EXAMINING STRANG'S BOOKS New World's Fair Commissioners Organize

and Take Up Neglected Work.

CHARLES A. COE CHOSEN PRESIDENT

Embarrassment Consequent Upon the Responsibility of Hundhag the Funds of the Commission-Some of the Old Board's Expenditures.

'The Nebraska World's Fair commission met at the Millard hotel yesteriay morning and repaired its shattered organization by electing Charles A. Coe of this city president and treasurer and A. H. Gale of Bassett, secretary, Commissioners A. J. Sawyer of Lin-coin, Seth P. Mobioy, of Grand Island, M. H. Weiss of Hebron and J. B. Steward of Bene-dict, were also present, and Commissioner General Joseph Garneau met with them. The morning session was devoted to the consideration of the accounts of A. L. Strang, ex-president and treasurer. Mr. Garneau threw the commission into perplexity by an nouncing that he had possession of the re-port, vouchers and deposit certificates of Mr. Strang, which he brought to the meeting as a courtesy to the governor. He said he had no right to their possession and wanted to be rid of the responsibility. On the other hand Mr. Coe had not qualified by giving a bond and was without legal authority to hold state funds. After con-siderable discussion the commission passed a resolution authorizing Mr. Garneau to deliver and Mr. Coe to receive the remnants of Mr. Strang's administration, and Mr. Mobley reassured his colleagues with the remark that that solution of the emergency would probably pass muster, inasmuch as all but $13 of the funds expended had been paid out irregularly. In similar manner Mr. Saw-yer was relieved of the custody of five county warrants for $50 each.

What the Record Shows.

The commission then settled down to the examination of Mr. Strang's accounts. That gentleman reported his receipts at $3,950.80 and his disbursements at $1,913.56, leaving a balance of $2,037.24.

In examining his vouchers the commissioners expressed mild surprise at the number of boxes needed for the state fair grain exhibit, and said some hard things about W W. Carder's bills for labor on the boxing, but concluded that the vouchers would have to be passed. Mr. Sawyer objected to a bill of the Hub Printing company of Kearney, but on examination it was concluded that the prices were not more than double those ordinarily charged, and it was concluded that $20,70 was too small an item to warrant legal proceedings. When the voicher of L. Meyer & Co. of Lincoln for $39.50 for discounting state war-rants was reached Mr. Weiss said with irreverent emphasis that he would never vote to approve it, and several other commissioners were of the same mind. A motion by Mr. Steward to disapprove the payment was held in abeyance by the statement that Gov-ernor Boyd had said that state warrants were at a discount, and President Coe suggested that it might be discourteous to the governor to adopt such a motion. Several commissioners insisted that state warrants were commanding a premium, but the dis-cussion wandered off to a voucher of Mr. Strang for his own expenses on a trip to Chicago in December. It was stated that he had charged up a hotel bill of $40 for five days, an item of $5 for cab and car fare, and another of $9 for extra meals and incidentals. This prompted sarcastic re-marks, and a suggestion to have Mr. Strang come before the commission and explain his transactions was accepted as the quickest solution of the vouchers in question.

Will Not Approve His Report. When the Nebraska Columbian commis sion adjourned yesterday morning Commis-sioner General Garneau volunteered to seek ex-President Strang and ask him to appear at the afternoon session, but he reported at that meeting that he had not succeeded in finding Mr. Strang. Then the commission again attacked the ex-treasurer's accounts, but gave it up after figuring out that Mr.

are allowed ten days in which to get ready to go on with their work. This takes time and much yet remains to do, as the ordinance ordering the streets paved has not yet been before the council. The members of the Board of Pablic Works hold to the opinion that if the council had started on these paving ordinances early in the season, everything would have been in shape so that paying could have com-menced as early as May I and not under any circumstances later than the middle of the month.

the law suit. The story as told by the petition in the case is like this: During the month of May, 1891, Ady and Mosher contracted with the insurance company to become its general agents. They were to have 25 per cent on all fire risks written in Iowa and Nebraska, with an additional 5 per cent on all tornado risks. In July of that year Mosher sold his share of the business to Hess and about that time the insurance company declared the five-year contract at an end. Now the two partners propose to recover the amount that they would have made if the contract had been continued in force. Shaw & Kuchule, two lawyers from Dennison, Ia., have a suit of their own on trial before Judge Ferguson and a jury, where they are seeking to recover $10,000 from Carl O. Edling of this city. It is the pay for logal services and advise that they want. The claim grows out of a suit that Edling had against Louis Bradford, in which the Iowa law firm appeared for the plaintiff.

DIXON'S NEW LEASE OF LIFE | TORTURING

EXECUTION DAY FIXED NOW FOR MAY 20

The New Turn in Events Will Probably Eud the Opposition to Having the Execution on the Court House Grounds,

Dixon has been respited.

United States Marshal Slaughter received a telegram at 10:30 o'clock this morning, that will, when properly attested, give Clinton E. Dixon a new lease of life, and for another nonth he will be enabled to more thoroughly perfect his preparations for entering the next world. The telegram read as follows:

WASHINGTON C. April 19.-B. D. Slaughter, United States Marshal Omaha, Neb.: The president has this day respited the execution of the sentence of Ginton E. Dixon until Friday, May 25, 1892. Acknow-ledge receipt of this, Attorney General. Acting Attorney General.

The marshal at ones telegraphed back to Washington for official confirmation of the order and expects to receive a document duly signed or sealed on or before Friday morn-ng. Whether that is received in time or ing. not it will make no difference, as a proper attestation of the telegram will be regarded as sufficient for the postponement of the exe-

The telegraphic communication relieved the marshal of much uncasiness, not because of the execution itself, but because of the unexpected controversy that had arisen as to where the execution should take place. Mar-shal Slaughter was very much annoyed and embarrassed by the refusal of the county commissioners to allow the sentonce to be carried out on the court house grounds, as had been planned, but at once began to make arrangements to have Dixon's execution on block 86, the site of the new postofiles. Superintendent Beindorff protested on the ground that the property was in his charge as a representative of the secretary of the treasury, and that neither the attorney general nor anyone connected with the department had any right to devote it to other purposes than those directed by the secretary of the treasury without first obtaining the necessary permission. He at once telegraphed Secretary Foster what the marshal proposed to do and asked that official to wire instructions. Marshal Slaughter also wired the attorney general for instructions, and in reply received the telegram announcing the respite. That settled the very embarrassing controversy, as the move to hang the condemned man on the government square excited very rigorous protests from several quarters.

The marshal is now wondering what Major Paddock will have to say about the execution taking place on the court house grounds May 20, as he stated vesterday that his sole objection to April 22 was because it was a legal holiday. No sleep has thus far been lost by the marshal over the matter, as he has given it little thought, intending to take it up as a matter of business two or three days before the appointed time. He has, however, made arrangements for the use of the Neal gal-lows, which was bought by William Mardis for exhibition purposes, and which he has offered to crect again and take for the monetary consideration of $25. The trap, however, will be operated on an altogether different plan from that used before. The awkward lever and plug will be done away with, and in their place a magnet and catch operated by a little push button will do the work. The stockade will be about one-third the size of the Neal enclosure and will be entirely roofed over, a large skylight being placed over the gallows to furnish the necessary light.

After the execution the remains will be college, Dixon's confessor, and interred in the Catholic cemetery. A former soldier comrade of Dixon, William

G. Sherrard, who belonged to Troop F, Sixth cavalry, the troop from which Dixon was dishonorably discharged after the murder, arrived in the city resterday from Fort Niebrara, having just been discharged after the expiration of his term of enlistment. He was on his way to Chicago, where he will re-entist, and called on Marshal

No Less Than | Five Physicians Consulted. Their Combined Wisdom Followed Without benefit.

I am sixty-six years old. In August, 1800, was troubled with the peculiar skin disease to which pe-ple of my age are subject, known among medical men as corema. It's first appearance was near the ankles. It rapidly extended over the lower extremities until my legs were nearly one raw sore: from legs the trouble extended across the hips, shoulders and the entre tength of the arm, the legs and arms greatly swollen with an liching, burning pain, without cessation. Although the best melical advice attainable was employed, no less than five physicians of the place being consulted and the pre-scriptions being the result of their combine 1 wisdom the discuss, though apparently checked, would recur in a few days as that as ever, during its progress my weight fell away about twenty-five pounds. Mr. Strang's report. It was simply put on file and Mr. Mobley was appointed a com-mittee to investigate Mr. Strang's bill for $118 and L. Meyer & Co.'s bill for $39.50. Quite a number of items in other bills struck the commissioners as excessive, but they were passed over on the ground that it would be a losing game to attempt to recover the overcharges. All the vouchers have been paid by Treasurer Strang, and the only re-course is to begin suit against his bondsmen.

Commissioner General Garneau read a communication from Mrs. Briggs and Mrs. Langworthy, the national female commis-sioners, asking the appointment of six women to get up an exhibit of the handiwork of Nebraska women for the national building at Chicago. No action was taken, but Mr. Garnesu intimated that he would appoint a board of three women and limit the compen-sation to $3 a day and expenses while on duty.

It was decided to ask the legislature for $6,000 instead of $5,000 for the horticultural exhibit.

Four sets of plans for the Nebraska building were submitted by Architects Voss of Omaha, Brage of Grand Island, Brabrouk of Kearney and Woods of Lincoln. The estimates on them ranged from $14,000 to $15,500.

Delayed Public Improvements.

The members of the Board of Public Works were in session for two hours yesterday trying to figure out just when the city would be ready to start on this season's paving. After revolving the question in their minds they decided that it would be impossible to put down a yard of pavement before the middle of June. This state of affairs, the members argued, was brought about by the members argued, was brought about by the dilitory acts of the council in not passing the paving ordinances. The ordinances are disposed of in this wise: First the council passes an ordinance creating the paving districts, following it up by an ordinance notifying property owners that they have thirty days in which to select the paving material to be used. When this has been accomplished another ordinance is passed, ordering the streets paved and in-structing the Board of Public Works to in-vice bids. Thus having been accomplished vite bids.
