The result of Monday's election has left President Lucius Wells of the school board such a position that he is able to sympathize with the oft-referred to cat in a strange garret. He was the one who presented Schoentgen's name to the democratic convention, and he was one of Schoentgen's strongest adherents all through the campaign, as he had been before the campaign opened. When Schoentgen was defeated along with his running mate Wells was left as the only democrat on the board against five re streets yesterday to the effect that Wells would resign his position as member of the board at once. Mr. Wells was seen by a BEE reporter and asked what ground there was for the report. He replied that he had not old his plan to anyone, so that he could not imagine how the rumor had started. He had not even considered the matter, he said, but after a few moments' conversation he said enough to show that he had considered it and pretty seriously.
"The fact is," said he, "there are some matters to be brought before the board dur ing the coming year that I don't want to have any share in deciding upon. If I re-main upon the board I shall be the only membor that will be able to act upon a number of important questions in an independent way. All the other members are pledged to the settlement of certain matters, and their ac tion in the case will in all probability be of such a nature that I shall be unwilling to have people look back, years in the future, and say that such and such a thing was done by a poard of which I was a member sides, I will be unable to accomplish any thing, even if I stay on the board, against he opposition of five members, so where is the use of my staving!

All sorts of rumors are being circulated as to what will be done by the new board, espe-cially in the matter of selecting teachers. One class of teachers, it is said, the new members are pledged to oust at the first op-portunity, and as the same feeling is shared two or three other members the bare fact of the report being in circulation is enough to cause a feeling of decided uneasiness among those teachers who fall under the

Fred Kissell Will Serve a Term in the Penitentiary.

HE WAS CONVICTED OF ROBBERY

Decision of the Jury in the Case Believed to Have Terminated a Career of Petty Crime Extending Over a Period of Ten Years.

The trial of the case of the state against Fred Kissell on the charge of robbery was resumed in the district court. Considerable evidence was introduced on the side of the defense and the case was given to the jury at about the hour of noon adjournment. After being out a little over an hour the jury re turned with a verdict in which they found the defendant guilty as charged in the indictment. The result of the trial puts a temporary quietus on a career of petty crime that has covered the past ten years, most of which time Kissell has spent in the Bluffs. He will be sent to the penitentiary, probably for a term of two years or thereabouts.

When Kissell's case was disposed of the nabeas corpus of Charles F. Wilson, the habeas corpus of Charles F. Wilson, the Boston store burgiar, against Sheriff Hazen was put on trial. Officers Leuch, Wells and Beswick, who arrested Wilson and his pal, McDermott, were introduced and testified as to the facts that had come under their notice, together with a number of other eye-witnesses. At the close of the testimony Wilson's attorney asked the court to release his client on the ground that there had been no evidence introduced that would show that he had been even indirectly connected with the attempted burglary. The court refused to grant the writ and Wilson was remanded to the county jail to await his brial.

The case of the state against E. R. Rowe was the next on the assignment. Rowe is charged with having soid a lot of goods for the firm of W. S. Edwards & Co., of Des Moines, for whom he was acting as Council Bluffs agent, and failed to turn over the proceeds, which amounted to about $164. He is charged with embezziement. The jury was empannelled and the first witness testified, after which court adjourned until this morn

Dissension Among the Heirs. Emma Castle commenced a suit in the discompel her to execute to the plaintiff a deed for an eighty-acre tract of land in this county. She alleges in her petition that she, her six children and the defendant are the sole heirs of Charles Fenn, who died possessed of 800 acres of land. Avoca's Postmaster Went Wrong. The town of Aveca in the eastern part o the county is torn to pieces by a sensational affair which has been brewing for a month past and in which E. A. Wood, the postmaster of the town, is the chief actor. Nearly a month ago it is charged that Wood enticed a lit.le ll-year-old girl named Parker into the back room of the postoffice and there attempted to take liberties with her. An effort was made to keep the facts of the case quiet, but gradually the prominent business mon of the town found out that something was wrong. The climax came last Saturday night, when the three gentlemen who signed the postmaster's of-ficial bond gave him notice that they would relinquish the bond. A committee of citz zens also waited on him and notified him that he must resign the following day.

The high esteem in which wood has always been held in Avoca has caused the affair to become the absorbing topic of public interest. Frank Turner, a prominent young attorney of Avoca, was in the city yesterday conferring with a number of prominent republican offi prominent republican officials for the purpose of getting them to recommend Wood's daughter, who has been his deputy, appointed postmistress to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of her father. It is stated that all the principal business men of Avoca are in her favor, and that her chances for receiving the appointment are excellent. The general opinion of the citizens of Avoca is that Wood is insane. He is 65 years of age and has said and done a great many things of late that have led his friends to entertain doubts as to

AT THE HEAD OF MILLIONS.

President McCall of the New York Life Insurance Company Banquetted.

The Omaha club and several prominent business men gave an impromptu lunch to President McCall of the New York Life Insurance company at the club yesterday afternoon. It was a representative gathering of business men. Thirty gentlemen were in attendance.

Dr. Miller acted as toastmaster. In the course of a short speech he said he felt highly complimented by the presence of a gathering of the most prominent citizens of Omaha in response to his invitation. He was agreeably surprised when he met the new president of the New York Life Insurance company to find him a comparatively young man, and not only surprised but delighted that he was the associate and coworker of men high in position in state and national affairs whom he (Dr. Miller) had known and admired. Among these were the late secretary of the treasury, Mr. Manning, and a number of well known democratic eaders. He then introduced the guest of the evening, President John A. McCall of the New York Life Insurance company, who received a very hearty greeting.

Mr. McCall said he felt highly gratified at this warm reception and expressed himself as being greatly pleased with what he had seen of Omaha and of its pushing, energetic businessmen. Hereferred freely to some of the eminent Knickerbockers with whom he had been associated politically and socially. Referring to his recent assumption of the office president of the New York Life, he stated that he had accepted the position entirely unrestricted from conditions that would embar-rass him in its general supervision. The com-pany carried $120,000,000 in general resources and had a surplus of $15,000,-000, which would meet any require-ments that might be made upon it at all times. He had come to Chicago to meet over 200 of the company's agents in the northwest and had found the affairs of the company in the west in a flourishing con-dition. From Chicago he had gone to Minpeapolis and St. Paul to inspect personal! the buildings which the company had erected in these cities and the properties upon which it had made loans. He was gratified to find the buildings fairly occu-pied and the investments of the company on the whole in very satisfactory condition. He had come to Omaha with the same object and he would return to New York to assure the directors that Omaha and Nebraska promise to be the most remunerative field for the company's investments.

Governor James E. Boyd made a few re-marks in the course of which he said that he regetted to be called upon when gentlemen much abler than himself to speak were present. He was very glad to see Presiden McCall in their midst and to learn that the investments of the company he presided over had been so profitable. There were many present who were far better conversant will insurance matters than he was and he would therefore give way to others. In regard to the wealth and prosperity of Nebraska they had only to look around them to see on all sides splendld opportunities for good invest-

Hon. J. M. Woolworth congratulated Mr. McCall on the honor which he bore and prophesied success for him in his undertak-

Mayor Bemis said it was not necessary to apologize for not being a public speaker. He stated that they all knew it. He was glad to meet Mr. McCall and welcome him to the city. The mayor had lived in New York twenty-five years ago. He was glad that such an institution as the New York Life company, representing millions of dollars, bad profitably invested part of its money in Omaha. Other eastern money which was now hoarded could be profitably invested here. A railway to the northwest could be built, and an air line from Omaha to New York would be a good thing. The company might also build a bridge across the Missouri river. It could be rented the same as the Life building. It would be a vast benefit to the city. These statements caused considerable merriment.

Dr. Miller then called upon Mr. Edward

Rosewater, who in response said that he felt much embarrassed to be called upon on the eve of a national campaign to pay homage to a democratic president, but it might be pardonable upon this occasion. Nebraska and Omaha were still in their infancy and the development of the west had only just began. Twenty-five years ago Omaha bad not much over 5,000 population; within the next twen ty-five years she will have a half million of people. Twenty years ago when Dr. Miller predicted that Omaha would have 50,000 population people called him crazy, but Omaha had 109,000 population long before the doctor had predicted she would have 50,000. It was the same way with the New York Life building. When Mr. Booth located it on the top of Farnam street hill certain business men shrugged their shoulders and thought he was taken in, but the bailding is now almost in the business center and within a very brief period it will be right in the business center of the city The speaker closed by saying that the highest tribute that could be paid to Mr. McCall was the fact that he was chosen as president of his company from among so many insurance men of the country who aspired to the high position. *

Mr. G. M. Hitchcock followed with a short address in which he said he was born not over 500 feet away from the point where they were and that very naturally he might have a breader conception of the community in which he had lived all his life than some and he certainly felt great friendship for the New York Life Insurance company and its representatives in this city for the confidence they had shown they pos-sessed in Omaha by the investment sessed in of such a large sum of money, But he wished to assure the president of the company that it had bestowed no greater favor upon this community than it would re-turn for the venture that had been made. He had often been impressed by the strange timdity of eastern capital in regard to legitimate western investments, but he was glad to see that the New York Life Insurance company, by the foresight of Mr. Booth, has adopted the broad plan and original idea of investing in the promising communities of the west in such enterprises that would tie it to the west forever. W. N. Babcock, general manager of the Union Stock yards, then addressed the gathering, giving a glowing account of the won-derful achievements that have been brought about in South Omaha within the past eight years. For the last year the cattle receipts were nearly 700,000 head, and of this number 80 per cent were sold at the South Omaba yards and 60 per cent were slaughtered at that point. The receipts of hogs for the same period were 1,500,000. Eighty per cent were slaughtered at this point and the balance shipped for packing houses in the east. "We anticipate," Mr. Babcock said, in closing, "an enormous pusiness based upon the live stock and grain product of the state, and we to not think we shall be disappointed

Brief remarks were also made by Mr. Guy C. Barton, president of the Omaha and Grant C. Barton, president of the Omaha and Grant smelting works, and Henry W. Yates, presi-dent of the Nebraska National bank. Those present were: President John A. McCall, New York, Dr. George L. Miller, Judge W. T. Booth, New York: Governor James E. Boyd, E. Rosewater, S. P. SCHOOL MATTERS.

Flags, Flagstaffs, Blackboards and Building Sites Considered. Ten members of the Board of Education were in attendance at a special meeting of that body last night when President Spalding called the meeting to order, In the reading of communications the sec retary read one from the Co-Operative Piasterers association and the Bricklayers union, who jointly asked the board

Mary E. Simons, principal of the Cass school, in a communication, atated that her school children had collected $50 with which to purchase a flag. She requested that the board erect a flagstaff on the school building.

The committee on property and buildings The committee on property and buildings was instructed to erect the staff on the building if practicable. If not, to serect it in the school yard.

The same committee made a report on the resolution to provide all school buildings with flagstaffs, and submitted figures, leaving the board to decide for itself whether or not the flags should be provided. It was shown that fifteen schools now have flags floating and that the cost of the erection of staffs in yards would be from $35 to $70, according to the height of the pole. The cost of staffs on roofs was estimated at about $45 each and flacs ranged in price from $7 to $20.

Mr. McConnell addressed the board in reference to flags for the Kellom school.
When the school is dedicated he said Mrs. Kellom and her daughters would present the school with a silk flag to honor of the man for whom the school is named. Mr. McCon-nell also stated that Mrs. Kellom would pro-vide a staff, but the board would not impose upon her in that connection. It instructed the committee on property and buildings to cause a staff to be erected. For other schools the question of flags was inferred until another meeting.

By resolution the bid of W. M. Welch to make blackboards of liquid slating in the Kellom school at 16 cents a square yard with a guarantee for one year, was accepted.

A resolution instructing the superintendent of buildings to keep up fires in the Keilom school for at least a week for the pur-pose of drying the building preparatory to its ecupancy, was adopted. Bids for the Central school site were opened

TRYING IT IN COURT. Owners of the Paxton House Annex at Log

The case of J. W. Kitchen against Henry A. Eastman, involving the possession of the Paxton hotel, came up before a jury yesterday afternoon in Gibson's court.

Messrs. A. J. and W. S. Poppleton had charge of the case for the defendant and Mr.

George E. Pritchett for the plaintiff.

The particulars of the case were fully set forth exclusively in THE Bri last week. The facts in brief are that Mr Eastman refuses to pay the rent because the house needs repairs and Mr. Kitchen will not bear the expense of making the needed improvements because he holds that the lease provides that all necessary repairs were to be made by the lessee during the time of the lease.

Mr. Kitchen has, therefore, sued for pos session of the annex or kitchen part which belongs to him in person. The difficulty really involves the possession of the whole house because the hotel cannot be operated as it is now arranged without the use of the annex known as the old Herald building The case was given to the jury at 5 o'clock, and after deliberating for half an hour the jury rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, granting him immediate possession of the property in controversy.

The attorneys for the defendant served notice at once that an appeal would be taken to the district court. Justice Gibson fixed the appeal bond at $10,000, and it was promptly furnished.

It was intimated by Mr. Kitchen's atto gain possession of the main part of the building One of Mr. J. B. Kitchen's attorneys in the Paxton hotel case said today to a Bee reporter that an action would be commenced in justice court within a few days by Mr. Kitchen to gain possession of the main por-tion of the Paxton hotel. Realizing that the case will in all probability have to be carried to the district court the attorneys have de cided to begin it in justice court because that is a shorter route to dis-trict court than by way of the county court, Mr. Eastman will refuse to pay rent while the case is pending. The appeal bond in the first case was accepted today by Justice Gibson and the first case will now rest until it is called up is district court. Mr. Eastman's attorneys think the case will not be reached for nearly six months.

Nebraska Home. YANKTON, S. D., March 15 .- | Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-Archibald Van Allen left Yankton today for Hartington, Neb., to be present at the trial of a suit for divorce which his wife, Rose Van Allen, has instituted against him on the ground of cruelty and abuse. Van Allen and his wife were for fifteen years numbered among the most respected residents of Cedar county, Nebraska, but now their home is a wreck, their 13 yearold daughter has been ruined and E. Lathrop, who is accused of wrecking the home and betraying the daughter, is recovering from a bullet wound in the left thigh in fleted by a revolver in the bands of Archi-baid Van Allen, and that gentleman has depositions in his possession which suggest that Rose Van Allen is either a lunatic or a bloodthirsty monster without one spark of maternal affection and is eager for the death of her husband. Her own sister, Mrs. L. W. Goofrey of this city, swears that she heard Mrs. Van Allen and the man Lathrop plotting to kill Van Allen. Rose Van Allen, she swears, told Lathrop that she would buy him a revolver and if he would kill Van Allen she would spend all her property in clearing him.

The case was called today at Hartington, and a metion to set aside an injunction restraining Van Alien from selling his prop-erty was argued. Van Alien has been in-dicted in this county for shooting Lathrop, but his attorney has filed a motion to set aside the indictment on the ground that the law which changed the number of grand prors from sixteen to eight is unconstitu tional and the indictment is therefore illegal.

End of the Williams Case. RAPID CITY, S. D., March 15,-|Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-The Williams divorce case was ended this afternoon, no argument being made by the attorneys. The whele of the four days have been taken up with hearing witnesses and reading depositions. Beside the principals in the case and their relatives, a number of attorneys and witnesses were present from Rochester, N Y. It was the desire of the defendant at the ommencement of the action that no divorce e granted, but yesterday afternoon attorneys she filed an amended answer and cross-bill for a divorce, and the question of bona fide residence in South Dakota was therefore waived today.

Mrs. William's cross-examination was con-tinued when the court opened. As on yester-day she was several times very much affected, capecially when asked, "Which would you to-day prefer, to give up your husband, or your religion?" The question was objected to and sho was not obliged to answer. She posi-tively denied ever having refused to consist with her husband and stated that they occu pied different rooms, but that he up to July l, 1887, visited her room; that she had never assigned her Catholicity and his Protestant ism as a cause for their not having children as that would be absurd and it was contrary to Catholic doctrine, and that, in fact, her religion had never in any way interfered with her domestic duties. She had, even after his leaving her in 1887, made overtures for ion in the hopes that he would return to her The charity and benevolence of defendant was brought up as going to show religious faunticism, but the efforts to do so reacted in John R. Brennan, proprietor of the Hotel Harney, Duane Earl of Rochester, and Wiliam Williams were also put on the stand again.

In rendering his decision Judge Fuller said: "While the charge of desertion has been made on both sides, I will say that the preponderance of evidence is in favor of the defendant. Regarding the charge of adul-tery made against the plaintiff, while I may have my own opinion as a man, as a court wish to say that from a legal standpo charge has not been proved; I therefore grant a decree of divorce to the defendant, Eliza T. Williams, on the ground of deser-tion," Owing to the conflicting testimony as to the wealth of the plaintiff the question of alimeny has been postponed for sixty days.

PLATISMOUTH, Neb., March 15 .- | Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-About a month ago Lloyd S. Wilson filed a petition for divorce from his wife Julia on the grounds o adultery. The wife filed a very sensational cross pill, charging her husband with adultery with sundry females and excessive cruelty. Great interest was manifested in the outcome of the trial, and some sensational developments were expected. These exectations have been shattered. Saturday Wilson and his wife got together and con cluded to patch up their differences. To this end they hired a team and buggy and drove out of town. They are supposed to have gone
