CAPTAIN BOURKE'S ACCUSERS

Indications That They Are Mostly Outlaws and Active Revolutionists.

THEY FIRST FIRED ON THE SOLDIERS

Unable to Restrain His Desire to Punish the Criminals, He Ordered the Third Cavalry to Begin Operations in Earnest.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE BEE, 513 FOURTEENTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., March 29.

Captain John G. Bourke of the Third cay alry has written a letter bere from his station at Fort Ringgold, Tex., relative to the war that has been made upon him for his campaign against Revolutionist Garza and his sympathizers. Captain Bourke needed ne words from himself to vindicate his work. He shows, however, that nearly every man who has brought charges against him was an open ally of Garza and a majority of them have either been so promineutly connected with the revolutionist as to warrant their arrest at the hands of the civil authorities or have fied the country.

Some of them were county sheriffs and have been expelled from their official positions, others have been indicted by grand juries. Some are notorious characters who have infested the Mexican-Texas border for years and have been recognized as highway-men. In short, the accusers of Cautain Bourke are in a large measure revolutionists, or notoriously disreputable characters.

The captain himself says that when these men fired upon his soldiers he could not restrain the desire to punish them and so went at them in carnest. In the opinion of Cap-tain Bourke, Texas should have been placed under martial law at the outset of the revo-lution by an order from President Harrison.

News was received here today of the death of Lieutenant Phillip H. Bettens, Ninth cavalry, U. S. A., which occurred Sunday night at Fort Haachuca, Ariz. Lieutenant Bettens, who has been stationed for a number of venrs at Fort Robinson, Neb., was quarter master in the field during the Wounded Knee campaign and contracted the disease from which he died, consumption, the result from which he died, consumption, the result of severe and constant exposure during the Sioux war. Late last fall, under the advice of Dr. J. E. Summers, jr., of Omaha he applied for leave of absence and went south, where he was subsequently joined by his wife, the daughter of Major B. Dewess, late of the Ninth cavalry. Lieutenant Bettens was one of the most popular young officers of his regiment. He was a graduate of the military academy, where he made many strong frieudships where he made many strong friendships through the genuality of his temperament and the charm of his manner. He served continuously on the frontier after entering the cayalry arm of the service and was well known and greatly respected in the extreme northwest portion of Nebraska. Mrs. Dewess, who is living in Maryland, left on Sunday for Fort Huachuca, Ariz.

Money for Fremont's Public Building. A rather remarkable condition of affairs has for some time surrounded the supposed unavailability of the money appropriated to construct the federal building at Fremont. At first the act providing a public building for Fremont appropriated $25,000 for the pur-pose of a site, the beginning of the building. although it named $60,000 as a limit of the entire expenditure. Later, during the last session of congress, Representative Dorsey had the remaining $35,000 appropri ated, making the full $60,000. The site was acquired by the government July 24 last at a cost of $6,225. There was on the books of the supervising architect's office September 30 last $53,714 to the credit of the Fremont pub building account. The sketch plans of the building are now well under way and will be completed at the office of the supervising architect within two or three weeks. Notwithstanding the fact that the money appropriated for the purpose of a site or the construction of a federal building, or both, are made unmediately available when the bill making the appropriation is signed by the president, and here comes the remark-

In this connection it has been contended by contractors or other persons directly in-terested that there is doubt whether the money would be paid if a demand was made by a contractor, and letters have been fired into Washington at a lively rate of late asking, "What is the matter with the Fremont public building money?" and saying that, "It is not evallable and bills are not paid," or "Will not

All Bills Will Be Paid.

This is all misleading and untrue. The entire balance of the $60,000 remaining after the site was paid for is available and has been from the day after the president signed the pill making the appropriation. There is plenty of money in the treasury to meet all obligations just as promptly as the bills are paid. The Fremont money was set aside to paid. The Fremont money was set asine to the supervising architect many months ago, and has not since that time been counted in the surplus. The only way in which the officers at the Treasury department can ex-plain the impressions which exist at Fre-mont or elsewhere, and which have called at the architecture. out these wild reports and many inquiries is, that it is believed the title to the site has not yet been passed to the government and that an appropriation for building is not available till the government has acquired a title to the site.

The government has had a clear title to the Fremont site for eight months. An effremont site for eight months. An effort has been made, too, by certain unreliable and misleading democratic and mugwamp and independent newspapers to create the impression that the treasury is hankrupt and there is no money to meet government obligations. All this is bosh. Representative Dorsey appears to have covered every point of interest in securing the appropriations and the site for the Fremont public building before he retired to private

CITY TAX LISTS.

Work of Compiling the Mass of Figures Completed Ahead of Time. City Clerk Groves yesterday turned over the tax list for 1893 to the treasurer and comptroller of the city. The original went to the former and a duplicate to the latter. The list shows the city valuation of property to be $30,431,759. The tax to be collected on this assessment, at the rate of 41 mills on the dollar, amounts to $837,702.14. There is also $234,000 assessed on the Union Pacific property as provided by the charter, but as the assessment is now in litigation in the United States court the amount cannot be collected until the matter is set-

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

"Sinbad" will be given today, the only matinee in the engagement, at Boyd's thenter. If the history of the piece all through the country is duplicated hera, the matines will be crowded with ladies and children. "Sinbad," like all tales in the Arabian Nights, has a peculiar fascination for children, as well as for people of elder growth. The seenery, including the port of Balsora, with its working ship; the deck of the Roc, the realistic ship wreck of the smuggler's craft, the bettem of the sea, with the ship lying irabedded in the yellow sands; the flight of Sinbad to the surface of the ocean, the appearance of Cupid, the guardian angel and the sea horses, the oriental meture presented in the pigmy island, the comic little cannibals, the funny sea dog, the curious little old man of the sea, the ivery palace of horses and elephants and the glorious page ant of nations, the frozen valley of dia monds, in which occurs the carnival of win-ter, with its realistic snow effects and con-stantly shifting lights, the glittering transformation, with the cupids and the swans, all are calculated to live in the memory of the younger folks, just as such pictures do in the minds of children of foreign nations when they attend a Christmas pantomime. The last performance of "Sinoad" will be given

For three nights, commencing tomorrow right Conried's Comine Opera company will sing the great New York Casino success, "Poor Jonathan," at Boyd's new theater, "Poor Jonathan" is said to have an under-current of the impossible bordering upon the Indicrous, but from a musical stand-point it is a gem of airy and refreshing har-meny, at times bordering upon a higher order of music than is generally heard in comic opera. In the third act a cadet drill by the chorus is a marked hit the manual and fancy evolutions being admirably executed. Seats go on sale this morning.

The Phila-delphia Item recently said: Mrs. Tom Fhumb is now the Countess Magri, and has been for many years, but she is still the same charming little mite of humanity as she was in those haleyon days when Barnum, who brought the diminutive pair before the public, was in the heydey of his popularity. Last night at the National theater, when I again saw this deligntful little lady—for the first time in a decade at least—I could not but remark now slight had been the touch of the intervening years, and what old-time case and self-possession she yet displays from behind the magic footlights—the very personification of winsomeness and grace. ized a company which included the celebrated Italian midgets, Count and Baron Magri, the former of whom she married on July 6, 1885. The count and his brother are magnificent swordsmen, and in the musical inclange given by the Liliputians, "The Rivals," they appear in thrilling fencing scenes.

The program is uniformly excellent throughout, combining music, dancing, pantomime and comedy, in all of which the little folks exhibit to splendid advantage their several capabilities, presenting a perfect animated stage picture in miniature—intelligent, pleasing and agreeable.

Mrs. Tom Thumb was fairly ablaze with bedazzling jewels, it being stated upon good authority that during her levees she wears upon her little form no less than $50,000 worth of diamonds and other costly brilliants, the greater portion of them being souvenirs of remembrance from sovereigns and nobility of the old world, before whom she had the honor of appearing. Mr. George W. Cable, the celebrated New Orleans novelist and depictor of a special phase of American life, will read selections from his own works at the Young Men's Christian association ball on Friday and Sat-urday next. Mr. Cable is small, slight and somewnat of a French type. His voice is light and fine, his smile dainty, his whole manner and appearance delicate. He is a deligntful speaker, a consummate actor, master of himself and tone, attitude and gesture, and master, also, of his audience. The "Old Fiddle," as he modestly and felicitously calls himself, Edouard Remenyl, will appear with his concert company next Monday evening at Boyd's theater. It has been nearly a decade since this great virtuoso has been heard in America, and he comes now in the plentitude of his powers to make music for an Omaha audience. All people seem to know and love the witchery of Remenyi's violin, and the critics do say that the viglinist has never been beard to so ex cellent advantage as on the present concert tour. He will have the assistance of Mr. W. H. Fessenden, the popular tenor, Miss Edith M. Gregor, formerly with the Bostonians as soprano, in addition to several other artists

As soon as the money was found the coroner was sent for, who took Paving on N Street. According to the provisions of its franchise the company must use such material in repaying as the city council desires. The material which at the house about a month. Maname Ring did not thing that a revolver fired in a closed room on the top floor could be heard in the parlers, at least she was positive that the shots which killed the young couple were not heard by any one in the house. Gafford it has used so far is anything but satisfactory to the adjacent property owners. A lot of old brick which evidently had been condemned and thrown out somewhere else are being used in paving between the rails. Not one brick in a dozen is whole. Nearly all of them are cracked or nave corners chipped off as may be seen by anyone who takes the trouble to look at them.

The cedar blocks which were removed are replaced between the tracks and on the out-side. These have passed the period of use-fulness and are in an advanced stage of decay. The result is that the new paving is a little worse than the rest of the street, the condi-tion of which has been a subject of criticism

"I would like to know," said one gentleman yesterday, "whether the council is acquiescing in this matter or whether it is allowing the company to foist this condemned pavement on us through ignorance. It is a matter that should be attended to at once. The council should see that the street car company pave between the tracks with just as good material as they would expect a coatractor to use in paving a new street. The company has a valuable franchise for the asking and the rights of property owners should be protected."

The Yesterday's Examination Disclosed Little residences of the magistrates and jurymen who are engaged in the prosecution of the The Gafford-Mooney inquest was continued enarchists are strictly guarded by the police. The good humored Parisiennes have not lost this opportunity for exciting laughter. On several houses can be seen placards announc-ing "no magistrates are lodging here." The J. E. Long, a paraceper in a saloon at Sixteenth and Corby streets, told about the visits of the pair to his saloon. Nothing new chamber is occupying itself with the matter, and the government has announced that all Cecil Gray was recalled and closely ques possible steps are being taken toward discov tioned by Attorney W. S. Strawn, who is employed by Gafford, senior, to sift the matoring the criminals.

The chamber subsequently voted than an indemnity be given victims of such attacks and that a new article be added to the perai code making death the penalty for such attacks. The municipal council of Paris has offered reward of 20,000 francs for the discovery of the persons responsible for the explosions. There was another violent outbreak last night in a church at Belleville, the conseuences of which were that the police were bliged to interfere and clear the house. Dreadful Work of a Quack Doctor [Copyrighted 189? by James Gordon Bennett.] SAN SALVADOR (via Galveston, Tex.). March 28. - By Mexican Cable to the New York Herald-Special to THE BEE. |-Presi dent Ezeta dined aboard the United States cruiser Boston today and was treated most cordially and hospitably by the commander and other officers of the vessel. His reception pleased him immensely, and he was delighted with everything on the Boston. In return for the courtesies shown him he has invited the American commander and his officers to banquet ashore.

A quack in the village of Cimmaron, who pretended to be able to prevent the spread of small pox, inoculated twenty children with virus, promising that his treatment would preserve them from disease. On the following morning sixteen of the children died. There is little hope of saving the others. The village is greatly wrought up over their deaths, and popular feeling against the quack is very bitter.

Rumors of Resignations. BERLIN March 28 .- The air is filled with reports of intended resignations of officials. One report current in parliamentary circleis that Dr. von Boetticher, secretary of the Imperial home office and representative of the chanceller, is about to resign the posts held by him, in order to become governor of Dr. Miguel, minister of finance, has been designated the future vice-president of the Prussian ministry.

Will Not Accept His Resignation Berlin, March 28.—The Freissinnige Zeitung says that Minister von Boetticher will remain at his post, the emperor refusing to accept his resignation.

KILLED THEIR GUESTS. Wicked Wiles of a Murderer's Wife-Horrible Story from Warsaw. Warsaw, March 28 .- Police inquiries into the case of two brothers named Koulikvosky, who are imprisoned here on the charge of murdering and robbing a peasant near Bielostock, have revealed the practice of wholesale murder of emigrants on the frontier. Already the naked bodies of five victims have been discovered in the snew in the woods adjacent to the house occupied by the Konikvoskys, who lived in the vil-lage of Monki, and the search for bodies is proceeding. There have been many disappearances of late in the neighborhood of the Koulikvosky residence, and the police estimate that the two brothers have murdered at least forty persons.

The revelations concerning the br. Lars have caused much excitement throughout the whole district. The elder brother, who was a peasant farmer, has a oung wife, who, it is charged, took advantage of her sex to abot her husband in his primes, re-ceiving her share of the spells secured from the unfortunate victims.

The younger brother had been a soldier in the Russian army but his time had expired. He took to smugging across the frontier as a means of livelihood, and naturally became thoroughly acquainted with all the devious paths that led into Prussian territory, away from the eyes of the watchful fron-tier guards. Many of the persons desirous of leaving Russia, particularly emi-grants, were not supplied with the necessary passports and would approach the Koulik vossys and bargain with them for a safe con-duct beyond. Russian soil. Fugitives from justice also availed thomselves of Koulikvos ky's knowledge to escape from the officers of the law.

The method followed by the brothers is The method followed by the brothers in the cases of persons desiring to cross the frontier was as follows: They would select as their victims only those who had good outlits and money. The others would be taken across in safety. The victums, how ever, would be taken in charge by the younger brother, and singly they would be conducted along a narrow path through a dense forest. In the meanting the hider brother would harry by a short route to a snot previously agreed on and the élder brother would hurry by a short route to a snot previously agreed on and when the victim approached he would be attacked by his guide and the man who lay in ambush. The unfortunate man would be strangied, and then to make their work sure the brothers would beat in his skull with clubs. He would then be robbed of everything in his possession.

At the autset the brothers carefully burned the bodies, but as time went by, they being the bodies, but as time went by, they being undetected became careless and shoved the bodies under the brushwood after stripping

But this was not the only way they had of securing victims. The wife of the elder brother would indulge in firstations with strangers who came to Monki, and would make engagements with them to visit at her home. She is a comely, buxom woman, and admires would basten at night to her home. admirers would basten at night to her house only to meet death at the hands of the husband and his brother, who awaited their coming.

Among the last of the Koulikvoskys' victims was a peasant who had sought shelter from inclement weather in their but. He fell asleep and the brothers attempted to strangle him. The man awoke and made a most desperate struggle for his life as his body showed. While he was held so he could not escape, boiling water was poured over his head and face, and the murderers then succeeded in strangling him. The body was hidden beneath some straw in a stable where it was accidentally discovered before the brothers had time to carry it to the forest. The finging of this host led to the forest. The finding of this body led to the discovery of the five other bodies in the woods.

The woman was taken into custody with the men, but she is kept entirely separate from them. All three have been subjected to a prolonged examination, but they refuse to confess anything.

SCORCHED BY THE JUDGE,

Two Burt County Men Who Had Defrauded a Widow Rebuded.

TERAMAH, Neb., March 28. - Special Telegram to Tue Bue. | - Judge Scott listened to arguments in the case of Margaret Kirkle against L. C. Mennell and E. W Peterson at this evening's session of the district court. The case was one in which plaintiff asked that a deed be set aside because of fraud. The court out the argument short and in rendering his decision said he had a painful duty to perform, as the case had in it dark lines.

He then arraigned Peterson as an attorney and Mennell as a man in most scatning language. He denounced the unfair and fraudulent methods of defendant in unmeasured terms. The audience at one time broke out in loud applause.

Briefly, Mennell acquired mortgages for about $1,600 on Kirkle's 160 neres, and when Kirkle was dying Peterson was called in to draw a will. At the same time he induced Mrs. Kirkle, in her distressed state of mind, to sign a deed for the farm, conveying it to Monneil. Although Peterson was administrator of the estate, the court decreed that the deed should be set uside and gave Mennell ten days to reconvey the land, and if it is not done in that time he ordered that the decree of the court constitute a conveyance.
The decree gives general satisfaction, and Judge Scott's honest but emphatic remarks are the theme of favorable comment. Judge Dickenson appeared for the plaintiff and Peterson and Gillis for defendants Outwitted the Court.
