WHY THEY WENT TO WAR

Story of the Wyoming Cattle Barons' Trouble With the Rustlers.

FIGHTING FOR THEIR VERY EXISTENCE

How the Growth of Wyoming Has Been Retarded and the State's Name tarnished by the Unnatural Greed for Dominion.

Cheyenne, Wyo., April 25.—[Special to THE BEE.]—Now that the regulators have been safely landed at Fort Russell and there is no reason to anticipate further trouble or excitement until the next year, when, once more, the "Cheyenne ring" will be the machinery of the new state.

At this very time the shafts of several of the largest counties, on which the greatest amount of "rustling" was advertised as going on, stated that there was less stock rustling going on than for many months.

It is not generally believed that there has been of late any considerable amount of rustling going on in Wyoming.

It would seem that if proof of the disposition of the homestead and the small stockman to see justice done were needed it would be found in their conduct during the war.

Only a Natural Result. To make a long story short, the present rustling comes from the same source.

It is in the English colonies, who have inherited the same old ideas in various sections of the state, on which they have introduced hundreds of thousands of dollars.
