REPUBLICAN SKIRMISHERS. What is left of the Twenty-Eight Club In a year. The Monmouth Park school has an enroll-Trying to Raise the Wind. STILL HUNT FOR COUNTY DELEGATES.

The Broatch Crowd Said to Be Seeking Anti-Harrison Men in the Interest of Thurston for Minneapolis-Unit ts Hard at It.

While the local democratic elephant has been going round and round the republican circus tent has been undergoing preparations for active business.

The republican county convention will be held in this city Friday, April 22. This convention will select sixty-three delegates to the republican state convention which meets at Kearney April 27, and also eighty-three delegates to the congressional convention which meets in Omaha April 23. This latter convention will elect two delegates and two alternates to the national re-publican convention at Minneapolis June 7. The Kearney convention will elect four delegates at large and four alternates to Minnoapolis. As each congressional district sends two delegates to Minneapolis there will be in all sixteen Nebraska delegates in the national convention. It is possible that the state convention may nominate presiden-tial electors, yet this action may be deferred to the state convention in the fall, which nominates state officers. It is generally concerted that Douglas county will furnish at least one man for the Kcar-ney convention to send to Minneapolis as delegate at large and Douglas county will delegates. This district is composed of Douglas, Sarpy and Washington counties. whose total vote on governor in 1890 was about 30 400.

For the past ten days there has been considerable activity among the ward workers and wire pullers to capture the delegates to the coming county conven-tion. Most of the buttonholing up to withinithree days has been done by what is left of the infamous Twenty-eight club. Charley Unit is the self-appointed beliwether of this faction. He is in constant and close communion with the John McDonalds, the Ed Taylors, the John Clarkes, the Joe Rednans, and receives his inspiration partly from Broatch.

This Broatch faction, so-called, that suffered a Waterloo defeat in the last state fight when Broatch was pitted against Dr. Mercer as candidate for governor, has been for a long time preparing for another set-to. While mobody knows and few care what Broatch wants it is certain that he has a consuming ambition to pose as the leader of the dominant ring of the republican party in Douglas county. In order to create the impression that he had some strength at home he and his followers have made a practice of haunting the hotel rotundas for months followers have the interface months filling republicans from the interior of the state with visions of greatness of the Broatch crowd and the utter insignificance of Dr. Mercer's following. In fact Broatch's friends have told the state politicians that Tom Majors could carry Omaha like a house on fire and that Dr. Mercer wasn't in it. They have also given it out with great unc-tion that Dreate and bare the Dendes del tion that Broatch can have the Douglas delegation either for congress or for governor, just as he might elect when the fruit became ripe enough to pick. It is an open secret that the anti-Omaha campaign which Majors has been waging and the revival of the ghost dance over the grave of Richards received its inspiration right here in Omaha among the anti-Mercer factionists who would make the outsiders believe that a combination might be effected for governor, and one of Broatch's right bowers might become lieutenant gov-ernor. Under this deal Broatch would not un built built of the state the second put up his lightning rod to catch the con-gressional nomination. Way down deep there has also been a plot hatched to knock out President Harrison if such a thing is found to be possible, and to put up delegates who would either support Alger or Blaine in case the Minneapelis convention could be stampeded. Recent information from Washington has been rather encouraging to the latter element and John M. Thurston is quietly taking a hold with the Broatch fac tion. Thurston still believes that in spite of be boomed into a nomination in spite of his declination, but the schemo Thurston still believes that Blaine can his declination, but the scheme is to do this work under cover, send an uninstructed delegation to Minneapolis with men who are known to be ready to flop at the proper moment. Aithough Mr. Thurston denies that he is a candidate for the Minneapo lis convention, there are grounds for the suspicion that he is a very busy man just at this time. One of his trusted and most active wire pullers, Charley Unit, has quit his job with the Union Pacific road and is now devoting his entire time to na-tional politics. Unit is rausacking every ward for available material with which to the fight in the republican caucuses next Friday. Unit was one of the valiant crew that broke bread at the Lininger banquet and then sold the latter out to Cushing two years ago. Unit is mustering officer for this precious gang whose purpose at this time is to capture the county convention and sub-stitute Blaine men for the avowed Harrison republicans. This is their real object, though school was opened yesterday morning. There is a total enrollment there of 140, and none above the fourth grade. Superinten-dent Fitzpatrick is of the opinion that more facilities will have to be provided there with ment of twenty-five.

POLICE COURT MICAWBERS. How the Gang Grows Old Waiting for Some.

thing to Happen.

The old gang was at the police court yesterday morning; the old, old gung that comes from no one knows where and fades into nothingness as regularly as the sun rises and sets,

They are neither prisoners nor witnesses, but though judges come and judges go, though clerks and jailers, sergeants and captains, attorneys and reporters step aside and their places are filled by others, day in and day out, year in and year out, the same old gang fills the spectators' seats, lounges in the window seats or leans against the pillars and radiators.

Silent, immovable, uninterested and unin-teresting they sit there forever, waiting for something-they do not know what do not care what, but something which never hapwhen the room opens in the morning they file in by ones and twos and threes, young and old, grav-headed and bald headed, bearled and clean shaven, flithy and cleanly, well-dressed and ragged, moon-faced and hatchet-faced, hun-gry and well fed, tobacco-chewers and pipe-smokers and there they sit and wait. The judge comes briskly through the room and takes his seat at the desk; the prose cutor comes in with his complaints; the court officer raps for order and the sorgeants marshal up the line of yags, drunks and disorderlies harvested during the sight, but the gang was not waiting for this and none of Them move a muscle. One by one the John Does, the Jakes and the Jacks shamble up to the judge's desk and tell their monotonous stories. They were not waiting for this. They never by any possibility hear a word said by either judge, witness or prisoner. Mrs. Annie Hurris, an old lady with a comfortable, grandmotherly look about her old-fashioned bonnet and shawl, came ur and talked to thejudge with many dramatic gestures, but the gang will never know till they read it in the papers that she was explaining to the judge that she was not drunk, that is, not very, and that her only disorder consisted in praying to the Lord Jesus to preserve her from her persecutors who had cast her into prison. They did not hear her protest when the judge hardened his heart

The drunks came up one by one and gave each his own version of the old, cld story of how he was taken unawares but the gang heard never a word of the murmured conversations.

Then the prisoners marched down stairs again, detectives and policemen buttoned up their coats and went out into the storm, the judge buried himself in the morning paper and the court officers went to sleep, The wind wailed through the key holes, the rain dashed against the windows in gusts, the yellow gas lights of the court room stared through the mists with a sickly glare and the old gang still sat there waiting, waiting. There they will doubtless still sit and wait till police courts are no more or the myster lous something which has never happened and never been explained, happens.

WAS MME, MODJESKA'S MAID

Varied Experience of a Plaintiff in a Suit Against the City.

ROBBED BY AN UNGRATEFUL BOARDER

Then She Broke Her Ankle and Wants Damages from the City-Attaching Sidney Smith's Effects-Other Court Doings.

The case of Caroline Fellman against the city of Omaha is on trial in Judge Doane's court. In this instance the plaintiff seeks to recover $5,000 for a broken anale. On the night of February 18, 1891, she was walking along Dodge street to her residence, which was near Twentleth. Between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets she stepped upon a broken plank and alleges to have sustained the injuries charged in the petition. The plaintiff in the case was prior to her residence in Omaha Modjeska's waiting maid, and was the recipient of a number of costly presents from that noted actress, but all of this, together with a watch and quite a sum of money, took wings and flew while roomers and among the number was a very stylish young man from Chicago. He was an agreeable fellow and soon became the pet of the household. On account of his many little acts of kindness he was given the freedom of the house. While he was enjoying this freedom he robbed his landlady of her jewelry and money, after which he lit out for parts unknown. Attaching Sidney Smith's Effects, city so hurriedly a few days ago, has been called into court to answer attachment proceedings brought by Charles E. Summer. The plaintiff alleges that a few days ago by purchased from Smith a note of $100 purport-ing to have been signed by Elmer D. Frank and one for $256 purporting to have been signed by Emory A. Cobb. In his petition the plaintiff states that he has become convinced that both aotes are forzeries.

Other Court Cases. In Judge Ferguson's court the case of Edward Harris against Dorsey B. Houck, constable, is on trial. The plaintiff alleges that as constable, Houck wrongfully took and detained his property, amounting to several hundred dollars. The criminal court drew a motley crowd to listen to the testimony in the case of the state against Ed A. Koen who was indicted by the grand jury on the charge of having criminally libeled W. S. Shoemaker. The state expects to prove that as the correspondent of a sensational paper published at Kansas City, the defendant wrote several articles which were wholy faise, in which the complaining witness. Shoemaker, was said to have held improper relations with apply to your nearest agent Union Pa-Nettie Wilson.

The store was insured with these each The stock was insured with these com-panies, which now refuse to pay the loss. So to speak, Emily Barr went out of court with a black eye last night. She was the owner of a lot at Thirteenth and Blaine streets. When the grade of South Thirteenth street was changed appraisers reported to the city council that her property had not been damaged. She did not like this finding, and appealing from the report of the appraisers, such the city to recover $7,500 alleged damages. Monday the triat of the cause was commenced in Judge Keysor's court and yesterday afternoon it was sub-mitted to a jury. Within two hours a ver-dict for the defendant was returned.

THE GERMAN SAVINGS BANK.

A New Bank Already a Splendid Success, At the annual meeting of the stock-holders of the German Savings bank yesterday the officers and directors were unanimously re-elected for the ensuing year and the regular annual cash dividend was declared. The cashier, in making his report, said: 'In submitting a statement of the condition of our bank at the close of business Saturday, April 9, 1892, permit me first, by way of explanation, to call your attention to the fact that the twelve months last past have been the least profitable and the most trying in bank-ing circles experienced for years. Not so much on account of the scarcity of money, as the uncertainty of deposits caused by a lack of confidence and a feeling of mistrust which prevailed over the whole couatry. Banks doing an ex-clusive savings business, are only re-quired to keep 5 per cent of their deposits available, while banks whose charter authorizes both commercial and savings, as ours does, are required to keep 20 per cent available, but as a matter of extreme safety, we have carried from 50 to 40 per cent of our deposits in available funds during all these stringent times. You can readily see how that would reduce the earnings of an institution like ours while our rates of interest and expenses continue the same. You will notice, however, that we have made most remarkable gains in overy department by comparison with our statement of one year ago. Since our organization June 2d, 1800, we have ed 1,623 savings accounts, commercial accounts, and opened 673 c 475 certificates of issued de posit; during the same time have paid $6,000 in dividends and $17,517.08 interest to depositors. Our deposits are $487,042.98."

This is certainly a magnificent showing and the Germans are to be congrat-ulated on these splendid results. This was the last bank organized in the city and has already passed nine of the established banks in the line of deposits.

A conservative prosperous bank is a credit to any city. The Germans had talked for years of starting a financial institution and the success attained shows what unity of action will do when properly directed.

BUILDERS AND TRADERS.

Important Matters Considered at an Inter-

Hussey, the president, occupied the chair, and commented favorably upon the address of Arthur McAllister, pres ident of the National Association of Builders, which was delivered at the builders' conwhich was derivered at the builders con-vention held at Cleveland last January. Mr. Hussey, ineffect, saidthat the loca builders should have a better appreci-ation of the advantage of proper organiza-tion to place the building business upon a plane as high as that of any business prac need in the country. He urged the frater-nity in the direction of higher and better business methods, to insist upon the correc-tion of some of the abuses from which he said the builders are suffering. Mr. Hussey was of the opinion that it was the universal sentiment of the builders to take some action in the movement of separate organization.

At present the plumbers, carpenters and bricklayers have separate and distinct organizations and are auxiliaries to the Build ers and Traders exchange. No other trades have separate organizations. The reports or these were favorable, and it appeared to be the general opinion that even the architects should be organized in order that they could affiliate with the contractors. It was also thought that all contractors' bids on buildings should be opened in architects' offices at a specified time and in the presence of the competing bidders.

After further discussion Fred McConnell was called upon to read McAllister's address Lawyer H. D. Estabrook who had been invited to attend and ad lress the meeting, sent a letter of regret, stating that he was obliged to be in the south.

The city council's ordinance regulating the size and shape of common brick used in the construction of buildings in this city, was adopted. The size of brick, in accordance with the ordinance, is a uniform make and of a national size, eight and one-fourth inches in length, four inches in width and two and one-fourth inches in thickness.
