

HER MARRIAGE WAS A FAILURE

Mrs. Wellwood's Experience in Getting Rid of Her Divorced Husband.

DEPOSITIONS THAT GREATLY DIFFER

Stories of the Husband and the Witnesses do not dovetail—Road House Keepers Plead Guilty—Fetit Jurors for April.

Judge Hopewell is hearing a divorce case in which there is a good deal of romance and more of a strange story of a girl's misplaced confidence and a man's success in covering his faults and leading a double existence, one of pious relating in the presence of his immediate relatives and a very different one in other walks of life, if the depositions offered in the case are to be believed.

In the case in question, Leola A. Wellwood is seeking to have set aside a decree of divorce granted her by Judge Hopewell, who granted the divorce on the grounds of drunkenness, failure to support and several other charges. Wellwood seeks to have the decree annulled on the ground that the facts were not as stated in the decree when the decree was granted.

The story is that Wellwood, who is a great big, shaggy fellow, appeared as a public school teacher in a country district near Detroit several years ago, and in the course of his career he met and became acquainted with his wife, then a girl of 15 years of age, the daughter of a well-to-do farmer named Dolan. Wellwood is alleged to have seduced her, and she became pregnant. He then married her, and she bore him a son, named John, who is now a year old. The couple lived happily for some time, but then the husband's habits of drinking and gambling began to tell on the wife, and she became increasingly distressed. She finally decided to leave him, and she did so, taking her child with her. She then came to Omaha in January, 1909, and in July of that year applied for a divorce. She worked here for some time, but then she was laid off, and she has since been unemployed.

When the girl was but 15 years of age she was married to Wellwood and was placed in a convent while her parents advanced several thousand dollars toward sending her son in law through college. This was done and then Wellwood claimed his wife. She went to him but found it impossible to live with him. She alleged that he had an excess that made it impossible for him to hold any position and she was finally compelled to seek funds to take her home. She came to Omaha in January, 1909, and in July of that year applied for a divorce. She worked here for some time, but then she was laid off, and she has since been unemployed.

Last December Wellwood arrived in Omaha and commenced proceedings to have the case set aside. He alleged that he had been accused of drunkenness and brought letters from Canadian ministers by the score telling him that he was a drunkard and a gambler. He then went to the court and asked for a certificate to teach school, but he was not given one. He then hired a force of detectives to shadow his former wife and her son, and they were wildly shadowing him in an effort to quit the game even at last.

The motion to set aside the decree was made before Judge Hopewell in December and continued from time to time until yesterday. Several score people in Omaha were asked for depositions, but most of the documents were delayed through the persistence of the Canadian authorities in demanding fees before the papers were forwarded.

Then the other side sent for depositions, which came. There were a dozen or so of them and they unanimously agreed that Mr. Wellwood's reputation for sobriety and veracity was rated very low in towns where he has lived in Canada. The case will be before the court for several days.

Roadhouse Keepers Plead Guilty. Joe Rowles, August Hartman, C. Huntzinger and Ernest Soehl, four of the indicted outside saloon keepers, pleaded guilty yesterday morning in Judge Davis' court, to selling liquor within the two-mile limit on the ground that the facts alleged in the indictment constituted no offense, as the statute, as amended, was unconstitutional and void, and special legislation. The penalty was not imposed pending the argument of the motion.

Wants a Divorce. Mrs. Kate Leneer has taken her domestic trials and tribulations into court, and because of them wants a divorce from Charles Leneer, whom she charges with excessive drinking, gambling, and other vices, and who, she claims, has been a drunkard and a gambler for some time. She has been a resident of Omaha for some time, and she has been a resident of Omaha for some time.

In the case of John B. Findlay against the city, growing out of the condemnation of certain lands along North Twentieth street between Lake and Levee streets, Judge Ferguson ruled that in such proceedings where the owners of land were assessed for special benefits, the city could not be held liable in controversy and that the owner could maintain an action in ejectment.

A Kansas Man's Experience with Coughs and Colds. Colds and coughs have been so prevalent during the past few months that the experience of Albert Favorite of Arkansas City, Kan., cannot fail to interest some of our readers. Here it is in his own words: "I contracted a cold early last spring that settled on my lungs and had hardly recovered from it when I caught another that hung on all summer and left me with a hacking cough which I thought I never would get rid of. I had used Chamberlain's cough remedy some fourteen years ago with much success and concluded to try it again. When I had got through with one bottle my cough had left me and I have not suffered with a cough or cold since. I have recommended it to others and all speak well of it." 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

Board of Health Doings. The Board of Health held a short special session yesterday afternoon. A resolution was passed requesting the council to amend the ordinance which divides the city into nine sanitary districts and reduce the number of districts to five. It was thought by the board that better results would follow if there were only five authorized districts. Count Puskasi has so far failed to file a bond for the discharge of dead animals, and so the board decided to advertise for new bids. This will be done at once. An order was issued requesting all employees of the health department to be present at every regular meeting of the board.

Hokemian Republicans. The Hokemian republican club held its regular monthly meeting Sunday afternoon at National hall. The meeting was well attended.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Result of the Investigation of Police Judge King's Financial Records.

A SHORTAGE FOUND AND MADE GOOD

Question of Circulation Again Before the City Council—Officer Montague's Experience in a Saloon Fight—Maggie City Notes and Personalities.

The city council held an unusually short session last evening. The finance committee reported that it had completed the examination of the books of Police Judge King and found a balance due the city of $227.00. It recommended that that amount be paid without delay. The report was accepted.

Councilman Wood offered a resolution authorizing Judge King to retain the amount of his salary for January, February and March from fines collected for January; carried. Ordinance No. 372, ordering a sidewalk laid on the west side of Twenty-third street from Twenty-second to the north side of J street, from F to G and on the north side of J street from Twenty-second to the alley between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets, was read and referred.

The finance committee was instructed to advertise for bids for the sale of the Twenty-fifth street and Twenty-sixth street paving bonds, and ordinance No. 372 was passed under suspension of the rules.

The city attorney was instructed to draft the ordinance establishing the grade of streets in Brown Park and Corbin's addition.

The following bids for grading were opened and referred to the city engineer and the committee on streets: The bid of J. L. Mahoney & Nolan, 11 1/2 cents per cubic yard; Ed Felling, 13 1/2 cents; For sloping the banks on Twentieth street from O to Q, Cash Bros., 22 cents per yard; Dan O'Neil, 25 cents. The bids of Mahoney & Nolan and Cash Bros. were afterwards accepted.

Matter of License Advertising. The council then went into committee of the whole to consider the matter of circulation of the Omaha papers in accordance with the resolution passed at the meeting of the council on March 12, 1911.

The purpose of preventing any misunderstanding among saloonkeepers as to the paper in which they should advertise their applications for licenses was the subject of the meeting. The circulation of the World-Herald, was read and stated that the average daily circulation of the World-Herald in Douglas county for the month ending March 15 was 10,445 copies.

The affidavit of N. P. Feil, business manager of the Bee, stated the average daily circulation of the Bee, exclusive of samples, in Douglas county during the year ending February 29, was as follows: Evening edition, 10,445; morning edition, 10,445. The question arose whether the figures furnished by the World-Herald referred to the evening edition alone or to the combined circulation of both editions.

Mr. Rosewater, who was present, read a transcript of an affidavit made by the business manager of the World-Herald before the board of county commissioners last week, which claimed a combined circulation which was slightly less than the figures before the council.

In reply to a question Mr. Rosewater said further that the legal application of the words "paper having the largest circulation in Douglas county" was the morning or evening edition, or the combined circulation of both editions. He said that the figures before the council were for the combined circulation of both editions.

On motion of Councilman Wood action in the matter was postponed for one week and the city clerk was instructed to request each paper to furnish an affidavit of the circulation of each edition for the preceding six months.

Mayor Sloan notified the council that the city was the defendant in a suit brought in the United States court by the California Petroleum Asphalt company for $80,000. The council adjourned until next Monday evening.

Work at Hammond's Plant. The special committee appointed to act with similar committees from other organizations of the city to look after the preparations for the people's party national convention submitted an exposition of the work thus far done, and was continued.

The proposition of the grain men submitted by the directors in the afternoon was discussed. It was a request that the board give $125 a month to pay for the market reports and a call in order that the work of the directors be carried in a few days. The board barely a quorum present at the directors' meeting the request was not acted on, but will come up again at a special meeting of the directors to be called in a few days. The general sentiment is in favor of granting it, as without a daily call the work of the grain exchange is a farce.

Memoranda, one of which was in advocacy of the postal telegraph system, were read and referred to the proper committees. The letter of the directors to the Chamber of Commerce, asking the co-operation of the Omaha board in securing proper railroad facilities between the two cities was referred to a special committee.

The financial reports were submitted and referred. A special committee to which was referred the proposed sale of the board of trade property reported progress, but that it was unable as yet to submit any definite proposal. It will keep pegging away at the matter.

WEeping WATER, Nov. 28, 1909.—Dr. Moore: My Dear Sir—I have just bought the third bottle of your Tree of Life. It is indeed a "Tree of Life." Doctor, when you so kindly gave me that first bottle my right side was so sore that I could not get out of my bed. I was so much that I could not lie upon my right side at all. There was a soreness over my kidneys all of the time, but now that trouble is all over. I sleep just as well on one side as on the other, and my sleep rests and refreshes me, and I feel the best I've felt in fifteen years. I know that it is all due to your Tree of Life. Yours very truly, D. F. DUBLEY.

What is needed to check adulteration is intelligence on the part of consumers.

The inducement to put adulterated preparations on the market lies in the fact that a large part of the purchasing public is always ready to accept the cheapest that can be had, without thinking that the quality of the article must be cheapened in proportion to the reduction in the price demanded. People must learn that they can better afford to buy Dr. Price's Delicious Flavoring Extracts than the cheapened substitutes. There is economy for the poorest in purchasing pure and reliable articles.

IN ITS NEW QUARTERS.

Opening of the Eden Musee Again to the General Public.

The Eden Musee, recently destroyed by fire, reopened yesterday in its new quarters at the Grand Opera house and was visited by large and enthusiastic crowds.

The old foyer of the Grand is being used temporarily as a curio hall. It has numerous attractions, but the principal ones are the midgets and a wonderful illusion. Among the illusions are Admiral Dot, Miss Jennie Quigley, Miss Lottie Smartwood and other noted little foils.

The theater is a great improvement over former conveniences, being one of the largest and best in its appointments of any in America connected with a museum. The program yesterday was one of unusual excellence. First came a number of interesting specialties, and it was closed with a farce by the Dan Mason Comedy company, that kept the big audiences in alternating sitters and roars.

The Eden Musee is now one of the most pretentious and best equipped enterprises of its kind in the country. This popular place of amusement has evidently entered upon a new era of prosperity with a higher class of entertainment.
