The Cost of Election.

I desire to say further: That in deference to the sentiment expressed by leading citizens of this city, who were in favor of no election, we have decided to do so, and are prepared to enter into a contract to that effect. Respectfully, J. H. DEMO ST.

IN THE LABOR FIELD.

Rochester has 3,000 electric workers.

France leads Europe in the employment of women clerks.

Great Britain boasts of 10,000 testatorates among its railroads.

British statistics show that miners are not a clever girl.

There were nearly 700 lives sacrificed by mine explosions in Europe and America last year.

The marble monument to the Chief of Police of New York City, who was assassinated by the Mafia, is being cut up in Marone's Italian.

A new industry has been invented by a clever girl. She has become an accountant and auditor for large hotels. She finds plenty of employment in looking after the business of a few families of large expenditure, whose heads have not taste for the work.

To remember people's names is a great virtue. A man in a great wholesale establishment in Chicago could not remember the names of his customers. His business is to speak to every one who comes in by name, and to introduce the customer to the clerk of the name. He has a list of names, and he introduces the person to the clerk by name, the clerk is expected to find out the name and introduce the person to the gentleman who has been the door, who bids him or her to go by name. This always flatters people and they come back again.

Story of De Mores.

The visitor to Modora, the little Dakota village that was the scene of some of the exploits of the Marquis de Mores is pointed out as object of great interest the "chateau" where the eccentric French nobleman lived. The ruins of a small stable marked the spot where he found a white mare concealing a corpse and killed one of them, while he put the rest to rout. Afterwards when a mob tried to lynch De Mores, the sheriff offered him protection. "No, sire, no!" said he. "I have very good shot pistol. I will shoot the first fellow that offers me any aid or help!" Then the marquis walked about in a very nonchalant manner and the crowd admiring his pluck, failed to molest him.
