Hastings' Federal Building Must Be Constructed on Limited Capital.

DEMOCRATS ADHERE TO THE POLICY

They Hope to Secure Credit for Wise Legis. lation by Cutting Down Necessary Appropriations-How They Will Be Managed.

> WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE BEE, VASHINGTON, D. C., March 11.

The house committee on public buildings has agreed to report the Hastings public building bill at $60,000, cutting down the appropriation from $250,000, as passed by the senate. This result is somewhat discouraging to Congressman McKeighan, who had hoped for a larger sum even from a cheese paring democratic congress on the verge of a residential campaign. The bill came within an ace of passing last year at $75,000 under republican auspices. It will probably pass this year if looked after, as it goes to the top of the calendar when public building bills are considered. The delay in reporting the bill is due to an attempt of the democrats to cut off all new building approprintions. It was not until last week that the committee decided that they would recommend the erection of any new government buildings at the present session. Now that Hastings comes out of the committee with the earliest batch reported, she can probably be assured of a public building at this congress, not at all commensurate with the needs of a court city of 10,000 inhabitants, but which, thanks to democratic parsimony, must be adjusted to the size of the small souled patriots who do not live in republican states and who propose to make the next presidential struggle on a platform of cheese paring as a national issue. Sepator Paddock hopes that the appropria-the limit raised as high as possible.

It is noticeable that Congressman Kem has probably not yet heard of Norfolk's wishes

The general postoffice building bill which the senate has been discussing for two days and which will be the first measure of this character to pass the senate, had its origin in the bill introduced in the Ferty-ninth congress by Senator Paddock shortly after his arrival in Washington. This year the senate committee on public grounds and buildings, under the leadership of Senator Vest, reported a bill most of whose provisions reported a bill most of whose provisions were taken bedily from Senator Pad-dock's measure but which fixed a maximum cost for postoffice buildings at $20,000 and limited the expenditures to towns where the postoffice receipts for three years previous had aggregated $9,000, for $3,000 annually. Senator Paddock's bill, with which he yesterday antagonized the Vest bill, started yesterday antagonized the Vest bill, started with the minimum class placing the appropriation for this class at $10,000 and rising in the scale of appropriation to the gross annual receipts for three years preceding without other limit as to the cost of the building to be constructed. Senator Vest, to save his committee bill, modified it by raising the limit of expenditure from $20,000 to $30,000 and Senator Paddock signature. $20,000 to $90,000 and Sepator Paddock signifying his acquiescence in the change his substitute bill was voted down by a small majority.

Senator Paddock professes himself satisfied that the committee bifl, if it becomes a law, will accomplish about the same results as his original measure, whose lines it so closely follows. The limit of $90,000 will cover nearly all the postoffices, which have not already been provided for by special act. Senator Paddock introduced the first bill of this nature in congress and has struggled for it each year since. It has been extensively commented on and endorsed by the press, and the public feeling aroused in its favor is largely responsible for the possibil ity of a kindred measure receiving the presi-

Probable Army Transfers. The orders for the annual changes of stations of troops in the army may be expected to issue very shortly. The general command-ing the army and Generals Merritt and Miles have been in consultation for several days past, and the result of their conference may soon be expected. There are rumors that the Ninth cavalry and Second infantry now stationed in Nebraska will be among the regiments changing station. It is also hinted in army circles that one troop of the Ninth cavalry will be sent to Fort Sheridan, near Chicago, and that Captain Hell's troop of the Seventh cavairy will soon take station at Fort Myer, near Washington. There has been much competition among the various cavalry regiments for this last detail, which is considered one of the most eligible in the army, owing to the social features and the abscuce of much unpleasant routine work. The expectation is that the Ninth will go south and the Third and First cavalry change tations, the Fifth cavalry also going further

Business Methods Prevalled.

A beautiful exemplification of the advan-tage which business and common sense has over government red tane comes to light today in the following story: Negotiations are in progress beween the Lower Brule and Rosebud Indians as to the proposed change of location of the Lower Brule from the Rosebud agency where they have lived for years to the new reservation west of the Missouri river, near Pierre, which was set apart for them by the act of March 3, 1890. The Bruies promptly declined to make the transfer and an Indian commission was sent last summer to either secure their as sent to the removal or to make some other arrangement satisfactory to both the Brules and Rosebud Indians. After the expenditure of much lung power, several interpreters and $5,000 of money the commission failed to make any terms with the Indians. When Senators Pettigrew and Manderson visited the Indian reservation last fall they sug-gested that the Indians be allowed to get togested that the Indians be allowed to get to-gether and make an agreement among them-selves. The tudians agreed promptly and the commissioner of Indian affairs acquiesced in the surgestion. The Indians have been conferring together on the subject at Rosebud agency today. Senator Pettigrew was informed by the Indian bureau that the Indians had agreed upon a treaty which provides that agreed upon a treaty which provides that the Brules are to remain where they are, the lower Brules agree to sell their new reservation near Pierre to the government to be opened to settlers, the proceeds to go to the Rosebud Indians, the Rosebud Indians on the other hand are to cede to the lower Brules a like number of acres south of the White river on the Rosebud reservation. This agreement will open 500,000 acres of land near Pierre to settlement. Urging the Payment of War Expenses.

Senator Manderson's report on his bill to reimburse Nebraska for expenses incurred in assisting to suppress the Sioux outbreak of 1890-91, appeared in print today. It first calls attention to the characteristics of the calls attention to the characteristics of the Sioux, their war-like nature and their savage bravery and notes that in November, 1890, rumors of danger were so numerous that a large body of United States troops were sent on the border; that in December, 1890, a general Indian war was threatened and the settlers on the Nebraska border fled to the towns. The report further recites that on January 2, 1891, the governor of Nebraska ordered the First brigade of Nebraska National guards to the front and that they promptly obeyed and were ably located in positions to guard the settlements. Senator Manderson incorporates portions of General Colby's and General Vifquain's reports showing the disposition of the Nebraska militia and quotes General Miles' letter to General Colby stating that "I feel that the state troops can now be withdrawn with safety." Senator Manderson says that it is plain that the Nebraska troops cut off all hope of the escape of the Indians east of the Black Hills. He recommends an appropriation of $42,000 to re-imburse the state for its expenditure. oux, their war-like nature and their savage Must Answer for Their Record.

"Help us, Cassius, or we sink," was the plaintive cry of the northern and eastern democrats to the auti-free coinage republicans. And the republicans with hard hearted political sagasity declined to lift the Traceys and Fred Williams and Fitches and sixty-three other bourbons and mugwamps out of the democratic free coinage slough. So the Bland lunacy will be debated and passed, will go over to the senate and there probably will go over to the senate and there probably secure passage through the votes of the billionaire senators and will finally ship-wreck on the rocks of a presidential veto, just as the inflation bill split on the reef of General Grant's hard common sense. The republicae policy is to let the majority rule and to hold it afterwards to a strict accountability for its record. Sound money will be the great issue of the next presidential campaign. That is now next presidential campaign. That is now perfectly apparent. The country will be asked to pass a verdict upon the question whether national credit and private business interests are to be sacrificed for the sake of making an unlimited government market for the products of the silver mines of the west. The issue will resolve itself into the proposition whether the people of the United States propose to bind themselves in perpetuity to pay $1 for 69 cents worth of metal to increase the profits of the mine owners. We hear much of the late educational campaigns on the tariff. It will prove to have been a kinder of the late of the education of the late of the education which dergarten compared to the education which the next campaign will afford upon the money The business interests of the country are aiready aroused. They have made up their minds that they must face the issue of a posminds that they must face the issue of a pos-sibly debased currency just as they faced it in 1874 and they are preparing to throw per-sonal political preferences to the winds in de-fense of what they consider the commercial stability of the nation. Nothing is surer than than that not a single New England democrat can be re-elected if the democratic party in congress places itself on record for the free and unlimited comage of the silver of the word. A physilver democrate declars of the world. Anti-silver democrats declare openly that New York state and a number of tis congressmen will cortainly be buried in the ruins. The large democratic gains of 1890 in the east will become republican ac-cessions through the cry of an honest dollar for an honest day's work.

I think, J. R., if you search your memory further you will find the "Emmett House" a different structure, the history of which I have heard but have no recollection, hence can say nothing positively. Grim Death Has Set His Mark on Judge Borgelt of Lincoln.

HIS ASSASSIN TELLS OF HIS PASSION

Warner Admits That He Went to the Court Room to Kill the Judge-He Was Nerved by Liquor-Talk of Lynching.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 11.-[Special to THE BEE. |- Judge Borgelt is hovering between life and death, with the chances against him. At 3 o'clock this afternoon one of the attending physicians stated that his death was a question of but a few hours, and this evening the statement was made that there was no apparent change, although it was believed that the wounded man would live ustil morning. One-half of the split bullet is still in the brain, lodging, it is believed, at the base of that organ. The right arm is paralyzed and all hopes of the ultimate recovery of the victim are apparently Assassin Crazed by Liquor,

Before Warner was formally incarcerated in the county jail he was brought before Judge Lansing and questioned. He claimed to have been born in Cattaraugus county, to have been born in Cattaraugus county, New York, in 1838, and has two sons living in Toledo, O. He says his right name is Hugh Carroil, although he has gone under the name of Warner for nearly a year, or since he has been in Lincoln. He came here from Kansas City, but for five years was at St. Paul, employed as a brakeman on the Manitoba road. When asked why he shot the judge he replied that he had a crazy fit on, and besides had taken several drinks of liquor. He said further that on the morning of the occurrence he had mage up his mind liquor. He said further that on the morning of the occurrence he had made up his mind to kill the judge, fortified his nerve with liquor, but after he had gotten about three feet inside the door he thought it was not right to do it and turned to go out. Just at that moment he caught sight of the judge at his desk and a flood of passion swept over his brain and Le remembered nothing more until he was behind the bars. he was behind the bars.

Threats of Lynching. The fact that there has never been a legal The fact that there has never been a legal hanging in Lancaster county, coupled with the further fact that in the last three murders committed here in the past year, the Sheedy case, the Hutchinson case and the Hayes case, not a man or woman was even convicted has created a sentiment that the law is incapable of punishing its violators. Hence the talk of lynching Warner has gained ground. The jail has been guarded by balf a dozen men armed with Winchesters, but the sheriff appears to have grown more apprehensive, as pears to have grown more apprehensive, as it was reported this afternoon that the mur-derer had been taken to the penitentiary for safe keeping.

Several Complaints from Rule. The citizens of the town of Rule, Neb., have made a number of complaints to the State Board of Transportation against the B. & M. company. The principal one is that when the road was constructed through the town a deep excavation was made across Commercial street by reason of which that street is completely obstructed, greatly to the detriment of the traveling public and to the great inconvenience of the people living along said street. Complaint is also made that in erecting its depot, coal sheds, water tank, etc., the company used certain streets and alleys without the consent of the village authorities. The matter was at one time in-vestigated by the board and the company ordered to open and maintain another street in lieu of the privilege of occupying the streets and alleys referred to. The company has neglected to comply with the former rulings of the board in all particulars and nence the complaint.

Meeting of the Military Board. The Military board has been in session for the past two days, and an attempt has been made to unravel the entanglement in which the affairs of the adjutant general's office have become involved. In view of the mat-ter of the examination of General Cole's ac-counts, the board found it impossible, by reason of the lack of time and owing to the imperfect manner in which the books were kept, to satisfactorily audit the accounts and expenditures of the office and prepare a statement showing the exact condition of the finances. It was decided to employ an expert accountant to examine the books, checks and vouchers, and make a statement showing the exact condition of affairs at as early a date as practicable.

After Years of Unsuccessful Search for a Cure, Martin Anderson Gets Relief from the Chinese Doctor A Voluntary Test Омана, Neb., Jan. 18, 1802.

To whom It May Concern:
This is to certify that I have been a constant sufferer for many years with catarrh, asthma and bronchial affections of the throat, and tried all the patent medicines and remedies I ever heard of, but with no success. I treated with doctors in various parts of the country, but none of them could do me any good further than giving me shor temporary relief. I suffered night an-day, and continued to grow worse not withstanding all the medicine I had taken. I had almost given up my case as hopeless when 1 was informed by a friend of Dr. C. Gee Wo, the Chinese doctor, and advised to go and see him in the hope of getting relief at least, if not a permanent cure for my trouble. I was slow in making up my mind to make such a radical change in my treatment, as I knew a trial with the Chinese doctor would bring me, but I finally concluded to give him a trial, so I called at his office with that intention. I round the doctor a clever, entertaining gentieman, thoroughly posted on my condi-tion, and it took only a very short time to convince me that he was the party I was so long in search of. He told me my case was curable, and that he could cure me, and prepared me a special treatment to suit my condition, and in two weeks I was so much better that I had the fullest confidence in the doctor's ability and committed my case to his treatment. I continued to grow batter rapidly and am now entirely well, I owe my cure to Dr. C. Gee Wo, and am not ashamed to admit it. I advise all who want relief from their troubles to call on Dr. C. Gee Wo, and they will be cured. For all particulars apply or write to MARTIN L. ANDERSON, 3121 Cuming St., Omaha, Neb.
