THE OMAHA BEE. NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

Beath Finally Comes to the Relief of W. M. Jones.

TRUE STORY OF THE RECENT TR'GEDY

Further Evidence That Wade Was a Professional Highwayman and Intended Desperate Work on the Occasion of His Death.

W. M. Jones died yesterday morning shortly after 3 o'clock at the Woman's Christian hospital, where he had been lying ever since the shooting, which occurred a week ago. The remains were taken to Estep's undertaking rooms, where an autopsy was held, which resulted in the finding of the bullet which had done its deadly work, presumably from the pistol which was found in the hands of Wade. It had entered the aldomen on the right side, severed the gall bladder and plowed its way into the liver, where it was imbedded. No further post-mortem was allowed by Coroner Seybert, although Dr. Macrae, who had attended the dead man, said he would be willing to pay for the privilege of making

It was not learned until a late hour last night that Jones had made any other state-ment concerning the shooting than the one made immediately after the tragedy a week ago. Then he was suffering from the shock and fright incident to the desperate wound and the deadly assault, but on Thursday afternoon he made a different statement, giving all the details, which is given exclu-Sively in The Bee this morning.

On that day the wounded man was in the best physical condition he had been in since the shooting and his mind was clear and vig-orous. The statement was made to W. H. James, traveling man for the Sandwich peo-ple, and was made in confidence, with the understanding that it was not to be repeated to any but his friends, and was given under the belief that he would recover and with the desire that they should know the facts.

Story of the Tragedy. In this statement Jones says that after his refusal to take the carriage and go out into the country, Maher got into a quarrel with Crogan, alias Calligan, the hackman who brought out the carriage, and struck at him brought out the carriage, and struck at him with a billy. Crogan ran around on the opposite side of the hack with Maher chasing him, leaving Jones alone with Wade between the high fence and the hack. Jones was in the act of paying Wade the $1 demanded, and had pulled out a handful of money, including several bills. The instant the money was in sight Wade made a grab for it and caught Jones' hand, but he jerked away from him and shoved the money back into his pocket. Wade then made a dash to seize Jones' gold watch and grabbed it with both hands. Jones again broke away from him Jones' gold watch and grabbed it with both hands. Jones again broke away from him and struck at him, when Wade responded with a blow either from his fist or his pistol that knocked Jones down. The hackman then sprang on him and shot him as he lay upon the pavement. Jones then drew his own pistol and shot just as Wade snapped his gun again, and continued shooting until the hackman fell.

Was Not Intoxicated, Jones asserts positively, and the statement is corroborrated by all who met him during the evening, that he was not intoxicated in the least at the time of the shooting and had the least at the time of the shooting and had drank nothing but beer, a beverage to which he was accustomed.

Stories told and side remarks dropped by the associates and acquaintances of Wade strengthen the impression that he was a professional holdup and thug, and richly deserved the fate that overtook him. It is also sure that he contemplated making a raid on same one Sunday night, and for this purpose applied to a saloonkeeper for a wicked-looking, 44-caliber six shot Winchester revolver, which the saloon man was holding as security for a $5 loan. The request was refused, and Wade remarked that he would have to use his "little gun," and added that he "would like to have the big one because he could intimidate a fellow with it much better."

Jones was 41 years of age, and was born in Milan, O. During his residence in Coun-cil Bluffs he has made a very favorable im-

FREIGHT DEPOT DESTROYED.

Fire in the Rock Island Yards Burns the Freight Depot.
The fire department was called out yester day afternoon to extinguish a blaze at the Rock Island freight depot. It was first seen by one of the employes of the Rock Island, who at once sent in an alarm. The firemen were very slow about responding, and a great deal of trouble was had with the hose bursting, so that the building with all its contents was burned. Just how much freight was stored in the structure is not known and it will probably be a couple of weeks before it is ascertained. The less will reach several thousand dollars, however, greatest loss to the company is that records, which were entirely destroyed. Almost the only things that were saved were what were in the office safe. The fire is supposed to have been caused by a spark from a passing engine.

Firemen Were Busy.

Yesterday was a busy day for the firemen. After a long period of idleness spent in waiting for the big bell to tap the men were called upon three times in nine nours yester-day to respond to alarms.

At 9 o'clock box 9 was pulled in and called the apparatus to 911 South Seventh street, the residence of Frank Johnson, which had been set alire by sparks. Loss, $25.

Box 61 at 3:30 p. m. was rung in for a fire in one of Judge John I. Redick's houses at 1517 Davenport, atreet, which was occupied 1517 Davenport street, which was occupied by A. W. Duffet. A defective flue was the cause of the blaze. Loss on building $150, and on contents 231.

Just before 7 o'clock an alarm was sect in from the bex at the corner of Sixteenth and Webster streets, which brought a haif dozen hose companies, two book and ladder trucks, the chief and his two assistants to the scene. A little gasoline stove in the rear of a second hand store was blazing. A bucket of water put out the fire.

AMUSEMENTS,

"Hoss and Hoss" at the Boyd. "Hoss and Hoss" is funny, in fact an avalanche of fun from start to finish, and for a chronic case of the dumps promises to be as successful as the Keely cure for dipsomania. It is fitly divided into a howl, a roar and a hurrah, with Charlie Reed and William Collier, aided and abetted by a clover lot of people, furnishing the button-bursting enthusiasm. For people who want fun and don't care whether it is the humor of "All the transfer of Howell or the humor of "All the Comforts of Home" or the humor of broad farce, "Hoss and Hoss" is commended. It made a big hit last evening, and as a laugh producer wins over all other farcical entertainment in a canter.

"Erminie" at the Farnam, Last evening the Dodd Opera company changed the bill at the Farnam Street theater, "Erminie" being the attraction, played to a good audience. The opera did not go to a good audience. The opera did not go with the same degree of smoothness which characterized the previous productions, but promises very well, a performance or two more being needed to round the entertainment. Miss Leslie makes a captivating Erminie, white Miss Helen St. Clair looked particularly handsome and sang the role of Athalie very acceptably. Miss Beith as the princess was wisely cast, her particular forte being character parts. Mr. Mack Charles and Mr. Dan Young played the two thieves, Robert and Jacques, with excellent discrimination, although the latter was a bit inclined to over exaggerate the part, which is clined to over exaggerate the part, which is delicious low comedy. The costumes were pretty and "Erminie" gives promise of a
