SUING THE STOCKHOLDERS

Another Sharp Turn in the Nebraska Insurance Company's Affairs.

ED KOEN GUILTY OF CRIMINAL LIBEL

Verdict Returned This Afternoon-A Donkey and a Tree Claim Figure in the Courts-The Verdict Against Tom Murray.

The affairs of the defunct fows and Nebraska lusurance company are again in the year ago and after the appointment of A. U. Wyman receiver, there were numerous cha ges of fraud against the stockholders and officers.

In going through the assets Mr. Wyman found nothing but a lot of worthless notes and claims. His investigations, however, did not cease, but were followed up until today, when suit was brought against the National Bank of Commerce, Henry Lamb, S. R. Johnson, George F. Wright, J. T. Hari, Eli Clayton, G. W. Kingsnortn and J.

W. Moore.

The petition charges that in 1887 the officers of the company borrowed $35,000 for the benefit of the policy holders from the National Bank of Commerce. This note was never paid, but on May 14, 1891, Johnson and Wright conspired with one M. J. Burns in such a manner as to have the $35,000 applied to the payment of a personal note given by themselves and other stockholders, leaving the policy holders to shift for themselves. for themselves.

Attachment proceedings have followed, and the property of the several defendants has been levied upon.

Koen Found Guilty.

After being out twenty-two hours the jury in the case of the state against Ed. A. Koen returned a verdict of guilty, as charged in the indictment, at 2 o'clock yesterday The facts in the case are familiar.

The case was put on trial Wednesday morning and given to the jury last night. On the first ballot the jury stood 8 to 4 for conviction and until noon today there was no change. The jury was taken out to dinner and upon returning the twelve men voted to convict. As soon as Clerk Moores read the verdict, Attorney Dick remarked, "I want the jury

"You can have it," said Judge Davis.
In response to the question of the clerk,
"Is and was this your verdict?" each man
responded "Yes, sir."
The jury was then excused until 10 o'clock

Monday morning and Koen was remanded to jail to await sentence.

During the proceedings Koen was the coolest man in the court roam. He chewed gum and paid little or no attention to his attorney who remarked, "This is too bad."

The punishment in cases is confine-nent in the penitentiary for a term of not less than one nor more than three years, in the discretion of the court. Who Owns the Engine.

Judge Ferguson is listening to testimony in a case which the right to the possession of a steam engine is the bone of contention.

The title to the cause is John A. Fuller against J. A. Silver. In 1890 Fuller had a lien on the engine in a planing mill in South Omaha, but about that time Silver got hold of the mill and the machinery and refused to deliver when the demand was made. Trouble Over a Tree Claim.

A Dakota tree claim and who owns it is the question that Judge Irvine is trying to settle. Early in 1801 August Feider bad this tree claim, which was lo-cated in the Black Hills. A few weeks later, coming to Omaha, he soon con-vinced Lewis Schweir, that the Dakota land was good stuff to have, espe agreed to give Schweir and his wife steady employment at good wages until the spring of 1893. The land was traded for a lot in Grandview addition to this city. Schweir went to the Black Hills and was convinced that he was defrauded out of his Omaha lot, and hence the law suit. After Agnes' Scalp.

August Liening, a Swede from the rural districts, aided by the county attorney is attempting to convince a jury in the criminal division of the district court that he was robbed by Agnes Donnelly, an inhabitant of the burnt district, According to the tale of woe told by August he came to town to have a joyful time. His first act was, beneath the glare of an electric light, to gaze upon the sights of a great city. He drank any quantity of beer and then rounded up at the resort where Agnes held forth. That was all he knew until the next morning when he discovered that the weman, his watch, and $35 in cash had taken flight.

Discounted Him Liberalty. Weltha Nelson swore that her husband was a common street drunkard; that his condition had been caused by liquor that he bought at James Adams' salcon. Believing in the truth of her averments, she sued Adams and his bondsmen for $1,000. The jury listened to the testimony and the arguments and then fixed her damages at $100, holding that her husband had been worth that amount prior to the time he fell by the wayside. A Verdict Against Murray.

The jury which had under consideration the facts in the case of Amelia Garlick against Thomas Murray returned a verdict fixing the injuries of the plaintiff at $500. Amelia Garlick sued for $5,000, alleging that while employed as a housekeeper Murray at tempted to take certain liberties accomplish his purpose, he beat, bruised and wounded the plaintiff.

A Donkey in the County Court.

Some of the contending factions of Elkhorn are before Judge Eller for the purpose of having him untangle some legal complications into which they have worked themselves. The parties to the suit are Preston Reeves and Patrick Mc-Evoy, both being members of the same family. The trouble is caused by a donkey, which Reeves most solemnly avers that he owns. The animal is valued at $300, and on the night of February 22 it was quietly eating hay in his stable. At midnight Mc-Evoy, his son-in-law happened that way and coveted the donkey. He thought the matter over and the longer he thought the more he wanted the beast. At last be went for the barn door, broke it down and led the donkey away to his own stable. As soon as the father-in-law learned of the theft he brought the suit.

After Their Attorney. Maria Strommga, Francis Mack, Warren Mack and Mary Mack, heirs of Francis M. Mack, deceased, have brought suit ngainst their attorney, Alfred Baines, to recover the sum of $2,064. In their petition they ailege that Francis M. Mack died on or about February 14, 1884, leaving property, both real and personal, in Turner county, South Dakota. On February 23 of the same year A. B. Sage was appointed administrator of the B. Sage was appointed administrator of the estate, and afterwards, while acting as ad-ministrator of the estate, he received money which he uniawfully applied to his own use. Shortly after this, Griffith Evans, guardian for the minors, hired the lawyer Haines to prosecute Sage and his bondsmen. The suit was brought in Turner county, South Da-kota, but on account of the negligence of Haines it was dismissed.

DEATH OF JOHN I. PAYNTER. Another of Omaha's Pioneers Has Passed to

His Reward. Another pioneer has gone. John I. Paynter, who came and settled in Omaha in 1853, died Thursday night of heart failure. He was 70 years of age and was apparently in excellent health. He ate a hearty supper at his home, 2451 Emmet street, after which he went into the street for a little stroil. Shortly afterward he suddenly fell dead in front of his house.

Mr. Paynter was a civil engineer, and came to Omaha in the employ of the govern-ment in 1853 from Salemo, Ind., where he was born in January 1822. He was accom-panied to this city, which was then an open prairie, by Jesse Lowe, Omaha's first mayor. For eight years Mr. Paynter was the pro-prictor of the Occidental notel at the corner prietor of the Occidental notes at the corner of Tenth and Howard streets. A wife and four children, Laura, Lotta, John I., jr., and Winfield, survive him. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will be conducted by Rev. Mr. Turkle, pastor of Kountze Memorial Lutheran church. The pall bearers will be selected today and they will all be old settlers. The remains will be interred in Prospect Hill cemotery. NEMESIS OF THE REBATERS

Special Agent Kretschmer of the Interstate Commerce Commission Interviewed.

OMAHA CASES WILL BE TAKEN UP SOON

Matters Which Were Postponed from Last November Will Go Before the Federal Grand Jury Next Month-Situation in the State.

Frank G. Kretschmer of Chicago is in the city. That simple fact is calculated to fill certain railroad officials with forebodings of grevious trouble. Mr. Kretschmer is the special agent of the Interstate Commerce commission who has worked up all the cases against the railroads for alleged violations of the interstate commerce act, and the shadow of a grim justice which hovers in his wake inspires wholesale fear. Mr. Kretschmer was in Omaha last November with evidence tending to show that the Missouri Pacific had manipulated rates on meats shipped from South Omaha to Kansas City and that the B. & M. had given favored shippers preferences on consignments of stone from Colorado to Omaha. He purposed presenting these cases to the United States grand jury, then in session, but was prerented because several of the most important witnesses eluded the service of subpoenas. Another grand jury will meet in Omaha on May 12, which explains the special agent's presence here at this time.

Will Have the Cases Presented. Mr. Kretschmer says he has several conflicting engagements, but he is trying to arrange matters so that District Attorney Baker can take up the Missouri Pacific cases with the approaching jury. The special agent has been preparing statements of the circumstances of the alleged violations, together with lists of needed witnesses, and will be present if possible to assist the district attorney in the presentation of the cases to the grand jury.

It is known that Mr. Kretschmer has been in the interior of the state recently and it is learned that some new charges will be laid before the jury that will involve more rail-road officials. When asked about this report Mr. Kretschmer said:

"I cannot tell you my plans, because if they were published some of the witnesses might go into hiding, just as they did last November. You may say, however, that some important railroad matters will be laid before the next grand jury, although I may not be present. The Wabash cases are set for May 7 in St. Louis, and the Swift cases are to be tried in Chicago next month. You see it is rather difficult for one man to personally attend to all cases, and naturally the most important receive precedence."

"It is reported that you have been looking into railroad matters in the interior of the state. What is the situation?" was asked.

Having a Wholesome Effect, "I had an excellent opportunity to learn the general situation at the meeting of the Nebraska Grain Buyers association recently held in Omana. I interviewed a number of the prominent buyers from various sections of the state, and they informed me that since the investigations were instituted and in-dictments returned a better conditition prevailed, and small buyers are now able to com-pete for business in territory from which they were barred formerly owing to concessions made to favorito shippers at that time. The public now understands that complaints of discrimination will be promptly investigated and alleged wrongs righted, and no costs incurred by the complainant. Twenty-five indictments are now pending against prominent railroad officials for fav oring large shippers and discriminating against the smaller ones. This has been brought about through the assistance of small dealers, and railroad officials begin to realize that the masses are bound to have the act enforced and are willing to give

THE UNION DEPOT.

Plans of the Proposed Compromise Being Discussed by Prominent Citizens.

As already explained at some length in THE BEE the Union Depot company has made overtures for a settlement of the controversy between it and the city, and the movement in that direction is now actively under way.

The office of Mr. Thomas Kimball, presicent of the depot company, looks like an architect's shop, the walls being hong with big blue print copies of the depot drawings. while other blue and white sheets are spread out upon tables and desks or rolled up in a bundle for want of room for exhibiting them. This elaborate display was made for the edification of a conference held yesterday for discussing the proposed compromise.

A committee of influential citizens representing the city government and the Real Estate Owners exchange, and in-cluding such men as Herman Kountze, Andrew Rosewater, W. J. Con-nell, John Horbach and St. A. D. Balcombe, met Mr. Kimball, who represents the Union Pacific interest in the depot, and General Manager Holdrege, who speaks for the B.

The conference agreed upon the following proposition as a fair basis for settling the union depot contention:

The city is to give the depot company a quit claim deed to the land in the depot site and to release the Union Pacific from its $200,000 bond guaranteeing an equable rate to other railroads for the use of the bridge across the Missouri. The depot company is to relinquish all claim to the $150,000 of visduct bonds and to complete the depot now under construction within a year. The Union Pacific asked for a quit claim deed to all the land acquired by the Saun-ders deed, and the committee suggested that the railroad surrender the 200-acre tract recently fenced in by the city. It was agreed, however, that these two controversics should remain independent matters and not to be considered in the depot compromise. The terms of the proposed settlement were wired last night to General Manager Clark, who is in New York. If agreed to by the of Assessment. At a meeting of the Real Estate Owners association yesterday afternoon a resolution was adopted requesting the county commissioners to appoint a committee of three to cooperate with like committees recently appointed by the city council, the Board of Trade and Real Estate Owners association, for the purpose of considering the present pian of taxation and assessment, and devise a better one by framing such laws or amend-ments as will admit of a plan being put into practice and carried out. The council and commissioners were there-fore requested to add the city and county attorneys to their respective committees, with instructions to sid the joint committee with such legal advice as may be required. The secretary of the association was instructed to arrange a meeting of the committees at the earliest possible date and assist them in carrying out the work contemplated.

In a communication the H. A. Seymout Manufacturing company, which makes butter packages at Milford, Neb., stated that it would like to organize a stock company to conduct the pusiness. The matter was re-ferred to the secretary to correspond with the company, association. A form of a subscription paper for a man-ufacturers' fund was prepared and read. It is for the purpose of creating a fund to be used by the association in encouraging the building up of manufacturing enterprises in or adjacent to Omaha. The form that is to be signed was left in the hands of the manufacturers' committee.

Board of Public Works and City Council Getting on the Safe Side. Several of the members of the city council and the Board of Public Works held a session yesterday afternoon to do a little figuring in the matter of the Squires street sweeping controversy. The councilmen thought the board could go ahead and sweep the streets without more ado, but the members of the Board of Public Works thought otherwise. They held to the opinion that they could not incur an expenditure exceeding $100 without first having the authority of the council to cack them up. In order to be on the safe side those councilmen who were present agreed to introduce a resolution at the next council meeting instructing the board to go on with the cleaning.

There was but one bid for paving the in tersections of Douglas at Eighth and Ninth streets and it was rejected. Hugh Murphy was the bidder, and he enclosed as an evidence of good faith a certified check for $500. This check was off color for the reason that it was not negotiable. Some weeks are when bids were invited on public work Murphy bid, but as his bid did not carry off the contract the check was endorsed by Chairman Birkhauser and returned. Yesterday the same check came along with the bid, but subsequent to the endorsement it had not been made payable to the city or the Board of Public Works.
