Attacks Upon Mugwamps Considered as a Personal Affront by the Massachusetts Gentleman-An Amusing Discussion -Proceedings of the senate.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 18 .- "Hot shot for mugwumps-Hoar and Williams shown up-Williams' report on silver coinnge riddled." These were some of the words that Mr. Williams of Massachusetts objected to, and asked to have stricken from the record us a part of the speech of Mr. Walker of Massachusetts, which had not been delivered by that gentleman in the house. Mr. Williams characterized the language as ungentiemanly, unmanly, unparliamentary and offensive in the extreme. He considered an attack upon the mugwumps as a personal attack, for he had been one. In the campaign of 1884 his colleague had been one of the greatest mugwumps of the day, but now he hated the mugwumps worse than he did the

The house, after the consideration of routine business, proceeded to the consideration of the private calendar, On resolution of Mr. Bushnell of Wisconsin a resolution was adopted calling on the secretary of war and attorney general for information relating to government dams on the Mississippi river between the mouth of the Chippewa river in Wisconsin and West Newton slough, Minnesota.

Mr. Williams Rises to a Point of Order. Mr. Williams of Massachusetts, rising to a question of privilege, moved to strike from the record that portion of that speech of Mr. Walker of Massachusetts, printed on Tues-day last, which had not been delivered by him. There seemed to be, said Mr. Williams, a constant complaint on the part of demo-cratic representatives from Massachusetts against their republican colleagues. He would not complain in this matter were not the public utterances of a personal and insulting nature, such as he thought seldom appeared in the records of congress. The speech which the gentleman had printed made a gross attack on the class of men who were denominated "mugwumps," and on the New England delegation. After the on the New England delegation. After the gentleman from Massachusetts had said that he would primt the rest of his remarks, there appeared a sub-heading inserted by the gentleman himself: "Hot Shot for Magwumps—Hoar and Williams Showed Up—Williams' Report on Silver Coinage Riddled," [Laughter.] His (Williams) inquiry was a proper one, whether the rules permitted a congressman to edit his speeches permitted a congressman to edit his speeches in the Record, or have the results as he saw them in his own mind blazoned to the world. It was the business of the committee on printing to see that such matter was not injected by gentleman who printed speeches they never had uttered.

Mr. Richardson of Tennessee (chairman of the committee on printing), said that the committee had no authority over the subject. Mr. Walker said that the headlines to which the gentleman objected had been printed by mistake.

Mr. Williams said that it was not his pur-pose to do anything more than to call the attention of the committee on printing to such methods and to ask to see that no such thing should happen in the future.

Unpardonable and Offensive Language. Mr. Richardson said that it was not in the power of the committee to prevent the gen tleman from Massachusetts from making headlines and captions on the various phrases

Mr. Williams called attention to the language which seemed to him to be unpardonable and offensive in the extreme; words that were not uttered in the heat of debate, but were printed without provocation; words uttered only in printing and not in any other fashion. The privilege of printing unuttered speeches in the records was never intended to give the power of personal insult. If proper under the rules, the exercise of that power was not gentlemanly and not parlianentary.

Mr. Williams, quoting from Mr. Walker's speech, objected to that gentleman's declara-tion that the mugwomps in the United States had their seats "by gross deception and moral fraud." These were at best un-maniy words, but coming here under the color of having been spoken, they were the The gentleman from Worce more serious. more serious. The gentleman from Worces-ter had quoted from the Sermon on the Mount. For a rock-fall and sky-piercing monument of blasphemy commend him to the words in which that gentleman compares an attack upon a fellow memier to the rebuke of the Savior of men to the Scribes and Mr. Loud, California-Do you consider an attack upon the mugwumps as a personal attack! Mr. Williams - Yes, I do; because I have been there. Quoted the Scriptures at Him.

Continuing, Mr. Williams said that in 1884 he had done himself the honor of breaking away from the republican party. [Demo-csatic applause.] In that campaign one of the most difficult tasks the executive committee had was to curb and check the ardor and zeal of the gentleman from Massachu-setts (Mr. Walker), who now made this attack upon his former associates. [Appliause. In 1884 there had not been a greater mug wump than the gentleman from Worcester And now he hated the mugwumps worse than he did the devil. [Laughter.] He commended to the gentleman the sermon to which he had referred in his speech: "Woo unto you, Scribes and Pharisees; hypocrites, for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte; and when he is made, ye make him two-fold more the child of hell than

Mr. Walker said that it was evident to the house for what purpose the gentieman from Massachusetts (Mr. Williams) had arisen. [Laughter.] He had arisen (as he had arisen in legislative bodies at home) for the purpos of exhibiting himself. The idea of reading a bible to a democratic house [laughter] and the gentleman had to read it; he could no repeal it. It was something so fresh and so new and so surprising that the democrats had cheered him to the echo. Laughter It had raised far more enthusiasm than th gentleman could inspire by any remarks of his own. The headlines to his speech (to which the gentlemar had alluded) had not been written in his manuscript and he was surprised when he saw them in the record He had not written them.

He Wrote His Own Speeches.

Mr. Crain of Texas-Who writes your speeches! [Laughter.]
Mr. Richardson of Tennessee inquired whether the gentleman meant to say that after his speech passed from his hands the official reporter inserted the words or that they were inserted at the government print

Mr. Walker-If the gentleman gives un bossing the house and everybody clse, I will attend to my business. By an accident, which was liable to happen to any one, that copy had been sent to the printing office. In response to the gentleman from Texas he would say that the gentleman who wrote his speech was Mr. Walker of Worcester. [Laughter.] He agreed that the headlines should be taken out.

ITS CROWNING INFAMY.

The English Government Denounced for the Hanging of the Poachers. LONDON, March 18,-The Chronicle, commenting on the execution of the poachers, says: "The callous folly of Home Secretary Matthews has lost the government thirty seats in the rural districts. He has shocked the conscience and affronted a vast majority of his countrymon." Robert Buchanan writes: "This execution leaves another blood stain on our so-called Christian civilization. The shame will fall on the cowardly jurors and judges and on the newspapers which declined to say a word for the unnappy men. Let this last legal mur-der be remembered as the government's crowning infamy. If Mr. Mattnews dares again to show himself before the electors, let his reception be expressive of the whole people's contempt and scorn.'

Buchanan concludes with a protest against the mockery of the system of transferring the royal prerogative of mercy to an irresponsi-ble minister.

FIGHT OVER JUDGE WOODS' NOMINATION

How the Vote Stood on His Confirmation and the Evidence in the Case-Senate Secrets-News Notes and Gossip.

Washington, D. C., March 18 .- The senate pent some time in executive session this afternoon in the consideration of the pending treaty, by the terms of which the claims of the Venezueian Ship company against the government of Venezuela, caused by the illegal seizure of their vessels during the revolutionary movement some years ago, is to be settled by arbitration.

Senator Morgan in behalf of the committee on foreign relations made a long explanation of the conditions under which the seizures were made and told of a long and heretofore futile effort of the Department of State to settle the claim by the usual diplomatic methods. No action was taken in the matter by the senate. Judge Woods' Confirmation.

There was also a renewal of the discussion which had been heard during the recent executive sessions, upon the proposition to acquaint the republic with the nature of the charges made against Judge Woods and the feeling of the senate while considering the nomination. Finally it was decided that the testimony taken by the judiciary committee in the course of the investigation should be made public as well as the vote by which the nomination was confirmed. The vote was as follows: Yeas-Messrs. Ailen, Allison, Chandler, Davis, Dawes, Dixon, Dolph, Gallinger, Hale, Hansbrough, Hawley, Higgins, Hiscock, Hoar, McMillan, Manderson, Mitchell, Pad-dock, Proctor, Sanderson, Sawyer, Sherman, Shoup, Squire and Stockbridge—25.

It appears that five senators, all republicans, were absent and unpaired. They were Messrs. Jones of Nevada, Perkins, Petti-grew, Stewart and Washburn. It is explained that the vote was taken an bour earlier than was expected, so that some of the senators who were attending to depart mental business returned to the capitol too ate to vote.

ANXIOUS TO HEAR THE CASE

Progress of the Captain Yocum Murder Trial at Hastings.

STORY OF THE KILLING NARRATED

Evidence of the Prosecution Presented and Witnesses for the Defense Introduced-Interesting Details to Be Submitted Later - Nebraska News Notes,

HASTINGS, Neb., March 18 .- Special Telegram to THE BEE. |- Today the Yocum murder trial was the center of attraction in Hastings. The district court room was not large enough to hold the crowd who fought and struggled around the door for entrance. The witnesses for the state and defense were separated and kept in separate rooms until wanted on the witness stand. At 9:45 County Attorney Hoenner began the opening statement for the prosecution. His statement was brief and dealt with the bare facts of the killing. After reading the information to the jury he said that the state would attempt to show that on February 22, last, Captain A. D. Yocum took the life of Myron Van Fleet in a premeditated and malicious manner. They expected to show that he admitted commitwould prove that he made a threat previous to the shooting that he would kill Van Fleet before sun down. This would prove their allegations of murder.

General C. J. Dilworth opened for the defense. He showed that the charge of murder in the first degree comprised manslaughter and murder in the second degree, both peni-tentiary offenses. He says a person has a right to slay a transgressor on his property, an assailant or who attacks the honor of his family. Van Fleet had slandered Yocum's family: Yocum hoard of it and the next day slew Van Fleet.

The testimony of the witnesses agreed with the statement published in The Ben at the time of the tragedy. Condensed, it showed that Yocum and Teemer had been to gether on the afternoon of the tragedy, and together went into Fred Muchow's saloon. Yocum took a drink of whisky, but Jeff Teemer refused to drink. They then went up to T. C. Hurst's drug store, where Yocum was overheard to say he would kill Van Fleet before sundown. Youum and Teemer went out and the two walked up and down the street past Van Fleet's office for half an hour. Then Van Fleet started toward home, but stopped at a cigar store and began talking to a couple of acquaintances. Yocum followed and when directly opposite the cigar store turned and, pulling a revolver from his overcoat pocket, fired four shots at Van

Van Fleet ran into the Hotel Bostwick, few doors away, and Yocum followed him down. A policeman arrested Yocum and heard him say that he had done the shooting. Van Ficet was taken home and died there from hemorrhage a few minutes later. After establishing these facts the state rested its

The attorneys for the defense did but little cross-examining and were not inclined to dis-oute the facts as given. They called but one witness today, Colonel Isnac Le Doyt, who testified that he had seen Yocum going past the Bostwick at various times.

As the prosecution closed its case much sooner than expected, the defense did not have its witnesses present to go upon the stand this afternoon. An adjournment was taken until tomorrow.

During the progress of the trial the women have been in the minority among the spectators. Of the 600 present this afternoon not more than twelve were ladies.

The jury in this case is as intelligent a very attentively to the testimony and some are taking notes of the principal points. So far all has been plain sailing, but when the time for testimony in rebuttal comes most interesting part of the case will be

Paris has been perfectly quiet today. The celebration of the anniversary of the commune has been without untoward incident up to the present hour.

Berlin had plenty of excitement today. Enormous crowds of workmen went to the Friederichshain cemetery, where are interred a number of those who fell in the 1848 movement. All those who paraded wore red ribbons. Crowns and mottos were placed upon the graves. Some of the inscriptions read: "Long Live Anarchy;" "Hurrah for Poverty," Strong bodies of police lined the thoroughfare leading to the cemotery and allowed everyone to pass. Up to 1 o'clock everything was tranquil. At 1:30 o'clock there was not a single socialist journal to be got in the city. They were all sold. They were printed on red paper.

Fought at the Gate.

At 2 o'clock the first battle between the paraders and the police occurred. About 5,000 of the former were returning from the cemetery and wanted to pass through the Lantzderg gate. The police obstructed the way and the workmen pressed on, attacking the police with stones. Then the mounted police charged the crowd, using their sabres and wounding many. Several were so seriously hart that they had to be taken to a hospital.

The number of visitors to the cometery was remarkable, fully 30,000 having made the journey. At 4 o'clock the trouble was renewed and the police frequently charged the crowd. Trouble in the Cabinet. The political situation in Germany just now is very serious and ministers are talking of resigning. It is rumored that Chancellor Von Caprivi hos resigned. At a cabinet council yesterday the emperor was very irritable and very nervous. He repreached the chancellor and the ministers in regard to the Lot scotaire. Count Von Zedlitz, minister of public instruction and of public worship, who had drawn the law under orders from the emperor, arose and without saying a word passed into a neighboring chamber, wrote out his resignation and sent it in by a ser-

Chancellor von Caprivi was remarking upon the difficul role Count von Zedlitz had to play when the emperor rapped for silence. Caprivi said no more, but waited until the morning, when the emperor sent for him. Instead of responding, it is said that the chancellor sent his resignation.

The situation became complicated when was learned that the emperor was not in Berlin, but had set out for Hubertsburg without any warning and nobody knew wher he would return. Therefore it is not known whethere these resignations are definite. It is said that the resignations of Count von Zeiditz and of Herr Herrgurth, minister of the interior, are irrevocable. Consequently, the political world is in a state of worry. It is also stated that Emperor Wil-ham wanted a grant of 50,000,000, which the ministers and the Reichstag opposed. I is rumored that the Lot Scolaire will be withdrawn and that the emperor will follow not yield, and then the difficulties will be increased. Shown On Their Merits.
