DOINGS OF A VERY ORDINARY WEEK

Mary McShane Entertains Her Young Friends-Marriage in Swell Circles Promised - Prospects for a Post-Lenten Season.

Mi Careme has come and gone and today we enter the most selemn part of Lent, Holy week. Next Sunday Easter and then possibly a short post-Lenten season before the birds of brilliant plumage take flight for other climes, to be gone until autumn warns them that another season is at hand.

Chiefest among the events of the present week will be the marriage of Miss Ollie Weller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Weller, and Mr. Olin Davenport Maunday Thursday evening at 5 o'clock at the Weller residence, 2102 Wirt street, Kountze Piace.

Miss Weller is one of the pretty girls of the city, and is a great favorite among her friends. She is a triffe above the medium height, a blonde, with most beautiful blue eyes, large and limpid. She is an interesting talker, and what is still more to the point is sensible to a degree upon questions affecting ber sex. She will make one of the handsome brides of the season and Mr. Davenport is to brides of the season and Mr. Davenport is to be congratulated at his success in that direction. A large number of invitations have been issued, and as the Weller residence is one of the show houses of Kountze place the wedding may be expected to be the leading event of the week. After June 1, the bride and groom will be at home at the Millard.

The Lenten season, which enters upon its last week this morning, has thus far passed quietly but swittly, and it is difficult to realize that this is the "Sunday of the Palms," and that next Sunday is Easter. Never in the memory of the oldest society man has there been a quieter Lent than the one just closing. It has been positively forty days of complete rest, as the period is designed to be, even the little teas, the informal musicales followed by just a dance or two, have been conspicuous by their absence. There has been lots of theater going and several petits supports afterwards, but, on the whole tite suppers afterwards, but on the whole the women have been true to their vows and have religiously observed the period of sackcloth. Whether there will be a brightening of the quiet days is a question that only the immediate future can answer. From present indications it will be a quiet Easter and still quieter post Lenten period.

Easter povelties abound, many of them of exquisite beauty. "The trouble with Easter trophies," said a young woman selecting some the other day, "is that they are so monotonous in treatment. An egg shape and a bow of ribbon, and there is your Easter design," This charge would have been modified on further investigation. Easter flowers, rather than the usual typical oval, have been much utilized this spring, and exquisite porcelains and crystals in many shapes besides that of an egg are covered with beautiful designs in trailing arbutus, Easter lilies, and other flowers of the season.

At the high-class bonbon shops—for candy is really too plebeian a word for the wonder-ful confections which the modern artists in sugar produce—it was noticed that the conventional satin eggs were conspicuous by their absence. Eggs of Sevres and Dresden with broken tops permitting of treatment in relief most frequently held the sweetments. A lovely design was that of some pale pink porcelain of egg-shell tint and delicacy which rested in a nest of golden straw.

The dinner given Edouard Remenyl, who by the way is to return to Omaha in May for a matinee concert, by Mr. and Mrs. Muentefering Sunday evening was one of the pleas-antest events of the season. The menu was designed particularly for the honored guest, who is a famous gourmet, although a veg-etarian, the sketches by Mr. Muentefering being particularly clover and artistic. There was music, lots of it, and the guests privi-leged to break bread with Remeayi enjoyed a treat which will be a blessed memory for How obtrusively some women perfume themselves: and what a mistake it is. There should be only a suggestion of something delicately sweet, and it should always be the same scent. There are one or two derived from lilies which are perfectly delicious but very evanescent.

Celebrated Her Birthday.

It was like a section of fairyland set down in the midst of this busy metropolis which presented itself to the eyes of the older guests present at the birthday party of Mary Lee McShane, daughter of Mr. John A. Mc-Shane, Tuesday evening. It was Mary's 8th birthday and her first party, and how she did enjoy the opportunity to entertain her four score of young friends. Bright eyes, happy faces and large sized noises told how thoroughly happy everybody was.

From 3 until 80'clock the little folks owned the handsome residence of Umaha's ex-congressman, and Mr. McShane entered into the spirit of the affair with all the zest and interest of 10-year-old, "he was a boy again, just for the night."
When supper time came the children were seated in the diving room while dusky wait-ers looked after the wants of the little lords and ladies. The center table was very pret and ladies. The center table was very pret-tily decorated with flowers, suggestive of spring, and the birthday cake with nine can-dles, for there was one to grow on, shone re-slendant in it wealth of icing. Souvenirs, pretty tambourines filled with dainty bon pretty tambournes filled with dainty bon bons, were presented to the guests during the afternoon. But the little folks didn't care so much for the eatables as for play, and there was lots of the latter. All sorts of games were introduced, "postoffice," "clap in clap out," Copenhagen and the kissing pastimes of childhood were played with vim very suggestive of colts in a spring paddock, and when "going home" time came there were very heavy eyes observable, weary bodies very heavy eyes observable, weary bodies that almost failed to respond to their owners' bidding, but light and sunshing hearts.

Mistress Mary was the recipient of a whole table full of pretty birthday gifts, souvenir spoons being in the majority.

Assisting the little hostess in entertaining were Mrs. Ed McShane, Miss Lulu McShane, Miss Kate Creighton, Miss Emma Creighton, Miss Mary McMahon and Mrs. J. M. Thurston.

The little ladies and continues.

The little ladies and gentlemen present The little ladies and gentlemen present were:
Edward and Catharine Cudahy, Fred, Charlie and Neilie Cannou, Harry, Guy and Mary Furay, Tommy, Alice and Margaret McShane, Maggie, Ed, Mary and Jim McShane, Ed, Felix and Minnie McShane, May and Neilie McShane, Clement Lee, Frank Maginn, Eddie Creighton, Emma Creighton, Lulu Shanck, Mary, Florence and Ed Gilmore, Catharine O'Donohue, Clarence, Grace and Jean Thurston, Jennett and Mamie Rogers, Jenea Wakefield, May and Lillie Bamford, Minnie Shroeder, Fred and Love Nash, Alice McMahon, Mildred Rogers, Blanch Kinsier, Paul and Ben Gallagher, Harry and Dick Cushing, Gertrade, Beatrice and Louis Gallagher, Gene Whinerey.

A Pretty Card Party, Miss Bache gave a very pretty high five party Monday evening at her nome in Langdon court. The house was brilliant with red roses which with candelbra throughut the rooms made a very charming picture. After rooms made a very charming picture. After a dozen games prizes were awarded Miss Keily, Mr. Chester Barnard, Mr. Beall and Lieutenant Bookmiller, the favors being embroidered doilies, silver catendar, silver hat pin and a card case silver mounted.

Delicious refreshments were served, the evening being remarked for its pleasant informality. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Barnard, Mrs. Beall, Mrs. Benham, Mrs. Clara Wicks, Miss Wakeley, Miss Emily Wakeley, Miss Tatum, Miss Lynn Curtis, Miss Kelly, Miss Reece, Messrs. Clapp, Baidridge, W. Farnam Smith, Fowler, Lieutenant Whitman, Lieutenant Bookmiller.

The Holdrege Reception. The reception given by . Mrs. Georgo W. Holdrege at her home, 1613 South Thirtysecond avenue, brought out the grandedames in large numbers on Thursday. The house, which stands well back among the trees and is one of the very beautiful nomes in Omaha, was made inviting by flowers distributed throughout the rooms Mrs. Holdrege made this reception the medium of a farewell to Miss Cranston, who leaves this week for Chicago, where she will open a necdlework studie. A particularly enjoyable feature of the afternoon was the display mads by Mrs. Holdrege of Miss Cranston's work, and how the women did feat their eyes on the creaty things. Among the control of the control o feast their eyes on the pretty things. Among the work was a table scarf in olive silk, em-broidered in a conventional design in shades of clive running into gold, which formed a happy background for a bunch of wonder-fully well executed thisties.

There were quite a hundred ladies present during the hours of the reception, and it was one of the charming events of the week.

Successful Church Fair. First Congregational church people are to e congratulated upon the success of their fair held Monday and Tuesday evenings of last week. The booths were brilliantly arranged and fair maids and matrons worked with a will to make the miles as large as possible. It was absolutely out of the question to get away from the charms of the women bent on getting the last dollar from a man's pocket. All the articles for sale were artistic and merited purchasing.

The little people figured to advantage during the period of the fair, the baby dance from "Wang" being particularly clever, though somewhat hurriedly worked up. There was a funny buriesque on the national pageant, with the cast as follows: Julia Coburn randmother...
