FAVOR THE PURE FOOD BILL!

Senator Paddock's Measure Reported by the House Committee.

ALLIANCE MEMBERS WILL SUPPORT IT

Five Immaterial Changes Made in the Measure and Its Immediate Passage is Assured-Lively Discussion Provoked in the House.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE BEE, 513 FOURTEENTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., March 25.

The house committee on agriculture today reported fa.orably by a vote which had but one representative opposing, the Paddock pure food bill which passed the senate two weeks ago. Only four immaterial changes were made in the bill, each of which had been submitted to Senator Paddock and had received his assent. The bill will be the first called up by the committee and is assured of immediate passage. Congressman McKeighan states that the farmers alliance members will, he polieves, be unanimous in its advocacy.

They Favor Harrison.

This evening's Star says: "Senators who are thoroughly acquainted with South Dakota politics seem to be very much surprised at the publication of a statement which had it that the delegates to the Minneapolis convention, chosen on Wednesday last, were instructed for General Harrison in spite of opposition of Senator Pettigrew. To a Star reporter Senator Pettigrew. To a Star reporter it was stated today that Senator Pettigrew never wrote a letter or in any way opposed President Harrison. Some of Senator Pettigrew's friends say he has been maliciously misrepresented by those who are opposed to the supremecy of republicanism in South Dakota. So long as Mr. Blaine was regarded as a candidate Senator Pettigrew, who was in accord with South Dakota sentiment, was a Blaine man. When Mr. Blaine was no a Biaine man. When Mr. Blaine was no longer a possibility South Dakota sentiment was for Harrison. Senator Pettigrew knew this, it is said, and has kept in touch with this, it is said, and has his state throughout."

Anti-Option Legislation Favored.

In the senate today in presenting a petition signed by 302 citizens of Franklin county, Nebraska, praying for the passage of the anti-option bill, Senator Paddock precipi-tated a discussion by making an inquiry as to what advancement the committee on judici-ary had made with the subject. He said that ithout knowing whether the particular bill referred to ought to be passed or not, he did know that there was a universal demand in the west for some proper legislation in this line. He knew the committee on agricul-ture, which was always glad to consider subjects of this kind, had had no opportunity in this case, because the bill had been referred this case, because the bill had been referred to the judiciary commitee. He wanted to know whether something is to be done by the judiciary committee directly or indirectly.

Senator Platt of the committee on judiciary promptly took up the cudgel. He intimated that as the bill was a revenue massure and properly therefore a house measure and properly, therefore, a house bill, the committee would wait until the house had acted. Senator Wolcott here petulantly protested against the discussion ing up during the morning hour and was answered by Senator Paddock, who replied that he supposed as chairman of the committee having subjects of this kind in charge and looked to by the agricultural classes in some degree to see that they received attention, that he might properly raise an inquiry as to whether the senate was doing its duty. He had unwillingly seen the bill go else where than to the agricultural, out it was committee, as was well known, which was in the habit of dealing promptly with measures sent to it fer consideration. He had yielded, however, because informed that there were legal questions involved which made it neces sary that the measure should go to the judiciary committee, but he considered his in-

How Mills Feels About the Tariff.

Senator-elect Roger Q. Mills was chatting today with a circle of congressmen when Representative Owen Scott of Illinois asked the question, "Did not your defeat for the speakership bring out such a kindly feeling for you in Texas that your election to the senate is a direct result of your defeat for the speakership?"

"Not at all," responded Mr. Mills, "on the contrary there has not been a time during the last four months that I could not have been elected to the senate had the Texas legislature been in session. If the senatorial ection had occurred last December before the speakership contest was begun my election to the senate would have been certain Mr. Mills was asked as to his coming tariff

Mr. Mills was asked as to his coming tariff speech, which will be his last effort on the floor of the house, "It will have to be a very general speech," said Mr. Mills, "for, of course, I can't go into discussing the 'spotted tariff.' My position is pretty well known as against the protective policy in whole and as against it in spots, so that my speech will be very general in character and will be an arraignment of the theory of protection rather than in advocacy of the particular bill under consideration."

Louisiana's Lottery Fight.

One of the best posted republicans of Louisiansa, who has just returned from New oriesns, said today:

'The policy of the advocates of the lottery in Louisians is this: They are not sincere in their alleged abandon ment of the fight for the renewal of their charter. Their plan is, and has been all along, to keep the lottery question in abeyance, as far as practicable, or rather to prevent it from being a prominent issue in the campaign, but rather to make it incidental to other questions. At the same issue in the campaign, but rather to make it incidental to other questions. At the same time their program is to procure the election of men who are friendly to the corporation, both as state officers and as members of the legislature. If the pro-lottery ticket in Louisiana, with McEnery at its head, should be elected, and a majority of the legislature should be in accord with Mr. McEnery's administration, the question of calling a new constitutional convention to form a new constitution will be immediately agitated.

stitution will be immediately agitated.

'The principal reasons that will be assigned for calling this convention will be to fellow the example of the state of Mississippi in so framing the state constitution as to insure white supremacy. The real reason, however, will be to have a clause incorporated in the new constitution which will give however, will be to have a clause incorporated in the new constitution which will give new life to the Louisiana lottery. I am of the opinion that from the influence and manipulations of this corporation a majority of the democratic voters of the state are supporters of the McEnery ticket. Whether or not the two factions of the democratic upon one ticket is somewhat doubtful. If they do not unite, it is possible that McEnery and his associates may be defeated. Should the democratic primaries result in the choice of the McEnery ticket, and the result be acquiesced in, it will be a decided victory for the lottery. Remember that the propositions looking to a compromise between the two factions of the democratic party origipated with and emanated from the projectory people or the McEnerylites. The lottery tes are now making a quiet, unstead of a bold and aggressive, fight for a renewal of their charter."

Rev. W. R. Mackay's Address on "The

Klugdom and the Church.' Rev. W. R. Mackay of Pittsburg, who is delivering a series of eight sermons at All Saints church, preached on "The Kingdom and the Church" last night. In his introductory remarks the reverend gentleman said that the first thing to be done was to put the idea out of your head that the kingdom of God and the church were the same. They were not. The kingdom of God was infinitively greater than all the churches combined. The bible was a perfect penorams of the kingdom in which to believe. It was a light that shone everywhere and was the kingdom to work for. It should be taken and made a reality in the world. The church was no kingdom. It was simply an agency by which the kingdom was to be worked out. The church, as the agency, diciary committee, but he considered his inquiry under the circumstances pertinent and not impertunent, while believing in the statement made that the judiciary committee had done all that it could.

Electrical Commission's Report.

The report of the electrical commission of District of Columbia of which City Engineer Andrew Rosewater of Omaha was chairman was to make the kingdom a reality. The good and new spirit, and when they left the church building they were well fitted for the week. The church door then was not locked. They had taken the church away with them.
Whatever good act or deed a man or woman did in business or private life, Mr.

Mackay ascribed to the church. It was the work of the church and nothing else. In speaking of lives of great men, he said the life of Jesus Christ was the only light that had ever made happy hearts. He spoke of all Christians as beginners and that any of all Christians as beginners and that any man was good enough to commence or begin to be a Christian. The man who would associate himself with a church if it were not a fact that there were so many hypocrites and frauds in it, was a knave. That argument wouldn't hold water. If a city had a corrupt government, made so by a lot of dishonest officials, there was all the more need of that wan more honest men to more need of that many more honest men to hold them down. To hear some people talk one would think the church was composed of a lot of abandoned and wicked sinners. But such was not the case. The more hypocrites there were in the church the more was the necessity for good Christians to be mingled Professional Ability Questioned. CLAY CENTER, Neb., March 25 .- [Special Telegram to THE BRE.]—The hearing of Dr. Beghtol was resumed at 8 o'clock last evening and has now occupied the whole of today with the end not yet in sight. A large portion of the defense has been directed to showing Dr. Conway's unprofessional practice, in that he had made pretense of ability to cure certain cases generally supposed to be incurable. One particular case of curvature of the spine was cited, and a large amount of medical testimony was introduced during the session of the court last evening. County Attorney Clark, on account of being deprived of other means of proving the authorship of the alleged libelous letter, had himself placed upon the stand and made the positive state-ment that Dr. Beghtol had admitted to bim that he wrote it, but did not intend it for publication.

Dr. Beghtol positively denied this during today's session. A Mr. Dibble of York was sworn by the prosecution and testified equally positive that he heard the statement as claimed by Attorney Clark. The prosecution had made good headway in establishing the reputation of Drake Medical university of Des Moines, Ia., of which Dr. Conway at one time was one of the faculty; also, that the doctor was president of the lowa State Medical association, the celectic lowa State Medical association, the eclectic school, and was a physician of high stand-

These claims were met by the defense by reading a number of letters from members of the faculty of the present Drake Medical institute, which was shown to be now under the management of a different school of phy-sicians to the effect that the old organization was not in good repute among medical men, and that the parties in charge were a bad lot,

In forty-five days he buried $3,000 in the English editio of the Tribune, it is thought that he had looked through a microscope at his ideas on the publication of the little English edition of the German paper.

While Mr. Festner was in Cincinnati Davidsohn launched the luttle afternoon nati Davidsohn launched the little afternoon naily, which now accounts for his grief. He even bought the plant without consulting a stockholder, and when reprimanded for his indiscreet manner of doing business he simply said that he was manager, and would startle the populace with the paper. He was on the inside of politics and took a con tract to elect Osthoff mayor, hoist the banner of reform to the pinnacle of the city hall tower and wipe all opposition from the face of the earth. He knew what he was doing at that time and now the company knows what he did no if it did not know at that time. Expense to him, it is asserted, was nothing, and while protest after protest was made by stockholders as to his wild, reckless manner of spending money on such a venture, he continued it until they shut down on the publication of the paper. When the crisis came Davidsohn came out with the following editorial notice: "Owing to the phenomenal growth of the English edition of the Tribune the manage-ment of the paper has found it necessary to suspend publication for four or five days in order to put in a new Webb perfecting press."

The German edition is now prospering and all stockholders are contented, while Davidsohn will go to work as solicitor for the Germania Life Insurance company. He will
