JIMMY MANNING'S GANG LICKED THEM

Eddie Elteljorg's Arm is All Right Now-Nice Little Practice Game-Oxford Defeats Cambridge-Hall to Fitzsimmons Once More.

ANSASCITY, Mo. April 9. - | Special Telegram to Tun Ban.] - Omaha did not win today's game because President Stout would not let his pitchers exert themselves. He gave all three a brief trial, while the Kansas City management pitched Eiteijorg through the game. From the outset the Omahas were favorites.

The day was raw and bad, but a goodly crowd was out to see the first game of the season. On the field the fine team from Omaha presented a splendid appearance, although they showed a lack of practice. The performance of Collopy at third base was splendid, showing him up well in his all around advantages. Shelbeck at short showed himself to be a very pretty player, accepting all of his chances with a grace that captured the spectators. Hayes, the catcher, found it too cold for good work, although his performance was quite equal to that of the Kansas City man, Phenomenal Kelly in left field did not have much to do, but he displayed an activity that was very The batting of the team was good and the bases were all run exceptionally well. Gilks in center field did some very fine work on all the opportunities offered. President Stout is very much pleased with the showing madhere by his team, and considers it very flat tering in view of the lack of practice of his team and the chilly atmosphere of today.

The Omahas began the game with Darby in the box. He officiated for five innings, and although he did not exert himself the Cowboys only made seven nits. Vickery threw in for three lunings and Handiboo went in in the ninth inning. was the first appearance of the Cowboys in anything bearing a resemblance to a rea contest, and they created quito a favorable impression. Eddio Eiteljorg, who has been in training for two weeks, was at his best and pitched his hardest. A local man acted as umpire. Many of his decisions were very Bauswine, but the clubs suffered about equally. Score: KANSAS CITY.

OXFORDS WON.

For the Twenty-Sixth Time Cambridge Comes in Second.

London, April 9 .- The annual boat race between teams representing the Oxford and Cambridge universities to take place on the Thames championship course, from Putney to Morto Cake, took place at noon today, and for the twenty-sixth time since the inauguration of these English college contests the Oxford erew passed the winning line ahead of their opponents. The summer weather that has prevailed in the vicinity of the course for the past week continued today, and the banks of the Thames were crowned with an unprecedented crowd The crews were made up as follows: Cambridge—E. W. Lord (bow), S. C. Neil, E. T. Fison, W. Landame, G. C. Kerr,

C. T. Fogg-Elliott, G. Ellin, G. Franklin (stroke), J. V. Braddon (cox). Oxford-R. B. Cotton (bow), J. A. Ford, V. A. Hewett, F. E. Robeson, V. Nickails, W. A. L. Fletcher, R. P. Prowe, C. M. Pit. nan (stroke), J. P. Heywood (coxswain). A general east wind was then blowing which had the effect of rendering the Surre side of the river somewhat choppy, while the Middlesex side was sheltered from the breeze and the water was therefore smooth. Oxford Middlesex side, thus getting the advantage of the smoother water and more of the benefit of the moderate wind during the last portion of the journey. Midway the wind was fair for both crews.

The Cambridge crew were the first to enter their boat. They pulled to the stake boat, being received with loud cheering and every token of enthusiasm. Three minutes later the Oxfords followed and there was a repetition of the cheering and enthusiasm as they paduled to the starting point. The ex-citement was intense. Both crews were in fine condition and everybody anticipated a keen struggle.

Cambridge Led Well,

At exactly 12:16 the starting signal, the firing of a pistol, was given. Cambridge took the water first, pulling thirty-eight strokes to the minute, and their boat jumped to the front. Oxford started pulling thirtymine strokes. With the perfect rythm of a machine the oars flashed in and out of the water, but strain and struggle as they would, Oxford could not close the gap be tween themselves and Cambridge. The light blues on the shore were wild with excitement and yelled encouraging words to their favorites. But the cheers and cries ell on deaf ears. Bending to their oars, the Cambridge crew saw nothing but their opponents behind them, and the muscles of their arms and backs rose and fell as the their arms and backs rose and fell as the steady stroke that kept them ahead was continued without a flaw. The Campridge growd on the Putney pier on the Star and Garter and Duke's Head and along the concrete wall on the opposite of the river, cheered and yelled, but in a flash the boats much mat them almost flying up at reserve.

At Claspere boat house, about three furlongs from the start, Cambridge was a quar-ter of a length in the lead, and this advantage was still retained as they passed Craven Steps, about three furlongs further on. Past the Gass wharf, Rose bank, the Crabtrees and the Malt house the position of the boats was unchanged, but as they neared Hammersmith bridge the faster and now stronger stroke of the dark blues began to tell, and they drew up to a level with their opponents.

Oxford to the Front.

A few seconds later Oxford had issued th lead and put a gap of three-fourths of a length between herself and Cambridge. Both crews were well in the center of the river.

Now ensued a splendid bit of racing, but the Oxfords became-slightly ragged. Cambridge was doing better and this raised the hopes of the light blues throughng the river banks. The Oxfords, however, pulled themselves to gether and quickened their stroke and a magnificent display of racing followed. Spurt followed spurt, while the spectators yelled themselves hearse in attempts to cheer on their favorites. Just below the mills, about two miles from the sequeduct the Cambridge team began to fail further When the boats reached Chicks wick Eyot, about two miles and a balf from the starting point, they were very close to the shore. Here the coxswala of the Oxford steered rather badly but his crew still held their advantege.

Cambridge spurted manfully, but the pace set by Oxford was too much for them and they fell to pieces. At Thoravcrofts, just beyond Chickwick Eyot, Oxford crossed over and took the Cantabs' water, giving the latter the benefit of their wash. The Cambridge crow were too far cehing, however, for the wash to affect them. for the wash to affect them.

Only a Procession. The race now degenerated into a procession. Just above Thornycrofts Oxford was fully three lengths shead and able to in-crease. The Cantabs showed increased signs of distress. Around the long bend at Barnes bridge, about three miles and five furlougs from the start, Cambridge pulled thereselves together and made a desperate endeavor to regain their lost ground. They were then five lengths behind and their efforts were useless. The Oxfords slackened their stroke before reaching Morte Lake, a short distance from the winning line, and allowed their opponents to approach them.

Then ensued an exciting race. The Can tabs, worn out by their struggle, braced themselves for a final effort. Sturdily they bent to their cars and jumped forward with new impulses and lusty strokes, but all was of no avail. The cark blues played with their opponents and crossed the line at the Old Ship inn by two lengths and a quarter. Oxford's time was nineteen minutes and twenty-one seconds. The time is the best ever made over the present course; the best previous time was nucteen minutes. thirty-five seconds, made by the Cambridge crew when they won in 1873 by three and one-half lengths. It was in this race that the siding seats were first utilized by the uni-versity crews. The slowest time was in 1860. when cambridge won by one length to twenty minutes andt en seconds.

Comparing the form of men, the ragged rowing with round shoulders of the canatabs were most practicable. The Oxford crew seemed to have returned to old tradition of university form. They rowed with the steady movement of a piece of machinery. The race was a thorough contrast between university and Thmas rowing. Cambridge pulled like the London eight, while Oxford rowed in the old poker back fashion. Oxford finished in as perfect form as when they begun, but there was a lot of splashing and rolling in

Whipping. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 9 .- Pugilist Fitzsimmons, evidently bluffing, in reply to Jim Hall, angered the latter into saying many things regarding Fitzsimmons methods, and in an interview te be printed tomorrow, Hall, among other things, says: 'Fitzsimmons knows in his heart that as a pugilist I am his master, but he has not the mannead to admit it. I had intended to remain in Philadelphia for a fortnight, but in the hope of meeting Fitzsimmons face to face, I shall leave for New York temorrow. If he means business and wants to fight me. a match between us can be arranged. I wil concede everything within reason and ask in return but one point-that I fight at 160 pounds. He can fight at any weight he chooses. Fitzsimmons knows that I can't fight at icss. He gave Mayher 150 bounds. His tweddle about fighting Sullivan is the utter-ance of a conceited idiot. He would have to allow Sullivan faom 160 to 165 pounds and would drop dead if he was dragged into the same ring with John L. The controversy between us has reached a point where he has either got to fight me if he dares or crawl like the coward he is.'

TYPHUS FEVER IN DETROIT.

Fears That the Disease Will Become Epi demie in That City. DETROIT, Mich., April 9.-An investigation is being made into the origin of the case of typhus that was discovered here yesterday in the Czappa family. The disease may have been brought by a family named Rotnow, which is living almost opposite. The Rot-nows arrived in Baltimore eight days ago and came direct to Detroit. It is not known that there were any cases of contagious disease on the steamer, but Mrs. Rotnow has informed N. R. Duffield, the city health officer, that two children died on the voyage. She thought the deaths occurred from scarlet fever, but was not sure. The Rotnows have small children, which have played with Czappa's children.

The situation is alarming from the fact that the bouse they live in contains two large families, the members of which have been passing in and out of the fever stricken patient's chamber.

Wharton says the declination of Blair leave the question of his withdrawal by this gov ernment out of the question, and namits the right of China to object to any minister, but the comity of nation's requires that it should not be done without sufficient reason. The reason assigned by China was it was because of the unfriendly titude of Blair toward China a senator during the pendency of the Chine exclusion act is not well taken, as the recoshows that he was respectful throughou toward China and just toward her people The objection that he cast his vote in favo of the bill was in reality an objection to an member of congress who votes for any measure objectionable to China. This act is now a supreme law and commands the obediens of all citizens, and any person appointed minister to China is bound to observe and as sist in its execution. This objection to Blair cannot therefore be taken to account in the appointing of another appointed. The objection moreover, is illogical, as the act has been in force for three years without the discovery of it as a bar to the reception of an envoy from this government. The season was generally late in the west and in the southwest, and later in the states of the Atlantic coast. The unfavorable seeding conditions, draught, difficulty in plowing umpy soil, slow germination and an imper feet stand were naturally followed by late and feeble growth. The plant was there-fore generally small when the winter set in, and apparently of weak vitality, its condi-tion in December averaging 85.3. The pres-ent return is a reduction of 4.1 points. The fact that the low condition is less the result of winter killing than of late germins tion and slow autumn development, renders material recuperation possible under favorable meteorlogical conditions.

RIVERS AND HARBORS.

Tin Plate Attracting the Attention of Con gress-General Washington News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9,-The river and harbor bill was reported to the bouse inaugurated at the Auditorium next Friday today. The committee thinks the most im portant feature of the bill is the extent it goes to in authorizing the secretary of war to make contracts for the completion of more important river and harbor improvements. The departure from the old driblet system of appropriations was found to work so well that the committee determined to apply it on a larger scale than in the last act.

The report of the committee on ways and neans on the tin plate bill was submitted to the house today by Mr. Shively of Indiana. The present law, it says, subjects every American industry which uses tin plate to new and burdensome exactions. The proposed measure is a proposition to release these industries from such exactions. The distinction in principle between the two is the distinction between a demand by one citizen that he is licensed to take that which is not his own, and the petition of another citizen that he be permitted to keep what is his own. The McKinley act granted privileges supposed to grant these rights. Relieis not granted to American industries, to which they are unquestionably entitled.

Venezuela Revolutionists Not Vanquished by Government Troops.

PREPARING FOR ANOTHER ENGAGEMENT

Hundreds of Citizens Auxtous to Favor the Rebels, But Fear the Result of Provoking the Anger of the Police.

[Copyrighted 1892 by James Gordon Bennett]

Canacas, Venezuela, (via Galveston, Tex.)

April 8 .- (By Mexican Caule to the New York Heraid-Special to Tun Bun, |- General Crespo's revolutionary forces unquestionably met with a sovere reverse in the recent fight with the government troops, but it seems pretty certain now that the engagement was by no means decisive and the leader of the opposition forces in the field has not been utterly crushed. He has withdrawn from his former position and is engaged in organizing for a more effective position, and his adherents hope for a more successful move I am informed from reliable sources that the revolutionists are constantly receiving accessions to their ranks and the activity of the leaders of the movement is meeting with gratifying results throughout the country. The main difficulty with the rebeis is the lack of arms, and to suyny this deficiency Crespo and his lieutenants are bend-ing every energy. The government is doing all it can to make the censorship of the cable and telegraph service effective. They now examine all suspicious mail matter. Little or no criticism of the government is neard in Caracas. The impresonment of the supreme court has overawed the people and convinced them that any expression of opinion not fa-vorable to Palacio is liable to lead to unpleasant consequences.

It is asserted by those friendly to Cresp that a great majority of the people through out the country are against the government but they are afraid to declare openly for the revolutionary movement until it has been better organized and shows strength enough in the field to make success reasonably sure. The condition of affairs here, and in fact throughout the country, amounts to almost a reign of terror. There is a feeling of uncertainty and dread among all classes of the people.

Minister Egan's Plans.

VALPARAISO, Chili (via Galveston, Tex.), April 8.—[By Mexican Cable to the New York Herald—Special to The Bee.]—United States Consul McCroery told me today that Minister Patrick Egan had been offered by Secretary of State Blaine the appointment of minister either to Paris or to Pekin. Mr. Egan, so Mr. McCreery says, after thinking over the matter, declined both offers. He did not want to go to Paris on the ground that it was too expensive. His objection to Pekin was the distance. It has been decided by the vice presi dent of the Chamber of Deputies that he will not call a session of that body for the consid cration of matters relative to the accusations against the late President Baimaceda's min The senate will meet for that purpose, however, during the latter part of the

He Succeeds in Securing Large Sums and Outwitting the Police. [Copyrighted 1892 by James Gordon Hennetl.] LONDON, April 8 .- [New York Herald Cable-Special to THE BEE. |-The police have not yet succeeded in capturing the enterprising swindler who masquerades under the names of Herreshoff and Gunter. I hear today that his confidence operations cover a much wider and more ambitious arena than

was at first supposed. His story to people who might be supposed to have personal acquaintance with Gunter is that he was an only brother of the author and was himself a dramatist, but owing to the machinations of a wicked partner his successfu tour of Australia with his own play came to sudden grief, therefore he finds himself penniless in a strange city. Among his latest victims are Robert McClure, Robert Barr, Luke Sharp and Florence Warden, the novel ist. In each case, however, the sum ob-tained, owing to a suspicion excited by hi manner, was smaller than it otherwise would have been. He skillfully adopted the means to the end and, shedding his Gunter skin, cailed upon the editor and yachtsman in the character of hierreshoff His weak eyes, which are family character istics, helped the impersonation. Here he obtained an introduction to leading yacht brokers, one of whom entertained him at the Junior Carlton club, where after a libera flow of wine he became boisterous and at tempted to break a dinner service. This convinced the yachting man that something was wrong in Herreshoff's composition and when the swindler called the next day he was shown the door. Until the police cap ture him he will endeavor to add luster t the names of Gunter and Herresboft. Ex-Congressman David R. United States Merchants. [Copyrighted 1892 by James Gordon Bennett.] Panis, April 8 .- | New York Herald Cable -Special to Tue Bun |- I have referred already many times to the tentative commer cial agreement between France and the United States. The question took a new turn today in the customs committee of the Chamber, M. Roche, minister of merce, explained that the cabinet at Washington wanted to apply to France paragraph 3 of the McKinley bill. France, said the minister, prefers to negotiate the matter. If we send 17,000,000 france worth of merchandise to America we pay duty of 1,303,000 francs. America demand equality. France demands exclusion, coffee not failing under paragraph 3 of the McKin-ley bill. America accepted. Then the American figures were taken and the gov ernment proposed to allow the United States to enter free of duty 7,200,000 francs worth of American merchandise composed of merino stuffs, wooden paving blocks, fresh fruits and staves for casks. The committee unanimously adopted the government proposal.

Protecting Municipal Interests. FORT Dobor, In., April 8. - | Special Tele-

A year ago a county herd law was passed by county votes and it was thought that the cow was doomed. The city government, however, was for the cow and the county law was not enforced. The issue was not raised in the recent municipal election but very quietly all anti-cow alder-men were elected. The first ordinance passed by them was one prohibiting any live stock from running at large in the city limits at any time.
