Wrangling Democracy Drives Harmony Far from the Magic City's Classic Confines.

GANNON ADVISES BOLTING THE TICKET

His Speech the Only One Listened to-Mahoney Supports the Nominee-Sequel to the Snyder Sensation-Personal Notes.

The democrats made an abortive attempt to hold a mass meeting in Blum's hall last night. The accumulated stock of campaign enthusiasm proved too much for the capacity of the building, however, and it broke up in confusion at the end of the first act. Tho scenes of the recent democratic convention were repeated and showed that the intervening time has only increased the acrimony that pervaded the ranks of the unterrified.

The meeting was under the auspices of the South Omaha Democratic club and President John C. Conolly called the meeting to order. He introduced Hon, M. V. Gannon of Omaha, who remarked that he had always been a democrat. He added that he was there to support an independent can-didate because his opponent had been an independent candidate two years before. He denounced corruption in politics in a manner that pointed to the charges which were to follow, and referred to a long line of men who had been sacrificed for their principles, extending from Mucius Scovola to M. V. Gannon, He was there to protest against the nomination of a man for mayer of Sou h Omaha who had betrayed his party last fall. He produced a photograph of a note which he said was a proof of his traiterous conduct and which had been photographed by Judge Levi. The note was dated November 14, 1891, and signed by D. E. Bayless, N. G. Signer and Ed. Johnson. line of men who had been sacrificed for their F. Bayless, N. G. Sioane and Ed Johnson. Its significance, as stated by the speaker, was its effect in inducing Bayless to pull out of the race for county judge.

Right Here it Started.

"Do you dare to make such a charge!" said a voice from the audience.
"Yes sir, I do deliberately, and I make the further charge and I can substantiate it, that your democratic candidate for mayor dis-tributed the boodle in this city."

It is for you to say," added Mr. Gannon, "whether the men who skulked under the baggage wagon during the battle can come forth new and say 'we are the democratic

At this point Mr. T. J. Mahoney entered and was loudly cheered. Mr. Towie was then called for. He arose and said: "I am a democrat." He said semething more, but his words were lost in a tumult of conflicting cheers and hisses, When the uproar subsided he got a chance to say that the charges made against him by the Johnston organ were false and he dared Mr. Johnston to come before the audience and prove them. Some one called for Johnston, who tripped gaily down the aisle and mounted the platform. He carried an armful of city records, but he could not get a chance to use them. His supporters cheered while the other faction bissed and after about fif-teen minutes Mr. Johnston sat down and Mr. Makoney was introduced. Mr. Makoney ook for his text "Splits in the Democratic Mahoney Supports the Ticket.

He exhorted the voters to stand by the nominee of the convention and warned them that to vote for the independent candidate would mean the election of Mr. Miller, a republican. He called attention to the fact that the alleged note produced by the Towie contingert was dated ten days after the election and that was as far as he could go. The crowd pressed up close to the platform and the disorder which had broken out half a dozen times during the meeting, culminated in a general muss. The president value pounded his table with a beer glass. The rank and file democracy whosped with added vigor and pushed up to have a hand in the general fight that seemed imminent.

Mystery of the Sensational Abduction Case Finally Cleared Up.

The mystery surrounding the alleged ab duction of Mrs. Snyder of 2517 Cass street, Omaha, who was rescued from the New York Cigar store by the police on the night of March 10, has been solved. Joe Hawkins occupies a cell at the city jail and admits that he is the man who took Mrs. Snyder to the dive. He also tells a number of other Hawkins' story, which was found to be true in most respects, is that Mrs. Snyder went out and accumulated one of the most luminous jags on record in South Ornaha and told the story of her alleged in-nocence with such assumption of truth that even Tom Montague was fooled and regarded her as an innocent victim of the wiles of the procurer.

It seems that Mrs. Snyder arrived in South Omaha about the middle of the afternoon. She accosted a number of men standing in front of Sobotker's cigar store at Twenty-seventh and N streets and asked them to direct her to a wine room. She was directed to a saloon near by where she called for a hot whisky and drank it. She was intoxicated at the time.

About 5 o'clock Mr. Hawkins, who is under arrest, was driving across the Q street viaduct when, according to his story he met the Snyder woman. She was on foot, very drunk, and flourishing a butcher knife with a 10-inch blade, with which she said she was going to kill some one. Hawkins drove on and Mrs. Snyder walked on to the saloon kept by McGuire & Jongasky at the cast end of the viaduct. There were nearly twenty mea in the saloon at the time, and with a warwhoop the weman charged upon them with the butcher kuife. The room was cleared in about ten seconds and John McGuire, who was behind the bar, succeeded in disarming the woman after a severe struggle. Hawkins had returned by this time and followed the woman up the street. A man followed the woman up the street. A man was with her at the time. At Sage's hay and feed barn she fell down after calling to the lady clerk to come and help her. She was carried into the store when Hawkins of fered to take her away in his wagon. This was agreed to and he took her to the Twenty. seventh street dive, thinking, he said, that she belonged there. Hawkins has been employed for some time as a deliv-ery man by C. M. Sanford, a grocer at 3019 R street. He told Sanford of greer at 3019 R street. He told Sanford of the Snyder affair some days ago and when Sanford and Hawkins had a falling out San-ford told a Ben reporter that Hawkins had confessed having abducted Mrs. Snyder. Hawkins was arrested yesterday and Mrs. Snyder sent for to identify him. In the meantime the facts related above which are corroporated at the saloon and at Sage's stars have come to light and it is not probstore have come to light and it is not prob-able that any charge will be made against

Live Stock Exchange Matters. The Live Stock exchange held its regular monthly meeting at the Exchange building yesterday afternoon. Messrs. H. Hitchcock and M. Goodwin were elected to member-ship. A communication was read from W. Ship. A communication was read from N. Nason, secretary of the Omaha Board of N. Nason, secretary of the Omaha Board of Trade, asking the exchange to appoint a committee of three to co-operate with committees of the Omaha Board of Trade and Commercial association in matters involving the interests of the two cities. The communication was favorably considered and the following committee appointed: W. N. Babcocz, D. S. Parkhurst and Colonel E. P. Savage. The board of directors will hold a special meeting at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

A report was circulated on the street last night that the Stradamant company had taken judgment by default against the city in the federal court. It obtained some cre-dence and precipitated a political sensation. As a matter of fact, Judge Dundy was out of town and no court was held in the federal court room yesterday. City Attorney Adams filed a demurrer to the petitions of the Stradamant company vester-day and further action was postponed during the absence of the court by mutual con-

PEOPLE'S PARTY PLANS.

An Effort to Locate the National Committee Readquarters in Omaha.

Some of the foremost hustlers in the independent party are putting forth extra efforts just now to induce the executive committee of their party to make Omaha the headquarters during the entire campaign. Quarters will be offered the committee, free of charge, here in Omaha and the personal expenses of the entire committee will be paid if the headquarters are located in Omsha. The executive committee will meet in Omsha about the 15th of May to look after convention matters and this question of selecting a headquarters will then be decided

The kickers in the independent camp seem to have been quite thoroughly sat upon in the appointment of subcommittees. "I am heartly glad to see a few of the blood suckers who hang on to our party left entirely out of the finance and other important committees," said one of the real leaders of the party. They want to get where they can handle some money, and I am very glad that they are not going to have the experituity. The citizens of Omeha. the opportunity. The citizens of Omaha, without regard to political affiliations, are contributing liberally toward paying the ex penses of the convention and it is right that representative citizens should have charge of those funds rather than a lot of political roustabouts. This is a matter which con-cerns the people of Omaha, not merely a few small-bore politicians in the independent party, and I, as a member of that party, am delighted to see some of the sore heads utterly ignored in the make up of the important committees. Mrs. L. R. Patton, Rockford, Ill., writes: From personal experience I can rec DeWitt's Sarsaparilla, a cure for impure blood and general debility."

KICKERS WILL BE OUT.

Fifth Warders Will Express Themselves About the Proposed Beidge Bonds. This afternoon the County Commissioners will meet in adjourned session to decide whether or not they will call a special election to allow the people of Douglas county to vote upon the bond question as proposed by the officials of the Nebraska Central Radway company. The members of the Fifth Ward Kickers' club have decided to put on their war paint and attend in full forces. Among other things they will demand that the commissioners call a great mass meeting that people of the city and county may attend and express their views upon the sub-ject of railroads and bridges. They will re-solve that they want the Nebraska Central and its bridge constructed, but they will de-mand that the company enter into bonds to have the bridge ready for the use of the publie within a certain period of time and that restrictions of some kind to insure fair bridge rates be attached to the proposition.

Repaying Leavenworth Street. The report that has gone abroad to the effect that the ordinance providing for the repaying of Leavenworth street from Sixteenth to Twenty-ninth street had been shelved and that the project had been abandoned, is without foundation, or at least that is the infor-mation that comes from the legal department of the city and the committee on paving, urbing and guttering.
The old ordinance providing for the repaying of the street has been placed on file, simply because it did not provide for the proper protection of the city's interest in the matter of dealing with the street railways in reference to paying between the tracks. It is understood that a new ordinance covering all of the defects in the case will be in-troduced at tonight's council meeting.

Train Agant Hart's Missing Satchel Was Well Supplied with Material.

BOOTY OF MUCH VALUE TO THE THIEF

Indifference to the Loss Affected By the Company-Employes Say the Stolen Tickets Are Good and Can Be Used -They Had a Ring.

In conversation with a Rez man last night s gentleman employed at the Union Pacific headquarters said that the number of tickets and exchange chacks stolen from Train Agent Hart's satchel at the union depot had been ascertained. Two annual passes, three blocks of exchange checks, containing 100 tickets each, and 113 "paster" tickets good anywhere, were stolen.

Bulletins giving a description and the numbers of the tickets have been posted and all conductors notified not to honor any of the missing tickets if offered for transporta-

The railroad officials are mum as clams on the subject and pretend to treat the matter lightly, and evidently want to convey the impression that the stolen property is ausolutely valueless to the person who committed the crime. Several of the company's detectives are working on the case, but like the officials, they look wise and say nothing. It is understood, however, that the sleuths are weaving a web of evidence around an extrain agent, recently discharged, and they expect eventually to land the young man in

The discharged employe is being watched and has been for some time, and the detecnoney like water, drank to excess, wore diamoney take water, trank to excess, wore dia-money among the domi-monde. This same young man would often report that his satchel full of tickets and exchange checks had been stolen while left unguarded for a moment. These excuses went with the offi-cials until the missing tickets supposed to be stolen began to turn up in the ticket scalpers' offices. When this was discovered the train agent was summarily dismissed and the man who was running opposite him taken off the road and given an office position at headquar-The two new train agents, Hart and Stiles said that it would be a very difficult matter for conductors to spot the stolen exchange checks. These checks are issued by the train agent in exchange for foreign tickets which are taken up by the agent. Of course the conductors will have a list of the numbers of the checks, but in the hurry of going through a train they could not stop to look over their list every time an exchange check was of fered. These checks are issued on the train and are not stamped and only require a punch mark to make them good and any kind of a punch mark goes.

It was reported last night that the rail-road special agents who have the matter in charge have discovered that the company has been systematically robbed by a number of train agents employed on the Union Paclic system who had formed a ring and arranged a plan to hold out certain tickets which they failed to cancel and dispose of them to prokers in Chicago, Denver, Kansas City and Portland. If there is any truth in this report a wholesale discharge of train agents may be expected.

TO SUCCEED MR. MELLEN.

J. S. Leeds Booked for Union Pacific Traffic Manager If Gould Stays. General Manager Clark of the Union Pacific

has said that he will not appoint a traffic manager to succeed C. S. Mellen until after he has consulted with higher in authority. It is made until after the annual election this month, when it will be determined whether the Gould management will be continued or not. Mr. Clark has also said that he has had two or three good men in mind and that the one chosen for the place will have to be familiar with the conditions of railroad traffic

Mr. J. A. Munroe, at present general freight agent, has all the qualifications necessary for an excellent traffic manager and is right in line of promotion. In fact most railroad men pick nim out as the probable successor of Mr. Mellen, but a gentleman who has been connected officially with the traffic department for many years has sprung a new candidate.

"The new traffic manager of the Union Pa-cific will be J. S. Leeds if Jay Gould continues in control of the road," said the gentleman yesterday. "Leeds was traffic manager of the Missouri Pacific, but lost his official head last summer because he made a cut rate on sugar from New York to Denver. He was a favorite of Gould and of course was associated with Mr. Ciarir. While they could not retain him it the service of the Missouri Pacific without preaking up the traffic association, the rules do not prevent his employment by another roud. Gould probably feels there is something due a man who has suffered in his service, and he proposes to use the opening on the Union Pacific to settle the score. Incidentally he may want satisfaction out of the lines that insisted on Leeds' dismissal, and he may find it in putting Mr. Leeds when he will be a thorn in their side. Leeds is now on the coast at the head of a freight bureau organized by California merchants for self-protection."

Reduced Rates on Exhibition Exhibits. Secretary Bradiey of the Manufacturers association has received notification from the chairman of the Transmissouri Freight association that goods intended for the June exposition can be shipped from Nebraska points to Omaba, over any road, by paying full freight one way. On the return of the goods, no change of ownership having occurred, there will be no charge for transportation.

Mr. Bradley says that this action of the railroads will be greatly appreciated by the manufacturers of the state and that it will have a tendency to increase the size of exhibits that will be made by the manufacturers outside of Omaha.

"BALLOON RELIGION."

Baptist Ministers Denounce the Turning of Churches Into Side Shows. The regular montaly meeting of the Baptist ministers of Omaha at the Paxton hotel yesterday proved to be a very interesting one although the attendance was not so large as could have been desired. Those present from out of the city were Rev. Mr. McConnell of Asbland and Rev. Mr. Hall of Council Bluffs.

After the usual preliminary reports from all the pastors present with regard to the condition of their work Rev. S. E. Wilcox of Calvary church delivered the address of the

The speaker took up a number of interest ing topics pertaining to the promotion of more active Christian work among church people. In the first place Rev. Mr. Wilcox thought that church people should be convinced that the ministers should not be expected to do all the work of the church. Young people should be taught that their life maans something more than having a good time. The churches, he feared, were running too much into the entertainment business. It seemed as though the church was running a race with the world in the effort to get up something that would tickle and please the young people. The practice of giving moccasin sociables, and butterfly sociables. moccasin sociables, and butterfly sociables, and solling girls at auction and a thousand and one schomes that were in vogue for the amusement of the young beeple, he thought, were tending to impress the young scools with the idea that to be entertained was the prime object of life.

He didn't like the idea of having a double standard of moral responsibility and duty, one for ministers and the other for members

He didn't see way it could be considered all right for church manbers to sleep till 10 o'clock Sunday morning and stay away from church and at the same time expect the minister to be there promptly every Sunday

Then he believed that there was too man sermons preached simply to entertain. H had heard a lady say recontly that she wouldn't have missed a certain sermon for $5. It was an attractive sort of show no doubt. He believed in sermons that would stir people to do their duty rather than enter-Too many church members seem to think that when they have gone to church and have heard the minister tell about their duty as Christians that the whole work is done They never seem to think that they ought to do anything but listen to the regular sermons overy week.

The speaker also held that Christianity should be applied to everyday life. There was getting to be a wide gulf between churchanity and Christianity and that was just the reson the masses were losing faith in the churches. There were too many balloon religious. What the world needed was religion that had its feet firmly on the earth while it pointed to something better and higher. He believed that the pulpit should deal with the practical problems o the day, such as the temperance question the divorce evil, the social evil and the labor

"I believe in a religion that makes men and women better and happier right here on earth," said the speaker, "and I wouldn't give a fig for a religion that is all formality and is away in the air above the heads of

Some interesting discussion took place after the address and in the main the other pastors present heartily approved all that had been said by Rev. Mr. Wilcox.
