every token of confidence and affection. Our hearts are drawn out to you in affectionate sympathy and love, and we pray that you will be able to return to us with the same feelings of affection and confidence that we have for you.

Foreign Visitation.

The visits of one of our number to the foreign fields, including all the annual conferences and missions, either annually or at stated periods, is regarded as a duty both as a ministerial and a supervisory principle, and as a means of keeping the heart of the church in touch with the world.

Below will be found the text of the bishops' address to the members of the Quadrennial General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church as read yesterday by Bishop Foster:
