What I was trying to get at will be explained by the following, which is sclipped in the Boston Weekly Transcript of Friday, May 20, the same day that your report of our diocesan council appeared:

At 11 o'clock the resolution assigned to that hour regarding the memorializing the general convention to define the position which a cierzyman shall hereafter hold in the Episcopal church who is bound by life yows of obedience was taken up, and Rev. Charles A. Brent of the committee to whom the matter was referred reported that it appeared to the committee highly desirable to present such a memorial; that they realize the dangers involved in a life yow of obedience which binds men to an institution unrecornized by the church, as has been painfully illustrated in the past year in the case of Rev. A. C. A. Hall. "By taking such a yow," the report goes on to say, "a man may be taken away from what, in his jungment and that of those who are best fitted to know, should be his life work. He may be forbidden the exercise of his prophetic office, which is his privilege and right by virtue of his ordination. He is liable to be called upon to submit to a discipline which it is the inalienable right of the church to exercise. Collision with the mind of the church to exercise. Collision with the mind of the church and violent interference with its expressed judgment is always possible, together with all that this entalls, viz.; the peril of seandal, serious disturbances, distress, and the sacrifice, or at least the injury, of vital interests." The committee, in concluding, asked the adoption of the following:

"Resolved, That the convention of the dioces of Massachusetts does hereby respectfully memorialize the next general convention to define what position (if any) a cierzyman shall hereafter hold in the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States of America, who is bound by a life vow of obedience to a religious order."

In support of the report, Mr. Brent said that while he was in favor of community life and religious orders, and while it was the great himself to such a work, he would never give his Omaha's Jobbing Trade About as Good as Could be Expected Under the Existing Circumstances-Manufacturers Talking Exhibit.

There has been a material improvement in the outlook for trade since a week ago. Business men were becoming considerably exercised over the long continuance of wet and unseasonable weather and, while no one felt like talking in a discouraging vein, it was plain to be seen that they were alarmed as to the crop outlook. Waile it was generally admitted that, owing to the large amount of old corn still in the farmers' hands, a partial crop failure would not be so disastrous as might be the case under other circumstances, still no great activity could be looked for the coming season unless there should be a fairly good yield of the leading cereals.

The advent of the warm and pleasant weather, which has prevailed during the past week, has changed the outlook for the better and business prospects have brightened accordingly. In fact business men generally are feeling quite cheerful as they assume that with anything like a favorable season from now on Nebraska will grow another great corn crop. A man is occasionally found who does not take quite this cheerful yiew of the situation, believing that the season is already too far advanced to admit of a full crop, but that does not correspond with the opinion of the majority of the farmers themselves and of others who have given close attention to the subject. Trade during the greater part of the past month has suffered as a direct result of the unfavorable weather, which has kept people at home. Trade has also experienced a great grawback in a certain loss of confidence due to the fears for the coming barvest. These fears appear now to have been groundless and the return of confidence causes not only a better feeling in trade circles but an increased movement of goods.

In a general way the jobbing trade of Omaha may be reported as fair and about as good as could be expected under prevailing conditions. Judging from reports received from other cities Omaha jobbers are probably doing better than the average, but it is impossible to say whether this is due to the prevalence of more favorable conditions in Nebraska or to the fact that Omaha houses are extending their trade into more remote territory and at the same time covering their territory more thoroughly.

The Manufacturers.

In manufacturing circles there is not so much heard about the condition of business, what they are making and where they are selling it, but every manufacturer is talking "Manufacturers' Exposition."
The June exhibit of Nebraska manufacture; goods appears to have dwarfed every-thing else in the eyes of the manufacturers. The prevailing impression among them appears to be that the exposition will be in the nature of a great convincing argument against the old time cry "you can't make this" or "you can't make that in Nebraska." Looking at the subject in this light the manufacturers feel that there must be no weak points in "the argument" and are accordingly giving more attention to the matter than they would under other circumstances. The amount of money which they are pre-paring to expend on their individual exhibits will amount in the aggregate to many thous-ands of dollars. Besides convincing Ne-braska people of the value and general excellence of home products, the manufacturers their exhibit in the hopes of making a favorable impression upon the strangers who will be here in attendance upon the national

The Financial Situation

In Omaha, and for that matter in the whole state, has been made plain by the publication of the recent bank statements. No new facts, however, were brought out, as it was generally known that idle money was increasing in the bank vaults and that there was a falling off in the demand for loans. There would appear to be many openings in the state for good investments in various in dustries, but capitalists in the west have become so accustomed to loaning money at high and remunerative rate of interest that they are slow to put their money to any other use. If the present money glut continues for any great length of time it is predicted that capitalists will eventually seek out investments other than loans on property

The Produce Markets

In some respects have been in a rather pe culiar condition. The receipts of most kinds of produce have not been large but at the same time the demand has not been very active. The expectations of gealers in this respect have hardly been realized as it was only natural to anticipate a rather brisk de-mand in view of the number of strangers in Prices during the past six days have not shown any very noteworthy changes.

and 2,145 sheep the May last year. While there has been no great amount of While there has been no great amount of May last year.

While there has been no great amount of life or activity to the general cattle market the tendency of prices during the latter part of the week especially has been firmer. The rather weak trade at eastern markets and the indifferent demand from the continent have demoralized to a certain extent the shipping and export business and rendered the sale of the heaviergrades of cattle very uncertain. On the other hand the demand for good light killers appears to have steadily increased and the advance in prices for suitable cattle of this kind has been from 15c to 20c. Dressed beef houses have an unlimited capacity for this class of stuff and could casily handle twice the present efferings, although receipts for the month have been more than double the number received during May last year. There has been no particular change in the situation as far as butcher stock and canners are concerned. Receipts continue only meager and prices are relatively strong. Circumstances still combine to produce a disappointing quictude in the stocker and feeder trade. A week ago it was too much rain. This week it has been too much sunshine keeping farmers busy at home. Prices are materially week it has been too much sunshine keeping farmers busy at home. Prices are materially week it has been too much sunshine keeping farmers busy at home. Prices are materially unchanged.

The recent bulge in provisions together with the continued moderate supplies have evused another advancing hog market the past week. Pr.ces are all of a dime better than last week and this in spite of the indifferent shipping demand. Packers find hogs at around present figures a very profitable investment the way provisions are selling and hence they have been free buyers all week. Good heavy and butcher-weight hogs are growing scarce and they are commanding a premium of from the total coverlight and mixed grades. The market for the week closes firm.

The week closes with a very moderate run of cattle, the week's supply being but fos heavier than hast week, although $3.00 neavier than hast week, although $3.00 neavier than a year ago. There was a fair demand from all sources and the trade throughout was healthy and lively. Shippers and exporters paid full Friday's prices for cattle that saited them, but there was no quotable advance on common heavy grades, in fact, sellers were generally in luck to get steady prices. As usual, the handy, fat tatile were in active demand and sold to the best advantage, prices being anywhere from strong to be to the higher than Friday. Offerings changed hands in good season, good 1,200 to 1,30-b, steers selling at from $8.5 to $4.30. There were only three or four straight loads.

IT WAS DIFFICULT TO FOLLOW THE DEAL

Wheat Opened Higher and Prices Were Advanced Slightly But Settled Back Later and Closed Firmer with an Improvement Over Thursday.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 28.-A big jump in Mayeorn today caused great interest, but apparently no excitement. The advance amounted to 15c a bu. The deal was difficult to follow. Not from the amount of trading, however, but rather from the lack of it. To find out what was going on the car lot crowd had to be consuited. Three cars of contract grade were being sold at 75c early and later 85c was freely paid and even sie was paid for a car or two. Buyers were bunching the car lots into 5,000 bu, lots and selling them for May in the pit at between 80c and 82c. The day's receipts were 471 cars, 81 of which were of the contract grade, and the estimated receipts for Monday, 75) cars, are heavy. Rumor points to Pard-ridge, Congdon. not for any New York clique, but for their own individual profit or loss, as the case may be.

The close was at 80c, or 2c from the top for the day. Other months than May were all fairly active and made moderate gains. Opening trades were at from $\frac{1}{2}$\text{c}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$\text{c}$ and under moderate gains. Opening trades were at from $\frac{1}{2}$\text{c}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$\text{c}$ and under moderate gains. Trace was mostly local, with some fittle outs account of the principal influence was the weather, reports being received of $r$\text{d}$\text{in}$ in the west and northwest. Outs ruled firmer with corn, the market being moderately active, and closing on an advance of from $\frac{1}{2}$\text{to $\frac{1}{2}$\text{c}$\text{on}$\text{to the one recent figures.} A good many of the traders who sold freely yesterday bought today.

It was an active day in provisions. The market showed evidence of manipulation in connect connection with the femarkable upturn in corn early in the day. The scalping trade soid out very largely yesterday on the deciling market and not a few went short in anticipation of a further deciline. This morning it appears I that it was only a shake out vestorially and the Cudahy people were not only holding on to produce, but ready to run the market up again. With light offerings early and corn higher the shorts in provisions took alarm and with the aid of the local buils and the packing interests there was a big upturn in prices. Fork was advanced for over last night, ribs 20c and lard life during the first hour. Brokers claimed that the Cudahy people and others said to be working with them were seliers on the advance. Later in the day the market held more steady, with about half of the carly advance lost. rance lost.

Freights were steady with a moderate demand at 15c for wheat and 15c for corn to Chicago Live Stock Market.

Chicago, Iil., May 28.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—The run of catte was small today. There were ready buyers at former prices for all grades, sales making on a basis of from $1.50 to $1.50 for inferior to choice cows. helfers and bulls. $2.50 to $1.90 for stockers and feeders. $1.50 to $1.90 for stockers and feeders. $4.50 to $4.90 for stockers and shipping steers, and from $1.50 to $4.25 for Texas cattle. The supply for the week was about $5.000 head, indicating a total for this month of rather more than $2.0,000 head, as against $20.00 for last May.

The hog trade maintained a good degree of activity, and yesterday's advance was well supported. The demand did not display the urgency then characterizing it, but it was strong enough to exhaust the supply at plump prices, sales making at from $1.00 to $5.05 for very common to extra grades. The last named price was not made in more than two or three instances, nor were there many trades below $1.75. Prime heavy hogs have not been very plentiful this week, and they have advanced more than light weights. They now command a premium of about se per 100 ins.

Quotations for sheep ranged about as before. Poor stuff was quoted as low as from $2.25 to $5.05. and extra grades were sale-able at from $5.50 to $5.75. Most of the sales, however, were at from $5.50 to $5.00 and spring lambs at from $5.50 to $5.00 and spring lambs at from $5.50 to $5.00 and spring lambs at from $5.00 to $5.00 and spring lambs. $6.00.00.

Traders Talk.

Chicago, Ill., May 28.—Counselman & Day to Cockrell Bros.: Speculative markets had a similarity of action today. Wheat, corn. oats and provisions all opened with shorts excited buyers owing to threatening weather. Elevator people sold wheat, shippers sold corn and packers sold provisions moderately on the hard spots and bought freely on declines. The final closings were firm at the advances noted. There still remains an unsettied short May interest in all the pits, and this contributes something to prices, although in general we regard July and later futures not too high yet for profitable turns to be made by purchases on breaks.

Chicago, Ill., May 28.—Kennett. Hopkins & Co. to S. A. McWnorter: A considerable rain fall in several states and apprehension of a continuance started shorts who declined to stand on their trades with two holidays intervening. There was an advance of nearly ic in consequence of their buying, loags supplying the demand. The price declined to yester-day's closing when the market had evened up. The manipulation of the May option which at one time was 2½c over July undoubtedly added to the artificial strength. Commercially wheat is weak. The foreign demand shows no improvement. Occasional cargoes move east on old business, but the outlook for future business is not encouraging. Further damage to the growing crop would change this, but in the absence of such damage there is little prospect of better prices. Wet weather had a bullish effect on prices in corn and oats, and a sharp advance in May corn helped to sustain the general market. The weather is still the main factor and will put prices up or down as it is wet or dry. In provisions there was a continuance of the good buying that has been apparent for some days, and prices touched the highest point for many weeks, easing off later on realizing. Chicago, Ill., May 28.—E. G. Logan & Co., to Duncan, Hollinger & Co.: Our wheat market on prices are stronger than they have been bartleularly from France, owing to dry and hot we

STOCKS AND BONDS.

Movements Were Insignificant in Most of the Active shares. New York, May 28.—The stock market today was an extremely limited affair, presenting a holiday appearance throughout the sessio and, while there was an urgent demand for and, while there was an urgent demand for the smaller shorts, the movements were insig-nificant in most of the active shares, even though a strong temper marked the trading from opening to close. Some pretense to ani-mation was seen in Heading, Rock Island and Atchison, eked out by special movements in Hocking Valley and the new lead shares, which scored material advances, being affected by several causes. The general ilst, however, remained without feature of any kind other than its firm temper. The Colorado Coal is the only stock of the list which showed a marked advance for the day. The upward movement was kept going by the bank statement, and the close was fairly active and strong at the highest point. Colorado Coal showing a gain of 1k per cent and the others small fractions. The trading reached only 64-26 listed and 9.29 unlisted.

Government bonds have been fairly active and firm.

The Post says: The announcement that Drexel. Morgan & Co., would undertake the reorganization of the Richmond Terminal seemed to affect that stock but slightly. This was due no doubt to the fact that it, was generally expected that such would be the decision of Drexel. Morgan & Co., and the published announcement had but little effectione way or another.
