

THE DAILY BEE.

E. ROSEWATER, Editor. PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION: Daily Bee (without Sunday) One Year, $4.00; Daily and Sunday, One Year, $5.00; Six Months, $2.50; Three Months, $1.50; Single Copy, 5 Cts.

OFFICES: Omaha, The Bee Building, South Omaha, corner N and 26th Streets. Council Bluffs, 22 First Street.

CORRESPONDENCE: All communications relating to news and editorial matter should be addressed to the Editorial Department.

BUSINESS LETTERS: All business letters and remittances should be addressed to The Bee Publishing Company.

The Bee Publishing Company, Proprietor.

Table with 2 columns: Date and Circulation. Rows include Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Average.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence this 13th day of March, A. D. 1892.

Average Circulation for February 24,510.

GENERAL ALGER has expressed himself to a Cheyenne reporter as well satisfied with his presidential boomlet.

THE AVERAGE Washington newspaper correspondent cannot escape the conviction that it is his duty to edit his paper and direct the political public sentiment of the nation.

INFLATION of the currency in Argentina drove the 80-cent paper dollar down, down to 20 cents. And yet there are people in America who cannot learn anything from the experience of Argentina.

THE Board of Education has taken no steps thus far toward furnishing their rooms in the city hall. It is to be hoped this body will give the home furniture manufacturers and dealers a chance to secure this work.

SENATOR STEWART'S proposed constitutional amendment to make the president ineligible for a re-election for four years after the expiration of his term would doubtless meet with popular approval if the presidential term was fixed at six years.

Now suppose Governor Boyd should issue a proclamation convening the legislature in extra session and Mr. Thayer should attempt to counteract the proclamation by revoking Boyd's call. Whom would the legislature obey?

EXAMINATIONS for admission to the college, scientific and professional departments of Harvard university are to be held in Denver, St. Louis, Minneapolis and Chicago on June 28th, 30th, July 1st and 2d under the charge of university officers. This announcement is of interest in the west for two reasons.

The presence in Omaha during the past week of two opera companies, both of which played to crowded houses, demonstrated that a very large element of our people appreciate whatever is worthy and meritorious and are ready to give it generous support.

It is somewhat remarkable to find public opinion in England so much opposed to the decision of Lord Salisbury regarding a renewal of the modus vivandus in Herring sea, but it is gratifying evidence that public opinion there is wiser and juster than that of the government.

INCITING ANARCHY. And now comes Mr. Joseph Blair, one of the attorneys for John M. Thayer, with a formal complaint that the deceased John M. Thayer has prematurely vacated the office of governor and should by rights be fayed to resume the dignities and prerogatives which he had exercised by virtue of a preposterous assumption of the state supreme court, which was reversed by the highest tribunal in the land, but as yet has not been officially expunged.

Now it seems to us that the people of Nebraska have been trifled with long enough. They have been torn up over the pretended claims of bogus governors and have patiently submitted to the mockery of justice ever since the disgruntled prohibitionists started the Powers contest that opened a wedge into which Mr. Thayer was pushed by Mr. Blair and other eminent constitutional hair-splitters.

We concede the legal profundity of Mr. Joseph Blair and are willing to have it duly recognized and widely advertised. We realize that the state has not done enough for Mr. Thayer and would gladly see him taken care of for the balance of his days if the island which he has recently annexed down in Texas does not afford him scope for the exercise of his executive talents.

Technically Mr. Blair may be right as regards gubernatorial successions. From a strictly legal point of view Thayer, not being an emperor or king, could not abdicate at will. But being an intruder without a shadow of title to the office nobody who desires to perpetuate popular self-government can be justified in countenancing a repetition of the high-handed usurpation under the semblance of legal forms.

THE BURIAL of a deceased member of congress has come to be a very expensive affair. This is true both as to the cost in money and the time taken from public business for memorial services.

There are two sides to the question. There are those who are in favor of the memorial services for the deceased member of congress, and there are those who are in favor of the memorial services for the living member of congress.

There are two sides to the question. There are those who are in favor of the memorial services for the deceased member of congress, and there are those who are in favor of the memorial services for the living member of congress.

There are two sides to the question. There are those who are in favor of the memorial services for the deceased member of congress, and there are those who are in favor of the memorial services for the living member of congress.

There are two sides to the question. There are those who are in favor of the memorial services for the deceased member of congress, and there are those who are in favor of the memorial services for the living member of congress.

upon the general conference, but it was desired as an evidence of the wish of the people. The vote resulted in 182,000 in favor of the proposition and 109,000 against it. In the annual conference the vote cast upon the proposition was 10,736 and the majority in favor was 435.

AN UTILITY AND UNWISE PRACTICE. At every session of congress bills are introduced to remove the charge of desertion against persons who enlisted in the army during the rebellion, and to correct the record in the case of other persons in the military service who were guilty of some violation of army regulations for which they were dishonorably dismissed.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

There are two bills before congress proposing to apply the system of lineal promotion now existing in all other regimental grades to lieutenants. The Outhwaite bill, which has passed the house, would admit and perpetuate present injustices by applying the principle of lineal promotion to first lieutenants as they are now arranged lineally, but would prevent them for the future.

BROWNING, KING & CO. Shamrocks for St. Patrick's Day. We have made arrangements for a supply of shamrocks, the picture on the left being a lifelike representation. These beautiful shamrocks will arrive in time to be given away to those who call at our store on St. Patrick's day. It don't make any difference whether you are a regular customer or never have or never expect to trade with us, you are welcome to one as long as we have any. The handsomest buttonieres in the city. Browning, King & Co. Open Saturdays till 10 p.m. Other evenings till 8.