How Constable Cramer Broke Up a Nest of Thieves.

TRACED HARRY PALMER TO HIS DEN

Residents of Lewis Township Have Reasons to Congratulate Themselves-How the Gang Worked the Neighborhood-They Stole Everything in Sight.

The residents of Lowis township, just southeast of the city, are considering the advisibility of appointing a day of thanksgiving on account of the rooting out of a band of thieves that has been doing business in their vicinity for over a year past. It had come to be a matter of common talk that a mortgage was about the only thing in tho shape of farm property that was exempt from the operations of the gang, and every farmer understood that if he left anything out doors over night that was not chained down it would be missing when he awoke in the morning.

A school bouse in the vicinity was used by the thieves as their place of rendezvous, and on numerous occasions when the building was opened in the morning the presence of chicken feathers by the bushel on thefl oor showed that they had divided their booty there and prepared it for the market. Farming implements, grain, narness, etc., would be missing, and for a long time the farmers could obtain no clue to the identity of the thieves A young man named Harry Palmer has been suspected of knowing more than be ought to about the operations of the gang and Constable F. W. Cramer did a little quiet detective work on his own hook that resulted in the arrest of Paimer Monday at a house just north of the east end of the motor bridge in this city. The house is owned by a Mrs. Williams, and as soon as Palmer was arrested Cramer made a thorough investigation of the premises, which resulted in the finding of a lot of the missing stuff secreted bout the place. Some of it was easily identified by the owners, while about there did not seem to be any owner for the rest, although it was evidently stolen, took but little investigation to show t Mrs. Williams was as deep in the mire as Palmer. She was accordingly arrested as an accomplice, and both of the accused had a hearing yesterday before Justice W. F. Richards of Lewis township. They were found cuilty and bound over to the grand jury, Neither of them was able to give bonds. They were both brought to the city last evening and put in the county jail for safe keeping. The authorities are looking for Paimer's other accomplices.

DRIVING OUT THE SCALPERS. World's Fair Managers Assisting the Roads

in the Work, CHICAGO, Ill., April 27 .- It turns out that the World's fair management had quite as much to do in bringing about the present movement against the ticket scalpers as did the railroads. The officials of the exposition were given to understand that the existence of scalpers in Chicago was so demoralizing in its effect that the roads would not dare to make as low rates for the fair as they otherwise might. With these barnacies out of the way the general passenger agents say they can fix rates without making allowances for being robbed of half their revenue on one way business through the manipulation of excursion tickets in the hands of the brokers. As the exposition managers are interested in securing as low rates as possible they have undertaken to drive the scalpers out of Chicago by bring ing the law to bear upon them.

A number of railroad passenger officials were before the grand jury today. Each one was asked whether any of the brokers under investigation were authorized by him to sell his tickets. A negative reply was given in every case. Under the law no one can offer ratiroad tickets for sale without a certificate of authority from the company issuing such

They Are Alleged to Have Violated the Interstate Commerce Law. TOPEKA, Kan., April 27.-The United States grand jury today returned indictments against the following officials of the Union Pacific Railroad company for violation of the interstate commerce law: C. S. Melen, gereral traffic manager; J. A. Munroe and B. Campbell, assistant general traffic managers; J. G. Woodruff, general freight agent, and W. S. Barr, the station agent at Salina. The first count is for charging more Saita. The first count is for energing more for a carload shipment of refined sugar on April 20, 1891, from San Francisco to the H. D. Lee Mercantile company at Saina, than for similar shipments from San Francisco to merchants in Kansas City. The second count alleges that the charge rom Ogden to Kansas City was 32 4-10 cents, while from Ogden to Salina it was 62 4-10 cents. The third count is for conspiracy to bring these rates into effect. The fourth count is for charging more for a haul to Salina in the shipments of car loads than to To-peka, the discrimination in favor of Topeka being 17 cents.

Leon H. Vincent's Lecture. "Of an English noverist," said Mr. Leon H. Vincent last evening at the Lininger art gallery, where he appeared under the auspices of the Cleofau, "no one man is better known or more widely read by Americans then Charles Dickens." Mr. Vincent, in his secture upon the English novelist, showed a p riect knowledge of his subject and he brought to it a warm admiration for the many sided genius of the man who at the age of 30 had acquired a reputation which bundreds of eminent men would have given the best years of their lives to have enjoyed. Throughout the lecture was inensely interesting and the large audience had only one regret when the end was reached—its shortness. Mr. Vincent showed a clear analysis of the character of a household favorite and in originality of treatment it was as clear cut as a cameo. There was no unnecessary mat-ter introduced, but from beginning to end a fine scholarly estimate of the life and writings of one of England's most brilliant literateurs and novelists. Mr. Vincent has a particularly pleasing style of talk-ing and what is rare in these latter century days, a magnetism which wins and charms his hearers. He is really an ideal platform his hearers. He is the standard of the scholar who has his subject thoroughly well in hand. It was delightful to listen to his reading of familiar scenes from "Pickwick," which Samuel Weller, jr., played prominent a part, and when asserted that Weller had made Dickens it very questionable if there was a single disvery questionable if there was a single dis-senting voice in the audience, although the statement was qualified by the assertion that truly Dickens had made Weller. In support of the original proposition the speaker told how nearly thirteen parts of "Pickwick" had been published in monthly form before Weller made his appearance in the sketches which are considered by critics Dickens' crowning work, only o'ershadowed by "The Tale of Two Cities." Tonight "George Eliot" will be the subject of Mr. Vincent's

King was serving a sentence of three years for embezzlement, Six months after he had begun his fourth term as treasurer of Taylor county the discovery was made that he was a defaulter He was relieved from the office and long litigation followed. Yesterday Governor Boles made him a free man. King had actually served in the penitentiary eleven months and at the time he was taken to the peniten. tiary be was out on ball and was living in Chicago. King was elected treasurer of Taylor county in 1877 and re-elected four His shortage was discovered in July, 1884, and he immediately assigned to trus-tees, for the benefit of his bondsmen, prop-erty nominally worth $25,000 or $30,000. A great deal of this property proved to be valueless.

When the shortage was first discovered, however, King and his bondsmen made up something like $10,000 in cash. King was tried three times for embezzlement, the juries baving disagreed in the first two trials. The third jury found him guilty. All these trials were held in Taylor county and the almost impossibility of convicting him showed his popularity at home. The defal-cation gave rise to many civil suits. Taylor county sued the bondsmen. The civil suits were generally tried in other counties and finally resulted against the bondsmen. King, beside being sent to the penitentiary, was
