AMONG THE COLORED PEOPLE.

Work of the Freedmen's Aid and Educational Society Discussed. There was a noticeable difference in th size of the audiences that assembled at Exposition hall last evening and the night before-a difference of something over 2000 people. It was certainly not due to lack of interest in the subject to be discussed, but to the rain, which slipped out while the weather clerk was gone to suppor. Those who were there, however, were well entertained.

Bishop Merrill presided. After the usual invocation and hymn the audience was led in prayer by Rev. Mr. Mason, a colored delegate.

Bishop J. M. Walden, the president of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education society, was the first speaker of the evening, and he gave a saetch of the work of the society. By way of introduction he stated that he had his watch before him and three speakers behind him, and would govern himself accordingly. After touching on some of the scenes and conditions of war, he spoke of the purchase of property to open the first school under the auspices of the society at Nashville. It was named in honor of General Piske, and event ually gave place to the Fiske university of

In speaking of his experience in the south twenty-five years ago, the bishop declared that the most valuable experience and schooling that a theological graduate of today could have would be two or three years as junior assistant under a good minis-ter on a big circuit.

Touching on the development of the dark continent, when railroads would belt it and cover it with a network, the speaker said: "Den't think that I am hinting of the colored man going back there. He won't do it. He was porn here, and is just as much of an American as we are.' At the conclusion of his address Bishop Walden was called to the chair by Bishop Merrill, who had an engagement elsewhere.

Some Society Statistics. Dr. J. C. Hartzell, corresponding secretary f the society, was the next speaker.
He stated that during the past four years the society had been expending nearly $5,000 a week on educational work in the south, a total in the four years of $981,197, and in the twenty six years of the existence of the so-ciety of over $3,000,000. The speaker said he believed that within the next ten years the society would expend $1,000,000 a year in this work. He told of the mechanical department of the Nashville university, where colored youths are taught trades and made independent and thoroughly self supporting. He declared the movement to be a fraternal work between the races. He welcomed a new and better south, with purer and cienner sentiment.

Dr. Speace was the third speaker. He said he loved the colored man because of his loyalty to the government and to Protestant sm, and for his song and poetry. The part of the south he intended to speak about the mountainous district of the central south, a territory about 250x500 miles in area; a district so rough that slavery could not exist even in the ante-slavery days. He detailed numerous incidents of his experience as a religious worker among the benighted residents of that section of the country. From the Men Themselves. Dr. Hammond, one of the members of the board of direction of the society as well as a colored delegate from the Lexington conference, was next called on. He told of the work in the southland, and prophesied that when the society had completed what it had set out to do there would be no more race caste in the south, and the Jim Crow car would be a thing of the past, even as slavery was gone forever. Dr. Hammond proved to be one of the most entertaining speakers of the evening, and related a number of very interesting incidents. He declared that the negroes were to buttress the walls of the great temple of liberty that had been erected in this country, and were not to be left alone. They would be honored of God and respected by the nation. Touching on the question of increase of his race n this country, he stated that more negro children, real negro children, are being born nowadays than were being born a while ago, though the race prized the types that the white people had given them. The speaker was frequently interrupted by applause, and when he concluded there were oud calls for "Grandison," and Dr. Grandison, the exceedingly dark complexioned president of a negro college in North Carolina, came forward looking very much as if he wanted to blush but couldn't. It didn't take the audience very long to forget that, how-ever, listening to the thrilling words that came from the lips of this educated ex-slave. He told of the class recently graduated from his college, and noted the fact that every one of them were much farther advanced than any of those who had been his young masters and mistresses in the old slavery days.

Even then the audience wasn't satisfied, and Rev. Mr. Mason, an agent of the society, had to step forward and say that though he was born and educated in the south he was not a believer in all the phases of southern philosophy. He spoke of what education had one for the negro and proved conclusively that the colored man could learn. Had not the hour been late some one would have to say some more, as no one was tired of listening, but the clock and an inter between the showers decided in favor of adjournment.

Mr. Cleveland's friends may meet at Chicago with strong and serious opposition from certain quarters, but I am one of those who believe the democratic party and principles are greater than any state or section of the country. I have lived so long on the broad prairies of the west that I have learned to forget the old New York idea that the sun rises on Sandy Hook and sets in Lake Erie. We will not ask for Cleveland of New York, but will demand the nomination of Grover Cleveland of the United States. If New York does not appreciate the honor so much the worse for New York." General Brage warmly approved the stand taken by the convention in regard to silver, and in dismissing the delegates invited them to a big ratification meeting, which was held tonight, under the auspices of the Jefferson club, and at which ringing addresses were made by Governor Peck and others.
Great interest was aroused at the meeting by an announcement that the governor had just decided to call an extra session of the Wisconsin legislature to deal with the republican jerrymander, which has been de-clared unconstitutional by the supreme court of the state.

WYOMING FOR HARRISON.

Republican State Convention Declares for His Renomination Without a Struggle. CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 4 .- | Special Telegram to Tue Bee |-Harrison won hands down in the republican state conventian held here today. If there was any opposition whatever it was in the caucus, for it falled to show any front in the open convention.

The meeting was called to order in the capitol by Senator Carey, chairman of the republican state central committee. Upon taking the chair Senator Carey said that it was a matrer of supreme satisfaction to him that Wyoming would for the first time participate in a na tional election. Four years ago when state government was broached, the republican party was ridiculed. When a resolution was proposed at the last national convention recommending the admission of Idano and Wyoming to statehood, that also was ridiculed, but on the fall of it the fight was grandly made and the victory won. He paid a glowing tribute to President Harri-son and Hop. James G. Blaine, evoking much applause. In conclusion he said that the good which had been achieved by the state for the state government is too well known for mention. The officers who have done their duty should need no apology. "We have had an honest administration and one that has been been conducted in the interest all the people," said he, cals from the chief executive down have done their duty manfully, nobly, and I am proud of them, and every citizen, democrat nd republican alike, can point with pride to the first state administration of Wyoming. #### CONNECTICUT REPUBLICANS.

State Convention Permanently Organized and Business Transacted Harmoniously. HARTFORD, Conn., May 4.-The republican convention reassembled this morning. The committee on permanent organization reported the list of officers, headed by Senator Hawley as permanent chairman. They were elected.

On taking the chair General Hawley began his address by predicting a hot campaign. He , rected the young voters of the party, reviewed the party history, referring to its achievements, and said that in none of these things have we had the cordiat co-operation of the democratic party. In almost every one we had its vigorous opposition. Harrison's Qualifications.

Referring to the possible candidates at Minneapolis, the speaker said: "I am not here to say who will be or who should be the nominee of our party for the presidency. I know the warm place in the hearts of many of you atways occupied by James G. Blaine; I know well that all republicans were saddened by the announcement that he had withdrawn from the race. Since he has the genius to be loved, let him have the justice to be honored. Benjamin Harrison has proved himself one of the ablest statesmen in the line of presidents. He conducted the treasury when the secretary was disabled; he became secretary of state when Blaine was compelled to close the portfolio; he was ber of his cabinet.

General Hawley then paid a tribute to the wisdom of Harrison's appointments from the cabinet down, and the felicity of his speeches in his journeys through the country, speaker touched upon the necessity protection of the wool growing industry; de neunced the free comage of silver; declared that the silver bin of 1890 did enough for silver, and closed with a strong appeal for coast ver, and closed with a strong appear for coast defenses and a new navy.

The following delegates at large were chosen: M. G. Bulkeley, James P. Platt, T. E. Hopkins and L. A. Cook. Platform Adepted.

We, the representatives of the republican party of Connecticut, in convention assembled, hereby express our devotion to the principles of the party set forth in the national platform at Chicago in 1888. We heartily endorse the administration of President Harrison. By its fulfillment of every pledze and by its maintenance of the rights and dignity of the nation in all its relations with foreign countries; by its vigorous prosecution of the work of creating a navy worthy of the dignity and requirements of the United States; by its firm and vigorous action in defense of the national honor and the rights of American citizens on sea and land; by its brilliant diplomatic successes and unexceptional judicial appointments, this administration has won imperishable honor and the lasting gratitude of the republic.

We believe in the principle of protection to American industries. It has given to this country a greater prosperity than is known to any other nation. High wages to operatives, low prices to consumers, happy homes owned by workingmen, savings hank deposits proportionately exceeding those of any other country. Busy factories and unoxame We, the representatives of the republican other country, busy factories and unexampled development of national wealth and prosperity, alike in its power.

Thus believing, we heartly endorse the already demonstrated its wisdom; and we see in the reciprocity feature of that law an adequate opening of foreign markets to American products without in any degree infringing upon the policy of protection to American labor.

denounce the proposed tariff legislation We denounce the proposed term resistance of the democratic party in congress as a covert attack upon American protective systems, and all our industries are alike entitled to protection. In the interests of American industry and American industry and American homes, we favor such legislation as will probibit the inspection of paneers and criminals. migration of paupers and criminals.

Currency Plank.

We commend the policy of the republican party in maintaining an honest and sufficient currency, and assert that to this party alone the people must look for the good faith of the nation in all matters of finance.

We reassert the unitying gratitude of the republican party to the American volunteer sorders. Their heroism not only preserved this union, but also washed out of the flag the stain of human bandare.

We claim for the men whom they made freemen equal rights and equal protection in those rights.

We heartily approve of the position of the house of representatives of the state that the constitutional duty of the general assembly is to declare the election only of such candidates for state offices as the assembly shall find to be legally chosen, and we dispute the claim of the democratic senate that the incorrect returns of the moderators are final and binding about the legislature.

We cordially commend the firm, united and patriotic course of the house of representatives in seeking by every honorable means to bring to a solution the exist of differences between the two houses concerning the last state election; and we denounce the constant refusal of the senate to join with the house according to the univoken practice of seventy years, in any reference of such differences to a joint committee or to the supreme court or to a special nonpartisan tribunal, or to join with the house in any investigat on to determine the number of yotes legally cast and the persons for whom they should have been counted.

We denounce the outrage upon the state constitution perpetrated by the same democratic senate in attempting, without the concurrence of the house, to put in possession of state offices persons whose election was in dispute, and at the same time under investigation by a house committee.

We endorse the administration of state affairs by Governor Morgan G. Butkeley and the republican state officers associated with him for their courage, ability and economy:

and we especially commend the firmness which has successfully resisted the unlawful attempts of the democratic party to seize the state government in defiance of the state conitution as interpreted by our highest court. We further extend the thanks of the republican party to Governor Bulkeley for his suc-cessful efforts to provide for the prompt pay-ment of every obligation. After the adoption of the platform cheers were given for Harrison, Biaine and Bulkeley. Governor Bulkeley delivered a brief address and the convention adjourned.

vention-Their Platform. STOCKTON, Cal., May 4,-The republican state convention reassembled at 11 o'clock this morning, Chairman Noff presiding. The business before the convention was the nomination of four delegates-at-large to the republican national convention and the adoption of a platform. The first ballot for delegates-at-large re-suited: DeYoung, 369; Estee, 326; Felton, 347; Spence, 455; Ridoout, 421; Barnes, 289. The chairman announced M. DeYoung, E. F. Spence, N. D. Rideout and Senator Feiton elected delegates-at-large.

H. G. Otis of Los Angeles, P. G. Hersey of Santa Clara, Isaac Trumbo of San Francisco and J. R. Carrick of San Mateo, were elected

Delegates from congressional districts were then chosen. No instructions were issued to the delegates. The report of the committee on platform and resolutions was read by Chairman Grove L. cohnson of Sacramento

The platform endorses Harrison's administration and says its achievements endear him to the hearts of all true Americans. It reaf-firms adherence to the national platform of 1888, and warmly endorses the present tariff law. Declaration is made that the hospitality of the country in welcoming good men of all nations has been abused and that time has arrived when the immigration laws should be reformed. The Nicaragua canal project is endorsed and congress urged to take such action as will insure an early completion of the canal.

The platform asserts that the wool growing interests of the country are entitled to, and should receive as full and adequate pro-tection under the tariff laws as is granted to any other industry. Silver Colunge Plank,

On the coinage question it says: "We believe silver, equally with gold, to be the money of the people, and in behalf of the farmers, laborers and mechanics of the na-tion, for whom the republican party has al-ways labored, demand the passage of such laws as will provide for the free and unilmited coinage of the silver product of the mines of the United States as soon as the same can be done without injury to the business interests of the nation.

Such legislation is demanded as shall protect American labor against the importation of the products of foreign pauper labor or laborers and the absolute prohibition of Chinese immigration. An eight-hour law and the election of senators by a direct vote of the people is favored.

The platform closed as follows: "While we abate nothing of our words of praise regarding the chief magistrate of the nation, we must express our prefound conviction that in the whole administration of foreign affairs of the nation we see traces of the master hand, so long and lovingly known by all our party. We recognize again and again the man who stands in the very foremest rank of living statesmen, whose fame is world-wide, whose name is a household word in every American home, and who is the favorite son of every representative in every state of the American union -James G.

This reference to Blaine called forth the greatest enthusiasm, lasting several minutes. A resolution was also adopted heartly recommending the carrying out to the fullest extent the principles of civil service reform.
