

MAKES A DAMAGING CHARGE

Contractor Mengedot Tells of Architect Berlinghoff's Peculiar Proposition.

WANTED TO WRECK A SCHOOL BUILDING.

Mr. Berlinghoff Denies the Accusation, But Says He Urged Going After Liberal Extras from the Board of Education.

The new Kellom school building, now almost completed, appears to be a sort of Pandora's box for furnishing wrangles and difficulties between the board of education, the architects, the superintendent and the contractor and subcontractors.

Ever since the difficulty that arose last August over the question of superintending the construction of the building, when the board decided to give Superintendent Hamilton absolute authority over the contractor and the architects who had furnished the plans, there has been trouble breaking out here and there and from present indications there is more to follow.

Wanted the Building to Fall Down.

Speaking of the work of the new building Mr. Mengedot said the other day to a Ben reporter: "I have had more annoyance since I began to put up this building than I ever had on a building in my life. I would not go through the same thing again if I could be assured of making either one or the other, but I tried my best to put the building up according to the contract, but the constant cross-firing between the architect and Superintendent Hamilton has made me a great deal of trouble and has occasioned considerable unnecessary expense. In the first place I supposed that I was to work under the supervision of the architect, but soon after the building was commenced I found that Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Berlinghoff did not agree, and of course I could not work under two superintendents who gave opposite orders about things. Mr. Berlinghoff wanted me to put in an iron beam over the arch at the main entrance, but Mr. Hamilton ordered me not to put it. He said the board would not pay for it because it was not necessary. The board finally gave Mr. Hamilton full swing and then I did as he directed.

"Berlinghoff was displeased with that and he wanted me to build a beam put in so that it would fall down when the weight came on it from above. He said I could have my men build it in such a way that it would break down and then we would throw the blame on Mr. Hamilton because he would not let me put in the iron beam. I told Berlinghoff that I would build a beam, but I would not build an honest, substantial building, and would do so, even if I lost money on it. Berlinghoff offered to go to the building at night and fix the arch so it would fall down if I would let him. I spurned every suggestion of that kind.

A Scheme for an Extra Robbery.

"Later on Berlinghoff told me that I ought to get a few thousand dollars out of the board by making it appear that Cady & Gray had to build the entire building over again because of the rise in the first story was changed by the board after the building had been begun. He said if I would listen to him and Ferguson, who works for Cady & Gray, they would show me how to fix the school house. He said they could show me how to smear it all over the board and make it look as if they would not listen to him. I would not stoop to so low a thing. My word is as good as my bond today with men that I have built houses for, and I want to keep it that way.

What Berlinghoff Says.

Mr. Berlinghoff was seen in the office of Bell & Berlinghoff at Council Bluffs. Speaking of the arch over the front door Mr. Berlinghoff said: "I intended that there should be an arch over that arch because an arch of brick, as it is at present, is liable to give way and crack after a few months. Any first-class architect will tell you that an arch of brick is not very substantial without an iron beam or eye as they call it, to hold the brick firm. We had that done at the Grand Central hotel and some of them are sprung already."

"Did you ever advise Mengedot to put up that arch where we wanted to put in the beam in a slanted manner so that it would fall down when the weight came upon it?"

"No, sir. I gave him no such advice as that."

Mr. Bell, who was present during the conversation, said: "What the board has done has been telling that?" When the gentlemen were informed that the information came from no less a man than Mr. Mengedot they looked at each other in astonishment, and Mr. Berlinghoff repeated the statement that he had never given such advice.

Did you advise Mengedot to strike the Board of Education for extras on the stair building on account of a change in the plans after part of the building had been drawn?

"Yes, I did," said Mr. Berlinghoff. "He had a right to ask an extra for that. I understand that part of the stairs had to be built twice over on account of that change and Mengedot ought to have put in an extra because it was not his fault."

Claims the Board Was in Error.

"The board was all wrong," said Mr. Bell at this point, "when our architect advised the building was taken away. Every architect ought to supervise the construction of the building, but he has not drawn the plans. He knows better than anybody else how the building ought to be put up. When the board decided to dispense with our services and turn the supervision of the building over to Mr. Hamilton, in direct violation of our written contract, then the trouble began. The work has been a success of blunders ever since then and the building today is not put up according to the specifications. The roof has not been braced up for its own specifications, and yet the board has allowed the contractor $80 for the extra bracing that has been left out. The locks should have been Yale, as called for in the specifications, but the contractor has put on the Corbin lock, which is much cheaper. Mr. Hamilton did not notice this until Mr. Berlinghoff called his attention to it. We understand that he has since ordered the Corbin locks taken off and the Yale put on. There are other things about the building that are not in accordance with the specifications, but the board has decided to go it blind. When the committee went up there last week to investigate, the architect was not consulted. I suppose the board will finally accept the building without asking us whether or not it is the building our plans represented."

"Do you expect to hold the board for the additional amount usually paid architects for superintending a building?"

"We certainly do. Our bond and contract specifically state that we were to superintend the construction of the building, and when it was completed and accepted we shall proceed to collect the balance due us for drawing the plans and superintending the construction of the building."

TRADE IS NOT DULL.

Jobs Take Exceptions to a Commercial Agency. Many of the jobs of Omaha are feeling very much annoyed over a report sent out by Dun's commercial agency to the effect that trade in Omaha was quiet last week.

The facts are, the jobs assert, that trade has been better during the past month than it ever was before.

Mr. Ruhl, of Gilmore & Ruhl, wholesale clothing, said: "Our trade for February was better than we have ever had before."

William Koenig, of the Klipatrick Koch Dry Goods company—Our business for February was fully 30 per cent greater than for the same month last year.

W. A. L. Gibson—We did a business of 30 per cent in January and 40 per cent in February greater than that done by Darrow & Logan during the same months last year.

Other jobs make similarly flattering reports and they think that indication is done them by the report which goes to every town in the United States and is published in nearly every daily newspaper in the union.

PLANS FOR A CONVENTION HALL.

The Proposed Market House will Accommodate the People's Party Meeting.

A solution of the problem of a building in which to hold the national convention of the independent party that will convene in this city, July 4, has been offered by J. A. Linahan, manager of the Market House company.

Some four weeks ago Mr. Linahan submitted a proposition to the city council, in which he with other gentlemen agreed to erect a market house, 132 feet square, at the corner of Twelfth and Jones streets, under certain conditions. The matter was referred to the committee on public property and building, and the friends of the ordinance will ask to have it referred back to be considered in committee of the whole.

Mr. Linahan said yesterday that if the ordinance passed within any reasonable length of time he would go to work and have the building completed by the first of June 15. By putting a large force of men work to the building could be erected in sixty days.

If completed in time, Mr. Linahan said that the building could be used as a convention hall. The rent would be nominal, as all he wanted was to have the building erected and removing the seats that would be occupied by the members of the convention.

Nebraska Lumber Dealers to Meet.

Today Omaha will be given over to the state lumber dealers, the third annual convention of the Nebraska Lumber Dealers' association convening at Washington hall at 2 o'clock. Out of 350 members of the association it is anticipated that nearly 300 will be in attendance.

There are several matters of considerable importance to come before the convention, but during the afternoon chief one or two cases of discrimination by lumber dealers and the sale of railroad lots by dealers outside their jurisdiction. Now officers are to be elected and a goodly number of resolutions may result over the secretaryship now held by Mr. W. C. Sunderland, who is largely responsible for the growth of the association in Nebraska.

The Omaha dealers will entertain the out-of-town guests during their stay here.

Tomorrow night the members of the board of the Farnam street theater and afterwards will be banqueted at the Millard hotel, for which great preparations are being made.

The streets were almost impassable again yesterday, but during the afternoon Chief Brennan had some of the cross walks cleaned off, which made some improvement.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

City Council Working Away at a Public Officer's Accounts.

JUDGE KING SAID TO BE HOLDING BACK

Committee Which Investigated His Books Reports a Small Shortage—The Judge Says There is a Mistake—Will Compare Accounts.

The city council met last evening with seven members present. Bills amounting to $70.31 were ordered paid on the recommendation of the finance committee. Among them was the electric light company's bill of $34.

Councilman Wood of the finance committee reported that the committee had examined the books of Police Judge King and found a number of inconsistencies. Items not properly accounted for were found to the amount of $36.50. There had been no settlement for three months, and the amount thus held back was $209.10. Two arrests had been made, the disposition of which was not accounted for.

Judge King, who was present, stated that he was only paid to the amount of $16, which was the result of credit that he had given to that amount in the payment of fines. The committee was given another week in order that Judge King might have an opportunity to compare his figures with those of the committee.

To resolve that $57 grading tax on a portion of Thirtieth street be refunded to Balthus Jetter on condition that that portion of the street be dedicated to the city was referred to the city attorney.

A resolution was carried ordering electric lights placed at Thirtieth and Hoffman streets, Twentieth and K, and twentieth and Missouri avenue. This is the same resolution that has been offered and defeated at every council meeting for the last six months.

A crosswalk was ordered built at the intersection of Twenty-first and J streets. A petition from property owners that it be removed from Twelfth and the alley between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets, and Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets from Missouri avenue, and K, and twentieth streets, and the petition was granted upon its favorable report.

The report of Chief of Police Brennan for the month of February was read. The city attorney was instructed to draft an ordinance providing for the issuance of $10,000 in bonds for sewerage purposes.

A long list of ordinances were passed, none of which are of special importance.

School Matters.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening. Superintendent Munroe reported that the total number of pupils enrolled since September 1 was 1,513, the average daily attendance was 955, and the total number of pupils was 1,630. This is the largest attendance that has ever been registered in the South Omaha schools.

The usual number of bills were referred to the finance committee. The prospective school expenses for 1892, as estimated by Superintendent Munroe, are $25,000. The total amount from saloon licenses last year were $34,000.

Flag poles were ordered placed on all the school buildings. Bills amounting to $1,925.15 were ordered paid, and a meeting will be held Wednesday evening, when action will be taken on the question of voting school house bonds.

Stock Yards Figures.

The packers' statistics from the leading packing points continue to show great comparative gains on the part of South Omaha. According to the figures compiled by yesterday's Packing House Bulletin the total packing for the season to date has increased 428,120, or 5.18 per cent. This gain has all been supplied by this city, as Chicago and Kansas City show a falling off of 8.97 per cent and 2.53 per cent, respectively. South Omaha has increased from 284,000 to 630,000, or 7.82 per cent. At this rate of progress the arrival of the Magic City in second place as a packing point is not far off.

The total receipts at the stock yards during February were 55,363 cattle, 127 hogs, 17,620 sheep and 400 horses and mules.

Motor Conductor Hurt.

J. C. Mitchell, conductor of train No. 15 on the South Omaha motor line, had a narrow escape from being seriously injured while switching his train at N street last evening. He left the trailer down over the switch and stood in front of it, trying to push it back. At that moment the brake gave way and the engine struck him on the side of the face, knocking him down and cutting a deep gash on the right cheek. The car started down the grade as soon as the brake was released, and Mitchell was hurled a distance of four rods and bruised them severely, but the motorman succeeded in stopping the car in time to prevent him from serious injury.

A lengthy protest from the property owners in the vicinity was read. Attorney J. W. Houser addressed the board in behalf of the remonstrators, and read a certified copy of the recent supreme court decision regarding the continuous daily publication of applications for liquor licenses for two weeks. He then asked that the case be dismissed because the board could not possibly have any jurisdiction over the matter.

JOURNALISTIC ENTERPRISE.

FARMER—That was a stavin' paper you got out last week. COUNTRY EDITOR—I'm glad to hear that you were pleased with it.

FARMER—Them stories you had in about them fella's been cured of long-standing diseases were the entertainin' bit of news I've read for a long time.—Pack. You'd believe in patent medicines if they didn't profess to cure everything. And, you can't always tell the prescription that cures by what you read in the papers. So, perhaps, there's no better way to sell a remedy, than to tell the truth about it, and take the risk of its doing just what it professes to do.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is not a "cure-all," but is only adapted to those diseases peculiar to women. It fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a perfect specific in all chronic weaknesses, functional disorders peculiar to the sex. It is a powerful, invigorating tonic, and a soothing and strengthening nervine—purely vegetable, perfectly harmless. For ulcerations, displacements, bearing-down sensations, unnatural discharges—everything that's known as a "female complaint"—it's a positive remedy.
