughtered over packing establishments slaughtered over 8,000 hogs on seven days of the same month. The aggregate for the seven days was 62,861 an average of 8,980 a day.

In comparing these figures with those of other points it should be remembered that the average weight of the hogs received here was 270 pounds, against a similar average of 235 pourds at Chicago, so that the handling of 8,000 hogs here was equal to a business of nearly 9,000 in Chicago.

That this increase in business will continue is not doubted by any one who is familiar with live stock interests. It is a well known fact that the South Omaha market is at all times proportionately higher than Kansas City when the difference in freight rates is taken into consideration. It is in expectation of a large increase in shipments yards and packing houses are about to invest round million of dollars in preparing to

AFTER THE GRIPPE.

The Grippe Responsible for More Deaths after Recovery than During its Course.-How to Avoid the Dan-

Grippe, in itself, is bad enough, debilitating enough, but it is the after effects, the slowness of recovery that give it its great danger. In most cases, the person did not have sufficient vitality to rally after the disease itself had passed. The forces of nature were too weak to contend with the debility which the Grippe had left.

It is sad to think how many people have died who might have been saved if nature had been properly assisted and fortified after the Grippe had been driven from the system Many physicians realized this fact, and assisted their patients over the dangerous after effects by bracing up and stimulating their systems. This was, and can be done in but one way, and that is by the steady and noderate use of some pure yet powerful stime lant. There is but one absolutely pure and medicinal stimulant known to the profession and to the public, and that is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. The most prominent scientists and physicians of the land endorse its purity and value. It is not a new whiskey, it has been before the public for years. It is not cheap decoction, but a pure distillation. It imparts a tone to the system possible in no other manner and sends the blood coursing through the veins with renewed vigor. It is superior in every respect and however much any unscrupulous druggist or groer may seek to lend you to believe to the contrary do not be deceived.
